3 Other Balkan Satellites to Sever Ties With Tito

Bulgaria, Czechoslovakia And Romania Will be Next

London, Oct. 1 (AP) — At least three other Balkan satellites are expected to sever treaty ties with Yugoslavia following Friday's renunciation of friendship pacts with Premier-Marshal Tito by Poland and Hungary.

Three other cominform (Communist International Information Bureau) members appeared certain to follow Russia's lead in calling Tito they are no longer friends. They are Bulgaria, Czechoslovakia and Romania.

Albania—also a fellow traveled Tito-led Balkan neighbor a year ago soon after the cominform denounced the Yugoslav regime.

Though it appeared that Russia and her partners were building up to break off in diplomatic Tito government outwardly still appeared relatively undisturbed. Belgrade radio last night were severely jammed. The monitor said he has no way of knowing who was doing the jamming.

Followed Russia

In the frosty-junking Friday, Russia right after the cominform.

The Russians tore up their treaty, the third, because the treason trial of Hungary's former Foreign Minister, Laszlo Rajk, showed Rajk plotted with the Yugoslavs and Americans to put his country in the Western camp.

Poland and Hungary parroted that as their reason for throwing out the pacts.

Poland last night also told seven members of Yugoslavia's embassy in Warsaw to get out of the country. Hungary already has ordered all members of Titoist legation in Budapest to leave the country. Yugoslavia retaliated with expulsion orders for nine members of the Hungarian Diplomatic staff in Belgrade.

Accused of Breaking Charter

Belgrade — Yugoslavia today accused the Soviet Union of breaking the international principles contained in the United Nations charter."

This charge was made in a note handed to the Soviet Charge d'Affaires here, protesting Russia's recent denunciation of her 20-year friendship treaty with Yugoslavia.

The note described Soviet hostility against Yugoslavia as contradicting principles of foreign policy laid down by Prime Minister Tito.

It quote Stalin as saying in 1941 that Russia would not intervene in the internal affairs of a small country.

The responsibility and consequences with might result from the non-observance of the treaty of friendship concluded with U.S. Steel. This firm generally sets the pattern for the industry.

Here is the key to the issue in dispute: a fear by unions of union-social insurance program.

Both sides agree the company is entitled to the benefits. But how?

The union wants the company to pay for the complete pension-insurance program at a cost of 10-cents-an-hour a man.

STEEL INDUSTRY DEALT CRIPPLING BLOW BY STRIKE

Half-Million Workers Out for Free Pensions

Pittsburgh, Oct. 1 — (AP) —A half-million C.I.O. steelworkers struck today for free pensions and free insurance, shutting down United States steel and iron mills from coast to coast.

The first steel walkout since 1946 dealt a crippling blow to U. S. industry. And coupled with the two-week-old coal strike it threatens to disrupt the country's economy.

Philip Murray, United Steelworker president, gave the strike signal. And at one minute past midnight the walkout became effective—orderly and without incident. It shut down 33 basic steel plants and 50 iron-ore mining companies. Workers are in 23 states.

President Truman three times had intervened — delaying the strike a total of 76 days. But Friday night he refused to intervene again.

The strike order followed two days of fruitless negotiations with federal mediators, and months of wrangling—marked by bitter and sarcastic name-calling — with management.

Want Wage Increase

Right at the end, Big Steel reported, the union leader reiterated original demands. These included a request for a wage increase of 11 1-2 cents an hour.

President Benjamin F. Fairless of the United States Steel Corporation turned Murray down. His offer had been made earlier privately. Murray had rejected this. And so the strike came.

There has been no reported violence. Pickets ringed plants—some men cheered in their Sunday best, treating the walkout as a holiday.

Then they permitted men to cross lines into the darkened mills to keep equipment in upkeep.

The walkout was in a marked contrast to another major strike—the past decades. These were born and bred in bloodshed when firms tried to operate with strike-breakers.

Murray's two companies, employing a total of 19,000 men, are open today. They company-paid pensions and insurance. They are American Can and Continental Can (Ohio) Steel.

Murray blames U.S. Steel largest steelmaker with 150,000 employees, for forcing the strike. Yugoslavia Charge Hit

And Big Steel tossed the charge right back.

Murray and his lieutenants did most of their negotiating with U.S. Steel. This firm generally sets the pattern for the industry.

Here is the key to the issue in dispute: a fear by unions of union-social insurance program.

Both sides agree the company is entitled to the benefits. But how?

The union wants the company to pay for the complete pension-insurance program at a cost of 10-cents-an-hour a man.

GATEWAY TO VICTORY

Highest ranking officers of four Empire nations and the U.S. joined in ceremonies at the RCAF Station, Trenton, Friday for presentation of gales (above) to Canada by Britain, Australia and New Zealand. Gates recall participation of all in the British Commonwealth Air Training Plan.

Memorial Gates Given to Canada For Training Plan

Many Dignitaries Present At Trenton Air Station

The historic centre of the Royal Canadian Air Force at Trenton yesterday was the focal point of an air-minded Empire.

One of the largest gatherings of top-ranking Air Force and military officials ever assembled in Canada took part in the presentation of Memorial Gates to Canada, the gift of the governments of the United Kingdom, Australia and New Zealand in recognition of the work done by Canada in the wartime British Empire Training Plan.

Canada in proud recognition presented silver plaques, to those of her sisters of the Commonwealth, Australia and New Zealand and the Mother Country.

Among the speakers were Hon. Brooke Claxton, Minister of National Defence, the Rt. Hon. Louis St. Laurent; the Rt. Hon. Arthur Henderson, British Secretary of State for Air; the Rt. Hon F. M. Forde, and the Hon. James Thorn, Australian and New Zealand High Commissioners; and the Hon. C. G. Power.

Plaques Presented

Then came the ceremonies and the presentation of silver plaques to representatives of the Royal Air Force, Royal New Zealand Air Force, Royal New Zealand Air Force, and the United States Air Force. Air Marshal W. A. Curtis, Chief of the Air Staff, RCAF. The plaques, in recognition of what is described as the BCATP were accepted by Marshal of the Royal Air Force, Lord Tedder; Group Captain C. W. Pearce, RA AF; Air Commodore I. T. Hunter, DFC, and Lt. Gen. Laurie Norstad, USAF.

Official representatives from Britain included Sir James Barnes, Permanent Undersecretary of State for Air; Sir Arthur Street, former Undersecretary of State for Air; Lord Balfour of Inchrye, Parliamentary Undersecretary of State for Air; Air Chief Marshal Sir James Robb, Commander-in-Chief of the Western Europe Air Forces and former head of the Berlin Lift; Air Chief Marshal Sir Leslie Hollinghurst; Air Chief Marshal Sir Guy Garrod; Air Marshal Sir Christopher L. Courtney; and Air Vice Marshal Sir Joseph Douglas Robb McKean.

It was estimated that upwards of 10,000 people, a crossroads to Canada, saw the "show".

Directed by Howe

The huge task of creating aerodrome was directed by Mr. C. D. Howe, but the man whose name is most closely associated with the development and direction of the Plan is the man who was known from end to end of Canada as "Chubby" Power. Mr. Power, now Minister for Air, on the eve of the fall of France, and with characteristic Canadian energy and enthusiasm into the acceleration of the essential task of producing an endless stream of fighting airmen. We are all familiar with the fine words of commemorative occasion, said Mr. Power in London.

"In commemorating the Plan, we do not forget, among those who helped to create it, the Members for Canadian civil flying clubs, including the Canadian "bush" pilots, the Royal Air Force personnel who helped to provide trained staff in the early stages, the experienced flyers from the neighbor to the south, and the co-operation we received from the United States which came into the war from their government itself.

CANADA TO HAVE OFFICIAL HOME FOR HER P.M.'S

All Parties Approve and St. Laurents Will Move House in Spring

Ottawa, Oct. 1—(CP)—Canada is going to have an official home for her prime ministers at 24 Sussex Street, Ottawa.

While Prime Minister St. Laurent was away, Trade Minister Howe told Commons Friday Parliament will be asked in the 1950 estimates for a permanent residence for him and his successors.

The House promptly applauded. The three opposition leaders expressed approval.

So sometime next spring the St. Laurents will move out of the five-room apartment where Mrs. St. Laurent once had to store jarred preserves under the bed because there was no place else to put them.

They will move into a great, grey stone, 20-room mansion with some 30 rooms and a magnificent view overlooking the Ottawa River and the Gatineau hills of Quebec, where trees stand thickly around the spacious lawns and the people across the street are the Governor-General and his family.

Built 60 Years Ago

The house was built more than 60 years ago and is known as the Edwards home because it was owned by a lumber pioneer, the late Senator Edwards. The government expropriated it several years ago at a reported cost of $140,000 and leased it to the Australian government as a headquarters for its high commissioner, Rt. Hon. Francis Forde. The lease expires Nov. 1.

Just what sort of a house the St. Laurents will move into will largely depend on the recommendation of an architect the government is hiring to consider repairs and renovations. One thing that will be done will be to provide a house with a looking down on the river. The back of the house now faces that way.

In expressing approval of the move, M. J. Coldwell, C.C.F. leader, suggested that the present home possibly should be replaced with a new one. "Perhaps it will be considered by the architect who is going across the street to build a new house," he said in good shape.

George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, said the decision would meet with general approval all quarters. "It will prove in keeping with Canada's international importance," Solon Low, Social Credit chief, said he thought the St. Laurent's $23,000 income should be boosted.

Jury Reads Novel, Acquits Youths

Welland, Oct. 1 — (CP) — A jury that waded through a novel Friday night acquitted two youths of raping a 20-year-old waitress.

The youths: Gerald Thompson, 19, and Frank Beam, 18, both of Welland. The book: "The Shiny Snoopy Dukes, a two-fisted story of juvenile delinquency on New York's East Side."

The girl charged that Defence Counsel Allen R. Brooks read the book aloud in the presence of which a girl was threatened with a revolver and raped by two youths. The complainant said, in reply to a question, that she had never read the book. She said the incident in the book and the girl's accusation were "startlingly similar."

He entered the novel as an exhibit. The jurors took it with them when they retired to reach States. Mine

NATIONALIZATION PLANNED BY GOVT. COSTS $4,500,000

Bill to Buy Systems Given First Reading

Ottawa, Oct. 1—(CP) — Government plans to nationalize Canada's external cable and wireless facilities were placed before parliament Friday.

The Commons, after lengthy discussion, gave first reading to a bill that would permit the government to buy the overseas telecommunications systems of two companies — Canadian Marconi and the United Kingdom-owned Cable and Wireless Ltd. Approximate cost is $4,500,000.

Under the bill, introduced by Transport Minister Chevrier, Canada would fulfill her part of a bargain with other Commonwealth countries made at a 1945 conference.

At that time the countries agreed to nationalize their external telecommunications systems and co-ordinate them under a commonwealth board.

Early in Friday's session, the Commons heard Trade Minister Howe ask that money be voted to establish a permanent residence for Canada's prime ministers. The suggestion received unanimous support from all sides of the House.

Talk Out Bill

During the night-sitting the Commons "talked out" a private bill to place meat-packing plants in various provinces under jurisdiction of the Federal Labor Code.

Labor Minister Mitchell said attempts to make the code apply to the meat-packing industry as it now does to railways would be an "unwarranted invasion of provincial rights."

Remainder of the night sitting was devoted to consideration of agriculture-department estimates.

The complicated nature of the bill was illustrated by the wide discussion and host of questions asked by members regarding its meaning

By JACK SULLIVAN
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Picton, Oct. 1 (CP) — Hard luck, in the form of a broken propeller, balked an early morning attempt by Harold Wilson's Miss Canada IV to break the ten-year water speed record of 141.7 miles an hour.

The sun had just peeked over the horizon when Wilson and chief mechanic Charlie Volker made a trial run over the one-mile nautical course in Picton Bay.

The water, with about a six-inch chop, was to Wilson's liking and he signalled referees and judges he was set to go officially.

Timers clicked him at 120 miles an hour on the first run and he negotiated about 100 yards of the return hop, with a speed estimated by the Ingersoll, Ont., driver at "more than 140 miles an hour," when Miss Canada slowed to a crawl and stopped dead. The four-ton, $100,000 boat was towed into dock and inspection showed the propeller was sliced almost completely off.

Saw Something Fly

It was not known whether Wilson hit an obstacle on the course. Officials said they had seen "something" fly over the wash on Miss Canada's first run.

Almost immediately after Wilson returned to the dock officials went into a secret huddle in an effort to straighten out the question whether Wilson must go again today or fall in his second bid in five weeks to break the record.

Reg Sparks, of Toronto, said in an interview that Wilson "must make the hop-and-return run." Otherwise, Sparks added, Wilson may notify the American Power Boat Association that he will go for another bid."and this will be allowed ten days after notification is received."

Wilson himself said Wilson would, under A.P.B.A. rules, have another chance tomorrow. Final decision probably won't be made known for hours.

Install New Prop

Meanwhile, Wilson and his mechanics worked on the boat installing another propeller. The 37-year-old driver did not appear to be worried over his hard luck. "I know we can break the record and we can do it here," he said.

Wilson said he did not "hit anything on the course."

"If we did, we certainly would not have been able to run." He added that on his first run he [illegible] boat. "It was a little rough."

Miss Canada IV, launched last June, stepped into international prominence in the July 30-Aug. 1 Harmsworth Trophy races at Detroit. It was the first time Canada was permitted to enter this race.

Wilson, confident that his boat could crack Sir Malcolm's mark, came here Aug. 26 to prove to critics Miss Canada IV was of championship calibre. He worked on the boat over choppy waters to subside and with conditions ideal, Miss Canada developed engine, propellor, battery and fuel-mix trouble and the bid was abandoned.

WEATHER SYNOPSIS

Brakeman Goes Berserk in Engine Cab, Fatally Injured in Wild Fight

Portland, Ore., Oct. 1 — (AP) — A brakeman went berserk in the cab of a speeding locomotive Friday and was fatally injured during a wild fight to subdue him.

The brakeman attacked the engineer and fireman after yanking the locomotive's throttle wide open. Lighted railroad flares, a hammer and data were used in the fight that ensued.

Brent W. Campbell, 58, the engineer, and the brakeman, Kenneth Hopkins, 35, boarded the train at Eugene, Ore. The 70-car Southern Pacific freight train was headed for portland.

Hopkins complained of feeling ill. Later he began [illegible] fuses —warning flares — and waving them in the air.

Campbell said Hopkins suddenly reached over his shoulder, grabbed a hammer and leaped the lighted flare into the engineer's side.

Campbell set the emergency brake and whirled around. He struck Hopkins with a fusee and the brakeman, Kenneth Hopkins, 35, boarded the train at Eugene, Ore. The 70-car Southern Pacific freight train was headed for portland.

Hopkins complained of feeling ill. Later he began [illegible] fuses —warning flares — and waving them in the air.

Campbell said Hopkins suddenly reached over his shoulder, grabbed a hammer and leaped the lighted flare into the engineer's side.

Campbell set the emergency brake and whirled around. He struck Hopkins with a fusee and fireman Ben J. Mackobiac, 34, wrestled the brakeman from Hopkins.

The engineer reported Hopkins then seized a hammer and continued his attack. Finally he was knocked to the floor of the cab.

Police took Hopkins to a Salem, Ore., hospital where he died several hours later.

DUPLESSIS SAYS GOVT. LOTTERY IS NO CRIME

Claims Revenue Could be Used for Education and Health Assistance

Quebec, Oct. 1 — (CP) — Premier Duplessis said Friday a projected provincial government lottery is "a reform and not a common sense" and "cannot be a crime."

At a press conference here, he elaborated on a speech delivered at Chicoutimi, Que., recently in which he announced his Union Nationale government's intention to introduce legislation to establish a provincial lottery.

"Establishment of a provincial lottery for education and public health assistance is a reform based on common sense, taken into account present conditions and directs towards public welfare sources of revenue which are not usually so directed," the premier said.

He had a provincial lottery may represent "certain shortcomings" but it was no crime. He did not say what the shortcomings might be.

Mr. Duplessis declared that the law permitted pari-mutuels at race tracks and the public was asking for more pari-mutuel facilities.

Believes People Favor Plan

"I am certain that the majority of the people of Quebec province favors a system of lottery under the control and education aims. It is a sure means to keep in Quebec the money that goes outside. It is the application of a well-known principle: Charity begins at home."

In the domain of electric energy Premier Duplessis said the gantic undertakings showed the progress accomplished by the province since 1945. Development of hydraulic resources since 1945 had increased electric energy by 1,000,000 horse power.

He recalled building of the first hydro project at Cadillac Rapid, in northwestern Quebec. Since then 15 others had been built and had doubled the electric energy in the thickly populated urban centres in Abitibi and Temiscamingue, and mining enterprises of the district.

Arthur McGie, Prominent In City's Life, Bidden Farewell By St. Andrew's Ch. Boards

Mr. Arthur McGie, one of the oldest residents of this city and prominent in its business, religious, educational and social life for many years, has sold his residence on East Bridge Street, and will leave early next week for Walkerville, where he will reside with his daughter, Mrs. R. E. (Alice) Peacock. The departure of Mr. McGie from Belleville is very much regretted by many friends and especially is this the case with the congregation of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church of which he has been a member for upwards of seventy years.

As a young man he began to take part in all the activities of the congregation. For 40 years he has been a member of the Board of Management and for twenty years he has been a member of the Board of Trustees. He was a regular attendant at the services and rendered valued support in all the undertakings of the congregation.

Tribute of Farewell

Mr. McGie will be greatly missed from his place in the church and as a slight expression of the sincere appreciation of the people of St. Andrew's, the members of the Board of Management, the Board of Trustees and the Elders of the church entertained him at dinner at the Golden Acre Inn, Kingston Road, on Thursday evening. Mr. J. A. MacKenzie, chairman of the Board of Management presided and during the evening Mr. W. C. Springer, on behalf of various boards and officials presented Mr. McGie with a handsome suitcase. Short addresses expressing the deep regret felt at the departure of Mr. McGie were made by the minister, the Rev. J. G. Hornsby, and the others present.

Prominent in City's Life

Arthur McGie came to this city from Hamilton with his parents about eighty years ago. He learned the art of tailoring and became an expert craftsman. In 1895 he entered business on his own account and in the year 1930 he retired. Over a term of many years he took a keen interest in the affairs of the city and gave his support to all worthy undertakings for its betterment. The Board of Education received great service from him; he was a member of the Board for fourteen years, and chairman for two years. During the building of the Collegiate and Vocational School, he was the contractor of which he had worked for years. He was chairman of the Building Committee. He also served on the Board of Health and for one year he was a member of the city council.

National Council Of Women Wants Housing Program

Ottawa, Oct. 1 (CP)—Canadian housewives today will petition Prime Minister St. Laurent to institute a national housing program and to call a Dominion-Provincial conference to get it started.

The resolution dealing with Canada's complex housing problems is one of 14 petitions being submitted to Prime Minister St. Laurent by the National Council of Women in Canada.

Besides housing, the resolutions dealt with a variety of subjects ranging from daylight saving an crime and sex comics.

The major resolution asked the government to establish a national housing policy based on promoting the health, happiness and welfare of the Canadian people.

The resolution called for an educational program "on the social values of good housing; provision for immediate and distribution of information on low-rental housing through the Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation;" and for a policy of "extending and gradually relacing rental controls."

The council urged elimination of the "confusion" caused by present daylight saving time throughout the summer and standard time throughout the winter for all communities and transportation systems.

Consumers' Bureau Urged

Following the lead of the Canadian Association of Consumers, which met here earlier this week, the council asked the Prime Minister to set up a Central Consumers' Bureau in the Department of Trade and Commerce. The bureau would collect and pugilize information of the type obtained by the recent Royal commission on prices.

Another resolution asked the government to ban import of "crime and sex comics." Still another recommended that appointments to the Canadian Senate be made on the basis of merit, rather than of political consideration.

A contributory retirement pension and establishment of a "blind persons' act" were also urged. The council asked that the retirement pension be payable at the age of 65 and provide a pension of not less than $40 a month. For the blind the council urged elimination of the means test for applicants for "blindness allowances;" provision of adequate medical and surgical treatment and a monthly allowance of $40 a month for each blind person.

IN MEMORIAM

JEFFERY—In sad but loving memory of our dear mother, Mrs. Isabella Jeffery, who passed away October 2, 1947.

It's lonesome here without you
There's such a vacant place,
For we never hear your footsteps,
Nor see your smiling face.
At night the silent stars look down,
And shine on her grave,
But we sleep on, for we can't disturb
The one we loved so dear.
Sadly we think, much we miss you,
He counts the silent tears we shed,
And whispers, she only sleeps.
Your loved ones in hot deed
Will meet you in the morning,
Dear Mother in God each day.
And when He calls us home to you
In Heaven we will meet.
Sadly missed by John and Clarence. C1

MARIE—In memory of a dear daughter and sister, Vinny Marie, who passed away four years Oct. 2, 1944.

Why would I give to clasp your hand,
Your happy face to see,
To hear your voice and see your smile
Once more dear one with me.
Fondly remembered by Mother, dad brothers and sister. C1

BULPITT — In loving memory of a dear daughter and mother, Mrs. Mary Jane Bulpitt (nee Woodcock), who passed away two years ago today.

Some say more each day we miss her
Others say think the wound has healed,
But they really know the sorrow
Lies within the heart concealed.
Lovingly remembered by Mother and Father, Harold and Stanley, and Brothers Wilfred, Frank and Billy. C1

CARD OF THANKS

Mrs. Ernest M. Carwood and family wish to express their sincere thanks for kind and near, heartfelt thanks for the many expressions of love so graciously given, both before and since their bereavement in the late Mr. Ernest M. Gray. We say a special thank you for his words of comfort, and everyone, and to Mr. R. T. Potter for his understanding and co-operation. C1

74th Anniversary

Letter from Rev. W.H. Wright Recalls Early Association With Wooler United Church

Wooler—The Tabernacle United Church, Wooler pastorate, Murray township, observed its seventy-fifth anniversary recently with Rev. Arnold Poulter of Maddoc the minister from 1930 to 1939, as guest speaker. In his inspiring sermon he gave words of encouragement and called on all to place their faith in God in order to meet the ever increasing trials of this life and to have eternal security in that life to come. Special choir music was well rendered.

The church was crowded at both services, as many former attendants accepted their invitation to renew old friendships. Letters were read from many who could not be present, namely—Mrs. Ella Patterson, widow of a former minister of the church; Mrs. Burnell of Toronto; Rev. W. H. Wright of Bessner's Narrows, and the following ministers who had served the church, Rev. Mr. Merrian of Newcastle; Rev. R. W. Street, Napanee, and Rev. Wm. Delve, Bronte.

On Monday evening a supper was served in the basement of Rodger's Cement Works by the ladies of the W.A., of over two hundred present. Rev. Mr. Fletcher the present minister in charge, prepared sheets to be given to all, giving a concise history of the founding of the church in 1874. Revival Services started in that year in the school house on the Seventh of Murray, and at the present structure was erected in the Fall of the same year, and became part of the Wooler circuit. In 1916 Tabernacle was separated from Presbyterian and became part of Stockdale circuit with Rev. H. M. Patterson in charge. Then in 1930 Tabernacle became part of Wooler pastoral charge just as Rev. Alfred Poulter came to the charge.

There have been three organists during the seventy-five years—Mrs. Wm. M. Phillips, Mrs. Wm. Hamilton and Rose Noble, the present one. Four ministers have gone into Christian service from Tabernacle—Rev. Alfred Phillips, Rev. Harry Parry in the Police Church, Rev. Cecil Williams and Rev. Wm. H. Wright.

Three weddings have been held in the church, the first bride was Miss Nettie Phillips from the homestead on which the church was built; Miss June Mitchell in 1946, and Miss Lena Brooks in 1949.

Rev. Wm. H. Wright contributed the following letter which speaks for itself for the Christian work he has done and ever proposed. No one will ever know in this life the good resulting from been the good derived from this effort of the pioneers in starting this and many other small country churches.

We send greetings to you all this important occasion from the spiritual son of the church. Although different in many respects, we owe more than words can express to the Christian faith fostered and maintained by the church. And it is not going out of the way to say that the rural church, in the generations past, has done more than its proportionate share in the enterprise that has built up our kind of civilization. In an early day we were of the Gospel, along with those of other callings, landed on our eastern shores and with unquenchable zeal initiated the dissemination of this Truth that makes men free, because first of all, it makes them sons of God.

"It has been said that an institution is the lengthened shadow of a man. Only in responding to tell the story of the founding of Tabernacle church, it seems fitting to tell something of the part my father played in it all. And forgive me if I add a personal note here and there.

My parents, Charles W. Wright and Sarah Wright, soon after marriage settled on a farm, the location of which, you are all familiar. The community in which they, and I, grew up, was that of Murray Hills. They coming, I would judge, were among the first settlers here, as I recall the oft-told story of how my father first entered into faith. The experimental effect of it, in his case, expressed in that line in an old hymn, "When my heart first believed, I knew, I felt it, I received." Thus with a 'glory in his bosom,' caught by emotion from Christ, to Whom some poet assigns the phrase, he lived a life, devoid of any knowledge, losing the enthusiasm of that early experience.

"The school house, as it was then about a saying, "Charley Wright is going to be converted, he's getting so loud." On a visit home soon after I began my ministerial career, I, questioning the elderly minister and preach for him, followed. I started in the right year in the school house on the Seventh of Murray, and at the present structure was erected in the Fall of the same year, and became part of the Wooler circuit. In 1916 Tabernacle was separated from Presbyterian and became part of Stockdale circuit with Rev. H. M. Patterson in charge. Then in 1930 Tabernacle became part of Wooler pastoral charge just as Rev. "Christmas, which at that time was a common thing, was a time of great excitement. Then, as now, the location of which, you are all familiar. The community in which they, and I, grew up, was that of Murray Hills. They coming, I would judge, were among the first settlers here, as I recall the oft-told story of how my father first entered into faith. "The school house, as it was then about a saying, "Charley Wright is going to be converted, he's getting so loud." On a visit home soon after I began my ministerial career, I, questioning the elderly minister and preach for him, followed. I started in the right direction in the afternoon, and Tabernacle at night. I was a member, a remark about father, it was "He is worth a dozen ordinary laymen." Which was because he was better than others occasionally but due to the fact of his readiness to serve, and his ability to speak, being a Second local preacher for years. Just a few hours before his death, in the home in Stockdale, as our son-in-law related it to us boys, who had come across the hill to be with him, alive, she said, "I must pray once more for the church and community."

"Gathering up his waning energies, he prayed with great earnestness, till the veins stood out on his forehead, our mother said to me. He could not be contented to go to Heaven alone, it wanted his children to go with him. This desire stimulated prayer in his behalf, and led to the acquirement of an easy approach to people, on the subject of religion. I recall as a small boy, listening to such a conversation at the table of our neighbors.

"There were two other quiet and reserved Christian men, in the community, with whom my father associated, and by their religious welfare of their neighbors. One was Mr. John Phillips, in whose farm the church was built, and the other a Mr. Bessner, who lived north of the school house. These men sometimes prayed together for the blessing of God on the homes and people about them. There were others also more or less active in this effort, whose names I recall—Tom Osterhout, Chisholm's, Mr. Moran's, Irvin's Kilbank's, Parry's Connaughty's and some. I do not recall whose names are registered in heaven, Yes, Wm. Isaac's, my first S. S. teacher.

"It was one day in July some six or seven years after settling in the community father knelt in prayer between the corn rows while the cultivator horses rested. This time his plea was for a revival of religion and reached a climax, producing a great conviction that his prayer was answered. That evening he went to the home of Mr. Phillips and related his experience, with the intention of starting the meeting at once, and did so, though advised it would be necessary to delay the effort as he expected upon them, and where could they get minister? Mr. Phillips replied, as I gathered, then studying for the ministry had just come home from College and that he would call him his friend and fellow-student, Mathew Robinson. Also that he was a good singer, as was his father, and here I quote a sentence from the interesting sketch of Rev. Alfred M. Phillips D.D., from the pen of his highly gifted sister, Mrs. Alfred M. Phillips Wall. Before going to college he and the late Mathew Robinson planned studying together but we were led to hold special meetings with us, resulted in the building of four churches, one of which you are standing in now, I am told, completed. In less than two weeks the schoolhouse could not hold the people who came from near and far. Many were standing outdoors at the door and windows to listen to the service going on within. Then a bee was made, logs were drawn from the mill at Stockdale, and a Tabernacle (hence the name) was built, a little south and north of the school. Many were spiritually awakened, and when the Church was organized, the Tabernacle Church being one of them. Two others were strengthened in membership. Among the converts, it might be mentioned, was a young man Kitty Fry, of Grand Rapids, Michigan. She was a great personality, but until then knew nothing of a vital religion. Her godly life, was blessed, enriched, and she a Methodist Church there, for years.

"In due time the church was built, the brick being hauled from the kilns a few miles west of the old home. I do not remember that there was any special difficulty in meeting the financial expense, although there was little money in the country in that early day. A good deal of rough work was donated by men of the community, women, now and then, furnishing meals for such occasions as they worked and dined together, in addition to communal worship, that was a part of their daily living, as we are 'old today, that the happiest people are in our churches. So after as I know, Tabernacle Church has been in constant use ever since, and I am glad to know this now, as I write, standing in the pulpit, on a certain night, the old church bell that was the source a ministerial cut of coat, buttoned it up to the chin, and fitting being relieved by a white bow tie. He had finished his sermon and then an opportunity for penitents at the altar, a sufficient number of young people were forthcoming to surround it. He invited others, and with but a moment's hesitation, a fine looking young man forward from his seat in the middle of the church, and not finding room at the altar knelt just west of it a little, between it and some of the seats. In a few minutes, giving the boy time enough to pray for himself, Mother Phillips, then his S. S. teacher, knelt at his side, "Willie," she said, "Do you want to be saved?" The boy responded with real intent, "Yes, I do." Instantly his heart was strangely warmed, as Wesley put it.

"That was indeed a memorable experience for my life, and answers to nearly fifty-six years of Christian ministry, which at eight-one almost, I still pursue, though with little less vigor than in my younger years. In 1943, as some will recall, I had the privilege of preaching three times in your church, and mine. God's blessing on you all on this Centennial occasion, and as you face the future with Christian fortitude and diligence.

Sincerely yours,
Wm. H. Wright.

BULLETINS FROM BIRDLAND

WINIFRED K. WILSON

WOOD DUCK

The Wood Duck is a commuter. Its nest is built in hollows of big old trees or stumps, the home is always situated in the forest generally at some distance from any pond or stream. This necessitates daily flights to the feeding which may be made either by flight or on foot.

Unquestionably the most beautiful of our wild fowl, in a suit of soft and spring the male is a suit of iridescent colors quite beyond description. His green head is crested, his throat and underparts white; red lies across his breast and is under his tail; yellow is on his sides. A long, dark tail and short neck are distinctive when the bird is in flight, as does also the downward pointing bill. In summer he dons his "reception plumage," to match his wife, only the white face-markings and the red and white bill remaining unchanged. She is a brown and white duck, about 18 1-3 inches long, and may be identified by an odd-shaped white patch around her eye.

At one time every little stream or tiny lake had its pair of Wood Ducks. Now they are not so plentiful, partly on account of the ease with which they may be shot, partly because there are not so many suitable nesting sites as formerly. Modern civilization has produced the tree sparrow, as well as the starling, an inviting cavity 20 to 40 feet up is hard to find. However, the Wood Ducks will take a box made especially for it, putting in a lining of soft, dry material. This is a queer nesting habit for a Duck, as most of them hatch their large broods on the ground. Room must be given for 8 to 15 eggs, for sometimes as many as 20 Duck eggs in a box, but think the father must have been a bigamist.

These birds live largely on insects and snails, but also feed upon grain and acorns. Each parent has its own way of speaking. The father's call is a low, rusty note, resting reflection, not unlike the inquiring note of a Goldfinch. The mother shrieks shrilly "wheeeek."

At the end of the nesting season the whole family travels around together, spending the hours of daylight (still true to their name) in wooded swamps, and flying to more open ponds or streams at dusk. Another name by which the Wood Duck is sometimes called is also appropriate, Summer Duck. "Summer Duck" leaves us in the autumn once the water has frozen over even to winter in the southern states.

OCTOBER

Three-fourths of the year 1949 have passed and the tenth month has come, the one which will bring the greatest change in foliage of the autumn. It is the month which to many of a meditative nature is the most appealing of the year. It is a month in which nature shows an endless display of her wealth of colors, the deep reds and browns, all evidence of the mortality of the leaf, its work done and itself discarded by the tree which needs it no more. But nature does need it for the rich deep foliage lying deep on the ground near the trees to which it has for half of the year been attached becomes a treasure of wealth of food and nourishment in the coming year. This is part of the season associated through the ages with the huntsmen who find in the woodland much wealth of interest and emotion as they place above all other appeals.

All this is yet to come. It is the month of fruits and the month that is the very heart of autumn. After Hallowe'en the season is far spent and begins to merge itself in the coming winter. It is autumn at its best and highest for the year has definitely turned and set its course for the colder season.

William Blake, who wrote some of the finest imaginative English poetry did not pass by autumn for he says in his picture of the season:

"O autumn, laden with fruit and stained
With the blood of the grape, pass not but sit
Beneath my shady roof; there thou mayest rest
And tune thy jolly voice to my fresh pipe,
Sing now the lusty song of fruits and flowers."

This is the month that brings Thanksgiving when the gifts of the earth, have been gathered in from the fertile fields and all the people make merry with the thoughts of bounty and the happiness of work well done in the warmer seasons of the year. It is a month in which the human heart can feel the full sense of gratitude for the blessings that have attended the labors of man and can feel how good is this earth which brings forth year after year in endless succession the harvests that fail not but replenish the larders of the nations in the northern world and serve to feed other lands less fortunate.

One of the month which brings at its latest hour, Hallowe-en, the great festival when the spirit of humans is rampant in celebration of all the good things which have been furnished by Mother Earth and Heaven's bounty. That is a time when the human spirit feels free to express itself in a rich confusion of emotions and thoughts which delight man, woman and child.

October is that happy month for it brings the culmination of the work of the year's growth. It is itself a celebration of harvestide and of the fruits of the year before winter lays its chill hand upon the landscape and transforms this bright earth to an annual spell of cold, gales, snow and ice, something like a brief ice age. October means barns and cellars filled with the riches the fields and orchards have brought forth for man's sustenance with the work of man's labor and brain.

THE HORSE

The New World, says historians, possessed no horses when Columbus discovered it. On his second voyage in 1493 he brought with him 24 stallions, 10 mares and three mules. Not all of these survived, but more of the animals came from Spain with every fleet that arrived. Espanola, or Santo Domingo, was the first settlement and from the Caribbean centres were next established in Puerto Rico, Jamaica and Cuba. Cortes obtained from Cuba the horses he needed for his invasion and conquest of Mexico in 1519. De Soto brought horses to Florida in 1539 and used them on his long march to the Mississippi. After he died, his followers took the animals into what is now Texas.

Those horses were the progenitors of the wild horses that eventually overran the western wilderness and are now known as mustangs. After 300 years there were millions of them. It was from the best of these that the Indians of the Great Plains bred the type known as the Indian Pony. The domesticated horse became established along the Atlantic seaboard between 1600 and 1630. The early colonists of Virginia brought horses with them, but were reduced to the extremity of eating the first lot when starvation threatened unendurable.

The horse has therefore been around for quite a long time in the New World and much longer in the Old. A noble, patient creature, and a link in a close human bond, it may not be facing extinction, but both its utility and its numbers are declining. And that is not a happy prospect. For, after all, a gas driven engine doesn't have much of a personality; it is not concerned with brown furrows, with post roads, a clanging smithy or a spreading chestnut tree.

Life would be arid without the horse, even though one could view it only as it grazed in some quiet lush pasture.—Hamilton Spectator.

RAT BLITZ URGED

It is scarcely understandable that human beings have remained so tolerant of the rat. The latter has invaded virtually every country in the world except the polar regions.

Even in a country of limited population such as Canada, the depredations of rats cost millions of dollars annually. Occasionally in the larger cities there are campaigns organized to destroy them, but there is no well-sustained organized effort anywhere to eradicate these destructive and dangerous pests says Chatham News.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

BE A PEPTIMIST

I couldn't find this word "peptimist" in my dictionary, so I invented it. I like its sound. A peptimist would say, "Now we is endowed with sound energy and who puts his heart into whatever he attempts knowing that good will come of it, who though meets a time he will face failure—but that failure is only a test. He is not yearned to take hold on new beginnings.

The peptimist keeps his initiative alive. He has vision. But he has also the ability to see that one thing that happens turns out all right in the end. Everything doesn't. Micawber was an incurable optimist, always waiting for something to turn up. Things don't turn up, however, unless you turn them up! The peptimist does something about it.

He keeps moving, thinking, working toward an objective.

I have just been reading an interesting biography of Frank E. Gannett, the Rochester publisher who owns a string of fine newspapers, the list as long as your arm. The book is called "Imprint of a Publisher," and is written by Samuel T. Williamson. It is full of object lessons to youth of the land, as well as to us all. Here is a sentence: "Gannett does not like sad eyes." (So little done—so much to do!) Relaxation is carried on not in the mind of his troubles but to recreate his system, to be in readiness to attack more problems. When he plays, he plays to win." I look upon such a man as a superb example of peptimism.

The peptimist is first of all a builder. He is independent. He is dependent. He listens, observes, thinks his mind, and lives ahead. If one scheme doesn't work he tries another. There are no limitations to what he can do if he is after those. So nothing clouds his mind nor his faith. There is too much of this booting around of the fact that creative work is a thing of the past, and we ought to live out our term of life by letting "George do it," or government. Nothing could be more fallacious. You are George. You are the government!

If we want success, it we want happiness we must stir ourselves. We must get on solid ground, and work out from there. Even Ulysses there are yet new worlds, new experiences, yet be to our own, and through and through the peptimism of our souls!

Even Dog Knows Difference Between Oleo and Butter

Ottawa, Oct. 1 (CP)—The comparative tastes of dogs and people with bread-and-butter was aired in the Commons Friday night by Agriculture Minister Gardiner.

People may not be able to distinguish between margarine and butter, he said, but dogs certainly know the difference.

He told of a dog he knew that liked butter but refused margarine. The dog's mistress decided one day to try saving money by substituting margarine for butter.

The dog, said Mr. Gardiner, sulked a couple of times at the margarine-covered bread, put his tail between his legs and walked away disgusted.

Strength for the Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

"You lost your arm in the service?" a man asked a veteran. "Lost it! Not at all! I gave it."

I have a friend who in the First World War was in battle less than five minutes when he was seriously crippled. He has been a cripple ever since. In his case it was a leg, not an arm that he gave.

Men do not lose their lives for their country, or if they do, then war is even more terrible than we think it is; men give their lives for their country. We read in the Bible that Jesus set his face to go to Jerusalem. He was not hunted down by his enemies. He walked deliberately into the trap which they had set for his feet. His life was not taken away from him, it was given. And because of the spirit in which he gave it, this Jesus was not a martyr but a Saviour.

The cruel cross on which they nailed Him now adorns our churches and is the proud symbol of our faith. Why? Because on the cross he lost His life? No; because on the cross He gave His life.

There is a difference and so significant is the difference, that it constitutes a choice within which lies God's holy Gospel.

THE PACKSACK

OF GREGORY CLARK

The sea gull, the herring gull in particular, has for ages been the wonder of man, for the Creator has richly endowed it for unsurpassed hours across the boundless, and have failed to capture it in words, paint, bronze. Eerily experimenters with aircraft machines the gull is one of the great inspirations of their dreams and speculations.

Here in the eastern half of Canada, from the tip of the Great Lakes to Newfoundland there is a bird that possesses something the gulls need. It is the herring gull, a bird as large as a herring gull and easily mistaken for it. But the gulls have such things the casual glance. Anything more than a casual glance will note the bright red bill of the big tern, its black cap and, of course, the vertically different design and symmetry of the bird in flight.

W- had a big storm on the Great Lakes recently, and a pair of Caspian terns came fishing off Presqu'ile where schools of minnows or small fish were being buffeted suitably to the terns' needs. The storm was a gale of possibly forty miles an hour with violent and erratic gusts and a mile wide whipping and lashing of waves. The two beautiful terns rode the storm with a smooth and effortless grace that could be likened to nothing else than skating. Future ages, if they have learned to beat their way almost lazily, their red bodies pointing ever gaining downward as they scanned the riven waters, fifty feet below them. Every thirty or forty yards, they would lift and dive suddenly, unerringly, and would lift by the short shake they gave themselves immediately after the dive, swallowing their catch.

Into the picture came three herring gulls, down the gale they came sliding and seeing the terns, tried to horn in on the feast. The instant they turned, they were like clowns, ungainly, winded, utterly bewildered. In thirty seconds, the gale had blown them away to some sheltered gull haven.

HE DREADED GOING TO THE HOSPITAL

A reader in another city is expecting her second baby tells us what is wrong with a good many doctors and a good many hospitals. Listen:

"My husband and I tried to persuade the doctor to let me stay home for this baby's birth, but he insisted that he is so busy that there would be nothing in it financially for him to leave his town practice and make a trip to the country, right nine away. I dreaded it terribly case."

Persuade the doctor? The reader and her husband should not waste time persuading such a doctor. The doctor you have is not busy but a doctor's business ability or success has nothing to do with his professional conscientiousness. The reader and her husband should look around for a doctor who is not too busy to serve his patients.

"My first baby was born in the hospital, and I swore I would never there for my second baby. I spent ten hours in labor and never saw a doctor or any one until shortly before the baby arrived. That is not my experience, as I had no idea what to expect, since it was my first baby. Also, I have given a great deal for just an occasional word or smile from a nurse, doctor or any one who understood . . .

That's one thing that is wrong, radically wrong, with most hospitals. No one gives a good — to the patient. They are anxious, fearful patient an occasional word of encouragement, trying even blamed busy putting on the big show. Many of these institutions would profit greatly if over the front door: Abandon cheer all ye who enter here.

The motive which inspires this doctor to insist upon the patient staying the whole time of confinement is purely financial. Take less of his time and sometimes conditions of doctors to get for such "extras" as he and the hospital can contrive to add to the bill. Who knows what goes on in the delivery room?

I recommend to this reader and her husband, and to many others, that they look for another doctor and another hospital at the earliest possible moment. I recommend to this expectant mother and husband that they look around for a doctor who will be too busy to serve his patients.

I recommend to this reader and husband that they look around for a doctor who is not too busy to serve his patients.

Answer—First, bear in mind that baby will be normal, that is, due to infection of hair follicles or sebaceous duct by pus-producing germs, whether from external source, asepsis or cleanliness is essential and antiseptics are helpful. Second, unsuspected diabetes sometimes predisposes to recurrent boils. Your doctor can test physician test urine for sugar. The Morbid View

It really is a wonder you would admit a woman to membership. Immature. You might as well say it is all right for a woman to be a woman you would know more than you do. You certainly have a morbid view of life.—R.—Answer—Since you give no address your letter might as well be anonymous. Many readers have written similar letters. It's a new exist—that my name is just a pseu-onym, used by a group of specialists and doctors to get their propaganda to the public. Actual case records are used in less gullible and taking a more wholesome view of the matter. I shall from to time write. Capital Closeup:
Mr. Protocol, W.H. Measures, Important Ottawa Personage

By DOUGLAS HOW
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Ottawa, Oct. 1 — (CP) — It's a big, mad time for Mr. Protocol.

Mr. Measures works for the External Affairs department as head of its protocol division and this thrusts him into the very forefront of the Ottawa social scene. propriety and unction that constitutes a formal dinner.

Last week it was Italy's Count Sforza. This week it is Belgium's Paul Van Zeeland and France's Robert Schumann and next week it will be Britain's Ernest Bevin. And when all these foreign ministers have gone there will be Prime Minister Churchill and Hyde and right on the doorstep to meet and be Mr. Protocol.

Big Siege

It's the heaviest siege in years and one that Mr. Protocol is taking it in stride would be to minimize the heaping laurels of receptions, dinners, press conferences and calls that make the hours long and the worries of great variety.

It would, however, be true to say that Mr. Protocol moves through it all with vast correctness and judgment and with quiet confidence that he knows exactly what shy man who can hustle a V.I.P. with tradex deftness for a very important person or big shot—along his way as nicely and as subtly as you please.

At times like this or amid the semi-hysterical atmosphere of a Royal visit or a call from an American president, the government leans heavily on these slight shoulders. Mr. Protocol reports to Norman A. Robertson, Hume Wrong, a great bow tie and thrusts into the problem with generous vigor.

Protocol

The department's latest monthly bulletin deals at length with the responsibilities of the protocol division. It says protocol "means not only a particular type of documentation but also a particular way or behavior appropriate to the conduct of affairs between nations."

The department's article says this includes arrangements for exchange of diplomatic representatives, advice to heads of state in official guests, for provision of credentials to Canadian diplomats and for security of those of foreigners and for safeguarding the privileges of diplomatic immunity.

Ontario-Born Playwright To Produce Show on Broadway

By PAT USSHER
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

New York, Oct. 1 — (CP) — Dorothy Rosie is a playwright as well as an actor and his ability in both roles shortly will be put to the test in a Broadway production.

"The Closing Door," a melodrama by the Ontario-born Knox, is due to open here Oct. 14 at thermore, Knox will act in the play himself.

Guthrie McClintic is producing the drama and Lee Strasberg has been engaged to direct it. Doris Nolan, Mrs. Knox in private life, also will be in the cast.

This is the first play written by Knox, who was born at Shelburne, Ont., and educated at London, Ont. His "Old Master" was produced at the Malvern Festival in England in 1946. Movie-goers will remember his portrayal of President Wilson in the film "Wilson" a few years back.

Judith Evelyn Role

Judith Evelyn, who starred in the Broadway production of "Dear Ruth" will be seen in October in "A Streetcar Named Desire" by Tennessee Williams. The National Company, which is touring in the Shubert production, will open in Victoria Oct. 6-8 and in Vancouver Oct. 9-11. Miss Evelyn's portrayal of the tortured neurotic heroine of "A Streetcar" has been favorably received by critics during the company's tour.

Looking Ahead

A burst of activity next week will rouse the Manhattan stage from its lethargy when the production of Shakespeare's "Twelfth Night" opens Monday night. "Ken Landi," a musical with Ina Ray Hutton and "Wish You Were Here," a comedy with Eddie Bracken, will open on Tuesday. Also arriving Tuesday is a repertory company from the Old Vic Opera presented by S. M. Chartock. Monday, Oct. 13, with Marius Goring and Edna Best heading the cast. Oct. 18 is the scheduled arrival date for "Hope and Go," a musical revue produced by the well-known Leonard

What Issue In U.S. Senate May be Shelved

By GEORGE RONALD
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Washington, Oct. 1, — (CP) — The issue of Senator Hugh Butler (Rep. Neb.) to halt Britain's use of Marshall-plan dollars for Canadian wheat may be shelved over the week-end in the frantic drive for adjournment of Congress.

Senator Butler's backing of six of his colleagues, has introduced a new complication in the already complex situation.

But Nov. 1 no win the targets for adjournment are considered more important than the issue and likely to get Senate precedence.

The arrangement permitting British purchase of $17,000,000 of her Marshall plan grant to buy Canadian wheat was announced by Economic Anglo-Canadian-American financial experts, congressional leaders were kept informed of the work of that conference; it is known it is apparent that key democrats are in favor of the wheat arrangement.

Furthermore, it is common-although unofficial knowledge that their leaders of the major farm organizations have pledged their support to the plan, pledged to feel that Britain's promise to buy other surplus American agricultural products balances the whole thing pretty well.

Britain had made clear that however much her dollars went to buy wheat—for dollars—under the Marshall plan, another arrangement result from the three-power conference on surplus of $175,000,000 otherwise she would have had to spend that much of her earned and reserve dollar supply.

Because of world devaluation of the Canadian dollar worked further by Britain's devaluation, the Canadian dollar worked further to Britain's advantage; the price of wheat in Canadian dollars was $2 a bushel but devaluation made the price to Britain $1.80. That makes the $175,000,000 go that much further.

Senator Butler's attack on the "sense-of-the-Senate" resolution, noted that the United States Senate has spent already has large sums invested in agriculture, when added to domestic price-support program.

MANY LINE UP AT GATE

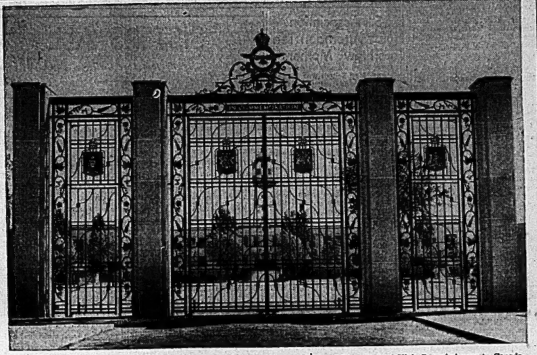
They were waiting for the 10 a.m. window opening to buy tickets to today's crucial game between the Yankees and Boston Red Sox.



With lunches and pillows, they started lining up in the afternoon. First in line was Ralph J. Belcore, a 25-year-old carnival worker from Queens.

He said he attended yesterday's game, won by Philadelphia Athletics 4-3, and then came out to take his place at the gate.

Colorful Variety Of Farm Produce Seen on Market

It's a long way from Goshen in Egypt to the market square in Bellevville, but not so far when time and distance fades in looking at the stalls overflowing with melons, cucumbers and onions. All that was lacking were the pungent leeks and savory garlic; however, these too, make their entrance as Thanksgiving Day comes on apace.

Again an abundance of vegetables was in evidence with sweet Spanish onions selling at $4 per bag; ordinary varieties were $3.25 per 50-pound bag, or 60c per basket. Irish Cobblers and Katadins were $3 per 75-pound bag or 50c the peck. Carrots and beets were 50c per basket and $2.75 per hamper. Cabbage sold at 10 to 20 cents per head, depending on size; both for red or white cabbage. Small sweet peppers were going at 40c per basket, and the very large red were two for 15c.

Medium sized Hubbard squash were from 15c to 30c each, depending on size; endive 10c to 15c; kale and parsley both were 10c per bunch, as was savory, sage. Egg plants ranged from 5c to 20c each; gherkins were getting scarce and were 30c per berry box.

Corn Still Offered

Corn, despite the lateness of the season, was plentiful, and of good quality, selling at 35c doz. Celery was 10c bunch or three for 25c. Winter radishes lent their rosy color to the other vegetables and were 5c the bunch. A few tender green onions were for sale at 10c the bunch.

Chinese cabbage, splendid for salads, was 20c for large sized stalks. Butter beans, not many for sale, were 15c per berry box. Pie pumpkins were still shy, but what were shown were 10c and 15c apiece.

Broccoli was quite plentiful at 10c the bunch and nice, smooth, green cucumbers were two for 5c or two for 35c and $4 the case of 24 dozen.

Fruit was in good supply with pears and watermelons, sugar melons, plums being in top brackets. Watermelons ranged in price from 10c to 35c, sugar melons from 10c to 35c, Frost plums were 65 cents per basket, Damson plums were 50c the basket or 10c the berry box. Taiman sweets were selling at $2.25 to $2.50 per hamper.

Wolfe Rivers were 35 cents the basket; snows, nice variety were from $1.50 to $2.00 per hamper; MacIntosh apples were holding their own at $2.00 for domestic, and $2.50 for select, and greening for cooking, 40 cents and $2.00 per hamper.

Flemish beauty pears were still 65 cents the basket; one vendor had one box of blue raspberries which went at 45 cents. A few white watermelons were for sale, large size 50 cents, and smaller 35 cents. Cider, real good cider was selling at 75 cents the gallon, including the container, and honey at the same as last week: four-pound pail, $1.00; two pounds 50 cents, and one pound 27 cents.

The flowers, though dwindling in quantity, were still lovely, and sold in some cases at a slightly higher price. Potted 'mums were 50 and 75 cents and $1.50. The ever nice fuchsia from 35 to 40; asparagus ferns from 15 to 40 cents; buckwheat begonias with dainty little pink flowerets were 40 cents; tuber begonias 35 cents each, and Dracena 50 cents. Mexican cactus were 50 cents. One pot of wine-colored climatis was $2.00 and the Philodendrons was still 35 cents.

Cut Flowers

Cut flowers, included 'mums and dahlias of pleasing tints, 35 to 40 cents per bunch. Gladioli still held firm at $1.00 per dozen, and snap dragons were 35 the bunch.

More pigs were offered this morning ranging in price from $10.00 for 5½ weeks old; 6 weeks old, $11.00 as well as the 6½ weeks old. Eight weeks pigs were $12.00 each.

One vendor had a load of soft wood slabs in cord lengths selling at $8.00 the cord, delivered.

a super abundance of fowl, both for broiling and roasting ranging in price from 50 to 55 cents per pound. There was one dressed duck selling at 60 cents the pound. The one in question was marked $1.80. Eggs were from 60 to 65 for grade A large; 55 for medium, and 50 cents for pullets, grade A.

The home cooking was plentiful and mouthwatering. Individual pumpkin pies were 20 cents each; tarts 40 the dozen; sugar coated doughnuts 40 cents; luscious date squares 35 cents; spice squares 2 for 15. Home made bread was 15 cents the loaf, and buns 20 cents.

Some fine boxes of home-made creams and chocolates were selling at 65 cents the pound box for chocolates; cocoanut creams were 55 cents the half pound box, and bags of many varieties were 40 cents the pound, or 20 cents the half pound, and included peanut brittle, taffy, etc.

In the knit goods departments baby things of lovely work sold for 65c to $4.00 and included booties, stockings, hoods, dresses etc. Adult knit scarfs $1.35, while aprons were from $1.00 to $1.15.

There was also costume jewellery in head work ranging in price from 50 cents to $1.50 each or per set, of matching brooch and earrings. Some very nice paper carnations were selling at 10 cents each, and some pretty, framed oil sketches were from $1.50, $2.50 and 3.00 each.

26 MORE PRIESTS REPORTED ARRESTED IN BOHEMIA

Prague, Oct. 1.—(AP)—Reliable church sources reported Friday night that 26 more Roman Catholic priests had been arrested in western Bohemia for opposition to policies of the Communist-led government. The arrests were carried out in the industrial town of Plzen (Pilsen), site of the huge Skoda Manufacturing Works, the church sources said.

ent, Prime Minister of Canada, through echoing cheers. It is with deep appreciation that I accept it on behalf of the government and the people of Canada from the governments of the United Kingdom, Australia and New Zealand," he added.

Permanent Memorial

"These wrought iron gates, the Prime Minister said, have been presented as a permanent memorial of the British Empire Commonwealth Training Plan. It is not too much to say that the cause of freedom was saved by the young men who were trained in the great network of stations established under that plan.

"While I am accepting the gates as Prime Minister at this time I can speak of the conception of that great instrument of victory without taking any credit to myself.

"The plan," the Prime Minister said, "was proposed by the Prime Minister of the United Kingdom and eagerly accepted by the Prime Minister of our country at that time."

Dwelt on Purpose

In his address, the Hon. Brooke Claxton, Minister of National Defence for Canada dwelt on the original purposes and aims of the British Empire Training Plan.

"I.t welcoming of thousands of the best young men of the Commonwealth and their training for the grim labors of war were tasks which Canada undertook with faith, with hope and with pride," he said.

"The human relationships which sprang from the comradeship of war have happily continued. In Australia and New Zealand there are homes founded on unions made between daughters of Canada and the sons of Australia and New Zealand. In Canada there are many other homes which echo still with the laughter and good humor of young men from Britain, Australia and New Zealand."

Chubby Power Honored

The Hon. C. G. (Chubby) Power who was especially honored with a golden key of the gate facetiously remarked, "am I getting the gate?"

Speaking of the training plan, the former Minister for Air said, "There were differences of opinion of viewpoint and understanding but the great goal of air supremacy was always foremost to our minds."

The Right Honorable Arthur Henderson, Secretary of State for Air for the United Kingdom said the "training plan formed an integral and vital part of the common war effort, and without the enthusiastic and nation-wide acceptance the plan received in Canada it could never have been translated into action."

"In all," he said, "over 130,000 aircrew were trained under this great plan. Other figures bear impressive witness of the success of the scheme."

Colorful in its precision was the presentation of the golden keys to gates to Prime Minister St. Laurent by Mr. Arthur Henderson.

Under the brilliant September sky, Canada in turn presented her sister nations, Australia and New Zealand and the Mother Country with a special gesture to the United States with gifts of sterling silver plaques.

To the muted music of their national anthems representatives of the members of the Commonwealth and the United States were presented the gifts.

Canada's air powers was never better demonstrated than in the aerobatics of a squadron of four Vampire jets and their solo work done by Flight Lieutenant W. J. Schmaltz. The lone jet pilot thrilled the crowd with aerial stunts while the squadron of four manoeuvred in precision flights as though, as one observer said, "they were alike whirligigs."

A flight of Harvard planes in letter formation of "R. C. A. F." thrilled the large crowd. Later ten squadrons of three Harvards each swept over the field in perfect flying formation.

MEMORIAL

"But, above all others, we are commemorating today the graduates of the British Commonwealth Air Training Schools who poured overseas in such large numbers.

Reminder of Sacrifice

"Young men from Britain, Australia and New Zealand who were trained here will long be remembered. By their presence in Canada they strengthened Commonwealth ties through the lasting bonds of friendship they established with our people.

"To many a family throughout the Commonwealth this air contribution to victory brought tragedy.

"These gates will remind us of the sacrifice of those who gave their lives so that we may live in freedom.

"They will also stand as an enduring symbol of unity of spirit among the peoples of the British Commonwealth.

"The gates will be a reminder to those, in the world today, who harbour aggressive intentions.

"We are today dedicating an enduring monument to the vision of those who conceived the air training plan, to the energy of those who organized it, and to the trained airmen from its schools, who fought and won victory in the air."

Colorful Ceremonies

The ceremonies of acceptance of the gift were colorful and impressive.

"These gates have been given to Canada," said the Rt. Hon. Arthur Henderson, Secretary of State for Air for the United Kingdom in his formal presentation, "by the governments of the United Kingdom, Australia and New Zealand to commemorate their partnership with Canada in the British Commonwealth Air Training Plan and the service of the airmen who helped bring victory to the Allied cause in the Second World War."

"With humility and appreciation, I am very glad to accept these Memorial Gates for Canada," said the Rt. Hon. Louis St. Laurent, Prime Minister of Canada, through echoing cheers. It is with deep appreciation that I accept it on behalf of the government and the people of Canada from the governments of the United Kingdom, Australia and New Zealand," he added.

Heart Wandering

When the sun sets, and the evening twilight,
Covers the earth with shadows dim,
There comes to the heart a call to wander,
To aimlessly seek earth's distant rim.

Forgotten now the daily tumult,
The cares that burdened the weary day,
For the magic call in the evening quiet
Lures to the land of far away.

Our spirit follows amid the shadows
And dreams of scenes unseen, unknown,
They satisfy the heart's deep longings
And for life's ills they oft atone.

So we follow the call of the evening piper
And lose ourselves in a world of dream,
Oh sweet the rest as we gladly wander
Lured on by hope down life's silent stream.

Will Marry Pen-Pal She Has Never Seen

Toronto, Oct. 1. (CP)—In 1944, Mary L. Smith, of Toronto, began to write to a pen-pal she had never seen. Today, almost five years, 350 letters and an unknown of worn-out pens later, she is marrying the pen-pal—Malcolm Sidden, of Kettering, England. They were introduced by letter, but before Mary said "yes" she took a trip to England last year to meet her prospective husband.

H.&S. Association Holds Afternoon Tea For New Mothers

Queen Mary School was the setting on Thursday afternoon for a tea held for the new mothers of children born during both Queen Mary and the new Prince Charles school.

The tea room was centred in the Kindergarten, was delightfully effective by the lace-covered tea table with floral centre of snapdragons and ferns.

Pouring were the Mesdames C. I. Frederick, the principal's wife, and T. K. Franklin, past president of the Queen Mary Home and School Association. Those who served were eight members of Mr. Frederick's Grade 8 class.

Mrs. L. Hopkins, president of the Home and School Association, very graciously received at the door assisted by Mrs. Phillips, Mrs. R. Post, and Mrs. Wm. H. Falwell. She also spoke a few words of welcome to the new mothers.

Members of the teaching staff were present as well as the executive of the association who sponsored the tea, being very capably convened by Mrs. L. Pringle, assisted by Mrs. C. Kennedy, Mrs. G. Simmons, social convener, her committee being responsible for the delicious refreshments.

Mrs. B. Smith, Membership convener, her committee, being were in charge of registration.

It is hoped that many of these new mothers will become members of the Home and School Association in the near future.

2ND THURLOW Friends, Neighbors Shower Young Couple With Lovely Gifts

2nd Thurlow—A large number of friends and neighbors of Mr. Joe Langerview and his bride, (nee Jean Latonne), gathered at S.S. No. 2 Thurlow on Thursday night in honor of their recent marriage and presented them with two occasional chairs, a combination end table and magazine rack and several individual gifts.

Mr. F. Mitchell made a few appropriate remarks and Mrs. Harry Thomson read the address expressing good wishes for a happy wedded life. Both made suitable reply voicing their appreciation for the lovely gifts.

Progressive euchre and dancing were enjoyed during the evening. Prizes for euchre were ladies, Mrs. Geo. Canners; consolation, Mrs. D. Leeming; men's Mr. Robt. Atkins; consolation, Mr. Jack Simmons.

Refreshments were served and a social time enjoyed by all.

SISTERS ALL

By Jean Love Galloway

Only exclusive women's golf club in the world, the Toronto Ladies' Golf and Tennis Club, is celebrating its 25th Anniversary in a blaze of publicity that pulses through the wires of the big international news services . . . The club is owned, operated and controlled by women, but it has a heavy male patronage on the spooky fairways at Thornhill . . .

Idea of forming such a club came from Ada MacKenzie, sex Canadian golfer for more than a quarter of a century. She felt that women would never become champion golfers as long as their playing hours were restricted on the men's courses . . .

The Ladies' Club has never gone in the red. It has never had to impose an assessment on members, though the depression years shrivelled many a men's club. "We've always kept our heads above water because we never went overboard for anything," Ada MacKenzie points out . . . Who says women aren't good at business!

Do you play bridge? There's a good way to learn your honor trick values by having them before you constantly. Opposite our breakfast table, we've thumb-tacked a 2-foot square of cardboard. And to the cardboard, are thumb-tacked actual playing cards in the formation of the Culbertson honor trick values . . .

Two old decks of cards, a black pencil, a trick chart and a flash of bridge enthusiasm, are the means of making such a chart for your kitchen, for the ceiling above your bed, for the wall in front of your bathtub . . . With the actual cards before you, marked with the trick values, you find yourself polishing up on points while you go about your work. It's a grand idea . . . Friend husband is happy to review his bridge knowledge too, over an onion sandwich in the breakfast nook at midnight. It's simple. It's a real help to the bridge beginner, as it is to the near-expert.

Feeding babies on old cheese from one month of age, came as a startling piece of information to a group of young mothers over the teacups the other day. It seems a baby specialist from Paris, France, has adopted the idea of feeding little babies just like grownups — the same variety of food, but in small quantity.

While we have seen an eight month old baby grappling with anxious jaws at a cob of golden bantam corn, it isn't just unusual to see the wee ones keeping up with papa's plateful . . . When you have baby out at the next teaparty, perhaps Junior is missing out if he isn't allowed to partake of the crackers and cheese!

Are you troubled with a smoky room when you're entertaining? People always smoke more heavily when they're partying. A friend was telling us just the other day, that there's a simple remedy for this smoke nuisance . . . All you do, is to have two or three lighted candles burning in the room. The candles consume the smoke in some way and all is clear.

Another useful trick concerns the repeater problem of where, oh where to put the bacon grease. It's a bad thing to pour it down the sink, and you can't always be rushing to the back stoop . . . What we do now, is to keep an empty soup tin or vegetable tin right on the stove. We keep pouring off the oft bacon dripping into the tin and then just toss it away into the garbage. Saves washing greasy bowls!

Uncle Frontenac says he's fed up being stung for repair services. He says every time he takes his car in to the garage, he gets a bill for anything from $5 to $15 for some minor repairs . . . It's the same with radios, he says, and with getting the rugs cleaned. The prices consumers pay for services these days are sometimes unreasonable. We are not only being soaked in these instances, we are being drowned-ed.

Comrade Club Sponsors Autumn Tea

Yesterday afternoon with its gentle breezes and flickering sunshine drew many friends and members to the autumn tea sponsored by the Comrade Club of the Tabernacle United Church, held at the home of the Rev. F. R. Harback and Mrs. Harback, Church street.

The guests were received by Mrs. R. Irwin, president of the club, and Mrs. Harback, and ushered into a room lovely with golden marigolds, orange-tinted cactus dahlias, and irridescent autumn leaves of amber-yellow and coppery-bronze which wound their way across the fire-lit fireplace, and overflowed into numerous vases. Here and there bright green tapers in crystal holders waved their golden tongues in welcoming beams, while Mrs. E. Barlow, Mrs. W. Embury, Mrs. C. Mott, Mrs. C. McBride and Mrs. E. Robson graciously made each newcomer to feel at home.

Along one side of this scene of beauty was the "Travelling Basket" in charge of Mrs. L. Wannamaker, and Mrs. S. McBride, overflowing with many kinds of handiwork including dainty knit baby things, hand-crocheted doilies with pansy edges, the ever favorite pinesapple designed centrepiece, dish towels in rainbow hues, crocheted wash, and dish cloths in rainbow colors, baby stockings done in white with rows of green diamonds, a sweetgrass Indian basket—a lovely thing, with intricate embroidery of blue wicker, a tea cloth with golden embroidered flowers, and necktie aprons that were dreams, and many others that lined the wall behind.

Mrs. Irwin, who presided here, too, wore dainty handbags in felt, red dahlias splashed along the side; knitting bags of flowered cretonne, and a framed petit point; fancy combs for the hair with shell-work of tiny flowers running across the top; flower-like pot-holders, and a hand-patined little pink barrette. All were eagerly scanned by would-be purchasers.

In the dining room, entrancing with more golden autumn flowers was the long tea table with its handcrocheted medallion lace cloth, A large crystal bowl of yellow marigolds, flanked by crystal candelabra with tall, ivory candles centered it, and at either end were the silver services. Presiding here from 3 till 4 were Mrs. Judge and Mrs. W. Harrison; from 4 to 5, Mrs. M. Dulf and Mrs. Cornish; and from 5 to 6, Mrs. A. Mulvey and Mrs. W. Dougherty.

Those who replinished were: Mrs. M. Cummings and Mrs. S. McGuire. Those who served: Mrs. S. Jess, Mrs. C. H. Finkle, Mrs. L. And.ews, Mrs. G. Stewart, Miss J. Smyth, and Miss H. Thompson. Those in the kitchen who prepared the tea and the dainty sandwiches and tempting confections were: Mrs. H. Moorman, Mrs. E. Jerome, Mrs. L. Walmsley and Miss ". Moorman.

Find Novel Written By Busy Farmwife Who Recently Died

Drayton Ont., Oct. 1. (CP)—Between doing chores and working on her husband's pioneer farm in this district, Mrs. Harry Schieck, who died recently, found time to write a book. The novel was found among her personal effects, and the family expects to have it published. Mrs. Schieck educated herself with books from the library and did her writing on scraps of paper which she turned over to a typist.

Buy Pullet Eggs for Economy

By KAY REX
(Canadian Press Staff Writer.)

Ottawa. (CP)—Meat and eggs —the foods for health—have pushed themselves into the luxury bracket.

For some months now beef and pork have been hovering around the 50-cent a pound mark. Eggs —grade A large—rose n Canada's capital to a recent peak of 58 cents a dozen.

What is a poor housewife to do? If she is a conscientious follower of Canada's food rules she must see that each member of her family gets at least one serving daily of meat, fish, poultry, or meat alternates—which include eggs.

And eggs ought to be served at least three times weekly.

Home economists of the consumer section, Dominion department of agriculture, say large eggs are expensive because at the moment they are "relatively scarce". Fair supplies of smaller grades are available and at a lower price.

These experts say that size probably makes little difference when the egg is cooked in the shell or poached. For women or children a small egg usually is sufficient and if the man of the house has a big appetite he can be served two.

In cooking and baking, adjustments may or may not have to be made in the recipes.

In biscuits, batter puddings, cookies—where the egg is added for richness or binding—use the same number of eggs as "called for in the recipe.

In butter cakes three pullet eggs are suggested for every two eggs the recipe requires. In angel cakes it is preferable to measure the egg-whites—one cup of egg-whites will require approximately 10 pullet eggs instead of six large eggs.

No matter which size of egg she chooses it's highly important that she be sensible be not extravagant in cooking to make the most of this precious food.

In serving poached eggs remember to have the water boiling and salted, and cook below boiling-point. Drain well and serve hot.

A hard-cooked egg will be more tender if allowed to cook slowly in water below the boiling-point for at least 30 minutes. Extreme heat toughens egg-whites.

To avoid cracking, when cooking eggs in their shells, place eggs in cold water and bring to a boil. At this point the eggs will be soft cooked. Egg-whites are quickly beaten if the whites and utensils are cold.

Egg-shell color has nothing to do with the quality of the egg. Yolk color depends on the food given the hens. Pale yellow or rich golden yolks are equal in quality and food value.

Curley Hair the Style This Year

CURLY girls are in the majority. There are those—the lucky creatures— who appear stunning with hair as straight and smooth as satin, buth ey have to go good lookers of the first class: fine features, glamorous profile. Waves and ringlets form a flattering frame for the feminine portrait. be it young or old or betwixt-and-between age.

To get a permanent and to believe that is the end of the matter is to be optimistic. You have to take care of it, pet it train it. Some women have a gift for tress arrangement, others can't use a comb without causing a break in a freshly laid finger wave. These latter ones can learn, if they will. They seem to suffer from hair-fear. They do not realize that the more a wave is combed, put in place, the smoother the effect will be, the stronger the lines of undulation. Brisk brushing will not harm a permanent. Grooming is necessary to keep the hair and scalp in a healty condition.

A permanent should be looked upon for exactly what it is. A purely decorative effect. It may give temporary relief from excessive oiliness, but it cannot very well add to the health of the growth. Brushing and scalp massage must go merrily on if the hair is to thrive, remain abundant.

Before having a permanent the hair should have conditioning treatments. Applications of hot oil the night before each shampoo is of inestimable benefit because they relax the delicate shafts, cause them to carry lustre. Dull hair, suggestive of soil and neglect, never makes an appeal no matter how chic the arrangement ma ybe.

Compare the permanent to make-up. Powder and rouge do not preserve the beauty of the complexion, nor do they make a poor skin healthy. They merely put on the highlights, create an effect of loveliness and youthfulness, conceal minor defects that may be presetn.

Smuggling Booms as British Women Clamor for Nylon

By H. L. JONES
(Canadian Press Staff Writer.)

London, (CP)—Nylon smuggling has become big business for Britain's black market.

British mills turn out 2,000,000 pairs a month but 70 per cent of the output goes for export and nylon counters in Britain are generally bare. Yet they are being sold, openly and in quantity, by sidewalk traders in London's Piccadilly and the Strand and in provincial cities for up to 35s ($5.30) a pair.

Authorities, stepping up a war on illegal traffic in nylons, say smuggling of the sheer stockings now is more common than smuggling of jewelry and gold. Nylons pour into the country by air and sea from Canada, the United States, Eire and the continent.

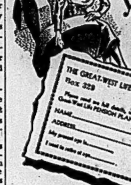
Export consignments mysteriously "disappear" between the factory and the dockside. Export bales once packed with nylons have been found on delivery overseas to contain old rags.

Three thousand pairs of nylons were recently discovered in a refrigerator aboard the line Queen Mary. More than 800 pairs were found hidden in sugar boxes aboard the liner Queen Elizabeth.

Food Parcel Loot

Alert customs men have found them by the thousands in food parcels. They have been discovered in packages of dried egg, between layers of biscuits and in chocolate boxes.

Most stocking shops keep nylons "under the counter" to be doled out to account customers. Some have a card rationing system. Women shoppers accuse stocking assegirls of buying them up for themselves before outside customers get a chance and there have been rar rials when small consignments have been put up for unrestricted public sale.



Authorities says most nylons offered by street traders at high prices were originally consigned for export and were stolen. But this is hard to prove. Other street traders handle only legitimate stockings which they buy from stocks confiscated by customs men or from the domestic quota.

Board of Trade spokesmen say the nylon situation may improve shortly. A new factory has been opened to increase production to 3,000,000 pairs a month. When that figure is reached the export allocation will be cut to 60 per cent of total production, of full-fashioned nylons and 50 per cent of the seamless variety. The rest will go on sale in Britain.

But with 20,000,000 potential customers all wanting nylons at once retailers say even then there will not be nearly enough to meet the demand.

OVERPLAY HAND — SMUTS

London, Sept. 30 (Reuters)—South Africa's opposition leader, Field Marshal Jan Christian Smuts, declared in a broadcast Thursday night that the Russians have overplayed their hand in the west. Communism is on the wane there, he said. Europe was resuming its historic movement toward greater unity. Present currency and trade difficulties would disappear, he said.

Balance Changes, Britain Sees End of Bride Surplus Problem

By GRAHAM JENKINS

London, (Reuters)—After 100 years of "surplus women", Britain may have to begin talking about its "surplus men".

The National Marriage Guidance Council says it is estimated that about 12 years from now, if no unexpected incident disturbs the present trend, population figures for British men and women will be about equal.

"It will be interesting," a spokesman for the Council commented, "to see what effect this significant change will have upon the attitude of young people to marriage."

"The average young man of today simply takes it for granted that there is a liberal supply of potential wives awaiting his choice.

"The average young woman knows that she must secure a husband without too much delay or she will find herself on the shelf."

But the Council considers that the term "surplus women", though widely used in Britain, is "unfortunate and grossly inconsiderate" while "the publicity given the whole matter has often been widely distorted."

Called For Polygamy

One writer, for instance, spoke of 2,000,000 women denied marriage and another shocked many with proposals to sanction polygamy to alleviate their plight.

Nevertheless, the Marriage Guidance Council believes that the number of marriageable girls without potential husbands has seldom been seriously high, when allowance is made for the women who lost their men in the First World War and for the fact that in advanced age groups the longevity of women gives them an overwhelming preponderance.

Emigration and war losses are considered the main causes of Britain's man shortage in the past.

Today, however, the situation is undergoing a decided change with the preponderance of women in marriageable age groups steadily dropping.

Greater susceptibility of male children in the past to accident and disease offset the normal five-per-cent excess of boy births in England. Improved modern standards of child care are believed to be overcoming this now.

In addition, the total casualties in the Second World War were not as high as in the First World War and included many women as well as men.

Marriages of British girls to foreign soldiers have also raised female population from Britain.

The British registrar general's statistics confirm that more people are getting married and fewer babies are dying in Britain today than ever before. Divorces, on the other hand, have almost doubled since the war.

Canadian Stylist Prefers Montreal Though N.Y. Success

By MARIENNE IZSAK
(Canadian Press Staff Writer.)

New York. (CP)— It isn't everyone who has made a success of their career who would be willing to start again at the bottom.

But Mary Goodfellow, Montreal-born hat designer who has an exclusive hat salon here, says if she were 30 years younger she would like to start her business in Montreal.

Miss Goodfellow, who believes there are a great many more opportunities for young people in Canada than when she started, reclaimed some of her hats at a luncheon fashion show here recently.

"I believe that every woman looks better in a hat," said Miss Goodfellow firmly. "And women are beginning to realize that, whether it's worn with a tailored suit, winter coat, cocktail or evening dress, a hat will enhance their costume."

Complementing Miss Goodfellow's hats were coats and suits designed by Donald Norris, latest nationally famous designer. Mr. Norris comes from a long line of

By ANDREW MARSHALL

Rio De Janeiro—Oct, 1—(Reuters)—United States dollars and technical advice are helping to bring medical aid and the means to a healthier life to more than 3,000,000 Brazilians liging in forgotten corners of the sweating jungles of the Amazon and the southern plains of the Rio Grande.

In some of these regions, notably parts of Amazonia and the drought zones in the northeast, Brazilian health authorities say, the standard of health was among the lowest in the world.

Hookworms, dysentery and sandfly were regarded as minor evils. In some areas, 70 per cent of the population was found to be infected with malaria. The people of these regions have a saying: "You are either dead or almost dead."

The Institute of Inter-American Affairs, a United States government corporation, founded to act in an advisory and training capacity to the Brazilian health services, hopes to receive a grant from the United States of between $5,000,000 and $6,000,000 to extend its work.

The institute has three divisions: health and sanitation, education, and food supply. At present, its activities are confined mainly to the first two.

In two major areas, the Amazon valley and the Rio Doce valley, Brazilian and American doctors are bringing medical help and teaching basic rules of sanitation and health protection to some 3,000,000 people.

Distance, measured in terms of swamps and forests, superstition and fear of the "doctor with his needles and knives," is only one of the problems these jungle medical patrols have to fight.

Tough Territory

In Amazonia, largest and toughest territory, the problem of maintaining communications between headquarters and distant isolated health centres is formidable, and without constant supplies, generators at isolated centres would not produce power for lighting or refrigeration for precious medical supplies and stores.

The Brazilian special health service (S.E.S.P.), through which the institute works, keeps supplies moving. A network of launch transports is maintained and linked with a system of trucks which, travelling over roads little better than tracks, bringing supplies to settlements deep in the jungle.

More than 1,300,000 quarts of DDT were used in less than nine months in the fight against malaria. One result has been that the native population has begun to move away from unhealthy riverside villages and to settle around health centres inland.

The jungle doctors often have to work in appalling climatic conditions. Periodic fits or "jungle jitters" are not uncommon.

The S.E.S.P. administers the whole project, furnishes plans and specifications, engages labor and supervises the construction of hospitals and health centres, and the maintenance of depots and repair shops.

IVANHOE

Ivanhoe—Rally Day service in connection with Beulah Sunday School was held on Sunday morning. The regular program was followed. A promotion service was held for five members from the beginners to Primary class namely—Dale Benson, Paul Reid, Elaine Wickens, Wayne Reid and Jack Wood.

The junior class with Miss Marjorie Prest as teacher recited passages of scripture learned in the past year, and an interesting story was told by Mrs. Clifford Mitts.

An address was ably given by Miss Margaret Wright choosing her theme "He Shall have Dominion." The special offering given to support the 1949 Sunday School projects amounted to $5.70.

St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church observed Rally Day on Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock. This was also a combined Harvest Home service. The church was bright with a profusion of autumn flowers, leaves, vegetables and fruit.

Brief addresses were given by Mrs. Milton Shaw, Miss Jean Haggarty and Mrs. John McInroy.

Scripture lesson was read by superintendent Mr. John Heasall, and the prescribed program was followed.

Miss Arlene Tuman, of Stirling, sang "Bless This House" and "We Give Thee Thanks." Rev. W. H. V. Walker, pastor of St. Andrew's gave an inspiring address from the text, "God Giveth the Increase." Visitors were present from Stirling and Beulah United Sunday School.

The cast of the play, "Aunt Zillie Goes to Town," was entertained at the home of Mr. Carl Hollins on Friday evening. Necessary business was transacted and the balance of money on hand was donated to church and community projects. The remainder of the evening was spent in cards and singing. Delicious refreshments were served.

Major William Mercer and Mrs. Mercer of Toronto, and members of Tweed Salvation Army band will hold a street meeting in Ivanhoe on Saturday evening Oct. 1st. at 9:15 P. M.

Mr. Ford Hawkins and son of Ingersol called on friends in Ivanhoe recently.

Mr. and Mrs. L. Lindenfield of London, and Mrs. E. Brown of Lethbridge, Alta., spent a few days with Mr. and Mrs. A. Wood.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Polk and Larry of London, called on Mr. P. M. Wood on Saturday.

Mrs. Lottie Vanderwater spent the weekend with Mrs. C. A. Mitts.

Mrs. Henry Wallace is visiting her daughter, Mrs. R. Chambers at Foxboro.

Mrs. A. Parks of Plainfield, is visiting Mr. and Mrs. Harry Lovibond.

Arctic Institute Plans Survey Of Northern Glacier

Ottawa, Oct. 1—(CP)—When an expedition of the Arctic Institute of North America arrives next year at the Clyde River on the eastern coast of Baffin Island, inside the Arctic Circle, it will find 18 tons of supplies and equipment awaiting them, including 1,000 feet of two-inch aluminum tubing.

These supplies are moving now to this northern outpost aboard the motor vessel "Newfoundlander" from Montreal. The tubing is for sinking a hole in the ice cap. It will be left in the ice to observe physical changes in the glacier's structure and to record its travel.

Lt.-Col. F. D. Baird of the Institute's Montreal office will lead the scientific party. He arranged to obtain the essential supplies and received assistance from 11 Canadian companies who contributed with cash and materials.

The party of 18 will make an extensive survey of the vast glacier. To help get the aluminum tubing through the ice they will use a 110-volt, 2,000-watt gasoline generator to provide hot point melting as the holes are being drilled.

The "Newfoundlander," chartered by the federal government, is making the usual summer run to weather stations and other posts in the Arctic.

Variety of Supplies

It carries 12 tons of gasoline for outboard engines and generators, including enough for 100 hours of flying by a Norseman aircraft to be used by the expedition, and six tons of food to last the party 19 weeks, plus tents, cooking equipment, tools and hardware.

The party will also have two 17-foot canoes and motor boats for operating in fjords, and 300 pounds of high-velocity gelatin charges to set off explosions for seismic measurements of the depth of the ice.

Col. Baird, who commanded the Canadian Army force on exercise "Musk-Ox" says cash contributions have come from the Southam Co., Imperial Oil Co., and Labrador Mining and Exploration Co.

All chocolate required has come from Fry Cadbury, Ltd., the aluminum tubing from the Aluminum Company of Canada and threaded by the Robert Mitchell Co., explosives and ammunition from Canadian Industries Ltd., gasoline-driven generator from the Canadian Fairbanks Morse, radio equipment to go in by air from the Canadian Marconi Co.

Most of the general stores were obtained at wholesale prices and packed through the help of the Henry Morgan Co. of Montreal.

Among those who may be joining the party are Dr. Pierre Dansereau, a botanist of the University of Montreal, and J. D. Cleghorn, McGill University zoologist who was Col. Baird's base commander during exercise "Musk-Ox" and who has been associated with the colonel in the north on several occasions.

Self-Reliance Aim Of English School

London. (CP)—An experiment in teaching children how to stand up for themselves away from their parents has been organized by Middlesex educational authorities.

More than 350 Middlesex boys and girls, ages 11 to 15, are being sent to two schools in Hampshire. There they will undergo a semester of "communal training".

Besides normal school subjects, the curriculum includes special instruction calculated to benefit the children socially and strengthen character.

Each of the schools stands in 25 acres of playing fields and gardens. The children sleep in two-tier bunk beds in long dormitories.

"We are confident the scheme will provide a wonderful experience for the chosen children and that they will benefit considerably," said an official of Middlesex county council.

Three-Year-Term For Manslaughter

Hamilton, Sept. 30 — (CP) — Edward (Dempsey) Richards was sentenced today to three years on charges of manslaughter and wounding arising from a drinking party free-for-all Aug. 6 that resulted in the death of Richard Jeffs, formerly of Regina.

Jeffs was killed and Charles Sulmer wounded in the brawl at the home of David (Irish Davey) Ambersley in suburban Saltfleet township. Ambersley was jointly charged with Richards and acquitted. He now is serving a two-month term on a liquor charge.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

"That crowash you wrote the other day about a good little man whopping the daylights out of a good big fella is nothing but bunk, hogwash, malarkey, and to make it a bit more personal the vaporings of a wandering mind" quoth my slightly tipsy con, regarding me from a ten-foot range with one eye aequint to get the proper focus.

* * *

"S'never been done, that is on the up-and-up" he hiccoughed, re-adjusting a bottle of the grape which protruded at a dangerous angle from his jacket pocket. "They might do it in rasslin'—but never no never in anything else. Yuh never heard of such a thing as big time. But then, he went on half apologetically, "you've never seen the big time unless it was when you were overseas tryin' to figure out what Big Benz's face clocked in London."

* * *

He was a persistent chapie, "dig ahead," he insisted, "G'wan, just name me an instance where a lil fella has kicked the daylights out of a bloke who outweighs him by plenty."

We inquired with the customary politeness and in this case respect, if he had ever heard of David and Goliath.

He shook his head. We informed him that Goliath was a giant of a man while David was a pygmy in stature by comparison.

"Must be rasslers" was his comment, "if not what league did they play in".

* * *

Finally he gave the matter up as a bad job. Had he insisted and had a rational mind, we might have informed him that it has happened on several occasions. The immortal Stanley Ketchel, barely a middleweight, once scuffled the daylights out of Jack Johnson. Sam Langford, the Boston Tar Baby, a 142-pounder not only fought the 194-pound Johnson but campaigned among the heavyweights and proved much too successful to get the many shots at the title he deserved. And then we has Bob Fitzsimmons, little more than a middleweight when he knocked out Jim Corbett.

* * *

Which brings back to mind the famous Toy Bulldog, Mickey Walker who took on all comers regardless of color, weight, creed or denomination. Mickey will be remembered, won the welterweight crown and the middleweight title as well,downed he fond himself battling around with boys of the heavyweight division, battling such bruising foemen as Jack Sharkey and Max Schmelling.

* * *

The records point out that the meeting of Walker and Harry Greb (who fought for years with but one eye) was something far from an exhibition of the manly art as fought by champions, and was definitely within the confines of what is generally called a bloody brawl. The boys hurried everything but the referee, the rafters and sections of the Polo Grounds bleachers on that memorable July night in 1923. No holds were barred, and not many rules observed. The crowd was wild. And to make matters more interesting the referee in the early stages of the bout in some way suffered a paralyzed hands and couldn't hobble around lively boys or separate two bloodthirsty gloved savages who were tearing at each other like a pair of jungle-jujeed alley cats.

* * *

Greb, never a chapple to turn down an opportunity to use any illegal methods, and like Jimmy Durante "I've gotta million of 'em" threw everything that was in the book, and some that were invented by new tricks of his own. Finally he sunk the Bulldog, and grabbed $50,000 as his share of the loot. Walker took home $25,000, and a good licking.

* * *

After the fight, the bloodstained warriors, money burning below in lively pockets, gravel relaxation and some strange quirk of Fate led them to the same speakeasy.

Greb looked at Mickey and grinned. "Have one on me." "Don't mind if I do" said Mickey, "Been to busy a while back."

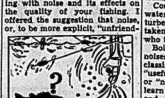
* * *

The fight was forgotten. Under the glow of the early-twenties dalgnites, they waxed mellow. They decided to take in a floorshow together, and ordered a taxi.

* * *

Enroute to the show, Walker became meditative,"

He leached Greb on the arm. "D'ya know, Harry" he smiled, "I'd have beaten you tonight if you hadn't stuck your thumb and then each finger in my eye and pulled your lousy Dutch tricks."



The old battle-light flamed in Greb's good eye. The other remained glassy. "You no-good Irishman" he growled, and launched into a flow of superlatives that would make a Sphynx exude.

Greb then stated to pull off his coat. Whammy, and Mickey's fist smote him heavily in the teeth. The blow would have rocked Pike's Peak but Greb barely blinked. The battle started. And the fight that followed was one of the goodliest, bloodiest affairs ever staged between two men. And as there was no referee to interfere, Greb won his second fight of the night—and for free.

More About Noise, Effects on Fishing

By JOHN ALDEN KNIGHT
Noted Sportsman, Author and Creator of Solunar Tables.

Last August you may have seen a news story by yours truly dealing with noise and its effects on the quality of your fishing. I offered the suggestion that noise, or, to be more explicit, "unfriendly noises," usually act as a deterrent to good fishing.

Now comes a letter from a gentleman in Chicago, taking me to task for my condemnation of noise. He states, evidently with conviction, that I don't know what I'm talking about. Moreover, he can prove it.

The more noise you make, he says, the better fish will bite, particularly bass. He and his fishing companions have adopted a slogan —"The more noise you make, the more fish you catch."

Upset Theories

A long time ago I learned that it is unwise to attempt to lay down hard and fast rules of fishing. Just when you have things all nicely figured out, the fish have a disturbing aptitude for upsetting the apple cart.

My critic states that he and his pals cast "night crawlers" for bass using quarter-ounce sinkers. These later make a noise when they strike the water. This sort of noise evidently acts as an attractor, as the boys catch plenty of fish.

He goes on to relate that they troll, using an outboard motor, which most assuredly makes a noise. Yet they catch plenty of fish that way, too.

Further, he points out that a great many lures, such as surface plugs, "plunkers," "popping bugs," and so on, depend upon noise to make them efficient fish-getters.

He closes his letter as follows— "A good fish will always go to a disturbance in the water. Can you prove different?"

Frankly, there is a great deal of truth in what my critic has to say. Noise, certain types of noise, definitely act in favor of the fisherman.

Some Noisy Fish

Even fish make use of noise in the conduct of their affairs. Sea drum make a loud drumming on the bottom, particularly during the spawning season. How or why this noise is made has not been satisfactorily explained but there it is, just the same.

Down in the Ten Thousand Islands of Florida concentrations of robalo or snook send up a noise from the bottom that can be distinguished by the trained ears of the guides and the market fishermen.

The sea trout of Florida's inshore waters certainly are attracted by noise. It is an amusing sight to see a group of negroes angling for these fish. They use long cane poles, large "popping corks" for floats and a heavy sinker for bait.

The procedure is to cast the bait out as far as the line will reach, Then the surface of the water is beaten to a froth with the cane pole, Periodically the big cork is jerked under with a cloud of splash. Added to all this rumpus is a rythmic chant which seems to be an important feature of the method. And they catch sea trout.

Even in a trout stream noise has its use. After dark large trout will engage in a popping bug just as readily as will as-bass. Yet this same lure, if used in the daylight hours, will send the fish scurrying for the safe cover of their hiding places.

Bonefish Shy

There is one place, however, where noise is indeed harmful and that is on the bonefish flats of the Florida Keys. Cruising bonefish, feeding in shallow water, are, in my humble opinion, the shyest of all creatures.

On the shallow flats they are exposed to their natural enemies. Safety lies in flight and they take alarm all too easily. Even the gentle tap of a push pole against the side of the boat will set them all toward deep water with the speed of an express train.

Conversely, bonefish in deep water are not particularly disturbed by noise and they are taken consistently by fishermen who troll from motor-driven boats.

Boiling it all down, I suppose noises can be divided into two classifications — "friendly" or "useful" noises and "unfriendly" or "non-useful" noises. If we can learn to make use of the former and avoid the latter, we will probably profit thereby.

To utilize noise effectively, it is necessary to know something of the habits of the fish you wish to catch. Take trout, for instance. Noise in a trout stream nearly always is undesirable. Even the scraps of a bob-nailed shoe on the stones of the stream bottom sometimes will ruin the fishing.

During Solunar Periods, when trout usually feed actively, noise will spoil the fishing for only a short time. Even so, it does do certain amount of damage. Best avoid noise in a trout stream.

Must Use Discretion

With bass the matter of noise is often relative and dependent upon conditions and on what the bass are doing at the time. If the bass are cruising in the shallows in search of food, as they do during the Solunar Periods, then the use of noise of an attractor is a definite asset. Even bonefish and tarpon will usually alarm them and send them hurrying toward deep water.

In the deeper water, however, where they have adequate cover and protection, noise—the right sort of noise—can be a lure the opposite effect. It seem to attract instead of to repel.

Both scientists and sportsmen have yet a great deal to learn about fish. Each year they manage to turn up new and useful information. If you, as you read this, have any new data on noise and its effects on fish, be a good sport and send it to me in care of this newspaper.

Toronto, Oct. 1 (CP)—So you think you'd like to be a boxing promoter—wear a derby, stick a cigar in the corner of your mouth, do all the talking and then walk home with a fat cut of your fighter's purse.

There's a little more work—and a lot more worry—to being fight promoter than that, writes Art (Cornwall Standard-Freeholder) Cameron, after a talk with Harry (Scotty) Raynor, a local promoter.

Prime requisite for a successful boxing show, naturally, is a good crowd, and if you want people to attend bouts you've got to have a headliner, says Scotty.

That's something you can't develop over night. It takes time to build up a boy and get the public interested in him."

Once a promoter gets a fighter who is good headliner material, his real worries begin. "It takes a few months to get him into condition and train him. If he proves to be a consistent winner and if he's the type of boy the crowd likes, it's hard to keep him at home," explains Scotty. "Promoters from out of town beckon with bigger cuts of bigger gates."

"There goes the fighter and you have to start all over again."

Priest For

Pete (Toronto Telegram) McGillen says in his outdoor column that he takes a dim view of township and county councils paying a bounty on foxes. And here's why:

"Reynard kills an average of 2,000 field mice a year and 100 field mice will either eat or destroy a half a ton of hay every year. At current prices then, the fox is worth $250 to the farmer, provided, of course, the farmers can keep the fox away from his poultry flocks."

If foxes were too numerous and do more damage than good, McGillen thinks that farmers and city sportsmen who enjoy a fox hunt would have a heavy toll of the fox population anyway without a bounty.

Buddy Pipher Of Oshawa Makes Boxing Squad

Toronto, Oct. 1 (CP)—Buddy Pipher, of Oshawa, an unorthodox fighter who can take it and dish it out with either hand, nominated himself for the lightweight birth on Canada's British Empire games boxing squad here Friday night.

The hard-hitting 125-pounder tossed everything but the ring posts at Norm Thompson of Toronto in the final lightweight bout from start to finish and the meagre house in a tizzy.

Seven other champions were named in the Central Ontario Branch finals and ah back up for Port Arthur, Ont, for the Oct. 6-8 Dominion boxing finals which will decide team spots.

Pipher decked Thompson for a nine count in the first round after landing a lucky right cross. Thompson looked ahead at that point but he fell in a heap when the Oshawa boy connected. The Toronto scrapper came right back and managed to hold up his end in the leather-slinging marathon.

Again in the third, Pipher seemed to have Thompson on the verge of a knockout only to have the spunky Torontonian come back with a flurry of lefts that appeared to do little more than slow down Pipher for a time. He took plenty but gave out more.

Joey Burnette of Sault Ste. Marie Ont, one of the better-looking boys on the eight bout card, racked up a decision over Fred Harding of Oshawa and a T.K.O. in the second over Ron Corbett of Toronto to add his bantamweight honor.

Montreal Royals And Indianapolis Ready for Series

Montreal, Oct. 1 (CP)—Montreal Royals and Indianapolis Indians meet here tonight in the opening game of the Little World Series.

The Royals are 8-to-5 favorites to take their second straight post-season classic of the Triple-A circuits. Last year, Montreal whipped St. Paul.

Odds favored the Royals largely on the basis of their outstanding performance in the International League play-offs. The Royals whipped through Rochester Red Wings and Buffalo Bisons — the league champions—in nine games, losing only one to Buffalo. That gave them the International League's Governor's Cup while Indianapolis was downing Milwaukee Brewers for the American Association play-offs.

First three games of the best-of-seven series will be played in Montreal and then the teams play

Pre-season injuries have marred strenuous training workouts of New York Rangers of the National Hockey League at their camp in Lake Placid, N.Y. While not serious, the mishaps will keep two Rangers out of tonight's exhibition game between the New Yorkers and their American League farm team, New Haven Ramblers.

Centre Don Raleigh emerged from one of Friday's two Ranger workouts with a shoulder injury expected to sideline him for a week. At the same time, Ranger coach Lynn Patrick announced that Montrealer Jean-Paul Denis had three cracked ribs on his right side. Denis was hurt Wednesday in a bruising exhibition game in which the Rangers trimmed the Ramblers 4-1.

The Indians, who won the Association pennant in 1948, were nosed out by St. Paul this year but came through in the playoffs, defeating Milwaukee in the final playoff 4-3 in games.

his St. Louis Flyers meet Fresno Falcons in an exhibition game at Midland tonight. Newest acquisition is Frank Mosdell, a 32-year-old, 190-pound defenceman. Mosdell comes to Flyers as the fourth player in the deal whereby St. Louis traded forward Steve Black and goalie Bill Brennan to Detroit Red Wings. Brennan guarded the nets twice for Fresno last year. Other three players included in the deal were centre Cliff Simpson, winger Fern Gauthier and defenceman Eddie Nicholson, all three of whom have been with Flyers since camp opened here on Sept. 12.

Neil Colville, New Haven coach, is out of hospital. He has been sick abed with an ulcer condition since the start of the training season.

Earlier, in St. Catharines, Smythe advocated formation of a junior National Hockey League with a contract system. He said that unless changes are made in contract handling, all persons in authority putting an end to unlimited bidding for services of amateurs, junior hockey will die out in Toronto. He said operation last year of the extensive Marlboro system, connected with the Leafs, resulted in a loss of $57,170.

Montreal Canadiens meet Springfield Indians of the A.H.L. in Montreal tonight and return next week to training camp at St. Hyacinthe, Que. Coach Dick Irvin, says he is counting on big things from the line of Gilles Dube, Dave Lech and Maurice Richard. He is looking for a catch-name for the line. This line took scoring honors Friday when Reds defeated Whites 8-3 in an intrasquad game.

Coach Hap Day of Toronto Maple Leafs and Conn Smythe, president of Maple Leaf Gardens, Friday night watched Buffalo Bisons and Pittsburgh Hornets play a 3-3 tie at Welland. The American Hockey League teams put on a fast, rugged game.

Boston Red Sox and Dodgers Hold Full Game Leads in American and National League

By ED CORRIGAN
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

This could be the day of decision in the Major League pennant races.

Boston Red Sox can clinch the American League flag by the simple expedience of knocking off their challengers, New York Yankees, today at Yankee Stadium.

If they miss, they still have a chance on the last day tomorrow since a Yankee victory today would only throw the race into another tie.

In the National League, a combination of a Brooklyn victory and a St. Louis Cardinal defeat could be the championship for the Dodgers, who now lead by one plump game.

The Dodgers play the tough Phillies in Philadelphia while the Cards, with three straight defeats haunting them, take on the tail-end Cubs in Chicago.

A victory for the Dodgers in one of the remaining two games and a sudden collapse by the Cards could force the National race into a best-of-three playoff.

The world series is scheduled to begin Wednesday in the park of the American League representative.

Had the Yankees or Cards taken advantage of the situation and won yesterday — their last big chance to make any headway — the races still would be up in the air. But Philadelphia Athletics polished off the New Yorkers 4-1 while the last-place Chicago Cubs thrutted the Cards 6-3. The Red Sox helped themselves by drubbing Washington Senators 11-9. The Dodgers had an open date.

Reynolds To Pitch

Casey Stengel, in the most desperate spot of the season, will counter with his top winner, Allie Reynolds, in an effort to stop Ted Williams, Johnny Pesky and company.

Despite his woes, Stengel had one ray of sunshine. Joe DiMaggio, who has been out with virus pneumonia, will rejoin the team and may play.

In the National League race, the Cards realize that no matter what they do, the final outcome will hinge on the performance of the Dodgers. Harry Brecheen, 14-game winner, will take the hill for the Cards.

As for the Dodgers, Barney Shotten has elected Ralph Branca, the big righthander, recently released from the doghouse. The Phils will be represented on the rubber by Ken Heintzelman, a gentleman who has notched five of his 17 wins for the season against the Brooks.

"What difference does it make how you win 'em. It doesn't matter if you win 11-9 or 11-0."

Of course there were eight walks, plus a couple of errors, a wild pitch, a passed ball and a mental lapse by a Washington player.

Couldn't Hit Fowler

The Senators combed Boston pitching for 18 hits, including five doubles, but couldn't punch across enough runs.

The turn of events at the Yankee Stadium was on the same side. The Yankees simply couldn't hit Toronto-born Dick Fowler.

Only four Yanks managed to get hits off Fowler and he still had to talk his way into being permitted to stay in the game when he loaded the bases in the second on a single and two walks with one out. He got Bobby Brown on a double play grounder.

Aiding the Athletics' cause were Sam Chapman and Ferris Fain, who clouted home runs, both off starter Ed Lopat and counting for all four runs.

Ralph Kiner hit his 54th home run of the season to help Pittsburgh Pirates to a 3-2 victory over Cincinnati Reds. Kiner needs two more home runs to tie Hack Wilson's National League record of 56, set in 1930.

In the only other game of the day, Cleveland Indians, behind Bob Feller, moved into a third-place tie with Detroit in the American League by dumping the Tigers 6-4.

Burrards Game Ahead of Tigers

Vancouver, Oct. 1. (CP)—Vancouver Burrards were a game ahead today in their bustling series for the Canadian Senior Lacrosse championship.

The western champions came back strongly Friday night in overtime to rap in three goals and defeat Hamilton's battling Tigers 16-14 in the third game of the best-of-five series for the Mann Cup. The deciding counters came after Doug Davidson of the Tigers put his team ahead briefly in the extra period.

Two sensational five-goal performances by George Masters of The Tigers and slender Ernie Smith of Burrards highlighted what proved to be the best game of the series to date.

Play was even at half - time with the two teams tied at 3-3 at the end of the first period and 5-5 at the half. Hamilton jumped into a one-goal lead in the third quarter when they outscored the fast-moving Vancouver squad 3-2 to lead 8-7. But Burrards staged a great last period rally, outscoring the easterners 6-3 for the contest at the end of regular time.

The costly penalties to Masters and Jack Dorney enabled the Burrards to take a two-goal edge late in the period on goals by Roy Cavalin, Jim Anderson and Bill Harris.

With less than three minutes in the game, shifty Masters came back to reduce Burrard's lead to a goal. Then Bill Isaacs took Tommy Love's pass 50 seconds from the end to send the game into overtime with the count knotted at 13-13.

The fourth game of the series will be played in New Westminster tonight.

After all is said and done the game of bridge is played for fun. To complicate the laws would tend to kill its purpose in the end.

The newly revised bridge laws are less severe than the old. Also easier to apply. Even unto exposed cards. More situations are now served in one law. Divide exposed cards into three groups.

One group has to do with exposure of any card or cards by the declarer. There is no penalty of any kind for this. Declarer simply puts the exposed cards back into his hand, no penalty.

The second group deals with exposure of one card if it is lower than a face (ten or lower). By any player it is put back in his own hand without penalty. As if nothing had happened.

The third group covers exposure by a defender of two or more cards; or of one card if it is a face (jack or better). Then each such card becomes a penalty card.

A penalty card must be left face up on the table. It must be played at the first legal opportunity. Legal opportunity means when next it is his turn to play or lead.

West makes an opening lead of a small club. Dummy plays king of clubs. Unintentionally fails the club queen face up on the table out of this east hand:

♥ 9 4
♦ K 6 2
♣ A Q 5 3

The exposed club queen becomes a penalty card. East would like to cover the king with his ace. But he is not permitted to do so. He must play the club queen penalty on this trick.

Having exposed the queen, east gave his partner information to which west was not entitled. The penalty is to offset such unwarranted advantage. Therefore, it is not an injustice.

No reasonable player objects to paying a fair penalty. The new bridge laws lean that way. They should stoop over.

Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, Oct. 1 — (AP) — Susan Peters always swore she'd never drink liquor or go on the stage.

Money matters have forced her to break the latter resolution. She spent the summer touring all over the East in "The Barretts of Wimpole Street." In Hershey, Pa., next month, she starts another tour which will last 30 weeks, perhaps a year.

This is pretty rugged for a girl who never faced a footlight before. And for one whose legs are useless.

"I cherish my independence," says Susan, whose promising film career was nipped by a hunting accident that paralyzed the lower part of her body. "I had to find a way to make a living and keep my little family together." (She has a three-year-old son.)

One Picture

There was nothing for her in the movies, the field she knew best. She tried one since the accident—"Sign of the Ram." The psychological thriller hit the market at the tag end of the war boom and didn't fare too well.

There was radio, the easiest work in her situation. But radio has weekly deadlines and Susan doesn't like to be confined.

The stage seemed her only chance. Such plays as "Barretts" and "The Glass Menagerie" could be adapted to her immobility. So, with great trepidation, she set out on the summer tour.

Broadway Bid

The tour was so successful that three new plays have been offered her, with a chance for broadway. So far she has turned them down. "I'm not ready to tackle that yet," she said.

Susan's movement is limited to a wheelchair, but she is by no means confined. She keeps a pace which would weary anyone with less enthusiasm. She drives her own car, visits veteran hospitals, has taken flying lessons and does some horseback riding.

She has adjusted herself to the blunt fact and appears happy under the circumstances.

Answer to Yesterday's Puzzle

ALLISONVILLE

Allisonville—Mrs. Edith McFaul is a guest at the home of her granddaughter and family, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Smith and Patsy, at Ridgeway.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Wood accompanied Mr. and Mrs. Howard Kinnear and Murray on a motor trip to Watertown, N.Y., and spent last Sunday there.

Mr. and Mrs. Percy Chase returned home Sunday afternoon after an enjoyable motor trip to Peterborough and Oshawa.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Morton entertained relatives from U.S.A. over the weekend.

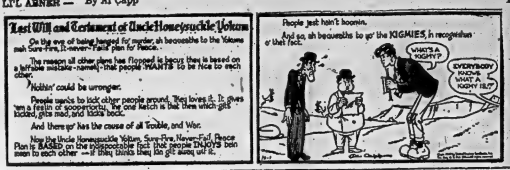
Mrs. Addie Terry is a guest at the home of Mrs. Rae Ferguson and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Alexander and family of Yerexville, were Sunday guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Kinnear, Murray.

The Rev. Mr. Heaven, of Wellington, called on Saturday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Warner McFaul and family.

Mr. Charles McFaul and Mr. Arnott McFaul were Sunday dinner guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Warner McFaul and family.

LIVELY IMAGINATION



Lindsay, Sept. 30 (CP)— Add Ferguson and family.

Four Ohio fishermen said they saw four of them in a bog near the eastern Ontario town. They were bewildered, between fits of laughter, when they found only three.

"You may think I'm crazy," said R. D. Sobdies of Wadworth — "but I say they were real."

Black Boom

By Paul David Preston

Martin stayed for lunch. With rather severe formality he ate and conversed, and afterward he asked permission to escort his two hostesses to the mass meeting downtown.

Baby Doll brightened at once. She had already heard mother say she would have none of it. Now, contrarily, mother changed her mind.

"Thank you, Martin, we shall be glad to go," she said, in her soft, gracious voice. "It will no doubt be—crowded. But I suppose one has a duty." She said nothing about her own inherent curiosity.

Baby Doll sat on Martin in Martin's car. They couldn't get nearer than three blocks and even then they had to park in old Mrs. Tucker's driveway. Mrs. Tucker had no car, they knew and wouldn't mind. They had hardly stopped before Mrs. Tucker popped out of her front door, however.

"I'll have to charge you for that," she cried. "There's money in Rangeville now!"

They were not a little startled. Old Mrs. Tucker, of all people.

Martin spoke up. "Why certainly, Mrs. Tucker. I'sh expected to pay you, of course, providing you have no objection to our using the space, if you will be so kind as—"

"Oil means money, young man. Let me tell you! I got all my rooms rented, and bless me if they haven't come begging for cots in my hall. I could have rented my rooms for double what I got."

"Ahum. Yes indeed. And—how much is the parking?"

"It'll be a dollar, young man," Martin said probing. Mrs. Mayfield and Baby Doll looked quickly at him. A dollar! Rangeville did not have a single parking lot, but even in Dalas and Fort Worth and Houston parking lot fees were never over 50 cents. Mrs. Mayfield's chin lifted, but Martin spoke again.

"Sure, Mrs. Tucker," said he, with a deadly formality. "Here it is."

The haughteur Martin showed was lost on garulous Mrs. Tucker, who was still talking when he led his two companions away.

"It outrageous," Mrs. Mayfield whispered.

"Not at all! Quite all right!" Martin lied, "Such a crowd everywhere! Odd how oil can breed rankness, Mrs. Mayfield!"

"I have heard of it. The better citizens will not tolerate such ridiculous boomtown life in Rangeville, this is a respectable community."

"I should say so!" Martin nodded emphatically.

"Hey, hello Baby Doll! Mrs. Mayfield! And Martin!"

They were youths also working a parking place and had stopped of necessity now. Dorothy ran to the curb, near them.

"Oh dear!" Mrs. Mayfield murmured.

"Dallas Tower," Baby Doll supplied, bubblingly, "And he's the best looking thi-i-i-ing! He was out to the house last night for a while. We talked for quite a while. I could introduce you kids. He's nice."

Baby Doll wasn't going to miss the bandstand, however much switching of loyalties she had to do!

* * *

Cheese and crackers were not aristocratic, but they made up for that by being satisfying. If Dr. Dal Tower needed atmosphere and such for his midday meal, Lillian Mayfield supplied it by being beautiful sitting there across the taxi barrel from him. It was almost the first quiet moment he had known since becoming acquainted with her, and something in him responded in a delightful way.

"You have high pigmentation," he said, unexpectedly.

Lillian's eyebrows lifted.

"I mean — color," he explained. "It's mostly natural, I see. You don't have to use lipstigh and rouge."

"Oh. Not much. Sometimes I forget it entirely. I get outdoors a lot. Daddy taught me that. Ride, and play some golf, and help Jason in the garden. Jason makes me take my exercise."

"Jason! Dash! smiled. A faithful servant, I like him. Come on, let's go out with the thundering herd. Hear 'em thunder!"

It wasn't literal thunder but was almost so. The high school band had a drummer who did his best to make it literal, and he was about all of his band that could be heard now because people were cheering while stretching their necks to see the courtmous herd.

Dal elbowed a path for himself. "Stick right behind me for a front row view," he ordered Lillian, holding her hand.

Passing Garwin's store, they encountered Thad Monroe and that happy-go-lucky fellow joined them, forming a sort of human Wiedower joined the chain next then Eleanor Price and the Most sisters. Other friends recognized them and gleefully tagged on. Thad recognized M. J. Parker and broke in a spot for him. It was M. J. who asked a pertinent question.

"Well, where's Martin Dallas? And how is he?"

"Nursing his puss," Thad supplied inelegantly.

"Hush," Lillian ordered.

"Oh it was about time for somebody to tune Mart down," Thad went on. "He's coming to him, if you ask me. Understand, I like him. But a fellow goes off at a tangent once in a while and . . . ."

"Right," M. J. nodded. "But this it now eh? Tower's up ahead. Pulling like a train engine."

CANADA'S WHITE HOUSE

This rambling three-storey residence is to be converted into a permanent residence for Canada's prime ministers. Over the license of the late Senator W. O. Edwards, it now serves as the Australian High Commissioner's office. When the Australian lease expires Nov. 1, an army of workmen will undertake a reconditioning job on the property, which overlooks the Ottawa River and Quebec's Gatineau Hills.—(CP Photo.)

SEVENTEEN KILLED AS TRAIN RIPS INTO LARGE BUS

Party Returning From Dance at Air Force Base

Ontario, Calif., Oct. 2. (AP) —A racing passenger train ripped into a United States Air Forces bus at a crossing Sunday night, killing 17 of the 22 occupants.

Eleven of the dead were military or civilian personnel from March Air Base; five were members of the Ontario Hostess' Club —a Service organization —the other was the chaperone, Mrs. Ruby McLaughlin, 45, mother of one of the dead girls, Juanita McLaughlin, 18.

Chief Coroner Edward P. Doyle said only five, including twin sisters sitting in different parts of the bus, escaped alive. It was hours before officers could draw a coherent picture from survivors. Earlier estimates of the injured ran as high as 24, and police at one time said 17 bodies had been accounted for.

Cut Away Wreckage

Acetylene torches finally cut away the mangled wreckage from the battered locomotive and the train headed east.

The men from the air base and their girl companions were homebound from a day at the beach. No one on the bus was a combatant, but no one was injured aboard the train, the Santa Fe Railroad's Pony Express eastbound to Chicago.

The railroad said the train was travelling 70 miles an hour. Engineer Al Hall said "I didn't see a thing before the crash."

Survivors included Onega and Marquita Pesce, 18-year-old twins from Ontario. Onega received a broken arm, Marquita cuts and bruises.

"I heard a scream: 'Look out!' The next thing I knew, we men were picking me up," she said.

Boy Fatally Hit By Propeller Of Aircraft

North Bay, Oct. 3 — (CP) — Struck on the back of the head by an aircraft propeller, Robert Watson Sim, 14-year-old North Bay boy was killed Sunday afternoon on the shore of Otaibika Lake, west of Temagami. He was on a weekend fishing trip with R. S. Fischer, North Bay garage owner and well-known amateur pilot.

Police said the accident occurred as Mr. Fischer was taxiing his aircraft into shore. The Sim boy often travelled in the plane and it was his habit to stand on a pontoon of the plane as it was approaching shore and secure the craft as it touched the beach.

A stiff breeze prompted Mr. Fischer to keep the engine turning over longer than usual to force the plane into shore. He had turned off the ignition and was about to step when the Sim boy jumped from the pontoon to the beach. The propeller struck him near the back of the head, killing him instantly.

Big Step Towards National Library Now Being Taken

Ottawa, Oct. 3—(CP)—A 45-year-old historian is about to take a big step towards a national library, long the dream of Canada's scholars and librarians.

As soon as parliament gives the signal, Dr. William Kaye Lamb, the Dominion archivist, will start finding out just how many books there are in the Dominion and where they are.

When the job is finished, Canada will still be a long way from having a national library, Dr. Lamb admits. But it will mean that the $18,250 parliament is being asked to vote for the survey.

Dr. Lamb, a native of New Westminster, B.C., says, however, he can make a point in buying books for a national library until it's known what books are in the country already.

Neither he nor anyone else knows what the library will be like when it's finally finished. That's one thing now being considered by the Royal Commission on national development in the arts, letters and sciences.

Dr. Lamb was appointed Dominion archivist only over a year ago and given the job of "preparing the way for the establishment of a national library in Canada."

He and 12 members of an archival advisory committee have been working since then on plans for the centre which will house it.

Present plans call for a central office in Ottawa and a branch in Toronto, the staff in Montreal to help with the special problems of French libraries.

30 Arrests Made Besides 98 Held On Liquor Counts

Toronto Oct. 3 (CP)—Thirty arrests were made Saturday in connection with charges ranging from attempted murder to common assault as police coped with a wave of violence that flared in the city.

Those added to the 98 persons booked on liquor charges and drunkenness taxed police cells almost filled them to capacity, police said.

A series of assaults resulted in a number of persons being taken to hospital. A waiter was taken to hospital with a knife arm, a teen-aged youth was slashed on the arm, a young woman had her "fur" jacket torn off and teeth knocked out when she attempted to break up a fight between two men.

The most serious charge, attempted murder, was laid against John MacCullough, 48, arrested at gun point after police said he fired two rifle shots into an apartment. He is charged with attempted murder of Mrs. Edna Blanchfield.

FLOODS IN ITALY CLAIM 20 LIVES MANY HOMELESS

Immense Damage Done In Crops and Roads

Naples, Italy, Oct. 3 — (CP) — Flood waters which swept through three nearby inland provinces Sunday took at least 20 lives and left hundreds of persons homeless, scattered reports showed today.

Eleven persons were killed at Benevenio when water-weakened walls of a house collapsed. A mother and four children were drowned at Movera Suprior, about 100 miles to the south in the province of Salerno.

The flood waters, following a heavy storm, swept down the Calore and Sebato Rivers and numerous other streams, inundating areas in the provinces of Benevento, Caserta and Avillino.

Communication lines south of Naples were down and rail traffic halted.

Government officials said 12 dead had been identified but many more casualties were feared. Some reports put the dead at as high as 30 including many children.

Officials said the floods were subsiding this morning, and the army, police, firemen, and volunteer workers were rushing rescue operations. Immense damage had been done to crops, buildings and roads. Air surveys showed thousands of buildings collapsed and torrents of water swirling through towns and villages of four provinces of the Campagna, reaching inland from Naples more than half-way across the Italian peninsula.

Russia Breaks With Nationalist Govt. in China

Moscow, Oct. 3. (AP)—Russia has finally broken with the Nationalist Government in China to give the diplomatic nod to the new Red regime there. At the same time she accused the western Allies of trying to split Germany by setting up a separate government in their zones.

The recognition of Communist China was announced Sunday in a note to the premier of the Central People's Government at Peiping from Andrei A. Gromyko, Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister.

Another Soviet note, delivered to representatives of the three big western powers in Moscow, rapped the creation of the West German government at Bonn. It charged Britain, the United States and France had broken Big Four agreements to try to regain political and economic unity of Germany.

Diplomatic circles here felt the note indicates that Russia feels the time is ripe for the creation of some kind of German administration rivalling the western government at Bonn. These observers said that recognition of such an authority in Eastern Germany would make the West German government in Berlin extremely precarious.

Four-power talks, trying in Eastern Germany would almost certainly become capital of such a set-up, they said.

Meanwhile, Romania joined the parade of Soviet-style "People's Democracies" in scrapping her friendship treaty with Yugoslavia. Poland, Bulgaria and Hungary already have followed the Soviet lead in denouncing their alliances with Marshal Tito's regime.

Nine Fatalities Reported in Ont. During Weekend

(By The Canadian Press)

Nine fatalities were reported in Ontario during the weekend, a compilation by The Canadian Press showed today. Four persons died in traffic accidents, there were four fatalities in Quebec.

A man was killed in a mining blast, a baby smothered in her crib, a man killed in a fall, a boy was accidentally killed when his hunting rifle went off and a woman in Quebec was shot under circumstances still being investigated by police.

Mrs. Gaston Avon, 37, was shot to death in the driveway of her Montreal apartment. Police are holding her estranged husband as a material witness.

Ontario deaths:

Mrs. Elizabeth Palkenberg, 45, of London township, from injuries received in a highway accident near London, Friday.

Mrs. Mary Botosan, 45, of Windsor, when her automobile in which she was riding went out of control, struck a tree, overturned and crushed her; two-year-old Mary Harifield of Manitowaning, under turning of the car driven by her father, Joseph Harifield, automobile near Little Current; Hanes Pawlo, 57, killed in a fire which destroyed his shack on his employer's farm at Oakville; Alfred Burrows, 72, Adelaide Township farmer, from injuries in a fall off his barn; Jack Allen Eves, 12 of Dresden, of gunshot wounds suffered in a hunting accident;

Elaine Miller, 6 1-2 weeks old, apparently smothered to death in her crib at her parents' home in Galt; Nicksia Stampar, 36, the 13 men were employed in a nickel excavating branch of the refinery.

Second Death Believed Due To Lung Illness

Dr. W. M. Hastie, in charge of the case, said Toth took a turn for the worse during the weekend and died at 1 a.m. EST.

His death was the second believed due to the mysterious illness which has struck eight other refinery employees, all members of the International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter workers (C. I. O.) in hospitals. Five from Inco, dismissed and one of three remaining in hospital is in critical condition, Inco officials said.

The malady was reported more than a week ago when Mrs. Ruth Jutzeler, 39, died in hospital of what doctors called bronchial pneumonia. An inquiry has been launched by Ontario Mines and Health authorities, the Nickel Company officials and by the union.

Dr. Vernon Owen of Toronto, who investigated for the union, reported last night that he found everything possible being done to protect workers at the plant and to assist workmen in hospital. R. C. McQuire, refinery superintendent, said there were no fresh developments in the investigations but that progress is being made.

The 13 men were employed in a nickel oxygizing branch of the refinery.

Wilson's Miss Canada Makes North American Record in Trial Attempt on Picton Bay

BY JACK SULLIVAN
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Picton, Oct. 3 — (CP)—Choppy waters and a cross course wind today held up Harold Wilson's attempt at a world water speed record with his Miss Canada IV. It is now a race against time.

Wilson had his boat over the one mile Picton Bay course before sunrise but foot-high chops forced him to douse the high-powered craft.

Miss Canada IV set a North American record of 138.6 miles an hour Sunday — about three miles an hour short of the late Sir Malcolm Campbell's 141.7 M. P. H. record set 10 years ago. Wilson is confident his boat can eclipse that speed and he is waiting patiently for a break in the weather.

Meanwhile he indicated to reporters today he might ask the American Speed Boat Association for an extension beyond the Tuesday - sundown time limit if conditions continue unfavorable for another bid.

At 9 a. m. timers and referees came off the course and said the water was getting rougher. Indications were that Wilson might take his boat out again late in the afternoon.

Boat Had It

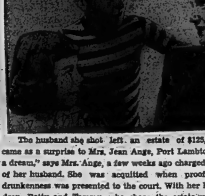
There were a couple of ironic twists to today's run over the bay. Wilson had only to log less than a second off the total time of 51.9 seconds over the two one-mile runs to become the fastest water pilot in the world — his goal for years. The boat had it but Wilson "throttled her down" due to a red hot engine.

"Miss Canada was so high over to a red-hot engine the water-chops that the breather pipes weren't sucking in enough water to keep the engine cooled," he explained later.

He broke the North American record, but he had no way of knowing he was so close to climbing over the world mark.

An added note of irony to the Sunday run was the presence of North American titleholder was Such Cruz, owned by Jack Schroeder of Detroit, and driver-owner Miss Canada in the International Harmsworth races at Detroit this summer. Such Cruz set the record, 126.6 miles an hour over Gull Lake, Mich., in August.

Involved in Accident, Racer Loses Life Crossing Track on Foot



Quebec, Oct. 3 — (CP)— Andre Brochu, 25-year-old Quebec taxi-driver, was killed yesterday during a stock-car race at nearby St.-Monique des Saules when he was struck by a speeding automobile while attempting to cross the track on foot.

Brochu, a competitor in a 25-mile race, had just been involved in an accident when he left the run from one side of the track to the other. He was barely half-way across when he was struck down.

27 HORSES BURNED

Louisville, Ky. Oct. 3 — (AP) — Twenty - seven saddle horses were burned to death near here Sunday when fire destroyed a barn on the farm of William W. Evans. Evans estimated the value of the horses at $13,500.

MRS. ANGE SHARES $125,000 ESTATE

The husband she shot left an estate of $125,000 but the news came as a surprise to Mrs. Jean Ange, Port Lambton, Ont: "It's like a dream," says Mrs. Ange, a few weeks ago charged with the murder of her husband. She was acquitted on a charge of brutality and drunkenness was presented to the court. With her here are her children, Betty and Tommy, who share the estate with her.—Central Press Canadian.

FAROUHAR OLIVER RESIGNATION AS LEADER ACCEPTED

Will Lead Ontario Liberals in Next Session of Legislature

London, Ont., Oct. 3. (CP)— Farquhar Oliver's resignation as Ontario Liberal Leader has been accepted but Mr. Oliver will continue to lead the Liberal group in the Legislature, it was announced here Sunday.

Acceptance of the resignation tendered several weeks ago, was decided upon Saturday by the management committee of the provincial association. Friends of Mr. Oliver fought vigorously but in the end the resignation left in abeyance until a subcommittee has tried to persuade the farmer-politician to reconsider.

The date for a convention to choose his successor has still to be set but it is considered likely that the gathering will be held in Toronto next May. The only man so far to declare himself a candidate is Campbell Calder, member of the legislature for London.

Mr. Oliver, 65, said when he was elected to the post in 1944 that he had no desire to lead an opposition party. But the quick acceptance of the resignation gave rise to talk that certain Liberal circles had sought his replacement since the 1947 convention which raised him to Ontario party leadership.

Heads Band of 14 Liberals

The election of June, 1948, left Mr. Oliver at the head of a band of 14 Liberals in the 90-seat house. The voting also enabled the C.C.F. to oust the Liberals from the benches of the official opposition.

Now the owner of a large farm at Princeville in his Grey South constituency, Mr. Oliver was only 23 when first elected at the legislature, in that election he won the Grey South seat as a United Farmers of Ontario nominee.

He entered the Ontario Liberal Cabinet of Mitchell F. Hepburn, Jan. 23, 1941, as Minister of Public Works and Welfare. He left the Cabinet in October, 1943, resigning his portfolio in protest over the manner in which the premiership changed hands at that time from Mr. Hepburn to Gordon Conant.

His former leader of the 13-man Liberal opposition in the legislature in 1945 and, after winning the Ontario Liberal leadership in May 1947, led the party through the Ontario election of 1948.

August Index Cost of Living Out Tuesday

Ottawa, Oct. 3 — (CP)—The trend of Canadian prices during August will be disclosed Tuesday when the consumer price index or cost-of-living index is announced.

The government's computations may show that prices went a little higher than the July all-time peak, or may slightly lower. However, whatever change is noted would not be because of recent currency cuts. Sterling and dollar devaluations were still a matter of conjecture in the last August days.

Fruits and vegetables were slightly down in price, but meat prices after two jumps in July were a variety of other goods which housewives buy and which have a significant effect on a price barometer.

Sterling and dollar devaluation arrived with electrifying rapidity in mid-September and therefore will have some impact when the September index is published. However, even then, only part of the month saw devaluation the impact is expected to be only slight.

The housewife and the Canadian buyer generally likely will be able to measure the full benefits or ill-effects of the currency cuts for the first time when the October index comes out early in December.

For example, lower prices of British-made clothing and textiles may send the clothing index down; higher costs of United States fruits may send the food sub-index up.

Food prices have had a wide and persistent effect on the meanderings of the index. Food costs helped send the index to its all-time high of 162.8 in July.

In the United States higher food prices shoved the cost of living up a little between July 15 and Aug. 15. The American index in mid-August stood at 168.8 per cent of the price level during the 1935-39 period. It was a gain of 0.5 per cent from the previous month.

Higher prices for eggs and pork helped move the price barometer to the all-time peak in July. During the last month the food sub-index climbed from 307.3 to 309.2.

SHADOW OF STEEL STRIKE HANGS OVER CANADA

Dominion Imports One-Third of Her Steel from U.S.-Mills

Ottawa, Oct. 3 (CP). — The shadow of a United States steel strike hung darkly over Canadian industries today.

With Canada importing one-third of her steel from U.S. mills a prolonged strike threatened to have repercussions in almost every aspect of the Dominion's industry.

Adding to the worry of government and industrial officials was uncertainty as to what form of support Canada's 50,000 steelworkers might give their U.S. fellow-union members.

Government officials indicated that if the strike at 12,000 United Steelworkers of America (C.I.O.) continues beyond another week to 10 days, it might be necessary to reimpose wartime controls on distribution of steel.

Officials said there is enough steel on hand in Canada so that effects of the U.S. strike will not be felt in Canada for at least a week. If it were to continue, remaining supplies of steel would have to be channelled to such vital industries as construction and public utility development.

Wartime Al Capacity

A government official said Canadian mills, working at capacity, were able to meet most of the country's primary steel needs. However, they lack capacity to meet the country's complete finished steel requirements.

The official said it would appear likely that the industries would be hit first in the event of a prolonged U.S. strike, such as the one in 1946 that lasted 29 days. The U.S. National Director of the United Steelworkers of America (C.I.O.-C.C.L.) said in Pittsburgh Saturday that besides curtailing Canadian production, the U.S. strike might bring unemployment in some Canadian plants.

Officials of both government and industry were keeping a wary eye on the Canadian Branch of the U.S.W.A. which Saturday voted whole-hearted support of the American steel strike.

While it was unknown just what form the assistance would take, the conference said "Canadian steelworkers stand prepared to render whatever assistance may be within our power in this struggle".

WEATHER SYNOPSIS

Toronto, Oct. 3 (CP)—Synopsis: Last night a comparatively slow of cyclonic moist air became well established over the southern part of Ontario. This caused an extensive cloud sheet to extend rapidly northward and showers have occurred in the Georgian Bay and Lower lakes region. Drover Trying to Win Panda Bear Fleeced of $300 During Carnival

Markham, Oct. 3 (CP).—A 50-year-old farmer was fleeced of $300 at Markham Fair Saturday, police said today.

Police are looking for three men who they believe to have victimized Carl Winch, who was only trying to win a bear for the daughter of a friend.

Police said the same three men were believed to have operated at fairs and carnivals throughout southern Ontario relieving unsuspecting citizens of large sums of cash.

"I'm glad it's all locked up at first," Winch said. He explained the game was played with dice and the objective was to get 10 points.

"It was crooked all the way through," he said. "I should have known better but my wife kept egging me until you got playing. It was impossible to win."

When he told police, they found the booth and the men had left.

VINCENT FREEMAN GIVEN HIGH POST IN MOOSE LODGE

Past governor of the Loyal Order of the Moose at Belleville, Vincent Freeman, Cobourg, was grand sgt-at-arms for the Ontario organization at their annual three-day convention held in Toronto. Mr. Freeman was governor of the local lodge last year and attended the convention as delegate from the local lodge.

T. Manno Roach of London, Ont., was installed as Ontario grand governor, succeeding Geo. R. Winkworth of Toronto. Approximately 500 delegates attended the convention, a team from Chatham winning the ritual competition, the first to be held since 1940.

'DAVEY' DAVISON AND RINK WIN AT KINGSTON

They cannot keep Belleville bowlers out of the money in district tournaments this year at least and this was proved in Kingston on Saturday, 1st, when the last tournament of the year and four rinks of trophies went from the local club with J. W. 'Davey' Davison with Gordon Watkin and Gordon Irwin, winning the three game high score and coming within a couple of points of shattering all the marbles. An Ottawa rink and Dick Edney of Kingston tied for top spot in the three-game high category and they flipped a coin for the trophy and first prize with the Ottawa rink winning the toss.

Davison had a chance to defeat the Ottawa rink in the second game, when he carried the "Cat" twice but each time it rested closer to the Ottawa bowls than those of Belleville. It was a tough break. Other rinks from Belleville were Gern Dobbs, Herb Middleton and Ernie Vanner; Jack Lee, Dave Fisher and Cliff Argue and Ken Ashley, Gordon Edwards and Jerry Ryder. There were 33 rinks in the draw and the greens were in excellent condition and the weather ideal for bowling. All the local members report an enjoyable time at the tournament.

FIRE AND EX-CHIEF ATTEND FUNERAL IN TORONTO

Waterline Tile Broken in Trench, Citizen Complains

At least that is the impression of John K. Gardiner, 33 Greenlaw Ave., who reported to police on the weekend reported to police that some children had damaged waterline tile on his property.

It seems that Mr. Gardiner had been excavating on Sept. 26th. a tile and had left the ditch uncovered in permit inspection of the tile before it was covered. Unknown children had then broken all the tile in the ditch.

Police Blotter

A local juvenile was taken into custody Sunday morning when he was found on the premises after breaking and entering the gasoline service station of Spafford and Van Orton at the corner of Pinnacle and Dundas Streets.

The youth who has been in trouble with police on several occasions was found on the premises by a constable when he opened the service station for business.

A second break-in was reported over the weekend at the Campbell Auto Sales on Coleborne Street. It was not stated if anything was missing.

Entry was gained through the front seat of an auto as it was parked along Front Street was reported by Miss Marjorie Rollin R.R. 1 Belleville. The car from which the watch was stolen was not locked it was stated.

Farmer With Assistance of Bull Puts Hydro Survey Party to Flight

Since the world began, man has discovered many effective methods of ending an argument.

But one of the most effective took place in a remote section of the northern part of Hastings County the other day.

Involved were a farmer, said to be of foreign nationality, a temperamental bull and a group of hydro surveyors and party.

It seems that the survey party demanded a right - of - way through the farmer's property. The farmer refused. The surveyors, the story goes, persisted, stating that right-of-way was necessary. But the farmer was adamant. As a last resort the surveyors produced documents which granted them right-of-way. Still the farmer shook his head.

It appears, then, that the surveyors decided to change their land-owner's protests. They started operations and entered a field near the barn.

Then the farmer produced his argument-clincher. Going to his barn he opened the doors, went inside and a minute or two later a large full raced out of the door.

The farmer shouted "show the papers to the bull" or words to that effect. But the bull's education along the three R's line had been sadly neglected. Whether it had been trained as a watch-dog, was not ascertained, but the survey party did not linger to find out any family history of the animal or his educational qualifications.

Suffice it to say, that the bull did not take kindly to their allleged encroachment. He charged in their general direction. In very short time he had the field to himself literally and figuratively. According to the story, the surveyors beat a hurried, but not disorderly retreat, while an angry bull, and its cooled-off master remained in possession of the brief but rapid-fray.

Nearly one half of the above amount, or $60,000 was accounted for by a permit for the erection of a new marine storage station by Trinidad Leaseholds on Bridge Front street. A second commercial permit issued was that taken out by Bell Telephone for alterations on their Pinnacle street plant costing $20,821.

Newsboys and Girls Working Hard To Win Place on Niagara Falls Trip

On October 14, through to October 21 a large number of newsboys of the Ontario Intelligencer, Peterborough Examiner and the Kingston Whig-Standard will be the guests of their respective newspapers on a weekend outing to Niagara Falls.

In order to qualify for the trip the boys must adhere to certain rules and regulations of the subscription contest. Thus far a number of the boys have qualified but some of the lads, while working hard, are not so sure they can meet with the necessary requirements.

That is in the hands of the public. A subscription here and there might make all the difference in the world to these boys, some of whom may be left at home. The management of the Ontario Intelligencer can assure a newsboy staff to be its guests on the outing. The public can help by assisting its favorite newsboy to win a spot in the tour and give him one of the most enjoyable outings of his life.

Some Have Qualified

Thus far, those who have qualified for the trip are Bobby Cairns, Pat Tracy, Doug. Starring, Delbert O'Sullivan, Bob McCann and Jimmy Campbell. Those needing one subscription are Bruce Ervine, John Tataille, Jack Kennedy and Garry Stephanson. Needing two are Stan. Jackson, Charles Livingston, Allan McCann, John Berrigan and that capacity. In this sight division of the newsboy section, Jacqueline Day needs but one subscription with Gerald Mully needing two and Glenna Ritchie and Rosemary Kay short four.

The boys and girls who are successful in the contest will leave for Niagara Falls by bus on the morning of Friday, Oct. 14 and return on Sunday, Oct. 16. While in Niagara they will be housed at the Uncle Tom's Cabin motel which has been taken over in their entirety by the three newspapers.

A Colorful Tour

The boys and girls will be the guests of their managements on a special cruise on the "Maid of the Mist" which has been chartered for the occasion. They will visit the tunnel under the Falls and be taken on the Spanish aero-car across the Niagara River gorge. They will be shown some of Canada's historic sights such as the battlefields of the war of 1812 and the Brock and Laura Secord monuments.

It will be a glorious outing for the little fellows and girls, and they earnestly ask the assistance

Andrew M. Shea Superintendent of Belleville Div.

Andrew M. Shea, formerly superintendent of the St. Lawrence division at Montreal, has been named superintendent of the Belleville division of the Canadian National Railways it has been announced.

Mr. Shea succeeds Mr. E. H. Locke who has been transferred to Montreal. Succeeding Mr. Shea at Montreal is James H. Carr, a native son of Belleville.

Mr. Shea was born at Montreal where he began the service of the Grand Trunk Railway in June 1911 as brakeman. Five years later he was made conductor and in January, 1942 was moved to Montreal as trainmaster, he returned to Montreal in June of the same year as assistant superintendent of the St. Lawrence and was appointed to the position he has now resigned to assume his duties at Belleville.

James Raymond Carr, began his railroading career at Belleville, Ont., his birthplace, in July 1910, as a brakeman. Eight years later he was promoted to conductor, subsequently serving at Belleville, Hamilton and London in that capacity. In 1934 he was made trainmaster at Brantford,

Radio Stars Feature Dance And Stage Show

The variety show and dance presented by the Belleville Brothers Quints Oldtimers at Tobe's County Gardens on Friday night proved to be entertainment at its best and was enjoyed by a large enthusiastic crowd.

Dance enthusiasts thrilled to the music of the Oldtimers who performed for the square dancing While Bill Warham's four-piece ensemble provided "sweet" rhythms for those who prefer that variety of dance music.

Following the Oldtimers theme song, the floor show opened shortly after ten o'clock with popular Johnny Lloyd offering a banjo solo to start the ball rolling. Lloyd followed with the solo "Wedding Bells" and then came Eileen McConnell's delightful guitar rendition of "Tennessee Waltz". Clifford Sweetman another guitarist followed with a solo "Steel Guitar Rag" and Vera Lloyd, vocalist, Clarence Rivers offered "You Won't Ever Forget Me". All artists were greeted with rounds of applause.

Frank Buckaday, popular ventriloquist and his funny stooge "Willie Monroe" put the "house in stitches" with his humorous patter. The "historian" act of Maggie and Jiggs performances. Eric Rolfe, by way of diversion offered a tap-dance routine that was excellently done and well received.

Radio Artists Feature

The stars of the show Vern Young and "Annie" well-known radio artists from Station WARC, Rochester, who have been featured in their roles in the Bar M. Ranch, Kai Bluenose Party, etc., staged a splendid act. Annie is possessed of an excellent voice and gave a pleasing partner with "Stringbean" providing guitar accompaniment for the duet performances. Eric Rolfe, by way of diversion offered a tap-dance routine that was excellently done and well received.

Y's Men Hear Address on Czechoslovakia

Experience and reflections of a visit to Czechoslovakia was the subject of an interesting and informative talk given by Rev. H. C. Vaclavik before the Y's Men's Club at their weekly meeting at the Y.M.C.A. Reminding his audience that it was a country of 16 million people crowded into an area of less than one quarter the size of Ontario he indicated that it was natural that its problems would be so difficult to ours in a sparsely populated country as to make them difficult to understand.

Surrounded by powerful nations of which in the early days of the republic which grew out of the First World War, of which the German wave has the dominant class, existence depended on an intricate balance with other central European nations which was the cause of continual disputes.

Tribute to Masyrik

The speaker paid tribute to the work of Jan Masyrik and other leaders who brought the nation from its foundation to a position of great prominence in two decades. The people were industrious and skilled and despite oppression of the 30's to a much higher standard of living than of America. Emphasis was placed on education which developed strong leaders.

Disintegration however set in following Munich, which left the country defenceless, its lack of high moral purpose particularly among the intelligentsia. If the thousands of university graduates had been encouraged in spiritual development and stimulus as well as in national progress, the enslavement which has taken place behind the iron curtain could not have worked so smoothly.

Those who have arrived in Canada in recent months, the speaker said, surpressed an intense love for the freedom Canadians enjoyed which Canadians who had not undergone the same experiences could hardly understand.

Details Methods

Mr. Vaclavik gave an account of the methods used to break down and enslave those who would not fall in the Communist Party. There was no job possible for those who would not become Communists. He warned that the same dangers might infiltrate in Canada and that only by standing firm and strengthening our spiritual heritage could

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, Oct. 3—(CP)—The industrial section strengthened in afternoon trading on the Toronto Stock Exchange but continued to shown an over-all loss on the day.

Golds were strongest, Western Oils slightly depressed, and Base Metals about even.

A group of gold properties in the Rouyn district of Northern Quebec provided most trading interest. Donalda traded 20 cents up, around 70 cents, on reports of a good drill showing, with a 250,000-share turnover.

The senior group, was mostly ahead, including Dome, Lake Shore, Lamaque and Wright-Hargreaves. Hollinger and Teck-Hughes were off.

Utilities made a good showing, except C.P.R., off fractionally. Other gains were of the habitual list were dividend.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

Toronto Oct. 3 (CP)—Cattle prices were barely steady in dull trading on the local livestock market this morning. Receipts reported by the Dominion Marketing Service were: Cattle 3,900; calves, 1,120; hogs, 590; sheep and lambs, 1,600. Left from last week were 1,900 cattle.

Medium to good weighty steers sold from $21-$22.25; Good heifers were $18.50-$19 with plain steers and heifers selling downward to $16. Good boners brought $11-$11.50. Good cows sold at $14.50-$15. Canners and cutters were $9-$12. A few fed yearlings were $19-$23. Medium to good stockers brought $17.50-$20.

Calves were strong at $26-28 for choice quality vealers with plain to medium quality offerings from $16-24. Grassers for slaughter were $13-$15.

Prices were not established on hogs. The previous close was $29.50 for Grade A and $29.10 for Grade B1.

Lambs were steady at $22 for good ewes and wethers and $21 for bucks. Sheep were strong at $10 to $11.50 for good light ewes with culls selling downward to $6.

BUFFALO LIVESTOCK

Buffalo, N. Y., Oct. 3 (AP) — Cattle 300; best cows 14.50-15.00; canners 12.50-14.00; canners 10.00-12.00; good dairy type heifers for slaughter 17.00 - 18.00; good weighty sausage bulls 18.00-18.50.

Calves 600; good and choice handyweight calves 29.00-30.00; medium 21.00-28.00.

Hogs 1,600; good and choice 180 lbs 18.50-20.25; sows 15.00-18.-50.

Lambs and sheep 850; good and choice lambs 23.00-24.00; good and choice handyweight ewes 8.00-9.00.

PRODUCE MARKETS

Toronto, Oct. 3. (CP)—Production picked up a little on the spot market this morning follow—Churning cream No. 1, 60 cents F.O.B., 64 delivered.

Butter prints were unquoted. Large eggs held steady on the egg market this morning while pullets were down. Country shippers quoted graded eggs, cases free: Grade A large 58; A medium 47-48; A pullet 45-46; Grade B 46; Grade C 35-36. Wholesale to retail: Grade A large 61; A medium 53-54; A pullet 45-46; Grade B 52-53; Grade C 40-41.

Non-candled: Fancy grade butter solids were unchanged at 58 to 59. Second grades were quoted at 55-57.

Fifth of Lewis' Coal Miners Back in Pits

Pittsburgh, Oct. 3 (AP)—One-fifth of the United coal miners went back into the pits today but nearly 1,000,000 other steel and coal workers remained on strike for pension benefits.

There was little the Federal government may step into the dispute — but officially no one is talking.

Some 80,000 anthracite (hard coal) diggers ended their month's idleness in eastern Pennsylvania. And 20,000 more left camps, trooped back to mines in western states.

Both groups acted in response to return-to-work instructions from Lewis, who said the union action "is not now vital to the pending wage negotiations".

The return of the anthracite diggers is a morale booster for householders since wirehably all of the coal mined by the returning 102,000 is used for home heating.

Coal-hard householders also must continue to bite into a 45-day supply of bituminous stockpiled above ground. There was no hint of a return-to-work order for the 380,000 men who mine most of the industrial coal in the United States.

How much steel is available? About enough for four to six weeks.

The double-barreled steel-coal strike—it left idle 519,000 C.I.O. steelworkers and nearly 400,000 soft coal miners—made big dents in the country's economy.

All Shut Tight

All told 53 basic steel plants and 80 iron ore mines in 27 states are shut tight. A handful of open panles, notably American Can Company with 15,000 workers in 28 plants, agreed to union terms.

But a new strike threat hangs like a sword of Damocles over industry. The Steelworkers' Union has 500,000 more members working in 700 steel fabricating plants from coast to coast.

Their contracts start running out Oct. 15. And the union says the men will quit work unless management grants free pensions and free insurance.

Never before have coal mines and steel mills been strike-bound at the same time. Both are basic industries, vital to continued production of nearly every necessity —from refrigerators to baby carriages to hairpins.

Search Fails to Uncover Documents Showing Location Of Noronic's Fire Equipment

Toronto, Oct. 3—(CP)—Fourth day of the federal inquiry into the steamship Noronic disaster opened today with Capt. Howard B. Baxter of Montreal resuming his testimony.

Capt. Baxter, marine superintendent for Canada Steamship Lines, the ship's owners, said a weekend search of company records failed to uncover any documents showing the location of fire alarm boxes, fire extinguishers, water hoses, hydrants and fire buckets on the Noronic.

Capt. Baxter had been asked last Friday to search company records for such documents.

Capt. Baxter said further check of fire apparatus records showed there was no Minerva station on "B" deck, open deck. Any passengers on this deck could hear the blazing signals from either "A" or "C" decks, he added.

The absence of company records of reports from the Noronic's special officers after Sept. 16, 1945, means they either could have been mailed by the-master and were lost in the Sept. 17 fire, Capt. Baxter said.

Earlier testimony was that the Noronic's special fire patrols officers whose duties were similar to those of fire wardens.

He told Commission counsel J. W. Pickup, Q.C., he knew of no order of any consideration being given to arrangements being made for connection between the ship and the Toronto Fire Department when the ship docked in port.

Drill Held Once a Week

Following production of additional reports of fire drills showing that a fire drill was held on 10.15 a.m. without exception, Mr. Justice R. L. Kellock of Ottawa, commission chairman, remarked the drills "obviously lacked any element of surprise".

"Is the drill practice?" asked Mr. Pickup.

"I had it up to the master of the ship. All we do is ask that the drill should be held once a week," replied Captain Baxter.

J. J. Robinette, counsel for the Seafarers' International Union (AFL) was told by Capt. Baxter members of the crew aboard on the occasion because they were all familiar with the ship.

"They knew their way to the exits. When they saw they could do no more, it was easier for them to find their way out."

To a question by Captain R. Mitchell, marine assessor from the Canadian Merchant Service, Capt. Baxter said more than the way the wind was blowing, the crew's quarters would not be subject to the same draft as would be the passenger accommodation.

Had to Break Glass

Stanley Ridge, district chief of the Toronto Fire Department operations room, told newspapermen on "C" deck could not get out of their cabins by the doors and had to break out the glass in the lower portion or removing screens in the upper portion.

Ridge said inspection of the ship's port side showed C deck had 46 windows, 24 by 36 inches each, the upper portion covered by 12-gauge screen, with 24 by 18 inches. The bottom half appeared stationary, all of glass.

Daniel Harper, C.S.I., dock patrol worker, said the first noticed fire and smoke from a window on the Noronic. At that time supply of bituminous stockpiled above ground. There was no hint of a return-to-work order for the 380,000 men who mine most of the industrial coal in the United States.

How much steel is available? About enough for four to six weeks.

Obituary

LATE HERBERT DIASON GODDEN

The funeral of Herbert Diason Godden, late residence with his son, Mr. Ronald H. Godden, Hillside street, was held Monday morning from the Belleville Funeral Company Funeral Home on Campbell street. The service in the chapel and at Belleville Cemetery was conducted by Rural Dean the Rev. J. Grant Sparling, Rector of Christ Church.

The bearers were Daniel Stewart, H. Robbins, R. Plumpton, C. Chesney, Don Chesney and F. Panter.

Mr. Justice Kellock said the commission would resume at 2:30 p.m. and examination of blackboard by Hull of the Noronic this afternoon. He suggested arrangements be made for the chief engineer and first mate to go along to give instructions about the ship.

For safety reasons the commission ruled the press would not be allowed to accompany it.

MADOC

New Traffic Light Placed At Intersection

Madoc — The Department of Highways and Madoc village council have installed a caution light at the intersection of No. 7 Highway and the Belleville road. The light which is a flasher type, shows amber on No. 7 and, red on the county road, better known as Durham Street.

All vehicles must stop when approaching No. 7 Highway.

The village also received a second light which they intend installing on the top of the hill on East St. Lawrence St.

Miami Herald Fire Loss Totals $750,000

Miami, Fla., Oct. 3 (AP) — A stubborn fire that broke out in the Miami Herald's storage warehouse Saturday night still smouldered today after causing damage estimated at $750,000.

Fire Chief Henry R. Chase called it "the worst fire I've ever fought and I've been in Miami ever had." He estimated it would take several days to conquer the unspectacular blaze.

James L. Knight, business manager of the Herald, estimated the loss of $750,000 in newsprint and damage to the new four-story, reinforced - concrete warehouse which adjoins the publishing plant in downtown Miami.

MARMORA

Newly-Formed Association After Short Existence

Marmora, Oct. 3.—Interests of the newly-formed Crowe Valley Lakes Association which is endeavoring to popularize this resort area, were further advanced at another fine meeting held in the Marmora Legion Hall on Friday last.

President Joseph Rard of Trout Lake was in the chair. In general discussion, it was agreed that this resort area well deserves with its lakes which have stood more in the limelight, for its possession of vocational advantages, pretty lakes and streams and other scenic glories. The resort owners personnel are ready to discuss the type of folder that would be most serviceable in advertising the district as an additional to the individual folders of resort therein.

Committee Named

A committee was appointed to get a listing of resorts and business places within the district to aid in the settlement as to what folder would be most advantageous for the district for increased business. It was also felt that the heads of the executive could be strengthened by the appointment of seven provisional directors.

Those appointed were Gordon W. Bennett, Donald F. Marett, William A. Shannon, Jesse Hart, George Hubbell, Walter Van Steenburgh and Fred Bell. A motion was carried that the Secretary of Havelock village and Belmont township be asked to follow the lead of Marmora village and Marmora and Lake township council in asking that the Department of Lands and Forests, through its conservation officers, grant the district a water authority. The next meeting was arranged for Oct. 14 in the same hall. A letter of thanks will be sent to Marmora Branch No. 237 Canadian Legion for granting the use of the hall's upper rooms for the association's meetings.

Under the supervision of Mrs. P. S. Wells an exhibit was on display in the Sinclair ticket on a 1949 Plymouth car drawn for at Trenton on Saturday announced by the Trenton Kinsmen Club for the Trenton Memorial Arena.

CAR SHIPMENTS DROP

Ottawa, Oct. 3 — (CP) — Shipments of motor vehicles from Canadian factories dropped 30 per cent during August, the Bureau of Statistics said Friday, but estimated sales were 21 per cent above August, 1948.

JOINS QUEEN'S STAFF ON PART-TIME BASIS

Kingston, Oct. 3 — (CP) — Dr. James Harrison of the Canadian Geological Survey is joining the Queen's University staff on a part-time basis, a specialist in pre-Cambrian geology he replaces Dr. E. L. Bruce, who suffered a heart attack a week ago.

Labor Confronted With Pressure Inside Party

London, Oct. 3 — (Reuters) — The Labor government, confronted with strong left - wing pressure inside the party for an immediate general election, is expected to decide shortly whether parliament may be dissolved next month or next spring. Labor party managers are carrying out a complete - wide appraisal of party reaction to the three-day emergency debate on devaluation, for which parliament was recalled last week from summer vacation.

The government decision on election timing may depend on whether local labor organizations feel the moment is ripe for an immediate appeal to the country and are satisfied that the election machine is fully tuned up.

The final recommendation to the cabinet will be made by Prime Minister Attlee, in consultation with Herbert Morrison, Deputy Prime Minister and campaign "boss."

It has been believed all along that Attlee and a considerable section of the cabinet would like to see parliament run its full course till next year.

Events of the last week have made the government problem a little easier. A January revaluation of devaluation by the Labor caucus might have necessitated a hurried call-up to summon loyalties before an election.

But the debate ended with a closing of parliamentary labor ranks, though the British Trade Union Congress and of a series of important T. U. C. discussions, due in the next few weeks.

10,000-Ton Tanker Loses Propeller 400 Miles From Shore

New York, Oct. 3 (AP)—A 10,000-ton tanker reported to have lost her propeller in the Atlantic about 400 miles east of Wilmington, N.C. and a tug boat steamed there to her aid from Baltimore, the Coast Guard reported today.

The tanker Clarke's Wharf, operated by the Trinidad Corporation, New York, was en route from Aruba, Netherlands West Indies, to Boston.

VISITING U. S. HOUSEWIVES WON RADIO AWARDS

Toronto, Oct. 3 — (CP) — Two United States housewives visiting Ontario during the week found their neighborliness pays off. Mrs. Richard Hildreth, 33, and Mrs. Mark Fontana, 47, won a Good Neighbor contest run by a radio station in Worcester, Mass., and the trip to Ontario was their prize. Their opinion of Canadians: "You're very neighborly."

Montrealer, Taxi Driver and Woman Being Questioned

Quebec, Oct. 3 (CP)—Provincial police today continued their investigation into an alleged bomb plot which resulted in the death of persons aboard a Canadian Pacific Airlines DC-3 at nearby Sault Au Cochon Oct. 1.

Although official information was unavailable because of a news blackout imposed by the Attorney - General's Department last week, it was reliably learned that police during the week-end questioned a Montrealer, his taxi driver and taxi driver, who has not yet figured in the case.

Already charged with murder is J. Arthur Guay, 51-year-old Quebec jeweller who survived the act of murdering his young wife, Rita Morel, 23, and a fellow passenger.

Guay's preliminary hearing is set for Oct. 4.

Police have questioned Governor Rossi, 47-year-old paralytic, said to be a wizard in making delicate mechanisms. A high city police officer has said that Ruest "unknowingly" made "a tiny mechanical part" of the bomb. The officer said Ruest did not know what he was making the part for.

Ruest's sister, 41-year-old Mrs. Arthur Pitrel, is the woman whose alleged attempted suicide Sept. 30 led to Guay's arrest.

CHEMISTRY SET EXPLODES

Hamilton, Oct. 3 (CP) — A chemistry set explosion sent two boys to hospital with glass cuts during the week-end. Police said Paul Weszely, 14, and Jerome Travers, 13, had been experimenting with magnesium sulphate at Weszely's home. Neither was seriously hurt.

FUND TOPS OBJECTIVE

Toronto, Oct. 3 — (CP) — Trustees of a fund for the widow and child of Alfred Leyna, shot dead this summer attempting to stop a fleeing bandit in downtown Toronto, report the fund has topped its objective of $20,000.

RUSSIA BREAKS

Tension Mounting

(Reports from inside Yugoslavia say tension is mounting among the people, as Tito's cold war with the Russian-led Cominform rivalled its toughest stage yet. There were unconfirmed reports in Belgrade that Tito was shifting his troops from western Yugoslavia to the eastern borders facing Hungary and Romania.

(Associated Press Correspondent Alex. H. Singleton reported, however, there appears to be no fear in Belgrade that actual war is imminent.

Any such trouble realize, nevertheless, that the Soviet satellites are united in a diplomatic-economic effort to oust Tito's regime.)

Russia's action on China came while Eastern Europe was observing International Press Day.

Chinese Charge D'Affaires Tien Tsing said he had transmitted Gromyko's statement to Canton.

"In the meantime," he said, "we are staying here awaiting instructions".

Quotes Russian Note

"The Soviet government considers altogether worthless attempts of the governments of the United States, Britain and France to justify their actions connected with the creation of a separate German government in Bonn as being in the interests of the German people."

Having set up a separate state for western Germany, the three powers have thereby also violated decisions adopted in June of this year at the Moscow meeting of the Foreign Ministers Council. . "

At the Paris session the western Allies stood firmly behind their previous plans to set up a West German government. Only limited agreement was reached on economic issues. The council adjourned June 20.

HYACINTH LADY DERBY

Dutch hyacinths take an important part in the colour scheme of the spring garden. They are hybrids from the Mediterranean area, and as formal bedding plants, have been widely used since the 18th century. They should be planted in groups in front of the shrubbery border, or among perennials. They grow about twelve inches high, and provide a sense of fragrant bloom.

Set the bulbs in well-enriched, sandy soil. Do not allow manure to contact the roots. Hyacinths require a light covering of straw or leaves before the ground freezes. Plant four to five inches deep, and six inches apart. For garden use the second size bulbs are recommended—as the flowers from the larger bulbs are so big that a strong wind will blow them down. Single hyacinths are more robust than double types.

PRESENTATION OF MEMORIAL GATES

Britain, Australia and New Zealand have in the presentation of Memorial Gates to Canada and the R.C.A.F. at Trenton demonstrated how great was the might of British Empire Air Training Plan and how deep a sense of gratitude the Motherland and the Dominions feel to the R. C. A. F. and Canada for the part the latter were privileged to play in the Second World War. The gates are a memorial which is an honor the Canadian people and the R.C.A.F. profoundly appreciate. They are at the same time a memorial to the airmen who had no small part in destroying the power of the enemy.

The Empire Air Training Plan was an inspiration which brought to great fruition the united efforts of the British peoples. To Canada had fallen the honor of becoming the training ground of this mightiest air effort put forth in the history of the world.

The presentation and dedication brought to the Dominion and the Trenton station official representatives of the Governments and Air Forces of the Allied nations and it was a vast throng of citizens.

These gates are a memorial of the youth of Britain, Canada, Australia and New Zealand who were trained in Canada and to those who gave their lives that freedom might not pass from the earth. In the words of Canada's Prime Minister the Right Hon. Louis St. Laurent, "the gates will remind us of the sacrifices which gave their lives so that we might live in freedom. They will also stand as an enduring symbol of the unity of spirit among the peoples of the British Commonwealth." And he noted, "they will also stand as a reminder to those, in the world today, who harbor dangerous designs."

The Prime Minister paid tribute to the broad conception which the British Empire Training Plan carried out. "We are dedicating an enduring monument to the vision of those who conceived the Air Training Plan, to the energy of those who organized it and to the trained airmen from the schools who made it work victory in the air."

The vastness of the plan was sketched by the Rt. Hon. Arthur Henderson, Secretary of State for Air who said that over 130,000 aircrew were trained under this great plan.

The honor paid Canada by this gesture of Britain and the two members of the Commonwealth sinks deep into the hearts of the people of Canada whose service to the great cause it was to be the training ground of so many men who served the United Nations so well. The Dominion gratefully presented silver plaques to the representatives of the air forces of the Motherland, Australia and New Zealand.

The ceremonies of this time recall the achievements of the United Nations, banded together in a chain that made victory inevitable and testify to the unity of spirit of the British peoples in the cause of maintenance of freedom. Their share in the Allied victory couldn't fail to impress the world.

SIMPLE LIFE

Whether the simple life is possible or only unattainable goal remains a matter of opinion. Thoreau, with his motto of "Simplify, simplify," was really a fairly complicated person. He may be admired for his acceptance of a jail sentence in lieu of paying a tax that he considered unjust, but the action was not consistent with his creed of simplicity. Thoreau's theoretical simplicity caused more trouble to himself and others than living an ordinary life could ever have brought about. The simple lives of the Doukhobors, for whose migration to Canada he was partly responsible, have not brought complete peace of mind either to themselves or their neighbors.

The simple life seems, on analysis, to be that which is lived in familiar surroundings. The value of holidays is to provide a contrast. Farmers and woodsmen should take their recreation in the city, returning to their accustomed work with a heightened appreciation of those rural virtues that the city man appreciates best from a distance. To the city man, after his annual bout with Nature, and even more to the city woman, the simple life exists in the world of washing machines, gas stoves, unlimited hot water and automatic heat and refrigeration.—The Printed Word.

It is necessary to hope, though hope should always be deluded; for hope itself is happiness, and its frustrations, however frequent, are yet less dreadful than its extinction. —Johnson.

I have a knack of hoping, which is as good as an estate in reversion, if one can keep from the tendency of turning it into certainty, which may spoil all.—George Eliot.

LOST ART

Time was to shop I used to go,
I knew the grocer's stock by heart.
The prices, too, I used to know,
But stores and I have drawn apart.

I know the choicest cuts of...
What brands of bread, as well ...
The names of stocks I could ...
Of ...
... them all to ...

But now, I pass the grocer's by
And never step inside his door,
A stranger to the clerks am I,
They do not know me any more.

All that I learned is now forgot,
The need to know such things has gone,
So shopping now? I'd rather not.
I have no heart to go.

THE PACKSACK

OF GREGORY CLARK

One of the reasons for the hapless attitude often adopted by public opinion towards the young rowdies, teen-age toughs and zoot suiters, may lie in a remark I heard from a fairly intelligent woman.

"We must remember," she said, tenderly, "that it is exactly these same lads who will be asked to rely in case of another war. After all, they are the fighting type."

Nothing could be farther from the truth. Anybody who knows anything about war can tell you that the time the real shooting starts in a war, all these irresponsible characters are popular as the climax all the way from the training camps in Canada right up to the base depots back of the reserve units. To think of these zoot suiters as the makings of fighting men is positively absurd. Part of their character, as demonstrated by their defiance of ridicule is always attacking smaller numbers, and generally using knuckle dusters, lead pipe and other weapons of fellow bullyboys, not conservative in all costs. Any time it is no good in a fighting man. Another characteristic of the teen-age rowdy is lying. But most sinister of all his characteristics is total incapacity for discipline, internal or external.

Thus, when war comes, these hopeless nuisances join up, for the glory of the uniform. And from there on, their story is in red ink in their pay books and unit conduct sheets. Not one in fifty of them amounts to anything as a fighting man.

Of course, they are loud, assertive, braggart and often picturesque. But they are expert at being in the clink at exactly the moment the convoy starts for the enemy beach, or the unit begins the fatal march up the line. A sentimental woman might suppose that our commando units were composed of juvenile boys. The fact is, our greatest fighting men, on the sea, land, and in the air were close mouthed, relaxed, modest, controlled and wholly decent men.

MOLES

In a recent letter a young woman asked: "What is the best way to have moles removed? I have a flat brown mole, and I have heard that there is danger of getting cancer when they are removed. I am eighteen years old and am undecided as to whether I should have them removed or not."

It would be a mistake for me to make a blanket statement regarding this problem without knowing more about this girl's case and without presenting some of the modern methods.

The average person has at least several pigmented moles. They may be level with the surface of the skin or markedly raised; they may be rounded or have broad surfaces and narrow necks (the so-called pedunculated nevus or mole); and they may be flesh colored, gray, brown, or black. Their surface is sometimes covered by coarse black hair, which when occurring on the face detracts unsightly to their owners of the female clan. They occur any place on the body, most frequently on the face, neck, and back. As you can see, these moles (or pigments) are a nuisance to a highly civilized family.

Which moles should be removed, and how should they be eradicated? Malignant or cancerous changes are the chief source of concern. For a mole to become a malignant melanoma is a very common occurrence but a dangerous one. The malignant melanoma is fatal in most instances, spreads rapidly, and is usually fatal. When ma-

Probably it is true that the average American is fed up to the neck with the constant barrage of news about the world war. He has been bombarded with it day and night ever since the end of the world conflict, and it certainly frays the nerves.

No Escape

Of course, the answer is that most of the affairs of mankind today are interlocked with developments of the world war. The ramifications even affect the individual pocketbook through taxation, and thus it becomes a constant intruder in the home. The problem of whether Bill can get a job or go to college probably hinges on it. So does the question of whether there can be roast beef on our table.

Sure we're fed up with all this bickering and the consequent drain on our resources. But we're not going to let ourselves develop one-track minds over it. It's no good sticking our fingers in our fingernails and brooding.

Devaluation and other problems that affect the purse of Canada's housewives are the concern of Mrs. F. E. Wright, of Port Credit, Ont., recently-elected president of the Canadian Consumer Association. She also has an administration problem—enlisting membership in the association, now down to 3,000 from a peak of 22,500 a year ago.

lignant "degeneration", as we call the cancerous change, takes place, it is because of repeated or constant irritation and injury to the mole. This is the case when the mole is found on the foot (especially the sole, with irritation from shoes), the face (injury from shaving) or the neck (irritation by stiff collars). Another indication for removal is when the mole is seen to be increasing in size or increasing in pigmentation to a dark blue-black appearance. Of course, your physician should make the final decision about treatment.

When moles are removed because of the chance of malignant degeneration, surgery is the answer, with wide excision to be sure to get all of the nevus cells. You will find that some doctors agree that incomplete eradication of these moles is hazardous, for it completely increases the chance for cancer to gain its hold.

One may want exposed moles removed for cosmetic reasons. Many doctors will take them off with electro-cautery, others with carbon dioxide snow, and others by surgery. Some of the flat, benign, innocent looking pigmental nevi, may be removed by electrolysis treatment. But in all instances let your doctor make the choice.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

Hair on Legs

I am 11 years old, one of five children. I'm in the junior column daily. Please advise me how to remove the hair from my legs. Madeline (M.)

Answer—I advise you not to remove the hair from your legs. I follow this advice, by the time you are seventeen the hair will grow fine and your skin will probably be unnoticeable. Every girl's skin is covered with a growth of fine hair or down, noticeable only on close scrutiny.

Twenty Pounds

I am grateful for your suggestions for reducing. I am a little too slender. I lost about twenty pounds. Now I look human instead of elephantine. Thank you, sir. (P. E.)

Answer—You do not mention how long it took you to put on twenty pounds. Not less than four or five months, I hope. Trouble with people who want to "put on a diet" is they expect to reduce by two o'clock sharp. Rapid reducing effects is rarely realized—and their failure makes them difficult to understand. Use your head, your head and corrigible only under the influence of discipline. People seeking a magic reducing drug or diet will not find it here. On the other hand, I think I have enough sense to understand that it takes at least half as long to get rid of a pound as it requires the slacker flesh, send twenty-five cents and stamped self-addressed envelope for booklet Rules for Reducing.

Our Old Friend A. J. C.

I want to tell you I have been cured of a bad case of arthritis by supplementing my diet with calcium and vitamin D as you advised in your column. Colds and Rheumatic. My hands were almost useless. Now I do all my work, including sewing. I am eternally thankful, (Mrs. M. L. Otto.)

Answer — Maybe we should credit our friend A. J. C. Coincidence with an assist. The pamphlet is available on request and stamped self addressed envelope.

PEACE CAN MISCARRY

Just before his death in 1924, Woodrow Wilson said to Lord Lothian, "The great tragedy of the last six years is that I, and the American failure to meet world responsibilities means that the job will have to be done over again in twenty years, and at ten times the cost."

What must have been his feelings as Lord Lothian's prophecy crushed to the earth as they were. He went to Europe shortly after the signing of the armistice and was received as few men have been in history. His fourteen points were discussed on the steppes of Russia, in the South Sea Islands, the jungles of Africa as eagerly as they were discussed on the boulevards of Paris. Washington. It seemed as if God's great servant destined to lead mankind into ageless peace had put in his appearance.

Then came party back-biting, the unwise diplomacy and the emergency at the council table of men who differed on revenge and above all wanted to see the old status re-established which would put power into their hands and into the hands of men of their class. Poor, broken Woodrow Wilson, in the early twenties saying a few halting words over the radio a short time before his death in a sounding sense like a ghost than a human — this was what was left of the great peacemaker after he had been beaten by about by the unprincipled diplomats of Europe that understood

Americans Deeply Interested in World Affairs

One of the encouraging signs of the harassed times is the great number of people who go to bed and all ages whom one sees occupied about the movie pointers on a pleasant afternoon. Maybe this imaginative working overtime, but that's the way it strikes me.

"And what," demands the lady from Texas, "do you find encouraging in that?" Well, consider about Russia having the atomic bomb, I suppose — or about Mussolini and his troubles with the Kremlin — or about the cold war.

Y'won't shoot to hit anything," said the lad.

Pierre, who had been drinking from the spring overheard the conversation. Addressing himself to the lad, he said, "There will be no more women's talk. You will become a man and a hunter like your father. Tomorrow we go to the woods, but your first lesson will be to watch. Take your rifle and shoot the fawn."

Terrified, the boy nodded and went to the barn. He prodded the fawn with a stick and tried to frighten it into the forest, but the pet, thinking it was a new game, leaped playful leaps and then frisked back for more sport. Finally, the boy placed the medallion of St. Francis around the fawn's neck. It needed divine protection more than he.

Half an hour later, Pierre, back on the porch, was roused from his nap by a shot and walked out to the barn, certain that the boy, like a true hunter, had obeyed his order. Instead, on the earth floor he found the lad's body, blood oozing through the shirt, while the fawn, the medallion dangling from its neck, stood near by.

Grasping Pierre picked up the rifle and pumped the remaining bullets into the animal's heart. Then he took the medallion from the carcass.

Next day the boy was buried with the medallion of St. Francis again around his neck, and after the ceremony Emilie went back to her own village.

PITCHING HORSESHOES

By Billy Rose

From the province of Manitoba in Canada comes the fairy tale of Pierre Montevilain, the trapper. Their acceptance or rejection of it will depend on the kind of pixies under your hat . . .

For nearly 50 years, a man with the strength of a caribou, lived in almost splendor alone in a chateau overlooking Lake Winnipeg. Only two things interested him—hunting and horseshoeing, and the measure of the man can be taken by the company he kept with the potency than the taste of his liquor, and cared little what it was he shot at so long as it was the kill.

When he was forty, he married Emilie d'Arbesina, a girl of good family from the Winnipegosis district, and for a honeymoon gift him with a son a year later he started his life. Hudson Bay rum and predicted that he, too, would some day be a great hunter.

His wife, however, hated the continual killing, and as the child grew older she was happy that he showed no inclination for the hunt. She encourage his love of wild life, she gave him a silver medallion of St. Francis of Assisi, patron saint of birds and beasts, and hung it around his neck on a thin gold chain. She told him he said that when people die their souls enter the bodies of things, sometimes an animal," she told him.

A few months before the boy's ninth birthday, his father found a new-born fawn in the forest and presented it to his son. The boy named it Francois, bottle-fed it until the shakiness went out of its legs, and trained it until it followed him like a puppy.

On his birthday a few weeks later, Pierre gave his son another present, a specially-constructed rifle, circumscribed with love, to carry but in all other respects an efficient instrument of destruction.

"Tomorrow," he said, "we will go hunting."

The youngster said nothing, but later said his mother what he should do.

"You must go with your father," said Emilie.

"You told me that when people die their souls go into animals," said the boy. "Wouldn't it be like killing a person"

"Your grandpa thinks different-

Well, Madam, I reckon they're reeding about those things. You have to dig through such news in order to get the straight idea these days. But their big interest in the world is the interest in events in the World Series. And that's the way it should be.

Interest in the lighter things of life doesn't mean there is no interest in the serious problems. Even the hangman plays checkers when he's off duty.

There are no people on earth more deeply interested in world affairs than Americans, or who are better informed.

SEE CEDARGRAINS FROM SEA TO SEA

Architects, builders and owners all find Sidings Shingles so popular. First, they're PERMANENT. Second, they're beautiful and cement they're durable as stone — absolutely fireproof, weatherproof, and rot-proof. Second, they're BEAUTIFUL. Cedargrains and Rehab Shingles like fine weathered wood. In addition, they're thick, and produce a distinctive shadow line that adds character to your home.

U. N. AIDS INDIAN SOCIAL PLAN

One concrete evidence of the United Nations co-operation is the program now taking shape in India. The Indian government, with the assistance of the U.N., is recruiting and training large numbers of social workers to introduce sanitation and health education in the Dominion's superstition-ridden villages. Films, posters, radio and loudspeakers are helping the U.N. trained social worker in her efforts. Here one of India's new apostles of knowledge urges an Indian village woman to adopt the new habits of health and cleanliness.—Central Press Canadian.

WEDDINGS

HAGGERTY—SARLES'

St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Stirling, was the scene of a pretty wedding on Saturday, Sept. 30, at 2 p.m., when Barbara Dawn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Sarles, Stirling, became the bride of Jack Reginald Haggerty, son of Mrs. W. J. Haggerty, of Stirling, and the late Mr. Haggerty. The double ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. W. V. Walker, pastor of the church. The church was tastefully decorated with ferns and Fall flowers.

Mrs. R. Williams rendered the wedding music and Mr. Bill Reynolds was soloist and sang "O Promise Me" before the ceremony and "The Lord's Prayer" during the signing of the register.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was radiant in her bridal gown of white slipper satin, with sweetheart neckline, tight fitting bodice, full skirt with inserts of Chantilly lace, long bodice to bemline, and long sleeves ending in lily points at the wrists. Her floor length veil fell from a Juliet headdress and she carried red roses.

Miss Dora Rodgers was the bride's only attendant, and was lovely in pale blue taffeta, featuring Peter Pan collar and back yoke treatment, with full bell dress, fingertip veil and mittens. She carried a nosegay of white baby 'mums, pink rosebuds and pale pink carnations, tied with yellow satin ribbon.

Mr. Frank Haggerty was groomsman, while Mr. Elwood Haggerty and Mr. Ross Sarles, both Reid, of Madoc, were ushers.

About fifty guests attended the reception at the home of the bride's parents. The bride's mother received the guests wearing wine colored tissue faille with navy accessories, and corsage of cream roses. The groom's mother assisted in receiving, and wore black crepe with lace trim with a corsage of pink roses.

Those who served were Mrs. Grant Stapley, Mrs. Clifford Heath, Miss Dawn Sarles, assisted by Mrs. Louis Rodgers and Mrs. V. Heath.

Mr. and Mrs. Haggerty will reside in Stirling.

Out-of-town guests were present from Madoc, Peterborough, Campbellford, Frankford, Belleville and Foxboro.

PEETS—BATCHELOR

Before a lovely background of yellow chrysanthemums and Sweetheart roses, the Church of St. Michael and All Angels, Belleville, on Saturday, Oct. 1, at 10 a.m., Rev. H. Bewly, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Batchelor, Belleville, became the bride of John R. Peets of Belleville, son of Mrs. M. E. Peets, and the late D. A. Peets. The Right Rev. Monsignor J. F. Nicholson officiated. The church was decorated with yellow chrysanthemums and Sweetheart roses.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was radiant in her bridal gown of pale blue taffeta with navy accessories. She carried an arm bouquet of pink roses.

Miss Nancy Boteil, of Toronto, was the bride's attendant, wearing a gown of shell pink taffeta. She carried a nosegay of white baby 'mums and pink roses.

Mr. Jesse E. Peets, Gordon Street, Belleville, was groomsman and Mr. Albert C. Bunton, Belleville and Mr. Francis A. Peets, of Toronto, were ushers.

The reception was held at the Golden Acres Inn, where the bride's mother, wearing a navy blue dress given with pink accessories, and corsage of pink carnations, assisted by the bride's groom's mother in black with powder blue accessories and corsage of pink carnations, received the guests.

For her wedding trip to Toronto, Niagara Falls, and Lindsay, the bride chose a navy blue gabardine suit with rose lapels and corsage of matching roses. The young couple will reside in Belleville upon their return.

Out-of-town guests included: Mrs. M. E. Peets, Mr. David Peets, Mr. Francis A. Peets, Miss Doris Peets, Miss Annie Peets, Miss Nancy Boteil, Mr. and Mr. John McDonald and Mr. Jack Batchelor, all of Toronto.

PHIPPEN—KEELER

St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Belleville, was the setting on Saturday, Oct. 1st, at 3 p.m., of a lovely wedding when Joan Yvonne Keeler, daughter of Lieutenant- Colonel and Mrs. Eric G. Keeler, Belleville, became the bride of William Gordon Phippen, R.R. 3, King, Ont., son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Phippen. The Rev. J. G. Hornby officiated, with a background of tall standards of white and yellow chrysanthemums banked with red roses.

Mr. C. E. Templer, organist of the church, rendered the wedding music and Mr. Alec Cunningham, soloist, sang before the ceremony, "The Lord's Prayer" and during the signing of the register, "I'll Walk Beside You".

The bride, given in marriage by her father was charmingly gowned in white Chantilly lace over white taffeta, featuring a long fan-shaped train, long tight sleeves, high neckline with small rolled collar. She wore a fingertip veil of tulle illusion caught at the sides with lace rosebuds, and carried a cascade bouquet of white roses and white orchids.

Miss Elizabeth Keeler, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. Miss Mary Flynn, of Belleville, Miss Barbara Dawson and Miss Nancy Derry, both of Toronto, were bridesmaids. All were similar dresses of sea coral taffeta faille with very full skirts pleated into the tight bodice at the back. The necklines were in Queen Ann style and the sleeves short and puffed. Poke hats of matching material and matching muffs, covered with white roses and baby blue 'mums, completed their ensembles.

Mr. John Barclay, of Toronto, was groomsman, and the ushers were Mr. Peter Phippen, brother of the bridegroom, Mr. Liam O'Grady, home of Mrs. Lloyd and Mr. Joseph Brackley, all of Toronto.

The bride's mother, gowned in hyacinth blue with deep maroon accessories, and corsage of sheba roses, received the guests at the Moodie Cottage where the reception was held. She was assisted by the bridegroom's mother, who wore a gown of navy blue with matching accessories, and corsage of white gardenias.

Mr. and Mrs. Haggerty will reside in Belleville.

Out-of-town guests were present from Madoc, Peterborough, Campbellford, Frankford, Belleville and Foxboro.

Women's Activities

NORTHPORT W. A.

The September meeting of the Northport W.A. was held recently at the home of Mrs. Ken Needham, with 25 members and visitors present. Miss Ruth Wallbridge conducted the worship service and opened the meeting. The Scripture lesson was read by Mrs. Needham, followed by prayer by the pastor, Mr. C. Duquette.

Readings were given by Mrs. Duquette, Mrs. Donald Kotchepaw and Mrs. G. Hough. Mrs. C. Read contributed a lovely vocal solo.

The president, Mrs. H. German took charge of the business period and several things were discussed and planned. One important thing was the cleaning of the church and W.A. hall. It was decided to have an all day bee on Thursday, October 5th. Everyone to come and bring a basket and have a pot luck dinner in the hall. Thanksgiving service will be on Sunday, October 8th. Special music is being prepared.

After the meeting closed, the hostess, assisted by Mrs. Howard Mills, Mrs. F. Fulver, Mrs. Gerald and Mrs. Greenwood served delicious refreshments.

All appreciate Mrs. Needham's kind hospitality and were pleased to welcome Mrs. Stackhouse and Mrs. Hough as guests and hope they will continue to be with the W.A. in the work.

ST. PAUL'S W.A.

Marmora. — The September meeting of St. Paul's W.A., was held at the home of Mrs. John R. Reynolds on Thursday evening. The President, Mrs. Edward Hewitt, was in the chair, and there was a good attendance of members. Mrs. Jan J. M. Brownlie opened the meeting.

The treasurer's report, given by Mrs. J. V. Hicks revealed that the pledge had been met in full. The Dorcas secretary, Mrs. J. R. Reynolds, reported that the bale had been sent to the Indian School and that there had been a surplus of garments asked for.

Plans were made for the attendance of the branch at the Hastings Deanery annual meeting in Bancroft, on Oct. 12.

Rural Dean Brownlie led in the study of the Study Book "Dawn over Japan". Adding to the interest of this study was the reading by Mrs. - Mabel Brady of a letter recently received by a parishioner from Miss Celia Benns, Reg.N., missionary nurse, at New Life Sanitarium Obuse, Japan, former resident of Trenton and Peterborough.

The next meeting on Oct. 27, will be held at the home of Mrs. J. W. Hickey.

The meeting closed after which refreshments were served by the hostess.

STIRLING

Recent Bride Honored Prior to Marriage

Stirling—An enjoyable evening was spent recently when about thirty girl friends gathered at the home of Mrs. Russell Woodbeck to honor Miss Barbara Sarles, a bride of the month. The first part of the evening was spent playing cards, after which the bride was invited to a chair prettily decorated with white and pink streamers. An address was read by Mrs. Doug. Campbell and she was presented with a table lamp, end table and pillows.

While Barbara was voicing her appreciation, balloons hanging from the ceiling broke, showering her with confetti.

On Tuesday evening, Sept. 30, at the home of Mrs. Clifford Heath, Mrs. Heath and Mrs. Grant Stapley were joint hostesses at a cup and saucer shower in honor of Barbara Sarles (Mrs. Jack Haggerty), a bride of last Saturday.

About twenty-eight ladies were present. Auction bridge was played, entertained at the piano and the evening was spent in playing games and various contests. After this, the bride-to-be was given a seat of honor and an appropriate address was read and the presentation of the gifts made. Barbara very graciously thanked the ladies for their gifts and invited them all to come and visit her in her new home.

Dainty refreshments were then served and a very enjoyable evening came to a close.

European Refugees Tough, Hardy Lot

Vancouver, (CP) — Refugees are a tough, hardy lot representing every skill and calling, says Marjorie Bradford, chief of the division of voluntary societies of the United Nations International Relief Organization.

A graduate of University of Alberta and former director of the Vancouver Welfare Council, Miss Bradford is returning to Geneva after a visit with her mother here. She has been with I.R.O. since 1947.

In an interview she told of the vast problem involved in repatriate millions of refugees to their own countries and resettle thousands more in new lands.

"These refugees represent every station of life," she said. "It would be a similar problem if this whole city were suddenly uprooted and the people thrown together into one big melting pot for resettlement.

"By and large, these are young, healthy people. They've had all the hardships."

Of these receiving aid, Miss Bradford said, 40 per cent are men, 33 per cent women and the more than half are between 20, members of families and 17. and 60 years old."

Those with handicaps were hardest to resettle. Handicaps were of varied types—health, age, personal or occupational difficulties or an uneconomical family—one too large to support itself.

Women's Institute

FOXBORO W.I.

The regular monthly meeting of Foxboro W.I., was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. P. Kilpatrick on Tuesday, Sept. 19.

The president, Mrs. Shorey was in charge. There were 34 member present and three guests.

Mrs. W. Simmons introduced Mr. T. Timmins, who spoke to the gathering in the interest of the Canadian National Institute for the Blind which is Dominion wide organization interested in every phase of blind welfare work with two main objects, to assist blind people in every possible way.

Mr. Timmins explained his organization sends teachers to the home of blind people, who desire to learn reading, typing, knitting, or in the case of people whose sight has failed, how to carry on many of the household tasks which they have been accustomed.

Books for Blind

Books in Braille are available without charge to aid the blind people and talking books which are recorded on gramophone disks are loaned to any blind person possessing a talking book machine, but these machines are scare because of lack of funds. "If we wish to purchase any product made by the blind in their factories we must be sure it is clearly marked "Blindcraft Product" and accept no substitutes."

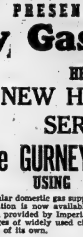
After Mr. Timmins' address several of the ladies volunteered to canvass the district for donations.

The convener for Agriculture, Mrs. F. Tummon, introduced the next speaker, Mr. S. Homan, who outlined the aims of the Federation of Agriculture, which are to further and protect the interests of the farmers in all parliament buildings.

After the meeting was adjourned refreshments were served by the committee in charge.

High Heels Harmful Women Won't Change

London, (CP) — A London surgeon has plenty to say about women's high heels—none of it good.



Writing in the medical publication, Practitioner, Dr. Norman C. Lake, senior surgeon of Charing Cross hospital, warned that from a medical point of view high heels were all wrong and could, in time, do harm. But he held little hope women would depart from "the fashion" because of that.

The high heels caused thinning of the natural protection under the forefoot bones, caused calluses and a tendency to 'turn' the ankle. But women appeared unable to resist their, "tapering effect", the camouflaging of toe and shape of the feet and the effect of greater height.

"Apart from women, the fashion's sake (and women readily conform to the herd instinct in this respect) these are probably the main reasons which influence the choice of high heels," Dr. Lake wrote.

But, unless "fashion can be made subservient to anatomical and physiological demands," there was little hope women could be persuaded that they should not wear high heels.

GOOD MANNERS

MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

When both sets of parents come to dine

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My husband and I were married last June, have lots moved into our new home, and as soon as we are settled, are going to invite his mother and father and my mother and father to midday dinner on a Sunday. Which mother and father should be given the places of honor at the table . . . or doesn't it matter? What seating-arrangement would you suggest?

Martha B.

Your husband should seat your mother at his right, and his own mother at his left. If there are other guests (more than the four you mention), your husband's father could be seated at your right, your own father at your left. But with only six at the table, and so as not to seat husband and wife together, this order of the fathers would be reversed, your father at your right, your husband's father at your left.

Old Clothes Dealers Sign of Hard Times

Johannesburg, (CP)—The high cost of living and the shortage of money is having its effect on some of Johannesburg's better class families, many of whom no longer turn up their noses at the thought of selling their finery to second-hand clothes dealers.

Many of South Africa's fashionably dressed women are becoming regular visitors to the dealers, according to one, who says it is entirely a sign of the times.

"Women who formerly would have been terribly embarrassed to sell discarded clothing, now regularly look for a return on their clothes," he said. "It is partly a form of trade-in, rather like dealing with an old car, and partly a more realistic approach to life."

Servants and charities, who used to receive all discarded clothing, are mainly affected by this new vogue.

Gurney Gas Ranges

HERE'S A NEW HOUSEHOLD SERVICE

The GURNEY GAS RANGE USING ESSOTANE

A regular domestic gas supply for cooking, water heating and refrigeration is now available for homes in this area. The new gas, provided by Imperial Oil Limited, brings you all the advantages of widely used city gas plus several exclusive advantages of its own.

—Maximum heat the moment you turn the switch.
—Essotane is hotter, safer, cleaner.

The stove you have been waiting for—four burners, automatic oven, and small utility drawers. That, oh so handy utility top. (As illustrated) 185.00

Every Home Can Now Be Equipped With Its Own Domestic Gas Supply

For an average-size family which uses gas for cooking only, one cylinder of Essotane will last two and a half to three months. It depends on your cooking needs. So that you may order Essotane deliveries only as needed, there is a gauge attached to the cylinders outside your home. When the first cylinder is empty the needle on the gauge flicks over to the section marked "reserve". This is your signal to order Essotane using the "automatic" re-order card. As you use more Essotane the cost per cylinder is reduced.

HOUSEWIVES WILL TELL YOU

That Gurney Gas Ranges have always been noted for their sound construction and modern improvements — built to "planned kitchen" designs they are unequalled in design, utility and performance. Size and price range to fit every need. Note the features

—Oven venting in the back-guard which does away with unsightly fume pipes.
—Attractive chromium hardware and exterior finished in attractive glistening white porcelain enamel makes these ranges an asset to any kitchen.

MARMORA

District Chamber of Commerce Addressed by Ottawa Trade Sec.

Marmora.—The most suspicious gathering in the history of the Marmora District Chamber of Commerce, now in its second year, was that held in the Town Hall on Wednesday evening, in observance of Ladies' Night.

Members and their wives, supplemented by visitors of both sexes, to the number of approximately 100 sat down to a sumptuous repast served by Marmora Women's Institute and latter listened to an impressive address by William J. Cairns, secretary of the Ottawa Board of Trade, who deputized for Mr. Brand, secretary to the High Commissioner of the Union of South Africa to Canada.

The speaker stressed the importance of all getting together in each community for the common interest. He said that a sign he had seen displayed in a town he had visited "Team work done here" was worthy of adoption in each community. "To you as a citizen of Marmora, it is the best town", he pointed out.

He felt that we are losing the true meaning of neighbors and friends, largely in city life. He counselled the business men present to build up a good reputation. "Each one", he said, "should be concerned about the fellow doing business beside himself, other than in a competitive way". "In the war period we felt and talked that God was on the side of democracy. The time has come to put democracy on the side of God".

The speaker was introduced by the Rev. E. M. Cadigan, of Ottawa, former pastor of St. Andrew's United Church, Marmora, and thanked by C. R. White, more, who also extended thanks to the Women's Institute for their excellent catering.

Ladies Welcomed

Alex Fraser, president of the Chamber of Commerce, in his remarks as toastmaster, cordially welcomed the ladies and those present, who were newcomers to the district.

The toast to "The ladies" was ably handled by Bernard W. Hughes and well responded to by Mrs. J. M. Brownlie.

Diversion Created

Diversion was created in the passing of concealed prizes to five persons present, who were not aware that they had undergone judging for some characteristic in which they excelled. The entertainment consisted of the showing of two colored sound films of South Africa through the courtesy of that country's high commissioner to Canada. One depicted the gold smelting at Johannesburg. This was followed by bridge and euchre tournaments in which prize winners were, Bridge, Mrs. C. R. Whittemore and Ralph E. Neal; euchre, Mrs. Michael Shannon and Carl Heath.

Too Many Road Hogs For 90-Year-Old

Derby, England, Oct. 1 (AP) —George Wood, 90, said today he is giving up driving his car after 40 years of it.

"Too many road hogs," he explained.

SEVENTEEN KILLED

Nearly a mile of the railroad right of way was strewn with bodies and one was wedged against the Diesel locomotive.

He counted 12 bodies in the darkness. Ontario is about 30 miles east of Los Angeles.

The train was running in the middle, police reported.

The victim had been on a beer party. The train hit them some 45 miles from home.

A State highway 'patrolman, Williams Seala, said everyone in the bus was either killed or injured and that at least five of the dead are women. He said none of the injured he talked to knew of the impending crash.

Seala said one passenger heard a yell: "Here comes a train!"

Acetylene torches were being used to cut one body out of the bus.

Eye witness, O. K. Englund, La Crescenta, Calif., said he was driving on U.S. Highway 60, paralleling the railroad when:

"I saw the train coming. All of a sudden rocks began hitting my windshield and then I drove into a big cloud of dust.

"I pulled up and stopped. A fellow was staggering around yelling 'My arm, my arm!' he was bleeding.

Bodies Scattered Everywhere

"I saw one man lying against a post, bones sticking out from his body. Two feet away a man and a girl were lying side by side.

"I went up a little further and found a girl sitting up. 'It hurt us,' she said. 'Where's my twin sister?' I led her to the other girl, and she said 'That's my sister,' and started to cry.

"I went on down the track. A fellow was lying half buried in the sand. I pulled him out, but he wasn't breathing. I saw pieces of truck scattered around, none of them so big you couldn't lift them. There were all over of bodies scattered everywhere. A fellow had his nose and mouth in a pool of blood and I moved his head so he could breath. A little ways off, there was a girl lying by the tracks. Half her head was gone.

"There was another girl nearby and she was naked from the waist up. Blood was all over her. I heard a fellow hollering for help in the distance. There was another man half buried in the sand and I helped pull him out. Then the ambulances began coming.

2ND THURLOW

FIND DOPE, ARSENAL AT HIS HOME

Johnny Young, described by police as the ruler of the Montreal underworld and member of the notorious Perreault gang, was remanded in a Montreal court this week until Oct. 4 on charges of conspiracy to sell, deliver, transport and possess narcotics. In Young's apartment police say they found 80 ounces of heroin, with a street selling value of $160,000 and an arsenal of weapons including a machine-gun. Facing a maximum sentence of 21 years on the drug counts, Young also faces charges as accessory after the fact in the Perreault gang-slaying of two policemen a year ago. Two members of the gang have already been hanged for the murders.—Central Press Canadian.

ABDUCTED BABE SAFE

Safe again in her mother's arms, is four-month-old Joyce Lynn Nash of Regina. Remanded on charge of abduction is Mrs. Myrtle DeGrasse who pleaded guilty, told court she stole the infant outside the Regina post office because her own baby had died.—Central Press Canadian.

Wellington on the Lake

There's a hint of keen frost in the evening,
There's a wonderful sun in the day,
And the wind from the southwest keeps whispering,
Of a summer that's passing away.

Evidences of summer's passing are seen here in the haze of the harbor and in the autumn colors of the maple leaves. The lake, one day is smooth as a mirror and the next day calm and serene and sparkling in the sun, gives us the changing picture of autumn. And to-day, Wednesday, the school campus is deserted—the children having a holiday to attend Picton Fair.

The canning factory season is about over, the Canadian Canners finishing on Saturday and the L. Greer factory closing on Monday. Corn is still being canned at time of writing, Wednesday, Sept. 28.

New Bus Service

The bus service owned and operated by Mr. Williams of Wellington makes regular trips twice daily to and from Picton and is proving a great convenience to the traveling public.

Rev. H. B. Herrington, B.A., of Newburgh, occupied the pulpit of the United Church on Sunday. Rev. J. L. Lane conducting anniversary services at Hewitt's.

Mrs. Robert Ferguson returned home from Picton hospital on Friday where she had been a patient for some days.

Mr. Don Jolley and mother with Mr. and Mrs. Harry Pettengill of Hillier, enjoyed a motor trip to Kingston on Sunday by way of Glenora ferry.

Social Evening

A pleasant time was spent by the younger set in the Town Hall Friday night when the Smokeville Orchestra furnished music for a dance. There was a large attendance of young folk attending from the town, the country and from Picton. Refreshments were served by Wellington Women's Institute. The orchestra will play for a dance in Hillier Hall on the evening of Friday, Sept. 30.

Honoring Ruthin Guests

A very pleasant time was spent on Monday evening when Miss Mary Lumb and Gladys opened their home to couple and entertain a party of ladies in honor of Miss Ruthin Jones, Scotland, and Miss Roberts of England. The evening ladies enjoyed their hospitality, a delightful part of the evening being an informal address by Miss Roberts in which she took us on a trip to Australia which she had recently visited. She told us of the extent of this island and of the south-west devoted to agriculture. The seasons are the opposite to ours and the twilight much longer. She spoke of a vast area of desert frequented by poisonous snakes are a menace to the farmers' crops. "We were told of the dark restless natives, and of the English population, some descendants of early convicts, but for the most part desirable settlers. Birds have bright plumage but no song. She then spoke of Ceylon and Colombo, the latter of which she visited in 1941 ;till when the Japs were making inroads. Before returning to Australia, she visited Calcutta and Colombo. She then returned home to England when the war had closed.

Mrs. Lumb, Miss Gladys Lumb assisted by Mrs. Tom Boyle and Mrs. Harry Boyle served delicious refreshments. The guests departed after thanking the hostesses for their hospitality and Miss Roberts for her address.

The ladies of the guests presented the English ladies with a gift for which they wish to thank their Canadian friends. After spending several months in Canada, Miss Jones and Miss Roberts are sailing this week for England visiting Ottawa on their way to Montreal. Miss Gladys Lumb joined her English cousins in Ottawa for the weekend.

NEW STREET SIGNS

This town is really up-to-date. For just the other day
New signs were placed on every street

So now should lose their way;
These signs, so bright and gay
And Street

Name every little street
And proud are we to show them to
The stranger whom we meet.
It matters not how short the street

Nor how grass-grown the ground it bears a shining silver name
And easily can be found.
There's Oak Street, Maple, Main and Wharf

And many, many more,
Don't fear—you cannot lose your way
Should there be streets—a score
So now you'll easily find your way

Though stranger you may be,
For here and there and everywhere
These new street signs you see.

Headless Skeleton Found in Attic

Erieville, N.Y., Oct. 1 (AP)—Mrs. Mildred Wallace says she has heard of people having skeletons in their closet.

But she was astounded Friday when she found a headless skeleton in the attic of her home.

Mrs. Wallace said she uncovered the bones while rummaging through the attic. She had never known of their presence, she added.

Mrs. Wallace said she believed the bones had been owned by a doctor who lived in the house about 50 years ago.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

The 1949-50 edition of the Belleville District Hockey League got away to a good start at the third annual meeting held in the Memorial Arena on Sunday afternoon. The attendance was well attended with a good turnout of team representatives and others. Eddie Schneider, last season's president was re-elected to the proxy chair with Don Lee named vice-president. Tom Brady will again act as secretary-treasurer. All executive officials were given acclamation.

* * *

The balance of the guiding body will be composed of representatives of teams comprising the loop. These will be named at the next meeting set for Thursday, Oct. 11 at 7.30 in the Arena.

* * *

Six teams were definitely entered at yesterday's meeting. These include last year's champions, the CNR Delesis; Northern Electric; Belleville Hockey Association Junior Rockets; Trenton Flyers; No. 6 R.D. Trenton and Trenton town. Napanee and Cobourg two of last year's participating teams did not enter and will be absentees this year.

* * *

Consensus of the meeting was that the league be comprised of six or eight teams with the entry deadline set at Oct. 31, the date of the next meeting. It is hoped that a team from Marmora and another from Prince Edward County will forward entries. The maximum number of squads will be eight. However, if no other entries are forthcoming by the deadline date, the loop will operate as a six-team affair. The schedule will be drawn up and play will start within a reasonable period after the ice has been placed in the Arena.

* * *

Much important business was discussed and formulated with a minimum of argument. A number of amendments to the present constitution were proposed and the most of them adopted. Entry fees were again set at $50 per team rebatable to all squads competing in the league schedule. Fees with application entries must be in the hands of the league secretary by Oct. 11. Playing dates were set at Tuesdays and Thursdays.

* * *

The league put down a strong measure with regard to penalizing of teams not appearing for regular play at the scheduled time. The first game of doubleheaders will get under way at 7.30 p.m. while teams must be ready to take the ice at 9 p.m. for the second game. Teams not appearing on time will be assessed a fine of $10 for the first five minutes with an extra assessment of one dollar for each succeeding minute, the total fine not to exceed $25.00.

* * *

The player question came under discussional fire and it was decided that teams can sign eighteen players. No transfers or replacements will be permitted with the exception of goalkeepers, and such replacements must meet with the approval of the executive. Teams will submit names of extra goalkeepers and in case of sickness or injury the executive will appoint a goalkeeper to the team making application.

* * *

The league threw the "gate wide open" insofar as player territory is concerned. In fact a motion read that players "may be obtained anywhere in Ontario and must reside there in at least three scheduled league games in order to become eligible for the playoffs.

* * *

The referee question also came in for considerable discussion. Vice-President Lee was appointed referee-in-chief to work with the executive which will appoint all officials. The fees were agreed upon last year's figure of $7.50 per doubleheader to $10.00. The suggestion that players act as referees was given the heave-ho.

* * *

In order to avoid the confusion that was apparent at times last year with regard to color of uniforms, representatives of the six teams entered decided on colors at the meeting. Belleville juniors will wear white, trimmed with black and red; Diesels, green and yellow; C.N.R. gold with a red trim; Trenton town, black with red trim; Trenton Flyers air force blue with red and Northern Electric maroon trimmed with white.

* * *

The meeting approved a motion that the league be given two per cent of its net gate to provide for league business. It will purchase eighteen white numbered sleeveless sweaters and if possible a regulation stop-watch. The sweaters will be worn by the occasion arises when team colors clash. It was also suggested that the loop purchase a set of goalkeepers pads and other equipment.

* * *

The Commercial Softball League will wind up in a blaze of glory this week after a highly successful season. Members of the executive have decided to stage a post-season series of two games to be played between the champion Northern Electric squad and a team of select all-stars from other teams of the loop. The games will be played at Alemite Field on Thursday and Thursday night of this week and the proceeds of the tilts will go to help defray expenses of the annual banquet scheduled for the Hotel Quinte on Friday, Oct. 7th.

* * *

Following is the selection of league all-stars which will face Herb. Henn's Northern Electric champions: catchers, Keewhehan (Swace) and Adams, Hensloe; pitchers, Hunter Houstons, Baldwin, Corbys; Reid, Shell first baseman, Booth, Swace; Deadmer, Corbys; Hurtle, CNR; second baseman, Rollins, Houstons; Jones, Shell; third baseman, H. Reid, Corbys; Hurtle, CNR; Tomasa, Howe and Hagerman; left field, Hunter, Corbys; Woods, Houstons; urray, Howe and Hagerman; centerfield, Quinn, Houstons; Empey, Shell; Hammett Sweet; right field; R. Reid, Corbys; Ed. Donavon, Prov. Engineers; Carr, Swaco; manager, G. Barrizo, Corbys; coach, Cy Barriage, Howe and Hagerman.

C.L.A. Criticized For Methods Of Operation

(By The Canadian Press)

A prediction that lacrosse will "fold up" unless the Canadian Lacrosse Association strengthens its ranks was made Saturday as the C.L.A. concluded its annual meeting at Vancouver.

Delegates E. H. Lancaster of St. Catharines, criticized C.L.A. methods of operation as being "antiquated" and control as haphazard." He said the man in the street believes the C.L.A. "is dead." The convention unanimously approved his resolution which urged that a five-man committee fully investigate the C.L.A. structure and lacrosse across Canada. The committee will report at next year's convention.

T. J. O'Brien, a Winnipeg lumberjack, was named president. J. C. McLeod, Owen Sound, Ont., was named a vice-president.

Windsor Sterlings entered the finals of the Ontario Major League soccer playoff Saturday whe.. they tied 1-1 with Toronto Scottish. The deadlock gave them a 3-2 advantage in the total-goal series and Sterling now meet the winner of the London-Toronto Thistles round.

Guillotine sliced a neat $87,585 pie for Greentree Stable Saturday as he led all the way to capture the $112,285 Futurity Stakes at New York's Belmont Park. He finished three-quarters of a length ahead of Calumet Farm's Citation, third horse was Russell A. Firestone's The Diver. Guillotine paid $19.60, $6.40 and $3.40 for for.

Pittsburgh, Kansas State and Navy, doormats of United States college football in recent years, smote unsuspecting rivals Saturday to turn in major upsets. Pittsburgh knocked off the proud Rose Bowl champions from Northwestern, 16-7. Kansas State, without a big seven victory since 1944, walkp.. a highly-favored Colorado machine, 27-13.

Navy's sophomorers gave the middie corps something to cheer about by bouncing Princeton, 28-7, the first time the young sailors had won a football game since 1947.

King Ranch's Better Self Saturday romped home an easy winner of the $25,000 All American Handicap, closing day attraction of the 45-day Atlantic City meeting. Going Away was second and Pilaster third.

Ted Williams of Boston Red Sox and Enos Slaughter of St. Louis Cardinals were named by the Sporting News Saturday as the outstanding players in the American and National Leagues respectively.

Windsor Bulldogs, reinforced by several former members of the Detroit Lions' National; Professional Football League team, stopped Port Huron, Mich., Independents, 13-6, in a Canadian - American Football League game Saturday.

Tallback Gino Fracas counted all 17 points Saturday as Assumption College Purple Raiders dunked Point Edwards Sailors, 17-1, in a Junior Ontario Rugby Football Union game. Their victory was the second in as many starts.

Gil Mayer has been chosen to tend goal for Pittsburgh Hornets of the American Hockey League this season, ending Hornets' search for a replacement for Joe Bastien, who lost his right eye two weeks ago in the team's first fall practice. Mayer was voted the most valuable player in last season's Ontario Hockey Association Junior A competition when he was goalie for Barrie Flyers.

Gus Mortson, defence man for the Toronto Maple Leafs National Hockey League Club, was married Friday to Sheila Kennedy of Toronto in Oshawa's Simcoe Street United Church.

North Bay Dodgers won the Northern Ontario Intermediate "A" fast ball championship Saturday by defeating Sault Ste. Marie Esquires 6-5. North Bay now meets the southern champions for the all-Ontario crown, the best-of-three series to be played at North Bay Thanksgiving weekend.

Kevin Donovan, 13, of Prescott, Ont., is the scan box derby champion of Canada. Kevin guided his motorless crate over the 400-foot course in Kosy Crate course in Ottawa's Sandy Hill district Saturday to beat out 27 other challengers.

B.C.I. Juniors Defeat O.S.D. By 41-0 Score

Friday O.S.D. scored a washout game in which B.C.I. Juniors swamped O.S.D. 41-0. It was the first time for the team in Bay of Quinte District, Junior C.O.S.S.A., league which is proving to show fast and exciting ball. Ed Schreiber and Vern Goyer ruled the play.

The game started with the kickoff to B.C.I. After a series of plays Tom Lewis, left half crossed for the first score, but O.S.D. held strong for the convert. An intercepted forward pass by Don Barclay was run back 30 yards for the second touch of the quarter. Barclay was also credited with the convert. Score at quarter time—14-0.

O.S.D. was in there fighting hard but could not hold. John Bachelor sparked this quarter for the collegians. He succeeded in snatching two serial passes and running them over for ten points. Neither down was converted. Later, with only seconds remaining L. Moore kicked for an extra point. Score B.C.I. 22, O.S.D. cipher.

In the third quarter the game tightened up and O.S.D. made some progress at first. B.C.I. in possession of the ball carried it down the field in short order. LeRoy McBrian ballet passed to Cameron. Barclay converted with a kick between the poles. With three minutes remaining to play Nichol for B.C.I. intercepted a forward pass and made a 40-yard run. McKay also connected with a forward for a down and Carr completed with a convert. (7-0-0).

O.S.D. opened with an aerial attack which clicked until fumbled on the tackle. B.C.I. on the ball Tom Lewis saved a play by picking up a fumble and making a sensational 45-yard run. Everyone hit him but the referee, but he finally fell. Loss of 13 yards resulted from the next play, so L. Moore kicked for a point. With about 1 minute to play after failure by O.S.D. to make ten yards they kicked. McKay was on the receiving end and made a quick 30 yard run for the final touch down. Carr again converted.

Beaulny, O.S.D. quarter back deserves honorable mention. This was the victories for B.C.I. this week. Seniors took Picton 51-5.

Unbeaten Strings of Ottawa Rough Riders, Calgary Stamps Highlight Gridiron Weekend

(By The Canadian Press)

Six straight for Ottawa Rough Riders; seven straight for Calgary Stampeders in the Western Union.

Those facts stood out in a football weekend that had a dash of everything, including a local attendance record at Ottawa of 16,424 fans as the Rough Riders rolled over Toronto Argonauts 34-11.

The Stamps defeated Edmonton Eskimos 12-8 and Saskatchewan Roughriders trounced the luckless Winnipeg Blue Bombers 26-7.

The Argos - Riders game at Ottawa was the only match in the Eastern Big Four. Howie (Tuesday) Turner took scoring honors with a three-touchdown splurge. Argos lost the services of Joe (King) Krol through injuries.

There was only one game in the Senior Ontario Union also, and that saw the Hamilton Tigers come from behind to defeat Windsor Rockets 20-5 at Hamilton, scoring into a second - place tie with the Rockets.

In exhibition games, Toronto Varsity Blues, intercollegiate champions, swamped Toronto Balmy Beach of the O. R. F. U. 40-8 at Toronto while Sarnia Imperials of the O. R. F. U. beat Western Mustangs 20-11 at London. Ont. McMaster Marauders scored a stunning upset in downing the Golden Gaels from Queens 7-3. Marauders play in the Intercollegiate intermediate series.

Fri Game Away Early

At Ottawa, supported by a powerful team, Howie Turner raced through a gap in the line and travelled 70 yards for a major. A few plays later Krol was carried from the field with a torn ligament which will keep him on the sidelines for several weeks.

Other Ottawa majors were scored by Tony Golob, Steve Karry and Johnny Deagel. Toronto's Paul Copeland, playing a brilliant game, scored one touchdown while Nick Volpe got the other.

At Edmonton the Grey Cup champion Stampeders came from behind an 8-6 deficit to stave off a powerful last quarter drive by the Eskimos after quarterback Keith Spaith passed them into the lead.

The Wildcats caught fire in the second quarter while trailing 6-1. They scored a converted touchdown and were never headed late in the second session.

Varsity Plays Good Ball

Then Merle Hapes kicked a single in the third and got a touchdown in the fourth when Vern Spencer also went for a major. Joe Capriotte topped off the last period burst with a convert and single. Skeets Harrison tallied a single for the Rockets and Gerry Dawson tallied a major in the second quarter.

At Toronto, some 9,000 fans saw the fast-travelling intercollegiate champions shellack the results of rugged pre - season training, giving Steelers their first intercollegiate schedule starts Oct. 8. The Beaches have lost five O. R. F. U. games this season.

Completing 15 of 19 forward passes attempted, the Blues scored seven majors and converted four of them. Quarterback Bill Brewer and Bill Danlychuk shared the scoring honors for the Blues with two touchdowns each. Greg McFadden, Wally London and Johnny Kelley added one each.

The Imperials were ahead most of the way. They lost the lead briefly in the second quarter and the Mustangs got a touchdown. The lings matched that major and added two others in the second half while Western got one.

Red McKelvie took top scoring honors for Sarnia with a touchdown, a field goal and two converts. Bill Welsh and Don Knowles each scored touchdowns. Bob Turner and George Arnott got majors for Western and Ross Parry got a convert.

Yanks Favored Over Dodgers In World Series

New York, Oct. 3 — (AP) — Despite the 5-9 odds favoring New York Yankees over Brooklyn Dodgers, the 46th World Series opening Wednesday at Yankee Stadium should be a toss-up.

Here are two battle - weary clubs that struggled through the terrific tension of a last - day finish. Nobody is fresh and eager. Both could stand a month's vacation. Instead, they move on to the series. There will be no days off, barring bad weather, in the best-of-seven competition with the scene shifting to Brooklyn Friday.

The Yanks weren't supposed to win but did. With only one .300 hitter, ailing Joe DiMaggio, in their regular line-up, they whipped a Boston club that figured to be better on paper.

Manager Casey Stengel's artful juggling during 71 innings and the team's ability to take trigger-quick advantage of every opportunity was the difference. The team was able to overcome the handicap of playing without its ace, Joe DiMaggio, for half the season.

Little Help in Stretch

Vic Raschi, only 30-game winner in the series, got little help in the stretch drive until he came through with his vital 5-3 clincher yesterday.

The big man of the Yanks' staff was Eddie Joe Page, who strode from the bullpen 80 times during the 154-game season. Sunday Joe may well be the key man in the wrestle with the Dodgers which, on the surface, shaped up as a duel between DiMaggio and Jackie Robinson.

Manager Burt Shotton has no Page in his bullpen but he has a club that outhit the Yanks .270 to .267, stole more bases, 114 to 97 and hit more home runs, 139 to 115. Those figures don't lie.

The top batting statistics, Shotton has Jackie Robinson, batting champion of the National League at .342. Carl Furillo, "the arm" of the outfield, finished with a surprising .322 and both of his alternating left fielders Gene Hermanski (.304) are in the charmed circle.

Hamilton Tigers Will Have Same Hockey Squad

(By The Canadian Press)

Hamilton Tigers will start their Ontario Hockey Senior season Oct. 12 with practically the same team that took to the ice in 1949. Most of last season's outfit has been out of practices which got under way at the old Barton St. Arena last weekend. Coach George Redding says that, all going well, they should have a pretty fair team this year.

In their 12th season, Johnny Conick, right winger, Andy Pelly Mioinovich now playing defence, are the veterans of the organization. Art Childs will probably be back in the net this season although Bruce Dale from Stratford is gunning for the spot.

As far as is known for sure now Tommy Tindall will be the only player from the 1948 squad who will not be played this season. Swat Mason, of Guelph, who also played for several seasons, has not yet shown at practice but is expected soon.

Chicago White Sox Friday announced the purchase of Alphonso Carrasquel, shortstop owned by Beau Jack, Augusta, Ga., former world's lightweight champion, Friday night scored a split decision over Livio Minelli, Bergamo, Italy, European welterweight champion, in a rough 10-round battle in Chicago Stadium.

Montreal Royals Down Two Games To Indianapolis

Montreal, Oct. 3 — (CP) — Montreal Royals are a surprised and somewhat confused baseball team today as they suddenly find themselves trailing Indianapolis Indians of the American Association 2-0 in the best-of-seven Little World Series.

Only two days ago, the International League champions were established 6-5 favorites over the Indians as the result of their remarkable showing in the Shaughnessy play-offs when they polished off Rochester Red Wings and the pennant - winning Buffalo Bisons in nine games.

But today, Royals are confronted with the difficult task of winning four of the next six games, the majority of which are to be played in Indianapolis. Only one more game is scheduled for Montreal.

Saturday night it was Joe Muir, a rangy southpaw, who stopped Royals cold with three hits for an easy 5-1 victory. He walked only one man and fanned five.

Left-hander Johnny Van Cuyk, the losing hurler, was the victim of three unearned runs in the second inning. Lee Fleming added another Indianapolis run in the third with a towering home - run over the right centre - field wall.

The final Indian tally in the fifth inning forced Johnny to the showers and Clarry Podbielan took over. He stopped the visitors until relieved for a pinch - hitter in the eighth. Charlie Lare finished up for Royals.

It was much the same story on Sunday as Indians again won two of the game 5-1.

The visitors got off to a fast start when Fleming homered once more with Nanny Fernandez who had walked, scoring ahead of him.

They added single runs in the second, third and fifth innings. The lone Royal marker came in the bottom half of the third.

Montreal Royals of the International League. Frank Lane, Sox general manager, said the purchase price included the contracts of shortstop Freddie Hancock and pitcher Charles Eisenmann, in addition to an undisclosed amount of cash.

Yankees and Dodgers Open World Series Wednesday After Tightest Flag Races in 41 Yrs.

By RALPH RODEN
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

New York Yankees and Brooklyn Dodgers open the 1949 world series in Yankee Stadium Wednesday following the tightest Major League pennant races in 41 years.

Both series foes clinched their pennants yesterday, final day of the season. The Yanks gained American League honors by dusting off Boston Red Sox 5-3 before 69,055 fans in New York. The victory enabled the Yanks to break a first place stalemate with the Sox and win by one game.

Brooklyn nailed down the National League flag by outslugging Philadelphia Phillies 9-7 in 10 innings at Philadelphia to finish one game in front of St. Louis Cardinals. The Cardinals paced the Cubs 13-3 in Chicago to no avail.

The finish at a glance.

AMERICAN LEAGUE

	Won	Lost	Pct.	GB
New York	97	57	.630	—
Boston	96	58	.623	1

NATIONAL LEAGUE

Brooklyn	97	57	.630	—
St. Louis	96	58	.623	1

For the Yanks, it will be their 18th appearance in baseball's blue-ribbed classic. The Dodgers will be making their fifth bid to capture baseball's highest honor. They have yet to win a series. The Yanks have 11 series scalps dangling from their belts.

There have been close races in either the National or American League before but the present super finishes in both leagues this year was unmatched since 1908.

Faltered in Ninth

Vic Raschi pitched the Yanks into world series glory with a glittering five-hitter. Raschi, who posted his 21st victory, had the Sox, pre-season favorites, blanked on two hits going into the ninth when he faltered and yielded three runs before Birdie Tebbetts fouled out to end Boston's hopes.

Tommy Henrich and Jerry Coleman drove home all the Yankee runs. Phil Rizzuto tripled and scored the first run on Henrich's grounder in the first inning. Henrich homered off Mel Parnell who relieved starter and loser Ellis Kinder in the eighth and Coleman doubled home three runs in the eighth off Tex Hughson.

Singles by Pee Wee Reese, Duke Snider and Luis Olmo brought the Dodgers victory in Philadelphia. The Phillies' Dodgers blew a 5-0 lead but airtight pitching by Jack Banta over the final 4 1-3 innings saved the day for the Dodgers.

Musial Hit Two Homers

Stan Musial with two home runs and Chuck Diering with one paced the Cards and Howie Pollet to his 20th victory in Chicago. The victory ended a four-game Cardinal losing streak but it came too late.

Boston Braves, last year's National League champs, came in fourth. They beat New York Giants 3-1 in their final game with Warren Spahn racking up his 21st victory. In other National League games, Pittsburgh split with Cincinnati, winning the opener 4-2 and losing the night-cap 6-5. Ralph Kiner failed to hit a homer and wound up with 54.

Cleveland, 1949 American League titlists, defeated Detroit 8-4 and finished third. In the other American wind-ups, last-place Washington blanked Philadelphia 3-0, and St. Louis split with Chicago, winning the second game 5-3 after losing the first 4-3.

Jackie Robinson of Brooklyn won the National League batting championship with a .342 mark, beating out Musial by three points. George Kell of Detroit won the American League crown, edging Ted Williams of Boston, .3429 to .3475.

♠3
♥7 6
♣A 2

WEST — EAST
♠A — ♠None
♥2 — ♥K Q J
♦K 9 — ♦Q J 10
♣K 10 — ♣None

SOUTH
♠K
♦3 5
♣8 6 5 4 3

There is not much to it, really. But there is a very important lesson in its ending. It deals with what is called a smother play in this case it is a trump smother.

South is declarer with clubs as trumps. He is now in the lead and must take five of the six remaining tricks. All he has to do is make sure that opponents do not get more than one trick.

It looks as if a spade trick must be lost to the west ace. If the second small diamond in south is ruffed by north, it looks as if west will get a trump with dummy's ten.

If trumps are led to keep west from getting a trump trick, see the result? The second small diamond will be ruffed, but the spade trick are more than declarer can afford to give up.

Here is the idea. Start off with a diamond lead and win it with the dummy ace. Come back in heart and win it with the south ace, Lead the second diamond from south and ruff small in dummy.

Lead the last dummy heart to trick four. East must cover. Now, instead of ruffing in south, stuff the south card. King, Ruff with either stuff his spade ace or stuff his partner's trick.

If west ruffs the last good heart trick, he will lose his only remaining trump to dummy's ace. South will have the last trick with a final trump lead. The west play is to stuff spade ace.

Two cards are then left in each hand with east in the lead. He leads a red card which south ruffs. If west overruffs, dummy wins with the ace. South then has the top trump for the last trick.

Will west refuse to overruff trick five? If he does, dummy will stuff his small spade. Trump ace is then good for the last trick. It is a slick smother play against west.

Batawa, 6 R.D. Battle to Tie In Overtime Play

One of the best games of the soccer season was played at Bain Memorial Park, Trenton on Saturday when the Batawa team, champions of the Bay of Quinte Soccer League was held to a tie by 6 R.D. in the finals for the Belleville Merchants Charity Cup. The score was 3-all after overtime play failed to produce a winner. The teams meet again on Oct. 15th in an effort to decide the-cup-holders.

Frank Follwell, M.P., was on hand to officiate at the presentation ceremonies, but as no winner was declared, he stated he would be on hand to present the cup at the next game.

Batawa, who won the toss scored the first goal from Harry Law after four minutes of play. The game was a zip-and-tuck affair from then until half time with both goals having narrow escapes. Angus tied the score with but a minute to go in the first half.

Goal Not Allowed

6 R.D. netted the ball after the change over but Miller who scored was ruled offside and the goal disallowed. Both teams passed up scoring chances in a hard-fought second half until 23 minutes had elapsed, when 6 R.D. were awarded a penalty shot. Miller took the kick and scored to give the airmen a 3-1 lead. But it was shortlived. Batawa evened the count three minutes later when Clapperton got the ball past the 6 R.D. goalie. Regulation time ended that way.

Two periods of hard play followed in overtime but neither side was able to score.

The teams:

Batawa: Aquino, Broughton, Williams, Walton, Clapperton, Ross, Tlamsk, Davies, Hawrylin, Machala, Plaszewski, Hrywnak, Kowalin.

Referee: Den Furnell.

Two Youths Cross Continent Aboard 1922 Jalopy

Montreal (CP) — Two lean, sunburned youths, whose adventure-filled trip through Canada and the United States during the past 4½ months in a museum-piece Ford gave them memories to hold for a long time, are safe home again.

This was mainly due to the generosity of Henry Ford II who took an interest in the boys. When on their way home through Dearborn, Mich., the Ford Motor Co. president had his mechanics put a reconditioned motor in the voyageurs' vehicle and give it a general overhauling.

The boys needed this help. Their car was smashed three times on their journey from here to Vancouver and three to California. Each time they had repairs done at no cost to themselves.

During their trip through the desert, each of them lost more than 20 pounds because "it was too darned hot to eat."

The boys got the idea of the trip while driving trucks in suburban Montreal. They bought their car for $50, dragged it home and repaired it. Their pals scoffed at the idea of it ever running. They left Montreal May 2nd.

Upon reaching Vancouver the boys got jobs in lumber camps to boost their capital, which was originally $416.

When they left Canada their adventures began. First someone plowed into the back of their Ford, breaking two wheels and causing extensive injuries. Then they were sideswiped and thrown into a 20-foot ravine.

"The worst part of it was that we landed in cactus," one of the travellers said.

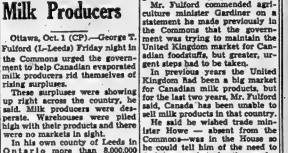
Fulford Urges Govt. Help for Milk Producers

Ottawa, Oct. 1 (CP)—George T. Fulford (L-Leeds) Friday night in the Commons urged the government to help Canadian evaporated milk producers rid themselves of rising surpluses.

These surpluses were showing up right across the country, he said. Milk producers were desperate. Warehouses were piled high with their products and there were no markets in sight.

In his own county of Leeds in Ontario more than 8,000,000 pounds of milk were in warehouses "stacked to the roof". Producers now were looking for more storage.



Farmers did not know which way to turn. The problem had gained "serious proportion".

Mr. Fulford commended agriculture minister Gardiner on a statement he made previously in the Commons that the government was trying to maintain the United Kingdom market for Canadian foodstuffs, but greater, urgent steps had to be taken.

In previous years the United Kingdom had been a big market for Canadian milk products, but for the last two years, Mr. Fulford said, Canada has been unable to sell milk products in that country.

He said he wished trade minister Howe — absent from the Commons—was in the House so he could tell him of the need to find new markets for the surplus milk.

Little Benny's Note Book

I was eating my breakfast slow on account of realizing I would have to go to school as soon as I finished it, and I said, Hay ma, hay pop, do people ever know when they're sick?

Well naturally, such a question, ma said, and pop said, Oh, I dont know, I've heard of cases where people were ill without having the slightest idea of it, and they got well again unconsciously, so the poor devils never did find out.

Butch i figgermaroll, ma said, and I said, Well O, ma, gosh, pop, does it mean anything when your forehead is hot and your feet are mick, and your hands are damp but your tongue is dry, and your eyes burn and even your teeth hert?

Yee gods, what's he talking about? pop said, and ma said, Benny, you dont actually mean, why that's preposterous, oh dear,

And she quick rewished and felt my foorhead with her hand, saying, Why, it's as cool as a cucumber, or, you never felt better, how dare you make up sutch a gassly fabrication?

Well jimminies, ma, I didn't make it up, some man on the radio was bragging about some kind of pills, and that was some of the things he claimed quix a matter with people, I said. I didn't say anything was a matter with me, I said, and pop said, I'll spot on you somewhere, about the size of a man's hand, and if you're curious to find out where you'll have it, just hang around, he said.

Which I didn't, being a good

The handshake Walt Rayson will never forget

PERHAPS it was chance that led Walt Rayson, while driving through a college town, to stop at a certain restaurant.

As he gave his order, he glanced at the waiter. The face looked familiar. Suddenly Walt remembered—the young man was the son of an old friend.

After finishing his meal, Walt introduced himself. "You wouldn't remember me, Bill," he said, "but I knew your father. It's quite a surprise finding you here."

"That's easily explained, sir," said Bill. "I'm working my way through college. You see, when father died there was left enough life insurance to support mother and pay part of my expenses, too. That, plus what I earn here, has made it possible for me to stay at university."

"That makes me feel mighty good," said Walt, "because I'm the man who sold your father that life insurance."

"Gee!" said Bill, you'll never know what that money has meant to Mom and me. And I guess you're the one I ought to thank for it. So . . . so thanks!" he said, shaking Walt's hand warmly.

Later, as he drove into the night, Walt's glow of satisfaction deepened when he recalled how hard it had been to persuade Bill's father to increase and properly plan his life insurance to cover the emergency that, years later, Bill and his mother had to face.

"Well," said Walt to himself, "there must be thousands of cases like this where life insurance representatives have helped to save the day!"

A helpful citizen in your community

When your agent sells you life insurance, he also helps to improve your community. For a large part of each life insurance dollar is put to work through investments to build schools, bridges, highways, industrial plants and many other projects that create jobs and make for better living.

You share in these improvements, made possible through the efforts of your helpful fellow-citizen — the modern life insurance representative!

Canine Commuter Goodwill Envoy

Coutts, Alta. (CP) — There's one fellow at this point of the border between Canada and the United States who crosses the international boundary several times a day without need of passport or immigration visa.

The lucky individual is a dog which has two names, two homes and one love. The animal is dubbed 'B' in the Couts home of Mrs. Betty Gertsen and 'Blackie' in the Montana home of Waldo Moberly, U.S. customs broker at Sweet Grass.

Blackie's one love is meeting trains, whether it's the Great Northern headed into Canada or the Canadian Pacific rolling into the United States. And for the last two years — day after day, rain, shine or blizzard, at 50 degrees below zero or 90 in the shade — Blackie has met all incoming trains at these two border points.

Ordinarily, all persons or animals are subject to border inspection but because Blackie has endeared himself to all train crews and most of the residents of Coutts and Sweet Grass he is regarded as an international citizen. Thus, he has never known any red tape.

No one knows where the mongrel, apparently part shepherd, came from. Since his arrival he has commuted between his two homes, meeting each train and walking through them with customs officials before giving them a barking sendoff.

Blackie's understanding of train movements, railroad signals and whistles is uncanny. Once he lay on the tracks in front of an oncoming switch engine. The locomotive stopped — as Blackie intended—and the engineer saw he could not shunt box cars on that particular track because it was occupied by another train.

Black Boom

By Paul David Preston

The centre of the excitement turned out to be Mayor Scott with Alderman Watkins, a physician; C.L. Pollard superintendant of schools; Fred Pressly, a banker and insurance man; and Tip Hale county sheriff. These community leaders were struggling to maintain a certain personal decorum and yet whoop and holler in the contagion of celebration around them. Because no wind can blow both hot and cold, they weren't succeeding very well. The mass meeting was set for 2 pm but the Public Square was already jammed here at 10 pm.

"It just won't do to start early, or other folks will be angry," Mayor Scott kept repeating.

"There's my young protegee!" Dr. Watkins suddenly barked. "There's Dallas Tower I was telling you about. He saved these men last night! He and Miss Lillian Mayfield were the first ones at the gusher after it broke. They saved lives at the hospital, too! Tower's the young man people are talking about Mr. Scott!"

"Bring him up here. HEY, QUIET!" Mayor Scott then took command of the microphone that had been provided. With scant formality but with no lack of enthusiasm he opened a mass meeting in a way he had not planned. He spent a good five minutes eulogizing and introducing Dallas Tower to the populace here.

"Cough, all Judson Dallas whispered excitedly to Lillian and Thad Monroe. "He's calling me up! I never made a public speech in my life!"

"Then you're starting now, pal!" Thad whispered back. "Lead with your chin again. You can't go wrong this time!"

• • •

Dal Tower was in a ticklish spot at this moment and he knew it. Under the physician's strict code of ethics he dared not appear to thrust himself into much prominence. On the other hand, the Mayor of the town was eulogizing him out of all reason and calling on him to make a speech.

"What'll I do? What'll I do!" he kept whispering to his friends, Lillian and Thad.

"But the old doc's something of a fogey, now," Thad insisted. "Getting sentimental. Just smile and make your say brief."

Then all at once Dallas made up his own mind. He walked up the steps and onto the platform, smiled at Mayor Scott and at the people and leaned near the microphone. Instantly quiet reigned. It was as if everyone present wanted to see the handsome new doctor.

"Ladies and Gentlemen," said he, "Mayor Scott unfortunately was misinformed. The persons who risked most to save those lives last evening was Miss Lillian Mayfield, and I stand here only to give her public thanks—in your behalf—for that service."

He dropped quickly off the platform and the cheering was such that no one could talk. Thad lifted Lillian up, She stood there a moment, smiled sweetly, and came back down. When she came near Dallas she spoke in his ear.

"I could choke you!"

"Go ahead!" he whispered back impishly.

"You didn't have to tell them that. And it wasn't so anyway. Are you always so careless with the truth?"

"I was hiding behind a woman's skirts."

Those three had indeed been near the platform and Mrs. Mayfield now found herself badly confused. Before she quite realized it people were congratulating her, praising Lillian, bragging on Dr. Dallas Tower and altogether gushing about everything. Baby Doll took it happily in stride, but Martin Deale was coldly aloof again. At least he tried to be

"Yes sir, that new young doc will shore beat yore time Martin," some middle-aged man suddenly addressed him, loudly. "I see he's gettin' up to Miss Lillian. They make a fine looking couple. You better look out!"

"I beg your pardon?" Martin tried to be haughty.

"I say that young doc's after yore sweetheart, yeah! I betcha a cotton bale he is. You better step lively. Hadn't be better Mrs. Mayfield?"

The fellow considered it a rare joke, for he rocked with laughter. Only Baby Doll giggled in return, looking at Martin. Then all at once she turned loyal again. She frowned at the man's back and grasped Martin's arm. "The—the—the boor!" she muttered, severely. Common sense told effusive Baby Doll Mayfield that she personally didn't stand a chance of attracting Dallas Tower but that long-wanted attention from Martin Deale might now be coerced.

The mass meeting lasted from 2 p.m. to 5. At 2.20 the loud speakers announced that Dr. Tower was wanted at Highlower's Drug Store and the call turned out to be an emergency and when it was done, three other professional calls awaited him. Mrs. Nagel, the head night nurse at the hospital, was one of them.

"Yes. Why ever did he kick him?"

"He was holding Lillian Mayfield in his arms."

"What? He was!"

"Yes!"

"Hmmmp!"

Their gossip stopped in sudden consciousness of guilt, but with appetite unsatisfied. Duties called them then and they could say no more but the matron went downstairs hurriedly.

Excitement was still awhirl downtown.

If the mass meeting was officially over the fact could hardly be noticed, for the mass was still here. Mr. Pollard school superintendent had ordered the band to disperse. Four members went home. The remaining 43 musicians — mostly teen-aged and beaming—ganged together on the courthouse steps again and began playing swing music. This might have been scholastic heresy on any ordinary occasion but not when an oil well was gushing on the edge of town.

First car that tried to get through the square gave up and backed out the way it came. Then somebody grasped a girl and started dancing. The idea spread quickly, Mayor Scott, no mean politician himself, went to the sound truck microphone again and proclaimed a public street dance to last as long as anybody would play and anybody would make merry.

Mrs. Mayfield, Lillian, Baby Doll, Thad and M.J. all rode to the Mayfield home with Martin in his car, and by unanimous consent they agreed to come back for dancing after supper. For almost 24 hours the oil well odor had dominated this town and the attendant excitement showed no sign of lessening.

They reached Mrs. Mayfield's place to find seven strangers on the front porch. Black Jason Weems was, in effect, holding them at bay with mutterings and glowerings

DETECTIVE'S BUEMAN'S HOLIDAY

Toronto, Oct. 1 — (CP)—Friday was something like a busman's holiday for Detective James Morgan. Spending some off-duty time at the Long Branch race track, the detective spotted a man wanted by police for theft and forgery. He arrested Walter Maynes, charged with stealing a car, raiding, and forging a cheque for $48.

Charles C. Brown, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Brown, 235 Dundas Street, Trenton, who has recently enlisted as constable in the Royal Canadian Mounted Police. He attended Trenton Collegiate and was a member of the Trenton Lions Club prior to his enlistment. He is at present undergoing recruit training at Rockcliffe, Ontario.

heard about it from the day nurses when she went on shift, and all of them saw that the young physician's career here was assured.

"If it just doesn't make some of the older doctors' jealous," Mrs. Nagel worried.

"It won't. There's room for all" The hospital matron said that But I do hear he's actually cutting quite a figure in society too. They say he actually kicked young Martin Deale down last night."

"No!"

"Yes! A number of people saw it. Out near the well. And the Deales came here in 1871."

"I," Mrs. Nagel corrected.

"I, Miss Frankie Haltom said. She—

"I don't care, It was '72. My father knew them. He used to say that old man Nathan Deale—"

"No matter," the day matron finally retreated. "Young Martin is deeply rooted Respectable people."

DOMINION-WIDE OLD-AGE PENSION SCHEME MOOTED

Will Discuss Matter At Constitution Parley

Ottawa, Oct. 4 (CP)—A Dominion-wide contributory old-age pension scheme will be among matters discussed at the forthcoming Dominion-Provincial conference on the constitution.

Health Minister Martin told the Commons Monday night that discussion will inevitably arise at the conference on the attitude of the provinces toward the idea of giving the federal government power to introduce such a scheme.

Need for Dominion-provincial agreement would result from the fact that at present the federal government did not have the constitutional power to bring in the plan.

Mr. Martin made the statements during debate on a resolution sponsored by Angus Maclonis (CCF—Vancouver East) which called on the federal government to co-operate with the provinces in formulating a National social-security scheme.

The resolution, discussed on a day devoted to private members' business, would be long debated at adjournment and thus moved to the bottom of the list of private members' resolutions. It probably will not come up again at this session.

Resolution Submitted

M. Maclnnis led off discussion of the resolution which said:

"That, in the opinion of this House, the government should seek the co-operation of the provinces for the purpose of formulating a program of social security that will be national in scope; assistance in its provisions, and that will cover all citizens . . . Canada in present circumstances where the individual or the family is, for any reason deprived of the opportunity of earning a living."

Double A-Bomb Output May be Asked by Truman As Answer to Russia's Effort

Nashville, Tenn., Oct. 4. (AP) — President Truman will ask Congress to double the United States atom bomb production program as an answer to Russia's possession of that weapon, the Nashville Tennessean reports today.

Truman, at the request of the United States Atomic Energy Commission will ask for emergency funds before Congress adjourns, the paper says in a copyrighted Washington dispatch.

The A.E.C., the article says, wants the President to ask Congress to double its 1950 appropriation of $378,000,000 and to approve $30,000,000 to $50,000,000 more construction during the present fiscal year.

(Senator Bourke Hickenlooper, (Rep. Iowa), said last week in Washington that appropriations for the U.S. atom weapon program allowed in advance for Russian developments.

(Congress already has voted about $5,000,000,000.)

The A.E.C. has been working on plans for a tremendous expansion in bomb production for the last six months, according to the article in the Tennessean, and now feels that the urgency of the armament race with Russia demands immediate action.

SURVIVOR TELLS OF HILARITY ON SHIP BEFORE FIRE

Had Complained of Noise to Officer

Toronto, Oct. 4 — (CP) —Capt. William Taylor of Sarnia, master of the steamer Noronic, took the witness stand today before a federal inquiry into the disastrous fire which swept through his ship with the loss of at least 130 lives.

The grey-haired, 66-year-old captain said he was unable to produce his captain's certificate for it was lost in the fire.

Earlier the court heard S. J. Orth, a survivor from Detroit, testify he had complained of hilarity and late merry-making on the ship prior to the fire.

Late Parties

Orth, an insurance agent, said parties aboard the Noronic went on until as late as 2.30 with some passengers more hilarious than others.

He said he, his wife and two other members of his family boarded the ship at Detroit Sept. 14. All occupied cabins on B deck where the holocaust is believed to have broken out.

Orth said the behaviour of passengers from the time his party got on was typically that of an excursion crowd. "There was some hilarity aboard. In the ordinary sense the behaviour was quite satisfactory."

"Does that apply to all passengers?" asked J. M. Godfrey, assistant commission counsel.

"Yes and no," Orth replied. "Some were bent on having fun and they continued until the night of the fire."

Made a Complaint

"Did you make any complaint?"

"Following the first night out — sometime Thursday morning — I had a talk with the assistant to the purser and asked him if the ship maintained some sort of a cabin watch whereby comfort and rest of the passengers would be considered after a certain hour of the night.

He mentioned, in particular that the previous night there was funmaking and dancing on the carpet in the corridor. All this time men and women with lighted cigarets in their hands . . . I was concerned about the danger of mixing cigarets and alcohol at that hour of the morning."

Orth said he asked whether any steps were taken to control that sort of thing and whether any regular cabin watch was maintained.

Clerk Testifies Guay Bought Large Insurance Policy

Placed $10,000 on Wife's Life 3 Days Before Crash

By WILLIAM STEWART
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Quebec, Oct. 4 — (CP) — A pretty airline-office attendant testified today that J. Albert Guay bought a $10,000 insurance policy on the life of his wife three days before she was killed with 23 others in a plane crash Sept. 9.

The witness was dark-haired, petite Lucille Levesque, employee of Canadian Pacific Airlines, who appeared as a witness at Guay's preliminary hearing on a charge of murdering his wife.

Guay is alleged to have arranged for a time bomb to be planted aboard the plane. The Crown maintains the explosion occurred about 40 miles east of Quebec, sending the plane crashing into rugged, wooded country.

Miss Levesque said she sold Guay a ticket for his wife's passage from Quebec to Baie Comeau, Sept. 6, three days before the flight ended in disaster.

Enquired About Rates

She declared that at the same time, Guay inquired about passenger-insurance rates and was informed they were $5 cents for $5,000 insurance, 50 cents for $10,000 and $1.25 for $25,000.

Guay thought $10,000 was "sufficient" and bought a policy for that $40.50 for his wife's fare.

Miss Levesque was the fourth witness of the hearing which opened before a court room packed a half-hour before the start with a chattering crowd.

Guay finished by two policemen was led in at 10:47 a.m.

First witness was Frank Harley of Montreal, in charge of C.P.A. Maintenance for Quebec district. He testified in English.

He described the plane involved in the Sept. 9 disaster. He said it was a twin-engine 26-passenger plane and carried a crew of four.

He said he last saw the plane at 8:45 a.m., Sept. 9 before its departure from Dorval airport.

Not Interested in Testimony

While Hartley gave his testimony, Guay sat sideways in the box resting his right elbow on it. He did not seem interested in the testimony.

Hartley, questioned by Crown Prosecutor Noel Dorion, said that his knowledge everything was in order when the plane left Montreal en route to Baie Comeau.

Hartley's testimony was mostly about the technicalities of aircraft maintenance. He was not questioned by defence counsel, Bertrand Monette.

Next witness was Marcel Boisvert of Montreal, also employed for C.P.A., in Canadian Service and supervisor of C.P.A. pilots in his district.

Evidence in French

Boisvert said the pilot of the crashed plane was Pierre Laurin of Quebec and that Laurin was with Ferry Command during the war, returned to C.P.A. after

GUNFIRE, DEATH BREAK BRIEF CALM IN COAL STRIKE

Staggering Cost of $30,000,000 Being Incurred by Walkouts

Pittsburgh, Oct. 4 (AP)—Gunfire and death broke the brief calm in the strife-scarred mine fields a. the twin strikes of 600,000 United States Steel and Coal Workers ground on today at a staggering cost of more than $30,000,000 a week.

John L. Lewis's 400,000 soft-coal diggers have been strike-idle since Sept. 19. That's 16 payless weeks.

And 500,000 of Philip Murray's C.I.O. steelworkers last Saturday struck 25 per cent of the country's steel mill. and iron-ore mines.

President are involved in both disputes.

Steel picketing is orderly and quiet everywhere.

Little Peace in Fields

But there has been little peace in the U.S. coal fields. A week ago gunfire, explosions and explosions ripped the mining countryside.

Violence broke out anew Monday.

Matt Bunch, United Mine workers International representative said 20 union miners on a "peaceful mission" were ambushed at Pikeville, Tenn., by non-union miners. Three men were shot, one severely. Two others were missing. No arrests were made.

Bunch said between 75 and 100 shots were fired by men hiding behind trees. The 20 United Mine miners walked up a small path toward a non-union mine.

BODY RECOVERED

Cornwall, Oct. 4 — (CP)—The body of Ivan Bergin Lake, 25, Thorold, was recovered Sunday from Bergin Lake, six miles west of Cornwall. Hawthorn, second engineer of the freighter Shelter Island, was drowned Sept. 27 when a punt he and two companions were using in order to shoot gulls sized. The body was shipped to Thorold Sunday night for burial Tuesday.

Hurricane Hits Houston After 100-Mile-an-Hour Winds Pound Rich Texas Coast

Houston, Oct. 4 — (AP) — A hurricane which came screeching out of the Gulf smashed into this Texas metropolis early today and surprised everyone by doing little damage.

A few plate-glass store windows were broken as the wind swept in behind torrential rains which flooded streets and underpasses.

One person was reported missing.

An exact estimate of total damage was impossible until further checks could be made. But it appeared heavier damage was to come at noon, and that the coast's vast and sprawling industry was relatively unhurt.

The New Orleans Weather Bureau in a 8 a.m. E.D.T. advisory said that winds should diminish as the hurricane moved inland. But within 25 miles of the centre of the hurricane they raged at a speed of 100 miles an hour.

Hurricane warnings may have been lifted on the big winds of human casualties.

Most towns in its path were buttoned up, many residents had fled to inland cities. Five thousand persons took shelter in Houston's city auditorium and Rice Institute colleges.

Freeport, Galveston, Texas City, Angleton, Alvin and many other smaller towns were in the hurricane's path as it roared in from the Gulf of Mexico toward Houston.

The big winds sent a litter of debris flying into numerous towns and villages. They ripped up small trees, uprooted some flimsy structures and blasted a rich, ripe rice crop.

ROBT. G. DOBBS DIES IN HOSPITAL AFTER BIKE CRASH

Son of Mr. and Mrs. Garn Dobbs of This City Fatally Injured Near Ivy Lea

Robert G. Dobbs, sixteen-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Garn. E. Dobbs, 186 Yeomans Street, died in Kingston General Hospital on Monday night as a result of injuries received in a motorcycle accident on Sunday evening.

The youth was riding with Douglas Norton in the vehicle returning from a visit to the United States late Sunday night. After they had crossed the international bridge at Ivy Lea, it is stated that the overtaking automobile did not dim its lights and the glare caused Norton to lose control.

Young Dobbs suffered severe head injuries which eventually proved fatal. He was rushed to Kingston General Hospital immediately following the accident and never regained consciousness. Norton was severely shaken but escaped serious injury. Provincial Police Constable Jack Gray, Gananoque investigated the accident.

The late Robert Dobbs was born in this city and was a third year student at the Collegiate Institute here. He was a member of Holloway Street United Church and also of the Kinsmen Boys' Band.

Resting at the Belleville Burial Home where the funeral will take place on Thursday, the funeral arrangements appear elsewhere in this edition.

Poaching Ring Active Says Game Overseer

Kirkland Lake, Oct. 4 (CP) — T. H. Fowke, chief game overseer for Timiskaming district, said Monday that an airborne poaching ring is operating with wild life in the district. Fowke says the ring uses an unlighted plane which flies at night, transporting illegal furs along with moose and deer meat. Fowke reported threats against game wardens and said also that the ring keeps them under constant surveillance. They will know where to operate without being caught.

Hard Luck Still Holding Out On Harold Wilson's Speed Boat

Picton, Oct. 4—(CP)— Harold Wilson's hard luck was still holding out on the fourth and perhaps final day of his bid to crack the world's speedboat record with his Miss Canada IV.

The elements—an early morning rain followed by a stiff southwest wind and choppy, white-capped water may keep the craft at its dock pounding throughout the afternoon. There is a possibility local speedboat officials may ask the American Powerboat Association for a 24-hour extension but this request will not be made until at least sundown.

Mr. Wilson grew distraught and the sharp-nosed craft makes an official run the "reprieve" may be necessary. Last changes at the Ingersoll, Ont., driver taking over the controls of his mail grew dimmer as time passed.

Miss Canada Monday night made an hour with an official 142.3 bettered the late Sir Malcolm Campbell's world mark of 141.7 m.p.h. but it will not go on the books. It was over only one leg of the 2-hour trial course and miles call for an average speed over two one-mile runs. Miss Canada did not make the second leg because of mirror-smooth water, a condition the ideal six-inch chop is less than 15 minutes.

Calm waters caused so much suction that she "dragged and Wilson said he was unable to get the throttle cabin set for such an official run.

Miss Canada went out for a trial spin shortly after 8 a.m. today and the boat was docked for a change of spark plugs. Then she will be completely refueled, and the run will be made in the southeast and the craft had to be packed up on her trailer in readiness for the first break in the weather.

Monday's fast run which began over the North America record was the fifth test run since Saturday. Wilson has set a North American record of 138.6 miles an hour, 72 miles better than the previous mark, in test run Sunday.

Court Suspended Sentence on Man For Bigamy

Toronto, Oct. 4 — (CP) — A 43-year-old father of five children was given a two-year suspended sentence and ordered to appear before the court at any time he may be called during that period when he was convicted of a charge of bigamy Monday.

The man pleaded guilty marrying one woman in April, 1925, and another in April, 1946. He said these were both legal ceremonies of marriage and he had not obtained a divorce or had his first marriage annulled. He had two children by his first marriage and three by his second.

The man pleaded not guilty. The jury found him guilty but recommended leniency.

Judge Forsyth said he would not send the man to jail for the benefit of his second wife and three young children.

Bevin Confers With Cabinet In Ottawa

Ottawa, Oct. 4. (CP)—Britain's Foreign Secretary Bevin conferred with the Canadian Cabinet today in an atmosphere which underlined a fairly recent and almost unanimous Canadian attitude in the world situation which has not been markedly jarred even by the Russian explosion.

Quarters close to the talks said Mr. Bevin presented a pessimistic picture in what he had to say, first to Prime Minister St. Laurent, Trade Minister Howe and Defence Minister Claxton, the three Ministers who attended the fairs, and later to the whole Cabinet.

There were unconfirmed reports that one of the subjects discussed was Britain's recognition of the Chinese Communist government.

The British Foreign Office has said it will consult other Commonwealth countries and the Atlantic Pact Allies before taking a stand. It is understood that Canada will try to share in a general western stand on recognition of a Communist regime. Whatever Mr. Bevin had to say was not made public.

Fear, Superstition Exile Leprosy Victim as Disgrace to Society

A pretty girl received a bracelet. Her parents were serving in the Pacific islands. It was a lovely piece of native craftsmanship.

After a time she noticed some blotches on her skin. They didn't go away, even when she stopped wearing the bracelet. Her doctor examined her weird, said "Leprosy."

The bracelet had been made by a Leper, and the girl got the disease from it. She was doomed to a life of exile among other lepers.

I heard that story twice, in two different cities. Each time the storyteller said he knew someone who knew someone who knew the family.

The story isn't true, of course. But it combines most of the main false ideas and superstitions about leprosy. They date from Biblical times, when the "leper" was an object of fear, horror and disgust.

Today the germ-spread theory still carries this terrible burden. The deep-rooted ideas, still popular, make vit one of the diseases of false shame and fear.

But let's look at the facts.

Leprosy is caused by a rod-shaped bacteria, discovered in 1873 by Norwegian Dr. Gerhard Henrik Armauer Hansen. The germ is hard to isolate and grow in test tubes. The mice didn't get into this.

Australian Held By Kidnappers Is Released

Sydney, Australia, Oct. 4 (AP) — Solomon Ravdell, wealthy 69-year-old Melbourne business man who was kidnapped from his home Saturday night was released by his abductors Sunday.

Police said they believed Ravdell had been released without the payment of a £25,000 ($53,750) ransom demanded by his abductors.

Ravdell was turned out of a car near Tollyho, 15 miles from Melbourne. Both eyes were blackened, there was a gash on his head and his wrists were chafed by ropes.

Ravdell told police he had been held in a small room for four days and had been given only cups of tea to drink. Advertised tape was kept over his eyes. He said he was released after paying £ 25,000 which he told them neither he nor his son could afford.

NO SUNDAY DELIVERY

Toronto, Oct. 4 — (CP) —Sunday milk deliveries to Toronto homes will be stopped at the end of the year, James McKinnon, chairman of Donaldson Dairy, said today. He said the decision was made last night by the Milk Distributors' Association of Toronto. It would be announced officially at the end of the year.

"The drivers say they are entitled to a five-day week," he said, "and if this is realized we'll have to stop our delivery day to make a saving."

WEATHER SYNOPSIS

Toronto, Oct. 4 (CP)—Synopsis—In the White River and Kirkland Lake regions of Ontario it is generally eastward and skies are clearing. Prospects are for a frosty night, but Wednesday's sunshine should put temperatures back up to 60 degrees. The picture is not bright in Southwestern Ontario, mild moist air continues to flow over the region. There are suspicions where extensive drizzle and some fog occurred this morning. The cool air of the north will likely push south of the Lower Lakes by Monday. Similar conditions are not anticipated. A large rain area appears to be developing northward over the Mississippi Valley and is expected to reach the Lower Lakes area sometime Wednesday.

War is Not Inevitable Says Henderson

San Antonio, Tex., Oct. 4. (AP)—Loy Henderson, United States ambassador to Iran, declared Monday that "war is not inevitable." Stopping at Randolph Air Force base here on a flight from Washington to U.S. installations Henderson added, "I don't think it (war) is even around the corner." He is in the U.S. after attending a dedication of Memorial Gates in Trenton, Ont.

North America's First Jetliner And Built in Canada Unveiled

Toronto, Oct. 4 — (CP)—North America's first jet-powered commercial transport, the Canadair-designed and built Avro Jetliner, will be unveiled to the public today.

The flight comes almost forty years to the hour after Wilbur Wright made the first flight of any kind in a heavier-than-air craft at New York on Oct. 4, 1909.

After two months of test flights, officials of A. V. Roe Canada Limited will point the big craft through its paces for military and civilian aviation officials and members of the press here. Canadian flying officers from the British Joint Services Mission at Washington will also be present.

Trade Minister Howe, Air Marshal W. A. Curtis, Chief of Staff of the R. C. A. F., and Clarence Steinhardt, U. S. Ambassador to Canada, are flying from Ottawa to watch the jetliner perform. Also attending will be officers from aviation officials and aviation editors of Canadian and U.S. publications.

Another Canadian achievement, a new jet fighter plane, will make its maiden flight before the end of the year. Officials hope that this Canadian-designed and Canadian-built jet fighter will be more than a match for Russian flying conditions than either the British Vampire Jet now used by the R.

FOUR FROM CITY TRAVEL TO N.Y. FOR WORLD SERIES

It seems that all you have to do is pick the winners of the National and American baseball leagues, and, presto, along comes a good genii with a pair of tickets for the world series.

While it may have been mere coincidence that the teams called the Dodgers and Yankees to win their respective pennants, he left this morning with his "boss" Murray Davis, district supervisor of the Brewery Workmen Company for New York where they will see the big series.

Other city baseball enthusiasts who will see the series are Jack Yanover, proprietor of the Queen's Hotel and William (Bill) Nugent, who are flying to Gotham tonight.

Obituary

MRS. EMMA DENTES
(Formerly of Elzn's Hill)

Many friends were startled when William A. Denyes, formerly of Thurlow township, died in his home in Toronto on Monday after a lengthy illness.

Born in Thurlow township the late Mrs. Denyes had reached an advanced age being in her 88th year. She was a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. M. Diamond. Prior to moving to Toronto forty years ago she resided on the Denyes homestead at Zion's Hill. During the years she lived there she was highly esteemed in the community and took an active part in the work or organizations of the Zion Hill Church.

Surviving are one daughter, Mrs. Percy (Alma) Parliament, Toronto, and one son, Wellington Denyes of Ivy.

Notice of the funeral, which will take place from the C.N.R. station here on Thursday, is made in this edition.

LATE WILLIAM EYES

The funeral of William Eyes, late resident of Foxboro, Ont., was held Monday afternoon from the Grant Funeral Home, North Park Street, with Rev. Henry Tabb in charge. Interment was made in the family plot in Belleville Cemetery.

(Ramsden Township)

Stirling, Oct. 4, (Special)—Mrs. Emma Beatrice Summers, widow of James Summers, died at the home of her son, Cyrus Summers, Mount Pleasant, Rawdon township, on Saturday after she was in failing health for some years.

The late Mrs. Summers was born in Rawdon township and all her life was passed there. Her parents were Mr. and Mrs. Henry Lake and his wife the late Ann Hamilton. She was in her 81st year. Before age, being in her 81st year.

She was a member of Mount Pleasant United Church and when age and health permitted she took an active part in its work.

Mrs. Summers was the last of a family of five children. She is survived by three daughters, Mrs. James Sharpe, Stirling; Mrs. William Johnston, Rednal, and Mrs. Orr Thrasher, Stirling; one son, Cyrus Summers of Mount Pleasant, Rawdon township; also seven grandchildren, 23 great grandchildren and two great great grandchildren.

The funeral announcement is made in this edition.

HARRY FOSBAY
(Retired Postmaster)

Harry Foshay, Trenton district died in the Belleville General Hospital Saturday evening of the 24 years of age and was a patient in the hospital since Sept. 15th.

REV. DR. CHARLES S. REDDICK
(Springville) (Contributed)

Word was received here on the late Saturday evening of the death of Rev. Dr. Charles Reddick at Springville near Peterborough.

The late Dr. Reddick was born seventy years ago near Shelbridge, receiving his early education there at the public school and later at Albert College, Belleville. After completing his theological courses at Victoria College he received the former Methodist Church and since union, the United Church at Bloomfield, Jmetville, West Huntingdon, Lakefield, Omemee, East Seymour and Whitevale.

During his active ministry, Dr. Reddick volunteered for home mission work and worked among the Indians on the upper British Columbia coast.

A few years ago he retired from the active ministry but shortly returned to serve the rural district of Springville where he died on Saturday last.

Dr. Reddick was twice married. His first wife was Theresa Young of Napanee. In 1946 he married Mrs. Emma Bernie of Whitevale, who survives his wife, three son and two daughters; Horace of Ottawa; Harvard of Toronto; Bruce and Helen at St. Catharines and Marjorie of Sarnia.

Having served the West Huntingdon circuit north of the city and in Bloomfield in Prince Edward County, the late Dr. Reddick was well known in this area. Charles Reddick was also active in his church and generation well. Possessed of a kindly and understanding spirit, his interest in people extended far beyond the boundaries of his own charge. He frequently returned to former charges and his friendship for local and events was outstanding.

His funeral was conducted from the Springville United Church on Monday afternoon to Whitevale Cemetery where interment took place. The service was in charge of Rev. Dr. Bruce Gordon, chairman of Peterborough Presbytery, assisted by Rev. E. W. Rowland.

BORDEN DEFINED.

The Ashburton treaty, concluded in 1842 between British and the United States, fixed the boundary between New Brunswick and Maine. Sir Robert Borden defined it.

Sharp Interchange of Words Features Discussion on Sale of Lots in Bayview Area

Delay of housing contractors in taking up building lots in the Bayview area north or the highway in the former County Home property resulted in a rather sharp interchange of words at the regular meeting of council Monday evening.

The discussion started when Alderman Armstrong introduced a recommendation calling for three lots in the above sub-division to be turned over to the Tatham Company.

"Does that mean that Tathams want only three of the number of lots which they agreed to take?" asked Alderman Thomas.

"They have offered to take 62 of the lots in the Bayview subdivision," returned Alderman Armstrong.

"Yes, but we have nothing in the by-laws or writing to bind them to their word," said Alderman Clarke.

Alderman Lattimer asked if there was no agreement between the City Solicitor and Tathams and there should be a formal contract.

Clarke Said Fair

Alderman Lloyd was not in favor of disposing the lots in individual subdivisions when they had agreed to take a certain number. "Tathams struggle who said he felt sure contractors were willing to take as soon as their position was clarified.

Recommendation Carried

The recommendation for Tatham Company to take three lots was carried by an 8-5 majority with Aldermen Jack Allin, Harry Armstrong, Percy Duffy, Hyde, Tice and Wilbur approving, and Aldermen Clarke, Lattimer, Lloyd, Thomas and Thomas opposing. A recommendation to sell a strip of 24 lots to the Mayer Construction Company also carried.

The sum of $75 was voted to be used in the promotion of fire prevention week, scheduled for all week, while a radio phone equipment for the fire chief's car was approved by council.

Alderman Duffy explained the phone equipment would place the local department on a more efficient basis as it would then be possible to contact the fire chief when he was in his car or at a fire. The radio phone equipment would be used in conjunction with that operated by the police department.

Council also approved of the mayor making an annual inspection of the fire department to ascertain the standard of training; for inspection of the equipment to ascertain if it is being kept in proper condition and also to include inspection of the department books and ledgers to ascertain if they are properly kept and up to date.

Inspect All Phases

It was explained this would give the chief magistrate the opportunity of inspecting all phases of the fire department to assure that everything was in order.

An asphalt apron will be laid in front of the new fire hall on Moira St. to cover the present dust face of crushed rock. It was felt that more shovelling in the winter would cause the uncovered crushed rock to be thrown onto lawns.

Stop streets in the Parkwood Heights district were designated by council while the solicitor was authorized to prepare the necessary by-law to prohibit left hand turns at the Bridge and Coleman Street intersection. Hours during which left turns would be prohibited are from 12 noon to 2 and from four to six in the afternoon.

Service Discontinued

The Rooms Registry service which during the war and later was instrumental in acquiring living accommodation for service personnel and others, will be discontinued. It was felt that all available rooms rentals were now being advertised in the local press.

The McFarland Construction Company was authorized to proceed with the laying of the boulevard removal and street widening. Certain aspects of this work had been held up owing to delay on the part of the public utilities commission in removing poles from the boulevards.

Fred's Battery Shop, Pinnacle Street, was granted permission to install a gasoline storage tank on the property. Previously, while McIntosh and Holway service station was granted permission to install a gasoline storage tank on the corner Bridge and Coleman Sts.

The light committee was authorized to add street lighting in order that a power saving may be effected during the current power shortage.

To Plant Trees

A committee of Aldermen Lattimer and Lamming was named to supervise the planting of 500 Norway maples purchased to replace trees that have been cut along city streets.

"Does that mean that Tathams want only three of the number of lots which they agreed to take?" asked Alderman Thomas.

"They have offered to take 62 of the lots in the Bayview subdivision," returned Alderman Armstrong.

Wm. R. Foyer Joins Staff Of Y.M.C.A.

William Robert Pope has been appointed secretary responsible for general program at the YMCA according to an announcement made by the general secretary, Al J. Davis. Mr. Pope assumed his duties today.

Born in Picton, Nova Scotia, he graduated in arts at Dalhousie university and also spent two years in theology at the Pine Hill Divinity School. During his college years he was a student minister in the United Church of Canada.

That he is qualified to enter the YMCA as a professional secretary, which he is doing at Belleville, is evident from his years as a participant in the activities of the Halifax association. He was a member of the swimming team, active in the gymnastics' club, a member of the leaders' corps and a member of the craft and hobbies' department. He has been a participant in tennis, hockey, badminton, basketball and table tennis—and during his college career won his letter and several cups.

Was Newspaperman

This newest of the YMCA secretaries, coming to strengthen the Belleville staff, has had a flare for writing and has been editor-in-chief of the Dalhousie publication, as well as being on the staff of the Halifax Chronicle and the Halifax Radio Station CHNS.

He is a member of the United Church and has been active in Sunday School and Young People's work.

He and Robert Fowler are coordinating their efforts in spearheading a new phase of the Y's program which is already under way. "The schedule of activities for adults and boys and girls is in operation and while there may be some minor adjustment the 'Y' is now ready to serve the community in a wide variety of activities in physical, social and educational nature, in which there is a place for everyone 10 years of age and over. Some activities include discussion groups, clubs, basketball, volleyball, leadership training, gymnasium, handball, badminton, volleyball, boxing, wrestling and swimming.

The directors have stressed that where the low membership fee is still a hardship to participation by those who can pay for services the YMCA is ready to carry out its long standing policy of service without charge to the ability of the person to pay. Support of the Red Feather Community Chest means a continuation and extension of this service.

Rotarians Told About Festival At Kingston

Ken Moncreif, Past President of the Rotary Club of Kingston, was the guest speaker at the weekly luncheon of the Rotary Club of Belleville held at the Hotel Quinte on Monday. Mr. Moncreif is the Music Festival Competition to be held in Kingston the week of February 13, 1961.

Mr. Moncreif pointed out that although the contest was first suggested by the Rotary Club of Kingston, it has been a success only through the co-operation of the clubs in the district affected. He said that the festival attracted from Cornwall to Cobourg plus a similar district south of the border in the United States.

Briefly tracing the history of such music festivals, he said that the first one was held in England in 1875. The first festival to be held in Canada was at Edmonton 45 years ago.

Mr. Moncreif pointed out that the festival would have many purposes listed but the most interesting the public in good music and that of finding unknown talent.

He said that scholarships would be established for the winners along with certificates and trophies. He concluded by pointing out that the outstanding feature of this type of festival is the fact that there was no restriction on the type of music.

President Cliff Deacon announced that October 31 will be farmers' day. He asked each member to come and bring a farmer guest to hear the Deputy Minister of Agriculture who will be the guest speaker on that occasion.

Council to Ask Approval Of Municipal Board for New School in East End of City

Approval of the Ontario Municipal Board for a $300,000 debenture issue for the construction at a new public school in the east end of the city will be asked by the local city council.

This was decided at the regular meeting of council Monday evening when a recommendation from Alderman Chas. Hyde was tabled calling for the request of the Belleville Board of Education to be acceded to. The board request was that the city seek approval for the debenture issue.

Harold C. Selden, chairman of sites and accommodation for the local Board of Education, addressed council relative to the need for a new school in the east end of the city. He pleaded for immediate action regarding the approval of the debenture issue for $300,000 and thus enable prompt action in getting the new school started.

Mr. Selden stated there was serious over-crowding in the city public schools in the four public schools in the city was but 1600 pupils, he said.

Staggered Classes

In effect this crowding in two of the four schools staggered classes had to be operated while at one public school afternoon classes were being operated at the same time in the same room. Also some grade VIII pupils from distant parts of the city were required to go to King George School and in other schools basement rooms were being utilized, he said.

"According to the present increase in enrolment about 150 more pupils were attending public schools each year," he said.

The Board of Education is disturbed that council may allow the construction of the new school to be decided by the vote of the taxpayers," Mr. Selden went on. "If construction of the school was turned down by the taxpayers there would not be another vote until next year and by that time schools would be hopelessly overcrowded."

13 Classrooms Required

He said that present plans called for a minimum of 13 classrooms in the proposed school, which would be constructed east of MacDonald Ave. A survey of the city had indicated that at least that number of classrooms would be required by 1954 and this was the reason for consideration the likely large number of pupils who would come from the veterans' rental houses being constructed south of the highway on the county home property.

The new school would be laid out so that additional classrooms could be added, if necessary.

Mr. Selden referred to the new Prince Charles school now under construction on Ridley Ave. and stated the building was about 60 per cent completed. The school would accommodate 200 pupils but would be filled immediately on completion.

Alderman Tice wanted to know the action of the Department of Education should council and also the ratepayers turn down the request for a new school. He was told by Alderman Hyde that in such a case the Department would not demand construction of a new school but that the city might stand to lose by way of school grants if proper educational standards were not maintained.

Refers to Grants

Board secretary Arnold Camp-bell referred to the large school grants received by the city and pointed out the city would stand to lose considerable if these were reduced.

Dennis Swan, president of the Parkwood Heights Homeowners' Association, referred to the fortnight old council in establishing new houses at areas in the city as providing new sewers, roads, lights and school sites. He also stressed that a new school was equally important and urged that there be no delay that would make an early start impossible.

Asks Question

Acting Mayor H. J. Clarke replied to the questions raised by the east part of the city was not overlooked in the least by the west and said this would be only natural when the greatest population was in the west end.

In reply Mr. Selden pointed out that two years ago the population growth was in the west and the housing development in the east end. He explained that when the eastern development was seen, plans for the school in the west were reduced from 14 to six rooms. "It was fortunate there was a delay in the new school or we then changed to fit the pic-ture," he said.

BULPITT — In loving memory of a dear wife and mother, Madelene Bulpitt, who passed away October 4, 1957.
Time speeds on, two years have flown
Since death its gloom, its shadows cast
Within our home, where all seemed bright and fair.
We miss that light, and ever will,
Though silently we bear it still.
Down here we mourn, but not in vain
For up in Heaven we will meet again.
Sadly missed and never forgotten by husband and two sons, Stanley and Gerald. O6

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, Oct. 4 — (CP) — Prices slowly recovered early losses and quietly climbed into the gain column on the Toronto Stock Exchange today.

Activity increased as key issues began to show gains. Bulk of interest centred in a few mining issues. Golds and base metals, widest losers in the forenoon, climbed steadily. Western oils showed moderate firmness and industrials were mixed.

Volume for the first four hours was 944,000 shares, about 260,000 shares more than yesterday's similar period.

Donalda Mines, with property in the Rouyn district, Northern Quebec, featured golds. Monday this issue climbed strongly following diamond drilling. Profit-taking sales held the price in check today but activity continued brisk.

Senior golds showed fractional gains and Upper Canada, a high-light of recent markets, was in strong demand in juniors.

Calgary and Edmonton gained 20 cents at $6.20 in a higher Western Oil list and Noranda, Malartic, Hudson Bay and East Sullivan firmed in Base Metals.

International Paper climbed to a new high in a strong paper list while utilities and liquors slipped fractions.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

Toronto, Oct. 4 (CP)—Prices were generally steady in cattle trading at the Toronto stock yards this morning. Receipts reported by the Dominion marketing service were: Cattle, 725; calves, 460; hogs, 400; sheep and lambs, 300. Left from the previous close were 1,000 cattle.

Plain to medium weighty steers were $18-$21.21 and a few good light steers to $21.50. Good heifers sold at $18.50-$19 with plain steers and heifers selling down to 16. Medium to good cows were $13.50-$15 and good bulls $16-$17.25. Plain bulls ranged downward to $13. Fed yearlings were steady at $18.50-$20. Good calves brought $18.50-$19.25 with plain stockers selling downward to $14.50.

Calves in firm at $26-28 for choice quality vealers. The plain to medium grades ranged from $18-$24. Grass calves for slaughter brought $13-$15.

PRODUCE MARKET

Toronto, Oct. 4. (CP)—Produce prices quoted on the Toronto market this morning follow: Churning Cream, No. 1, 60 cents F.O.B., Toronto.

Butter prints were unquoted.

The egg market was slightly easier the former side this morning. There was a good demand for Grade A large eggs. Country shippers quoted graded eggs, cases free—Grade A large, 59; A medium 47-48; A pullet 39; Grade B lum 47-48; Grade C 35-36. Wholesale to retail: Grade A large 53-54; A medium 53-54; A pullet 42-44; Grade B 52-53; Grade C 40-41.

Non tenderable first grade butter solids were 58 1-2 to 59 3-4. Second grades were quoted at 55-57.

4-Room Separate School Will be Built in Thurlow

Construction of a new four-room school just outside the city limits in Thurlow township is proposed by the Belleville Separate School Board, it has been learned.

The new school would be of one-storey brick construction and would be built at the corner of College Street and North James. Tenders for construction of the new building have been called and were considered at a meeting of the Board held Monday evening. The successful tender will be forwarded to the Department of Education for approval. Estimated cost of the structure was not stated.

A request from the school board for permission to connect with the city sewer was read at Monday night's meeting of city council and was referred to the public works committee.

POLICE COURT

Convicted on a charge of having liquor at a place other than his residence Donald Sullivan, East Moira Street, was sentenced to ten days in jail when he appeared before Magistrate T. Y. Wills in local court today.

Sullivan pleaded guilty to a second charge of joy riding and was remanded for mental examination.

Lieut.-Col. Reg. W. Abraham, OBE., ED., commanding officer of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment (Reserve Army) has relinquished his command, according to a regimental announcement today.

Lieut.-Col. Abraham, has accepted a high administrative post with the Department of Veterans Affairs in Ottawa, and under these circumstances he found it unable to carry on as C.O. of his regiment.

He is succeeded by Lieut.-Col. J. Max Porritt, MC., ED., former second-in-command who assumed his command duties as of Sept. 15.

Col. Abraham leaves the regiment with a record of achievement. His administrative powers enabled him to revive an almost defunct unit to a strength of not more than 80 all ranks to its present position of one of the most active units in the military area with a strength of over 300.

Served in Two Wars

He served in two world wars and the experience gained, together with his natural gifts for administration, enabled him to overcome the many handicaps and difficulties which beset reserve military organizations in peace time.

The Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment is now commencing fall and winter training and has openings for officers and NCO's in its various companies in Trenton, Belleville, Madoc, Picton and Bancroft.

The regiment feels it should have the full support of the community as it represents the active service battalion which so distinguished itself in service with the 1st Brigade, 1st Canadian Division in Sicily, Italy and Holland.

SURVIVOR TELLS

"I was told, 'Well, we can warn these people but we have no way of stopping them'."

Saw Maida Smoking

Orth said that prior to the fire alarm he had seen one of two maids, smoking in a C deck linen closet. And he thought of fire hazard at the time.

Earlier in the inquiry, a member of the crew said he had located the fire in this linen closet.

Orth said after the fire started he and his wife had some difficulty opening the window to the cabin occupied by the other members of the party, both women.

He said the window was finally smashed by a man who had helped him out of his own cabin.

"I wouldn't call him, but he was doing a wonderful job," the witness said of the man whom he described as a ship's officer. The man helped "about 25" passengers off the ship.

Heard the Alarm

Orth said he heard no alarm after being awakened by smoke. The first warning he heard was the whistle. He said the fire department was on the dock by the time he reached the ship's bow.

Orth was unable to identify First Mate Ward as the officer who assisted passengers on the bow.

Orth told counsel for Canada Steamship Lines, ship's owners, he had not reported to any one the maid smoking incident.

John James Moffat, Supervisor of Marine Inspection for the Federal Transport Department who testified last week, was recalled to amplify his evidence of the ship's safety appliances.

He said that in an inspection of the vessel the ship he had been able to establish position of but a single inside hydrant on "A" deck. The plan before the court showed positions for seven.

Three Outside Hydrants

Moffat said there were seven outside hydrants on "A" deck, and that location of these and those on "B" deck corresponded with the plans.

Three hydrants indicated on the "C" deck plan actually were never on the Noronic.

"They were not fitted," said Moffat.

"Never had been fitted" asked Capt. H. S. Kane of Montreal, Commission assessor.

"Never there," the witness answered.

Never Fitted

"Never fitted," said Mr. Moffat.

Capt. Taylor, the next witness, said he had been master of the Noronic for the last eight years.

Would there be any difficulty for a person not a seaman to put out a like ladder?" asked Commission Counsel J. W. Pickup.

Capt. Taylor said he did not think so. He knew of no instructions issued passengers to lower the ladders. The said all ropes were inspected during the last drill prior to the fire. Ropes were not provided as the only means of egress from the ship.

Three Double Doors

Capt. Taylor said there were three doors on each side of the ship on "C" deck. They opened outward, while "screen" doors on each opened inward.

"What do you say as to the advisability of having double doors opening out and screen doors opening in?"

"It probably not the best," said the captain.

Early questioning of Capt. Taylor pertained solely to the outlines of the ship's position of stairways, doors. Several times the captain, who spoke in a hoarse audible voice, was asked to speak up.

His admitted passengers would have no knowledge about stairways in the interior of the ship which was closed to them. He did not reply to a question whether instructions were issued passengers on the existence of such stairways or directions on how they could be reached in an emergency.

23 Fire Stations

Capt. Taylor said there were 13 officers on the Noronic, including himself. There were 23 fire stations, and officers were not allocated to any particular one in the event of a fire.

He said it was the duty of the officers to see that the crew reported to their stations and that fire equipment was in operation.

The Commissioner noted the witness gave the names of only 16 persons assigned to watch 23 fire stations. When pressed for an explanation, Capt. Taylor said there were bell boys and bedswains assigned to the remaining nine stations.

JOHN MORLEY ANDERSON (Montreal)

Montreal, Oct. 4—(CP)—John Morley Anderson, 73, Insurance broker of Toronto and Montreal and a former employee of the Montreal Star, died at his home yesterday following a heart seizure.

Born in Aultsville, Ont., he was educated there and in Belleville.

war service and was given his captain's rank in 1947. Laurin was an "adjutant-general" pilot.

Bolsvert said Laurin had passed his monthly flying test Aug. 10 and had been rated top-grade. Bolsvert then told of tests an airline plane is put through before take-off on a regular flight and identified such documents as the flight plan for the ill-fated Sept. 9 flight.

He said Pilot Laurin was familiar with the route and viability that day was about 15 miles — "excellent".

Interest Lapses

Guay's attention lapsed during testimony about airline operation. He looked at the floor of the prisoner's box in an alcove at one side of the court room. Once or twice he talked to the policeman on his right.

Bolsvert described and identified from charts the location of baggage compartments in a DC-3. A package containing the bomb is said to have been placed in a compartment.

Third witness was Miss Lucille Levesque, passenger ticket clerk in the C. P. A. office in Quebec.

She said her duties included sale of passenger insurance. She said she remembered J. A. Guay perfectly. Guay called at the C. P. A. office Sept. 6. He bought a ticket which his wife for Sept. 7 from Quebec to Baie Comeau.

Miss Levesque told him she had no space for Sept. 7 and if none developed she would give him a ticket for Sept. 8.

Miss Levesque said Guay inquired about insurance sold for passengers and he bought $10,000 worth for Mrs. Guay in addition to the ticket which cost $40.

Asked to be Beneficiary

She said Guay asked that he be put down as beneficiary and Mrs. J. A. Guay was named as the passenger.

Mrs. Guay remained on the waiting list for the Sept. 7 flight. There was a cancellation the morning of the flight. Miss Levesque told Guay about it by telephone about 9 a.m.

Miss Levesque said she asked Guay if he would take the flight. Guay, He replied it was "too late" and Mrs. Guay would travel by train.

Miss Levesque said Mrs. Guay wanted to travel to and from Baie Comeau the same day. When Mrs. Guay was told she couldn't return the same day, she wanted to cancel her trip.

The witness said Guay then urged his wife to go on the Sept. 9 plane, spend the weekend at Baie Comeau and return Monday, Sept. 12.

Miss Levesque said Guay and his wife discussed the matter.

"Guay insisted that he make the flight plan for the 9th," said the witness.

Objects to Testimony

Defence counsel objected to Miss Levesque's testimony about the Guay conversation but it was allowed as "overheard statements."

She said Guay, "who seemed nervous" asked about reports the plane had crashed. Miss Levesque said she touched his question and then Guay and his daughter retired to a chair in the hotel lobby and wept together.

Ovide Breton, driver of an airline taxi service, corroborated Miss Levesque's testimony about discussion between Guay and Mrs. Guay at the ticket counter.

After Breton's testimony, the hearing was adjourned to 2.30 p.m.

TWO - YEAR SENTENCE

Whitby, Oct. 4 — (CP)—William Thomas Harris, of Whitby, was convicted here in charge of slipping bail at Port Perry, July 14. He was sentenced to two years.

Hunters Must Plug Firearms Says Overseer

A word to the wise hunter.

When you stalk that elusive pheasant, partridge or any other game bird, and if you use a pump gun, remember to have the magazine plugged so that it holds but two shells only. You can carry another in the barrel.

That's the word from Game Warden Fred MacDonald, and that official should know whereof he speaks.

If you happen to disregard the warning and are nabbed in the act of carrying more shells in your gun than the law allows, then expensive weapon will be promptly taken out of your care.

And also remember you must carry a license. You must not shoot game on crown preserves or lands designated as such. Nor can you get yourself a brace of partridges on privately-owned lands which have been designated as crown preserves.

Sunday is an off-day for the birds as well as humans. So don't, unless you want to bring down on the head the wrath of the law, discharge any firearm between one half-hour after sunset on Saturday and one half-hour before sunrise the following Monday.

And don't fire that weapon on or across a highway.

And to repeat — don't use any method for auto-loading or repeating shotgun which has not been plugged or altered so as incapable of holding more than three shells at one time in the chamber and magazine.

And if you are the fortunate owner of a gun, don't use it for any other purpose than transportation. The law frowns on aircraft being used for hunting operations.

Don't say you weren't warned.

Local Branch Of Navy League Asks Donation

Local representatives of the local branch of the Navy League of Canada appeared before the council Monday evening seeking a grant of $1,000 to assist them in carrying on the work of the sea cadets in Belleville.

Chairman of the local committee, Dr. Russell J. Scott, pointed out that the sea cadet movement was doing splendid work among the teen-aged boys in the city. He said their building on South Front Street was open at all times to boys free of charge, "if the city were required to make such facilities available, it would cost the taxpayers considerable money," he said.

Dr. Scott said a similar request for $1,000 had been made to council last year and the Navy League had received its cheque for $500.

The request of the delegation was referred to the estimates committee of the 1950 council.

HUNTING SEASON NEARS

That time of year is approaching when the hunters will betake themselves to the north as the game season opens. To many of these the season is the most attractive of the entire year for nature has a haunting, langorous something about it that cannot fail to appeal to the heart and mind of anyone who enters the woods. It is not only the hunting but the freedom of enjoyment of the Canadian autumn in the northern woods that takes men to the woodlands.

Autumn for all its coolness or even cold still exerts a potent influence upon everyone, upon even the man in the city or town. There is something about it that enters into the spirit of the hunters and all others who find or would like to find their way into the woods that nature planted and populated with the game which has been in the northern woods for ages. Canada's northern parts which still are quite near the north, are so rich in attractions that one has only to live in them to know the fullness of their appeal. It is not merely securing the trophies of the chase but the enjoyment of the spirit of the north which draws with irresistible impulse hunters to the forests.

Sometimes there are those of certain unfortunate accidents to mar the enjoyment of the chase. But hunters are well aware of these and accordingly use the greatest care with firearms. However as a safeguard the United States Safety Council has prepared a list of rules which have been tested and proven safe. That decalogue of advice includes the following points to observe to avoid any untoward events such as accidents:

1. Treat every gun with the respect due a loaded gun. This is the cardinal rule of gun safety.
2. Carry only empty guns, taken down or with the action open, into your auto camp and home.
3. Always make sure that the barrel and action are clear of obstructions.
4. Always carry your gun so that you can control the direction of the muzzle, even if you stumble.
5. Be sure of your target before you pull the trigger.
6. Never point a gun at anything you do not want to shoot.
7. Never leave your gun unattended unless you unload it first.
8. Never climb a tree or a fence with a loaded gun.
9. Never shoot at a flat, hard surface or the surface of water.
10. Do not mix gunpowder and alcohol.

At this season all the hunters and those who remain in the north enjoy the season which October and November furnish. For the influence of these weeks is felt by everyone. Not for a year of lasting summer would the people give up the autumn with its haze and richness of coloring in nature and its woods.

REDS FEAR FAIRY TALES

Fairy tales are the heritage of many races and especially of the people of Europe and so it is rather surprising to read that in Czechoslovakia recently the Red edict went forth to remove these folk tales from the text books of the schools. Such is the zeal of Communists who in their deadly earnest mood to wipe out the imagination of individual and people see danger in folklore and wonder tales. It is their fear of the use of the God-given imagination in any form.

It is plainly to be seen that this effort to destroy the tales of imagination is the result of dread and fear that Communism feels of everything that enjoys a widespread appeal. In the long run the fairy story will survive any effort to destroy it.

The fairy tale is rooted in the common thought and philosophy of the average man, woman and child and cannot be destroyed by any edict that would expunge the stories of fairyland from the text books of the junior classes in Czechoslovakia. These are so deeply rooted in the life of the country and in the minds of the people that the effort to suppress them can only make the people like them more and guard them as a treasure.

Red rulers may try as they will, they cannot wipe out that spirit that finds a voice in the fairy tale and sees in it a symbol of the unquenchable human spirit.

DRUG STORE EXPERIENCE

I know the opiates for pain,
In little bottles labelled plain,
With "poison" stamped in letters plain.
I know what soothes an aching head.
I know how tinctures all are mixed,
I know the dry and fluid cure,
Pestle and mortar I have used,
Some Latin terms I can pronounce,
I know the syrups for a cough,
And the old-time lotions and the creams,
Also the powders I could take,
And, oh, how long ago that I learned it!
I know the spirits valatile,
I know valerian's fearful smell,
And what will ants and rodents kill,
For all of these I used to sell.
I know the look of health aglow,
The pallid look of pain and woe,
But joy and grief I'd come to know
Before I'd reached my fourteenth year.
I know the drug store's night and day,
From cellar to the topmost shelf,
Had fate not beckoned me astray,
I might be selling pills myself.

LOOKING BACKWARDS

20 YEARS AGO

Oct. 4th, 1929

Mr. Frank Foley of the Fruit Machinery Company of this city has purchased the Trenton exhibitor from Mr. L. K. Edwards. Mr. E. Ellis will continue to manage the business.

Judge Jermeas, William Lynch has been appointed acting chief of the fire department pending the appointment of a permanent officer.

Miss Clancie Hall left today for Toronto.

Miss Mary Daly, late of New York City, sang a solo in Bridge Street Church Sunday morning.

The Rev. A. H. Jones, pastor of Victoria Avenue Baptist Church, will be the guest speaker at the banquet in Campbellford which is given tomorrow evening by the Campbellford Baptist Young People's Union.

Oct. 4th, 1919

The Belleville Industrial Corporation has been organized with a capital of $200,000.00 of which amount Mr. R. J. Graham purchased to take 50 per cent and the citizens at large to take the balance. The organization has been effected to bring industries to Belleville and a charter has been secured for the same. The prices of shares has been fixed at $10.00. At the organization meeting the following provisional directors were elected: R. J. Graham, Lorne W. Marsh, C. Reid, W. C. Springer, Jas. Pearson and E. W. Ackerman. The Belleville Industrial Corporation will get in touch with prospective industries, examine their merits and requirements as to site, additional capital required and other details and if same seems acquired where such assistance is warranted by the facts. If industries are secured, an important question to be considered is that of housing. It is up to the city council and civic housing committee to get busy at once and see that Belleville's prosperity is not interfered with by lack of proper housing accommodation for help coming to or elsewhere.

Mr. Frank Lynn, an old Belleville boy, now of East Africa, was a passenger on the flyer which went west yesterday and many old Belleville friends were at the station to see him. He was enroute to Toronto where his parents now resides. It will be remembered that Frank Lynn was one of the lads who went from here with the first contingent to take part in the Boer War in Africa and he went through the entire campaign.

Oct. 4th, 1899

Nine Grand Trunk firemen were promoted yesterday to the place of locomotive engineers after having passed the required examinations. They will be assigned to trains running on the 8th and 9th divisions which extend from Port Hope to Brockville. All the successful candidates are from Belleville and are as follows: W. Rogers, J. Gurney, Jesse Barlow, A. Taylor, Herbert Rose, W. J. Corbell, George Smith, J. Stortts and Andrew Kennedy.

Mr. F. B. Parker, of Stirling, a member of the county council, was in town today.

Chaotic State Of Old China Chinese Puzzle

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
(Associated Press News Analyst)

Chinese ability to devise problems which defy solution has given rise in the western world to the term "Chinese puzzle" as descriptive of anything intricate.

That term appropriately represents the chaotic condition to which civil war has brought old China. Staving within her borders more than one-fifth of the globe's population, she continues to be accorded the rank of one of the Big Five world powers. Yet she is part communist and part nationalist, with two rival governments, both claiming the favors of foreign countries.

Russia was quick to recognize the new communist regime established in Peiping, and the Chinese Reds are now seeking official recognition by the rest of the world. Meanwhile the United Nations has before it a Chinese nationalist charge that—Russia is backing the Chinese Reds with military aid.

That is the Chinese puzzle which Britain, the United States and other powers have to solve. It's a tough one and filled with dangers.

Big Stake

Britain announces that she is ready to exchange envoys at once with 18 other countries comprising the North Atlantic Alliance and the British Commonwealth. John Bull has the biggest stake in China of any foreign investments in China and wants to protect them.

That means that the western democracies, which have been battling communism since the last war, must now decide whether they want to compromise in China or to take a stand to resist in this war of the ideologies.

Recognition of the set-up in Peiping government is a hard blow to the nationalist regime in the southern city of Canton. This comes as both sides are deploying their forces for the showdown of the great battle on which hinges possession of China.

If this conflict boils up the Nationalist cabinet has accepted the resignation of the government's Chief - of - Staff, Gen. Ku Chu-Tung, who has been charged with inefficiency. Gen. Hsiao Yi-Tsu, vice-minister of national defence, has been named acting chief-of-staff in this crisis.

One of the most important figures in the new communist government is Gen. Chou En-Lai, who has been premier and foreign minister under the big Red Mao Tse-Tung, proclaimed as the "people's republic of China." Chou now bids fair to provide some of the statesmanship and wise drawing for the benefit of the western democracies.

Ironic Circumstance

Like Nationalist Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek, Gen. Chou as a youth was a disciple of Dr. Sun Yat-Sen, father of the republic. Indeed, Chou worked with Chiang in Canton when Dr. Sun was alive.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

COLOR

We are influenced by color far more than we ever realize. Glancing out from my library window over the tops of more trees, with green foliage, yet here and there a touch of green in every one—no tone exactly the same, the nature there seems to be a perfect blending of color, not matter in what direction my eyes may look.

Every color is emphasized against this background of green—the grass, trees, and shrubs. How poetic are the shades of color, pink, blue, lilac and olive that you note so often in the distant hill at different periods of the day. Then there are the shadows that creep over those same hills which are so fascinating.

It is only in recent years that publishers have paid a great deal of attention to the color used on their book jackets. There is no question but what they influence sales. My library shelves are a fine witness to this fact. Though I do not buy a book because of its jacket, at times one does appeal to me a sense of pleasure and I like its association with the book I buy.

I can never forget the color of the clouds, sky, mountains, homes, and waters as I first approached Painted Desert. There is the greens with those colorful, fragrant leis of natural flowers, furnished a thrill that is not to be met with elsewhere. Color in dress is so uplifting. It is a good thing that men are now adopting radical and unusual colors in the ties that they wear, and in many of their garments of fits. They could well adopt more color in their socks and pajamas. Women's gowns cannot be too colorful, if in good taste.

Coming through New England recently, how I loved the white painted houses with green shutters, they almost seemed to sing out a song. Sunrises and sunsets do this. They are veritable poems in color. Colorful birds are always a thrill and joy. How much we owe to the Creator for all the color which He put into the world.

TRANSPORT IN ACCIDENT, DRIVER HAS BACK INJURY

Peterborough, Oct. 3 — (CP) — Lucky is the word for transport driver Orval Weese of Peterborough. When the steering wheel on his truck jammed near here Saturday, the vehicle struck a driveway, leaped into the air and smashed into an oak tree. Weese was thrown clear. He suffered a back injury.

ATTEMPTED MURDER CHARGE TO BE WITHDRAWN

Sudbury, Oct. 3 — (CP) — Crown Attorney D. H. Wilkins said today that a charge of attempted murder against Atti Kangas, 46-year-old Finnish lumber worker, will be withdrawn. It was learned that Kangas has been committed to an Ontario mental institution.

Air-Borne Fish Poaching Ring Operates in North

Kirkland Lake, Oct. 4. (CP)—T. H. Fowke, chief game warden for the district, announced today Monday there is strong suspicion that an air-borne fish poaching ring is operating in small lakes surrounding Kirkland lake.

He said his department has received several reports of a plane or planes landing and taking off on small lakes in the vicinity. His department has been investigating but so far has not discovered concrete evidence.

Monday's report stems from a message received by game wardens last Thursday that an airplane showing no lights took off from a small lake near Gowganda, 40 miles southwest of here, and flew over a Summer resort. The report said the plane flew in the general direction of Sudbury.

Two weeks earlier, investigation of a report received from the heads of about 300 fish on the ice of a small lake midway between Gowganda and Kirkland lake, he said. There were previously reports of night-flying planes in that area.

The latest unverified reports have been the only ones in the area within the last year, Mr. Fowke said. Investigations of the case of the suspected poaching were temporarily halted by telephone messages threatening game department investigators.

Mr. Fowke said that during the earlier investigations, his department found no signs of bush deer and moose poaching but that no one was arrested.

Two Vessels Collide, None Of Crews Injured

Prince Rupert, B.C., Oct. 3—(CP)—Two small vessels collided early today off Williams Island, 30 miles west of Prince Rupert, but the crews of both escaped injury.

Both vessels were purse seiners. One was beached in sinking condition early today and a second was being towed into Prince Rupert.

The beached seiner was identified as the 16-ton Row City. It was rammed in the starboard quarter by the 18-ton Inver Can I.

None of the six men aboard each of the vessels was injured. All of the Row City's crew was taken aboard the Inver Can I before the former vessel was beached on Williams Island.

Cause of the collision was not known.

The Inver Can I was taken in tow when it developed engine trouble after the collision. The vessel had a small hole in the bow.

Czech Lovers Meet Third Time On Maid of Mist

Niagara Falls, Ont., Oct. 3—CP —Two Czechoslovakian lovers met yesterday aboard the Maid of the Mist while the group, at Niagara Falls, traditional North American honeymoon spot. It was the third meeting in seven years of the youthful sweethearts, kept from joining each other in either Canada or the United States by the immigration laws of the two countries.

The couple are Kitty Kleiner, 23, who met Ivan Kral, 25, first in 1946 on a student's visa, and Dennis Cardinal Tiselli, former medical student in Prague and now working as a displaced person in Buffalo, N.Y.

After an hour-long ride back and forth, aboard the Maid, Kral said yesterday on the sightseeing ship, They parted and returned to their jobs.

Miss Kleiner may not leave the United States until her temporary five-year residence is completed and Christmas is the deadline to enter the United States.

Says Canadian Securities Sales Hampered in U.S.

Washington, Oct. 4 — (CP) — Representative Jacob Javits (Rep., N.Y.), Canadian — born member of Congress, said in the United States government Saturday to remove barriers preventing Americans from investing in the securities of "the largest and best customer of the United States," Canada. In a letter to State Secretary Dean Acheson, he protested that the securities and exchange commission, a government agency, is "deliberately making it can" to block the sale of Canadian securities in the U. S.

Proposes Russia Entertain U.N. Assembly in 1950

New York, Oct. 4 — (CP) — The New York Times says today Foreign Minister Andrei Y. Vishinsky of Russia has suggested that the Soviet Union play host to the United Nations General Assembly in 1953.

The Times says the suggestion was made at a dinner Friday at Soviet delegation headquarters here. Mr. Vishinsky and Trygve Lie, secretary-general of the United Nations, were present.

The Times says the suggestion was made at a dinner Friday at Soviet delegation headquarters here. Mr. Vishinsky and Trygve Lie, secretary-general of the United Nations, were present.

"Again Mr. Vishinsky pondered, and finally he said 1953 was all right."

The Moscow suggestion is certain to produce delegates into discussion on the whole subject of rotating the annual Assembly sessions from time to time.

NEURO-MUSCULAR IRRITABILITY

If I try to sneak in one bowl of a meal it all out of line or even if I exercise the traditional privilege of the profesh—use an imposing medical term to cover my ignorance—some unlabelled reader will sooner or later ask what I mean.

The unlabelled one in the present instance is M. L. C. who writes:

On page 27 of the CVD booklet your heart and arteries you say "One function of sunshine vitamin D is control of calcium metabolism and steadying of neuro-muscular irritability." Just what is neuro-muscular irritability?

That is extremely embarrassing. Like many other hifalutin terms we doctors love to use, neuro-muscular irritability is not precisely defined in my own mind to explain to a twelve-year-old child. But I'll try to investigate it at this uncomfortable spot by citing facts from a standard textbook of physiology:

Calcium is necessary for adequate clotting of the blood.

Calcium relieves or prevents muscle cramp or spasm.

Calcium relieves pain in many minor ailments such as headache and neuralgia, in inoperable cancer and in bleeding ulcer, it gives immediate relief to last-cold, gallstone colic, renal (kidney or ureter stone) colic or the severe colic of black widow spider bite.

Calcium aids the sedative action of the barbiturates and the bromides, that is, calcium is synergistic with these drugs and one aids in optimal dosage intake of calcium (and vitamin D) requires less of the drug than the ordinary American—who generally gets less calcium from his rations and every day digs into the body needs to maintain functional efficiency.

Calcium improves the tone and peristalsis or functional action of the stomach and intestines.

FAILURE BECOMES SUCCESS

Our village newspaper has been full of advertisements of a fellow who came to this country hoping to be a grand opera singer failed in his profession, but now has an outstanding business success.

It seems very hard that opera producers told her that her voice was too thin, and when she switched to the movies, those producers told her that her voice was too heavy. Her attempt to sing was just right, she damaged the quality of whatever voice she had and was left stranded.

In the midst of her financial plight, she married a conductor which she and her mother had made back in Poland. She stirred up some of the confection which she had learned to add to some of her neighbors and was amazed to find that people liked it. A specialist on foods gave her a fine workshop in a New York apartment and the idea of manufacture mentioned her. Today she has a flourishing business established and the indications are that she will probably make much more out of the confection than she ever could have hoped to make out of her singing, even if she had been good as she thought it was.

The idea of this thing we consider of little value would be turned into real financial assets if we would encourage a little better our own hearts and the needs and desires of others.

THE PACKSACK

OF GREGORY CLARK

When you pick up a book that has an index at the back, you have hold of a book that both the author and the publisher expect you to read and, once read, know by heart. A table of contents at the front is a poor excuse for an index. Even a table of contents on your library shelf is worthy of an index; and the only reason publishers and authors have run into the lazy habit of omitting it is that ninety-nine per cent of the public do what the publishers suspect: that is, they read a book and then put it away. And what is worse set on a shelf and there they touch it again except at spring cleaning time.

A great many books — novels, yes — are now issued in an index. It might be put this way: that if a book is worth while to be looked at twice, it ought to have an index. And that includes novels. One thing we have come to possess is a set of Dickens, with an index at the back of each novel.

Old Country Letter:

British War Office Admits There is More Sentiment Than Politics in Soldiering

By WILLIAM BOYD
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

"There is more sentiment than politics in soldiering, and the British War Office has felt obliged to say so—not in so many words, of course.

"Engrossed in Western Union and North Atlantic pact planning and in drawing up manoeuvres and exercises to test their armies and weapons, the war office was shaken from its maps by a letter to the Times of London. The silent effect has been achieved elsewhere frequently, but seldom in the headquarters of the Chief of the Imperial General Staff.

"Eric Linklater, signing himself Pte. Angels, started it. In a letter to the editor, he accused the high command of indifference to the values of regimental tradition.

"Staff officers, he said, were transferring officers and men from one regiment or post to another "on shallow grounds of temporary economy and administrative convenience."

Reasonable Point

"Regimental tradition is infinitely weapon which we cannot safely discard," he said. "But cross-pooling will rust and ruin it as surely as salt water erodes good steel.

"It is not possible, even in our straightened circumstances, to devise a means by which a man may choose his regiment and live in it by which a regiment may retain the associative strength that gives it more than fire power, and let a natural sentiment contribute to the common weal?"

Ribald Towards Patriotism

He said it was a common experience during both wars to meet soldiers "indifferent to political issues, of conflict and frankly ribald to patriotic sentiments."

"When it comes to the force that most surely steels him against suffering and holds him to his post come what may," the Times said of the soldier, "it very often turns out to be his share of regimental spirit—his pride in his regiment, pride in himself as worthy of belonging to it (his form of self respect) and a grim determination not to let the regiment down."

Brass Struggles

Finally Whitehall deigned to notice.

Why, said the major-general who wrote the report, the British high command "wages an unending struggle to keep officers and men as much as possible in their high command "wages an unending struggle to keep officers and regiments." It has a system to ensure that when cross-posting is inevitable the soldier would go to a unit affiliated with his own.

The war office did appreciate what Linklater called "the imponderable but irreplaceable value of regimental tradition." Its policy, the general said, "firmly stated and repeatedly confirmed that the regimental system will continue to be the basis of the organization of the infantry."

STAMP INCOME

The total value of stamps sold in London's chief post office during 1949 was $2,842,780.

RAWDON

Rawdon—On last Thursday afternoon at Stirling Community Hall, Miss Grace Hamilton, Reg. N. of the Health Department of the Institute gave an Educational lecture on "Modern Medicines and their uses"

About 80 ladies were in attendance and this included members and friends from the four Institutes, Stirling, River Valley, Chatterton and Pine Grove.

Two beautiful bouquets of Dahlia graced the speaker's table and were placed there by the president, and secretary of the district.

Stirling W. I. was hostess for this event and the other branches appreciated the privilege of meeting with them on this occasion. The district president's occasion. The district president and introduced the speaker.

Mrs. Cronkwright of River Valley and Mrs. Don Rose of Chatterton were in charge of Community singing.

Charms and Superstitions

Miss Hamilton opened her lecture with a review of charms and superstitions used as Cure-Alls in by-gone days. Today very few people have any faith in these old charms. She traced the history of the thermometer from the first bulb and tube to those in use now, also the stethoscope and told how a Doctor stumbled upon the idea. She also traced the history of anaesthesia and vaccines.

Need of Vaccination

Miss Hamilton urged that every person be vaccinated for smallpox when young, preferably before the age of one year. She also told of the injection of antitoxin for diphtheria and whooping cough with both of which are definitely preventable. Last year there were 7,084 case of whooping cough with 155 deaths, and yet this could have been prevented. Whooping cough is no respector of persons, it attacks both young and old.

Tetanus Toxoid

She described the Tetanus Toxoid for babies which builds up a child's resistance to bruises and scrapes and urged that everyone be treated following any wound punctures and so avoid lockaw.

Miss Hamilton stated "No child should have measles under three years of age and no person should be exposed to measles if it can be avoided." At present Doctors are experimenting with a new drug as protection against this disease. Other serious diseases are mumps poliomyelitis and rheumatic fever.

Doctor's Examination

When children complain or pains in joints and muscles they should be examined by a doctor. Years ago this was called "Growing Pains," but it doesn't hurt children to grow.

She gave the proper way to make and apply a mustard plaster as follows: Add 1—1 mustard, 3 flour; children: 1 mustard, 6 or 7 of flour. Mix with tepid water. Spread between Kleenex. Lubricate skin well. Apply plaster for 20 minutes and repeat if necessary in three or four hours.

Better Child Growth

Institute women should read all they see in the papers about B.C. G." which is being given to the people in occupied countries to build up resistance to disease and W.H.O.—World Health Organization.

Four hundred and fifty eight years before Christ, tuberculosis was called "A Wasting Disease," and today the X-ray is doing a wonderful job of detecting the disease in early stages. She urged every one to take advantage of every opportunity to have an X-ray for early diagnosis is very essential.

A new drug, streptomycin, is proving valuable in some cases. Christmas seals and Federal Health grants help along this work.

Health Rules Re Babies

Miss Hamilton passed out a few special items of advice: kiss babies on the neck, not on their lips; discard the family dipper for drinking water; pasteurize all raw milk and be on the safe side.

R. H. Factor

She spoke briefly on the R. H. factor in blood, sulpha drugs and penicillin. She warned that all unused sulpha tablets should be destroyed and not left for further use. She traced the history of penicillin from the first discovery in 1928 and then in 1936 when this drug proved effective in combating disease.

Dread Diseases

Cancer is a growth of cells which have gone out of control and today there is no known cure however surgery, X-ray and radium are helping to combat the fight against it.

She urged every woman to plan for a short rest period and relaxation every day and this is a great boon in keeping the system in shape and avoiding that "tired out" feeling in the evening. This rest alone is a great preventative of an early death.

Mrs. Percy MacMullen of River Valley W. I., extended the thanks of the group to the guest speaker for her educational and interesting address — to Stirling W. I. for their hospitality and to all others who had helped to make the meeting a success.

Dainty refreshments were served and a social half-hour enjoyed in a friendship circle.

NIAGARA BOAT IS LOVERS' RENDEZVOUS

Each confined to a different country by immigration laws, Czech sweethearts Kitty Kleiner, 23, and Dennis Chrastansky, 25, met for two days on Maid of the Mist boat at Niagara Falls. She entered U. S. on scholarship, while he is an Ontario farm worker. Ottawa authorities say they cannot relax immigration laws to allow Miss Kleiner to enter Canada.—Central Press Canadian.

Crackling Flames Give Alarm

Toronto, Oct. 4 — (CP)—The noise of crackling flames awakened Mrs. M. Richardson, roomer in a downtown Dundas Street apartment, Monday in time to enable her to warn four other persons to escape.

The fire broke out in an electric shop below the apartment and when Mrs. Richardson got up to investigate the noise she found the apartment filled with smoke. Damage was estimated at $3,000.

IMMIGRANT AT 59

Calmly puffing a cigarette, as she arrived in New York, Mrs. Marian Mairweiss, 59, is the oldest refugee to enter the U.S. under the displaced persons law. She is an Armenian, who came to the U.S. with her 44-year-old son, Zecher, his wife and their four children.—Central Press Canadian.

10th Safe-Cracking . . . Nets Over $1,500

Hamilton, Oct. 4 — (CP) — Hamilton's 10th safe cracking in less than a month was recorded by police over the week-end.

Eugene Yeggmen, using the highly powerful but equally dangerous nitro-glycerine, "cracked" the safe in the office of the Canadian Polish Legion, Sunday morning and escaped with about $1,400 in cash and three cheques worth $150.

It was the third time in two years the premises have been invaded by robbers. On the first occasion nothing was stolen and on the second occasion about six months ago cigarets valued at about $200 were taken.

ALLAN'S MILLS
Friends Honor Mrs. W.S. Stiles With Gifts

Allans Mills—On Thursday afternoon the lady friends met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Stiles to honor Mrs. W. S. Stiles on her birthday. Mrs. Stiles was taken by surprise and after a pleasant afternoon Mrs. Harold Stiles assisted by Mrs. Don Tucker served sumptuous refreshments of sandwich cakes, tarts. A birthday cake was decorated by candles was placed on the table and later passed. Nine nurses were taken of those present. Those who attended were Mrs. C. Tucker and Mrs. D. Tucker, Stirling; Mrs. E. Cotton and twin daughters of Harold; Mrs. J. McKeown, Mrs. S. Matthews, Mrs. J. Wellman, Mrs. R. Wellman, Mrs. W. Thomas, Mrs. C. McKeown, Mrs. J. S. McKeown, Mrs. A. Burkitt and Mrs. G. Burkitt of Rossmore.

Mrs. Stiles received several lovely gifts from her friends. Mrs. Dave Wellman spoke on behalf of those present and Mrs J. S. McKeown and Mrs. Harold Stiles expressed the gifts.

Mrs. Stiles graciously thanked each one present for lovely presents and all joined in singing "Happy Birthday To You".

Many from this vicinity attended Campbellcroft fair on Wednesday afternoon. The exhibits were lovely, especially the exhibit of Dutch families living room and dining room furniture, sewing baskets and many other beautiful things were placed on display.

Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Thompson of Stirling are moving this week to their new home in Springbrook.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer McInroy and family formerly of North Bergen, N.J., have taken up residence in Kankakee, Illinois, where he will set up the new control and research laboratories for the Gaines Division of the General Foods Corporation. Mr. McInroy previously was employed as a research chemist at Central laboratories, General Foods at Hoboken, N. J.

He is a graduate of Stirling High School and the Ontario Agriculture College, Guelph, and is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin McInroy of Stirling.

Mr. and Mrs. Eboston and family of Sunderland spent a few days with Mr. and Mrs. Reg Burkett.

Policemen Leap On Stolen Launch And Arrest Pilot

Fort Erie, Ont., Oct. 4 — (CP) — There was excitement aplenty Sunday night in spacious Buffalo harbor opposite here when two policemen leaped aboard a stolen speedboat launch and arrested the pilot.

The prisoner, Stanley Stachiak, 35, of Buffalo, told police he took a 28-foot Frontier No. 1 craft from the slip for a "joy ride." The ride might have lasted longer except that a bridge tender saw the boat leave the slip for Niagara River and notified police.

After proceeding about five miles, police spotted the boat five miles from the U. S. Coast Guard cutter, doing strange antics, after they had set out in a sister ship, the Frontier No. 2. The coast guard cutter was pushing the craft to the limit, but was finally caught, and is now held on a grand larceny charge.

The supply launches are used to provide lake freighters with food and miscellaneous items.

ESCAPES FROM BAILIFF

Toronto, Oct. 4 (CP)—A widespread police search was started for Thomas Dixon, 36-year-old car dealer from suburban Weston, who escaped a bailiff, K. W. Jefferies, while being moved to Don Jail Monday.

Police said he seized the car keys, forced the automobile into a ditch and fled, while being driven from Weston. Police said he was picked up for failure to comply with a court order issued in the first division court.

12-YEAR-OLD SHOT IN HUNTING TRIP

Jackie Eves, 12, of Dresden, Ont., is freed from shotgun wounds inflicted when returning from a hunting expedition with two other boys, aged 14 and 10. The boys thought the safety catch of the gun was applied and shot Jackie, 14, walking behind Eves accidentally pressed the trigger, hitting him in the back at 20 feet.—Central Press Canadian.

KING OKATS ENGAGEMENT

London, Oct. 4 — (AP)—The King has given an "absolute affirmative" to the engagement of the Marquess of Milford Haven and Mrs. Brenda Bingham, a New York socialite, a spokesman for the Marquess said Friday. The engagement was announced Wednesday. The Marquess, 30, is to wed Mrs. Bingham, 34, in Washington in November.

leprosy. Doctors shot the bug into themselves and other human volunteers. None of them developed the disease.

Leprosy is a communicable disease, but not an infectious or dangerous as tuberculosis. You apparently have to live for a long time in intimate contact with a patient to run any risk of getting it.

The centre for leprosy treatment in the United States is the National Leprosarium at Carville, Louisiana. Patients have been treated there for 55 years. In all that time, not a single doctor or nurse has contracted the disease.

Leprosy is not an automatic death warrant. It is usually not fatal. People's fingers and toes do not drop off.

SCARLET RUNNERS

Scarlet runners at the window
Cheer us with their colors gay,
When the day is dark and cheerless
When the autumn clouds are gray;
Creeping up to the kitchen window,
Peeping through the window pane,
While they keep their scarlet blooming
Summer holds her magic reign.

Visitors they have in plenty—
Bumble bees that sip the sweets
Humming birds with shining plumage
Make a summer scene complete.
Nurtured in the dew of heaven
Into flower and fruitage grow;
Though so like the lifeless seeming
Seem our deeds each passing hour,
Dropped into the heart's deep garden
They will bring forth fruit and flower.

Speaks on Case Histories of Juvenile Courts

The regular monthly meeting of the Bellevilla Kinsdale Circle was held Monday evening at the St. Thomas' Parish Hall with the circle president, Mrs. Hazel Wilbur, presiding.

Guest speaker for the evening was Mrs. J. Grant Sparling, who spoke on the splendid work which juvenile and family courts are doing in the province and in the community.

A former social worker in Hamilton, Mrs. Sparling, spoke from personal experience giving interesting case history. She stressed the fact that the human values of the juvenile and family courts must always be kept in mind. The speaker was introduced by Kinette Mrs. Monica MacDonald with glad appreciation being expressed by Kinette Mrs. Aigie Meyers.

President Mrs. Helen Wilbur gave a report on the recent Kinette convention held in Quebec City. A short business session followed during which it was decided the club would hold a rummage sale at the local Armouries on Saturday, Oct. 15.

MRS. ROOSEVELT KEEPS MODERN IN COIFFURES

When it comes to keeping abreast of events and feminine fashions, Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt is one person who is not to be caught napping — even if it does get in her hair sometimes. Pictured left, she is shown in October, 1934, wearing a pompadour effect (centre) in March, 1948, and as a United Nations delegate in September, 1949, wearing her latest.—Central Press Canadian.

New England Chef Voices His Anger at Tin-Can Cooks

By DOROTHY ROE

Chiltenden, Vt., — (AP) —The trouble with most women cooks is that they are lazy.

So says chef Eddie Mansfield, a born-and-bred Yankee who believes canned foods and prepared mixes will be the ruination of New England cookery.

Up to tell Eddie, for instance, that canned clam chowder (with tomatoes) is not clam chowder made variety, New England style, and you'll run smack dab into hornets.

Or suggest to him that you can make Indian pudding from a packaged mix, and the ensuing storm will make the pots and pans rattle on their hooks.

Further, he stoutly maintains that for soul-satisfying, stick-to-the-ribs goodness, there's nothing to compare with the traditional New England baked beans, clam chowder and boiled dinners that have graced the stout hearts and brawny arms of the Puritan fathers.

For an authentic view of an artist in the throes of creation, you should watch Eddie prepare his weekly pot of baked beans at the Mountainton Club here, where world travellers have been known to return year after year from faraway places just to sample their rich delights.

Beans Is Three Days

The little woman who rushes home from a bridge party and heats up a can of beans for the family dinner might well blush when she learns how real baked beans are prepared, New England style. Eddie starts on Thursday night to prepare the beans for Saturday dinner, but if you're the impatient type you can do it overnight. Brought down to family size, here is his recipe:

Soak one pound of beans overnight, first washing and picking over thoroughly. Next morning drain, cover with fresh cold water, season with salt and pepper and simmer slowly until tender but not mushy. Cool and drain.

Now prepare about two quarts of beef stock, add three tablespoons ketchup, the same amount of black molasses, one teaspoon dry mustard, one-third cup vinegar, three-fourth cup brown sugar, salt and pepper to taste. Place a whole onion in the bottom of the bean pot, together with a quarter pound of salt pork scored.

Add the beans and put in enough of the stock to cover. Bake, covered, in a slow oven for eight or ten hours, adding more stock from time to time as needed. Remove cover to brown for last two hours.

Add two cups chopped clams with broth to mixture in skillet (canned chopped clams, are satisfactory for this) and, drain into the potatoes and the water in which they were cooked. Season with salt and cayenne pepper and let simmer for about an hour, until flavors are well blended.

When ready to serve, scald a quart or more of milk and pour into the chowder, thickening with a little white sauce if desired. If cream is used instead of milk no thickening is needed.

Home Problems, Treatment, Shown in Film

The opening meeting for the fall term of the Collegiate Home and School Association was held in the auditorium Thursday evening with Mr. Jas. Musgrove, the President in the chair. In his preliminary remarks Mr. Musgrove expressed his gratification that so many parents were present, and hoped that with a registration of over a thousand students the next meeting would see the room filled with parents who were interested in the development of their children.

Mrs. John Deacon was the accompanist at the piano for the opening exercises.

Mr. T. D. Ruston spoke briefly on the coming Community Red Feather campaign and urged everyone to be generous with their time and money to support those welfare agencies which depended so largely on charitable gifts.

Three Problems Portrayed

A film was shown depicting three problems which are common to almost every home and suggesting different ways for their treatment. The first concerned a young girl who received a telephone invitation to attend a dance out of town. The parents agreed that she was too young to accept. Should she accept her parents' decision with good grace, or as a alternative should she suggest inviting some young people to her own home and playing the radio for dancing? She might even defy her parents and agree to go out of town secretly. The best solution is left to the audience to decide.

The second situation shows a boy coming home late when he had agreed with his parents to be home at a stated time. How should parents handle this case? The third concerned the help which a family should give the mother with the housework, in this case doing the dishes. It was agreed that family discussion about such problems was a great help.

Mrs. Shaw of Leaside, convener of Home Education for Ontario used the picture as a basis for her discussion of the points parents. "Home education" she stated, "is not to teach cooking or sewing. In provinces other than Ontario it is called parent education, training for good parents requires us to learn the facts. We want to do a better job than our parents because we have the information needed today to do a better job. Facts which have been reached with scientists which embraces the psychiatrist, the physicist, and the psychologist who have made studies and tests of thousands of children are given for our information. Home education is the study of human relations generally and of the child in particular. Too much emphasis is sometimes put on homes rather than the people in them.

Parent Education

"Parent education is the chief work of a Home and School Association. Sometimes we find a group who have become a ladies' aid, giving their time to raising money to buy ac sol equipment. That is not our job. Our work is to study to produce good citizens in a democracy. Study groups are formed with a convener, a person with a keen interest in learning about parent education, who will inspire others to study and try to solve common problems."

Mrs. Shaw suggested starting a study group with Dr. Laycock's radio talks on adolescents, which start Nov. 3 at 3.25 DST and continues every Thursday for seven weeks at the same time. Mrs. Shaw said school aim is not to have have better parents who will have better children to make better citizens.

Mrs. Clarke, social convener, and her committee served coffee in the cafeteria and gave the parents a chance to get acquainted and discuss the ideas they had heard.

Officers Introduced

The officers for the association were introduced by Mr. Musgrove, hon. president, Mr. Geo. Currie; past president, Mrs. W. E. McConnell; president, Mr. Jas. Musgrove; vice-president, Mrs. F. R. Hardock; recording secretary, Mrs. T. A. Clarke; corresponding secretary, Mr. Harold Mott; treasurer, Mr. R. Hobbis; principal's representative, Mr. H. Mott; executive members, Miss E. Grout, Mrs. Ken Bennett, Court Miller, Mr. Jack Bennett; convener membership, Mrs. Tonkin; hospitality, Mrs. Barclay; social, Mrs. R. C. Clarke; program, Mr. Linton; A.C. publications, Mrs. O. R. Thomson; music, Mr. John Deacon; publicity, Mrs. Lewis; radio, Mr. E. Kelsey.

Dress Success? Figure is Text Of Male Expert

By HAL BOYLE

New York,—(AP)—A mere male came up today with an answer to what's wrong with the figure of the times.

The answer is—women.

"They are too dictated to," said Charles Le Maire. "They accept too much dictation as to what they should wear."

Le Maire is in a position to do a little dictating himself. As wardrobe director for Twentieth Century-Fox Films, he runs a staff of 30 clothes experts. They have the pleasant chore of fitting lace and fur-prettied to girls like Betty Grable, Jeanne Crain, Dorothy McGuire, June Haver and Maureen O'Hara.

But the clothing of film stars is designed to their own personal architecture. This isn't true of the average woman.

Le Maire, a designer himself, said the biggest mistake most women make is to follow blindly the dictates of fashion oracles—or try to pour themselves into a certain type of dress merely because it looked good on a department store mannequin.

"A girl shouldn't pay any attention to what she hears of Paris styles," he emphasized.

"She should think first of her own shape, and dress to it. If her figure doesn't go with what she wants to wear, then she should change her shape."

Corset Overworked.

Le Maire has only a weary sympathy for gals who think they can achieve a pencil silhouette with a tight corset.

"The excess flesh has to go somewhere," he sighed, "it has to go either up or down, forward or backward." This, he explained, is why there are so many girls way women dress. Some have either a front or a rear bumper.

He sees fashions today as in a confusing state, but believes the trend is toward "an era of quiet elegance."

"Of course," he said, "a girl can be quietly dressed in a red gown. By personally dressing wells that accent femininity, styles that accent sex through subdued suggestion.

"Flo Ziegfield used to say he didn't mind seeing naked girls on the stage—unless they had something on their bodies that looked naked," smiled the designer.

Le Maire's own favorite dislikes:

"No dress is as important to a well-dressed girl as what she has underneath it. The big mike take the average girl makes is she doesn't dress herself. She tries to follow a vogue.

W.I. Visits Ottawa On Delightful Motor Trip

Madoc—Madoc W.I. enjoyed a very delightful motor trip to Ottawa recently. The party left early in the morning going by way of No. 7. On arrival in Ottawa the party visited the Mint, the Archives, the Museum, and the Parliament Buildings.

The visitors were escorted through the buildings by Geo. S. White, M.P. for Hastings-Peterborough.

Special interest was taken in the memorial room, the library, and the Hall of Fame. They also enjoyed a short time in the visitors' gallery, listening in on the afternoon session of the House of Commons.

Following this Mr. and Mrs. White entertained the party to a delightful afternoon tea in the Parliament Buildings. From there the journey followed along Riverside Drive past the French Embassy and Rideau Hall, stopping briefly to view the experimental farm. It was an ideal tour, interesting and thoroughly enjoyed by all.

Special thanks to Mr. White for his kindly interest in helping to make the visit such a pleasant occasion.

Sale of Cattle Brings Good Price

Toronto, Oct. 3. (CP)—Bidders paid nearly $30,000 for 48 head of cattle at the annual sale of the Ontario Aberdeen-Angus Association Saturday. Top price for the day was $1,825.

Formerly held annually in London, Ont., the sale was moved to the Canadian National Exhibition Coliseum this year for the first time.

Blackcap Rosebud of Don Heal, the highest-priced animal of the day, was sold to Ira Wilson of Detroit for $1,825. Other cattle brought an average of $600 a head.

NORWAY'S RADIO BOOM

SIX YOUNG LIVES SAVED FROM POISONOUS FUMES

Narrow escape from death was fate of six children of Lyman Nelson, Mount Hamilton, Ont., when illuminating gas crept through home. Inhalator was used on four of them. Youngsters are: Elaine, seven; Marilyn, two; Ronald, 13; Lyman, Jr., four; Beverley, 11, and Vera, six. Lyman and Ronald did not require treatment. The gas is believed to have escaped from a leaking pipe in a heater.—Central Press Canadian.

Two Suffer Burns As Plane Flips Over

Fort Carling, Ont., Oct. 3 (CP).

Reginald M. Hill, 47, and Mrs. Betty George, 23, both of Toronto, were taking off in Hill's plane to fly to Toronto when a wingtip struck a tree at the edge of the field. The light aluminum plane flipped over, fell and caught fire.

The two, members of a Toronto cross-country flying club, were attempting a take-off from a plowed field near Lake Rousseau in the Muskoka district about 90 miles northwest of Toronto. They staggered out of the light aircraft with their clothes ablaze and were taken to hospital at nearby Bracebridge.

Jack Prosser, former Toronto policeman and partner in a Lake Rousseau summer resort said the plane arrived late Sunday afternoon and landed in a cleared field. Said Take-off Dangerous

"He had no permission to land here and I told him so," Prosser said. "I was at the far end of the field when he took off with the wind behind him. I told him this was dangerous and warned him not to attempt it, but he just laughed and took off."

Prosser said the plane was unable to become airborne in the 300-yard rough clearing, especially with the wind behind it.

Hill, president of a Toronto moving firm, was a flyer for some time and held a private pilot's licence.

Prosser, also an amateur flier, said the plane's wing struck a 15-foot evergreen with its wingtip, spun around, dropped to earth and burst into flames. He said he grabbed a fire extinguisher and raced the quarter-mile to the wreckage.

Federal Transport Department officials ordered police not to remove burnt remains of the plane until they had investigated, Prosser said.

Say Profits on Bets Up to $500 Day

Toronto, Oct. 4 — (CP)—Police raided a downtown King Street gambling house Monday and, on its books found net profits of $500 a day for one man's work from lunch to dinner time listed.

Police said they found more than $500 in bets had been recorded for the first few minutes the house had been open. They learned profits of $300 a day had been common.

One man was charged with keeping a common gambling house and a second man with being found in the premises. The landlady will be summoned for permitting her premises to be used for betting purposes, police said.

DOMINION-WIDE

So Far, Mr. MacInnis said many of the social-security measures had been introduced in piece-meal fashion. These had been introduced not so much because of government belief in them but because it was felt "politically expedient" to bring them in.

There were tremendous gaps in the country's social-security legislation. There were no sickness benefits, for instance. Mr. MacInnis said that when a man is sick and unemployed he is more in need of assistance than a man who is unemployed but well.

Mr. Martin said there was no one in the Commons who would like to see a comprehensive social security plan more than he would.

Good Program in Operation

He said the government has been co-operating all along with the provinces and that the general program in operation is a good one.

That co-operation would be continued and he hoped that before too many months there would be "good results."

Mr. Martin said he agreed with the aim of the resolution but added that it left things unclear in some respects. It did not cover the question of municipal responsibility in national welfare nor did it specify whether citizens as described in the resolution included those living abroad.

Howard Green (PC—Vancouver-Quadra) said he believes Canadians generally want an all-embracing program of social security and that they are willing to pay for it.

He expressed favor with the idea of a contributory plan of pensions with employers, employees and the government each paying a share. The Means Test was particularly objectionable and should be among the first things remedied.

Gov't. Shouldn't Delay

George Cruickshank (L—Fraser Valley) said he didn't think the government should delay legislating in a comprehensive social-security program just because two provinces — Ontario and Quebec — were at odds with the Federal government. He urged the government to go ahead in reaching agreement on such a scheme with the other eight provinces.

Karl A. Eyre (L — Timmins) said that industry, large or small, should have contributory-pension plans. If not, the government should institute such a schema. He said the Porcupine gold mines in his constituency had a sickness benefit plan in operation which could be a model for any other.

A 30-year-old labor dispute occupied the Commons during most of the three-day afternoon sitting.

It concluded with a formal division in which the Commons voted 105 to 86 against a C.C.F. resolution asking that a Royal Commission be set up to investigate loss of pension rights by men involved in Canadian Pacific Railway strikes of 1918 and 1919.

Resolution Defeated

The Progressive Conservatives, with exception of Chester S. McLure (PC—Queens,) and Social Credit members lined up with the C.C.F. on the resolution. J. L. Gibson (Ind—Comox-Alberni) who sits in the Liberal ranks also opposed the government.

The dispute involved some 2,000 C.P.R. employees who lost, partially or completely their pension rights because they took part in the strikes. The company contended that the stoppages constituted breaches of contract and that the pensions lapsed because of the breaks in the service.

Stanley Knowles (CCF—Winnipeg North Centre) who sponsored the amendment said that while the workers may not have a legal right to the pensions, they did have a moral right.

2,000 Men Affected

Mr. Knowles said that Harris J. Johnstone, a Labor department conciliator, had investigated the dispute in 1945 and had reported that the workers case did warrant consideration. Mr. Johnstone had recommended establishment of a royal commission to investigate the affair further.

Mr. Knowles said he wanted the government to act on that recommendation. He estimated there are still some 2,000 employees affected by loss of pension rights.

Labor Minister Mitchell said he is sympathetic with the men and added that if he thought a Royal Commission could do anything he would support the resolution.

The money in the pension fund to the company since it was strictly a non-contributory pension and the government could not tell the company what to do with its own money.

P. E. Cote, parliamentary assistant to Mr. Mitchell, said the problem called for negotiation between the company and workers.

RAWDON Springbrook W.A. Entertains Eleven Visiting Societies

Rawdon.—On Friday afternoon last, Springbrook W.A. were "At Home" and entertained eleven societies: Stirling, Mount Pleasant, Marmora, St. Mark's, Carmel, Wellman's, Bethel, Rylestone, Salem, St. Thomas and Stanwood with over 130 in attendance.

The Orange Hall was decorated with crepe paper streamers of pastel colors and beautiful potted plants on the platform.

Mrs. Burton Bateman, past president, was in charge of the tickets, and registration at the door. The President, Mrs. G. Mehlenbon, presided and gave the address of welcome. Mrs. Frank Conboy was in charge of roll call and Mrs. John McKeown was pianist for the opening ode.

Fine Program

Mrs. S. J. Elliott, Bethel, read a selection "How far does your home go"? Mrs. Cecil Macklin, of St. Paul's, Stirling, with Mrs. Harold West as accompanist sang "Undying Love". Mrs. Arthur Phillips, Mount Pleasant, contributed a reading "The Old Arm Chair". Mrs. Fred Wells and Mrs. E. Prentice with Mrs. G. Young, of Marmora, as accompanist, sang "Whispering Hope". Mrs. Will Barlow of St. Mark's, read "The Story of Mary Burns".

Mrs. Ross Hart, of Carmel, sang "Beautiful Isle of Somewhere", with Mrs. H. West as accompanist. Mrs. A. Kellar of Stanwood, gave a reading entitled "A Place Called Home".

Mrs. Kenneth Tompkins of Wellman's, sang "The Stranger of Galilee", with Mrs. Will Heath of Bethel, as accompanist. Mrs. D. A. Anderson, Rylestone, read a selection entitled "Black and White". Mrs. G. Hagerman and Mrs. Harry Mayo, of Salem, sang "Have you been in the Garden with Jesus"?

Miss Edna Tanner, St. Thomas, read the history and poem of "The House by the Side of the Road", and the pastor the Rev. H. Beare has closed the afternoon meeting.

Attractive Booths

Home cooking, where luscious cakes and tarts were displayed. A homemade candy table; a fancy-work booth, where knitted articles and homemade accessories for the baby were sold to eager buyers.

A table displaying fruit, vegetables, and potted plants, was also freely patronized. The ladies in charge of the various booths were kept busy and very little was left over at the close of the afternoon.

Afternoon Tea

The guests were then entertained to afternoon tea in the basement of the hall, where the tables were decorated with Autumn flowers. The ladies of Springbrook served dainty sandwiches, various assortments of cookies and delectable layer cakes, spiced with trays of olives, pickles and celery.

Ideal Day for "At Home"

The day was ideal for this event with a bright sun, beautiful scenery all along the way, making a pleasant drive, a glorious welcome and a good program.

Nearly every one took advantage of the booths and bought articles for themselves and Christmas gifts. The Springbrook ladies received many bouquets of praise on the success of their afternoon.

TOSSES SON TO DEATH

Huntingdon, W. Va., Oct. 3 — (AP) — A sick postal worker tossed his five-year-old son from the top of Huntington's highest building Friday, then took the 220-foot death plunge himself. Police identified the man as Claude R. Hatton, 44, a mail carrier. The boy was his son David.

Anti-Communist Forces in Charge Of Labor Congress

That spelled the doom of such expected left-wing moves as attempts to have the Congress denounce the Atlantic Pact and to rejoin the Russian-dominated World Federation of Trade Unions from which it withdrew earlier this year.

It also made it certain that the Congress executive would be able to put over its proposed expulsion of the leftist International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter workers, now under suspension for refusing to follow executive directions.

A highlight of today's session will be an appearance before the 800 delegates by Foreign Secretary Bevin of Britain, now visiting in Ottawa. He is due to address the convention at 4 p.m. E.D.T.

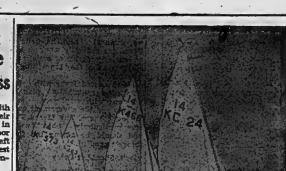
Suffer Crushing Defeat

Monday's vote that saw left-wingers crushingly defeated came on an attempt to obtain reinstatement for five officers of the Leftist United Electrical Workers of America, suspended last Spring for a "slanderous" attack on the Ontario Federation of Labor.

After 1 1-3 hours of impassioned appeal pro and con, the delegates by-a vote vote of about 10 to one reaffirmed and continued the executive council's suspension of the five, who include Clarence S. Jackson, district director of the Electrical Workers.

The union itself is not under suspension, but as the result of Mr. Jackson's suspension, it now has a voice only on the C.C.L. executive council, policy-making arm of the Congress between conventions.

However, executive spokesmen indicated during the debate that this representation will be restored if the U.E.W. puts up some candidate more acceptable to the executive than Mr. Jackson.



Also, it was indicated, the suspension of Mr. Jackson and his companions may be lifted any time they show they are willing to go along with C.C.L. policy.

JUDGEMENT RESERVED

Cobourg, Oct. 5.—(CP)—Judgment was reserved Friday in a $10,000 slander suit brought against Reeve Frank George of Brighton Township by school trustee Arnold Lever. Reeve George denied making the remarks which Mr. Lever said were made at a ratepayers' meeting March 30.

Pro-Labor Press Voices Views On U.K. Election

London, Oct. 4 — (CP) — The pro-labor Daily Herald today throws cold water on talk of a general election. British general election — but conceded changing political conditions might bring an early vote.

Ernest Jay, political correspondent of the Labor party's organ, writes:

"On the known facts and circumstances of the situation, both internal and international, there will be no general election this year."

But Jay adds that "circumstance allow circumstances" might arise which would make an early election desirable.

The Labor government's full term does not end until next July, though the government can call a general election at any time.

Talk has been current recently that Labor might call such a "snap" election soon, hoping to obtain another term before rising commodity prices — expected in the wake of currency devaluation — could turn the voters against the ruling party.

Argument Against Fall Election

Jay declared the chief argument against an election this fall was that two important measures now going through Parliament would be lost, at least temporarily. These are the bill to nationalize the steel industry and another reducing the power of the House of Lords to delay legislation from two years to one.

Meanwhile, there was some measure of political housestraightening in the Conservative party household.

The Conservative central office said Monday night that Canadian-born Lord Beaverbrook still is in the party.

Lord Beaverbrook's Sunday Express had said he had been "excommunicated" by the fact he had received no Conservative whip summoning him to last week's devaluation debate in the House of Lords.

"Omission told its own tale," said the newspaper, "The name of Lord Beaverbrook has been stricken from the Tory list."

The Conservative headquarters issued a statement explaining the omission. It said it had been under the impression Lord Beaverbrook was abroad and that it was not customary to send parliamentary papers to peers out of the country for long periods.

Friction between the party and the publisher had been reported widely following attacks in the Beaverbrook press on party members lukewarm to his Empire policies.

Fire Destroys Large Brick House Near Lodgeroom

TWEED

Tweed, Oct. (Special)—Fire of undetermined origin gutted the large brick house on the farm of Arthur Palmateer, two miles north of Lodgeroom Church on Monday afternoon.

Neighbors arriving on the scene following an alarm succeeded in salvaging contents of the ground floor of the house, but those of the upper storey were completely destroyed.

Mrs. Palmateer who was in the house with her three children noticed dense volumes of smoke pouring out the upstairs window and immediately sent out an alarm. Mr. Palmateer was away at the time engaged in threshing for neighbors.

The house is situated on what is known as the old Arthur Tufts farm. The loss, it is stated, was partly covered by insurance.

Canada Becomes One of World's 'Great Powers'

Washington, Oct. 4. (CP)—The Washington News paid editorial tribute to Canada Monday and said the Dominion has become one of the world's "great powers". In an editorial entitled "Canada to the Front", the news hinged its comment on the election of L. B. Pearson, External Affairs Minister, as chairman of the United Nations Political Committee and said this emphasized Canada's "increasing voice in world affairs".

Few sportsmen realize the true extent of the damage now being inflicted by the sea lamprey. Commercial catches of lake trout in Lake Huron have slumped from 1,329,901 pounds in 1938 to less than 5,000 pounds in 1948. The bloodsucking terror has invaded Lakes Superior; Lakes Michigan; Lake Ontario; Lake Erie; 108 streams and rivers in Michigan in addition to Lake Michigan, Charlevoix and Pentwater Lakes; and from Grand Marais, Minnesota to the St. Lawrence River and the Maritime provinces in the Great Lakes' major watersheds.

The story of this perilous invasion is written by Robert Page Lincoln and appears in the October issue of Sports Afield magazine, in an article titled, "Dracula of the Lakes."

Describes Attack

Mr. Lincoln graphically describes the action of the sea lamprey in attacking a lake trout as follows.

"There was no danger signal to warn the slowly moving lake trout that a strange and sinister enemy was close at hand. He was wholly unaware that he was already marked as the victim of one of nature's bestial intruders. In these depths, the big beautiful trout had always been safe from any possible destroyer. Now, however, something had gone wrong with the natural order of life in the lake. A new kind of enemy had arrived in numbers and was multiplying rapidly."

"Suddenly the sea lamprey slithered around the rocks with amazing ease, shot forward and hit squarely against the lake trout's side. All efforts to shake off the leechlike grip failed. Then the flattened tongue, possessed of exceedingly sharp teeth, cut through the scales and flesh, reached the blood stream. Now it

Toronto Will Vote On Sunday Sport, Council Decides

Toronto, Oct. 4 — (CP)—Toronto citizens will vote in the municipal election, Jan. 2, on the question of Sunday sport.

After hours of heated debate on the original motion asking for a vote on a wide-open Sunday with cocktail bars, race tracks, motion pictures and entertainment centres operating as on week days, council amended the motion to read:

"Are you in favor of the city of Toronto seeking legislation to make amateur, professional and other forms of commercial sport legal on Sunday?"

Although the motion was passed by a 14-4 vote, most council members were opposed to Sunday sport, but wanted the contentious question settled officially.

The feeling that Sunday sport was merely the initial step toward a wide-open Sunday, Ald. Roy E. Belyea called the plebiscite "the twin edge of the wedge for a wide-open city."

Healthy Activities Wanted

Con. Allan Lamport countered with "Nobody is asking for a wide-open Sunday. All we want is a bright Sunday in which healthy, athletic activities may be enjoyed by participants and spectators alike."

Much of the opposition was based on the belief that the city had no right to question the people on a matter under the jurisdiction of the provincial and federal governments. Ontario Sunday law, in existence now, is virtually the same as the present Lord's Day Act of Canada. It states that only works of emergency or mercy shall be performed on Sunday, thereby outlawing any commercial sports on Sunday.

was sucking the lake trout's blood —and would continue until its victim was killed, if the trout hunger was satisfied. If the trout had not been so big, this attack might have killed him. His survival, but he was heavily scarred. No longer was he suitable for marketing commercially. He could still give the sportsman a thrilling battle. But his bulking form would never grace the wall of a proud angler's den."

Little Miss Carolyn Ritz has been holidaying for the past week with her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. A. Jeffery.

Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Ritz (nee Grace Jeffery) on the arrival of a baby daughter, Catherine Elizabeth, at the Belleville General Hospital on Monday, September 26th. Mrs. Ritz and daughter are both doing well and are at present at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Jeffery.

The first fall meeting of the Y.P.U. was held at the home of the president, Mr. Garnet Reid, on Thursday evening. During the evening Mr. Bill Dudley made the presentation of a fountain pen on behalf of the Y.P.U. to Garnet, who is leaving soon to take up studies at Kemptville Agricultural College. The good wishes of his friends follow him.

Following the Sunday School service on Sunday morning, the superintendent, Mr. W. A. Jeffery presented Mr. Garnet Reid with a ball point pen and on behalf of White's Sunday School wished him success in his studies.

Garnet has been a faithful teacher of the Junior Department for the past two years and will be greatly missed by his class and other members. Garnet made a gracious reply thanking all for their kindness.

The jet transport plane, which made its first flight Aug. 10 shortly after the world's first jetliner was in the air in England, has undergone a series of test flights following its crash landing on Aug. 16 during a demonstration flight for the employees of the company. The plane, which was forced to land with its wheels up when the crew were unable to lower the landing gear, was only slightly damaged at that time.

Powered by four Rolls - Royce Derwent turbine engines, the jet-liner or C102 jet transport, as it is called, is a 50-passenger craft designed to cruise at 430 miles per hour at 30,000 feet, with a range from 200 to 900 miles.

With U. S. aircraft companies still backlogged more than drawings for jet transports, Canada has led the field in North America with the development of this craft.

It is expected the jetliner will be ready for delivery to commercial airlines by the end of 1951.

Some Back to Work

One-fifth of Lewis' miners — 80,000 anthracite diggers in Eastern Pennsylvania and about 20,000 bituminous miners in 10 western states — went back to the pits Monday.

Additionally, 18,000 non-union miners and 15,000 U. S. Progressive Union miners in Illinois are working.

A few steel mills are operating. Either they came to terms with Murray or they don't need independent unions.

The 500,000 men who take the raw iron and steel and turn it into refrigerators, baby carriages and hairpins are members of Murray's Union, too. Their contracts begin expiring Oct. 15 and the C. I. O. predicts they say they, too, will strike if necessary, for free pensions and insurance.

Suspends Work

Packard Motor Car Company announced a two-day work suspension Thursday and Friday because of steel shortages. Nearly 30,000 will be idle the two days. Afterwards Packard announced, it will set up a curtailed working schedule.

Railroads which depend on steel and coal business are getting ready to lay off more men. Already, they've laid off 40,000.

The New York Central Railroad estimating monthly losses of $12,000,000 says it may soon lay off 4,000 workers.

The Pennsylvania railroad, with 15,000 men already idle, reports its monthly loss will exceed $21,000,000.

The Baltimore and Ohio figures the steel-coal shutdowns will cost it $14,700,000 by Nov. 1. It has laid off 11,000 workers.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

There should be no lack of trophies for the boys of the Belleville District Hockey League to shoot for this coming season. There is, of course, the handsome Ontario Intelligencer Trophy annually, or this will accompany the way things are shaping up now there will be at least three additional ones, of the individual style.

* * *

In conversation with one of the Belleville's former hockey stars, namely Bill Green, the other day we mentioned the fact that perhaps some of the oldtimers here would donate a trophy to the district league. His answer was one as far as sport is concerned, not only fell in with the idea but "went it one better."

* * *

"I can," Bill said, "get the oldtimers to donate not one trophy but two. One will be called the Pat Boland Trophy in memory of one of the best goalkeepers to wear Belleville pads and who would rightly have been called "Old Frisdale", and the second trophy, the Dave Whalen Trophy in memory of one of the best, if not the best forward ever developed in this city."

* * *

The Pat Boland Trophy, Bill suggested would go to the league goalie having the best" for and against" average while the Dave Whalen Trophy would be awarded to the most valuable to his team. "I think these cups would be appropriately named to perpetuate the memory of two Belleville-born hockey greats."

* * *

The third trophy has been suggested by a representative of the Labatt Brewing Company, and while nothing definite has been decided, it has also been suggested that this cup be awarded to the most gentlemanly player.

* * *

The mail brings a letter from D. F. Anderson, secretary of the Peterborough Triple Link junior hockey club, and which should have been sent to Belleville's newly formed Junction Junior Rockets management. However, it's worth publishing as it concerns the Belleville and district Anderson suggests. He says his club is now fully organized with Harry "Dave" Riordon Peter senior hockey star named as coach. The manager is Ken Ross.

* * *

However, Anderson says that inasmuch as "something has been mentioned of a junior grouping consisting of Belleville, Peterborough, Lindsay and Oshawa, all of which have artificial ice," the proposed set-up is more than agreeable to the Triple-Link club. He goes on to say he would welcome any suggestion of the Belleville Junior management and assures it of Peterborough's hearty co-operation in the matter.

* * *

In our opinion the proposed grouping would be an ideal set-up for the local junior club. To years ago, as we have mentioned before, the team provided a practice squad for two or three Kingston quads making several road trips to one for the Limestone City. This four-team group as mentioned would not only give the kids plenty of hockey but would bring new faces and new sport to the fandom of this city. By all means let's have the four-team arrangement if it is humanly possible.

* * *

So it's going to be a subway world's series after all. Gotham is savvy with excitement over the Subway Dodgers and the New York Yankees ready themselves for the "series". Strictly, this next year ten to five that the Dodgers will take the gonfalon of world baseball supremacy back to the Avenue while Yankee patriots are not taking the "Bums" too seriously. It should be a great series with a fighting National League team battling the smooth, money squad of the American Loop. And we are wishing and our heart is with the Dodgers bet our money on the Yanks.

* * *

Cy Barriage is running around these days looking like a heavyweight champion who is about to enter the ring with a pygmy. "These Northern Electric champions" he laughed today, "why they'll be duck-soup for my all-stars. Look who I've got. The wrong at the crop. We'll make Hanky Hemn's Rhoden Inland Reds look like a bench of pinched pullets, and in both games. Don't quote me, but off the record they're going to be a cinch" quoth the portly coach of the Commercial Softball League array of all-star talent. In any event tonight should tell part of the story when the teams clash at Alemite Field at 6:30 Al Adams, star hurler of the Hanny Hammam senior team will be on the mound for the barring staff of the All-stars, and Al should be a valuable asset to the Barriage gang. The second game of the two-game series will be played on Thursday night with the proceeds going to help pay for the league banquet scheduled for the Hotel Quinte on Friday evening starting at 6:30.

* * *

There's going to be high "crackle" links at Memorial Arena come Friday night when another of the popular teaming matches will be on tap for the faithful. Whipper Billy Watson and his boxom pal Pat Flanagan will amalgamate to take on one of the toughest pairs of grapplers that ever pulled on trunks. They are Fred Atkins, the arrogant Aussie and Hard-boiled Hannigan who is still all that his nickname implies. The Whipper and the popular Pat have been practising for this event for some time now while the Adam-Hannigan duo have been snarling to all and sundry that they don't need practice. Like the Red Top Beer agent they will make 'em tick. It should be the brawl of the season as no quarter will be asked nor given by any of the quartet.

Time of Decision Is at Hand for Danny Lewicki

(By The Canadian Press)

The time of decision is at hand for Danny Lewicki, the 23-year-old William boy who is one of the brightest young hockey stars to come up in years.

His choice lies between negotiating with Toronto Maple Leafs on a professional contract or farming suspension from both professional and amateur hockey.

The suspension threat was voiced Monday by President Clarence Campbell of the National Hockey League who said in Montreal that "if the Maple Leafs have lived up to their commitments and Lewicki refused to sign a pro contract with them, his suspension will be virtually automatic."

First, a Stratford dispatch reported Lewicki had received an offer of $4,000 a season for two seasons from the Leafs plus $2,000 for signing a contract and had countered with a demand for $10,000 a season for two seasons plus $2,500 for signing.

Then Conny Smythe, general manager of the Leafs, said the $4,000 offer was made Sept. 21. He had not heard from Lewicki since. Friday he sent word to the player to open negotiations for a contract under the commitment he made in the summer when he signed a renewal of his N.H.L. C Form with the Leafs. But there was no response.

Monday morning, said Smythe, he got word that he was negotiating with Lewicki directly and turned the case over to Campbell.

The World Series starting Wednesday will be broadcast over 740 stations and 51 television stations —peak figures for both medium.

It's estimated up to 75,000,000 will tune in on the play-by-play descriptions of the championship struggle between New York Yankees and Brooklyn Dodgers, and 17,500,000 to 20,000,000 will watch by television.

Both radio and television broadcasts will start at 1:45 p.m., E.D.T., with the ceremonies before game time—for weekday contests. If the series is undecided Sunday, the broadcast and telecast that day will start at 2:45 p.m.

The Mutual Broadcasting System, which owns exclusive air rights to the series, will handle all the radio broadcasts. Its 320 regular affiliates will be augmented by about 420 stations in the independent stations, the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation and the Cuban network. The broadcasts also will be beamed overseas by the Armed Forces radio.

Sewell, 39, was the oldest Pirate both in years and length of service. He joined the club in 1938. He won six and lost one this year. His all-time major league record showed 134 won, 116 lost.

Dixie Walker, who came to Pittsburgh from Brooklyn Dodgers in 1948, has been in the big leagues since 1933 except for a stretch at Newark in 1935. He batted .300 in 11 of his last 14 seasons and has a lifetime mark of .306.

Toronto Canadiens have been awarded the National League, western Canada, soccer championship, by default over Hamilton Westinghouse, officials president Jack Watson announced at Toronto Monday night.

He said the series was defaulted when Hamilton refused to play all games at the best-of-three series in Toronto. The Westinghouse Club won the first game here Saturday and the second till was scheduled for Wednesday.

National Hockey League referees Monday started their training before the season opens Oct. 12 when league president Clarence Campbell held a one-day meeting at Montreal with the official staff and newcomers.

He went over the rules and discussed changes since last season.

Canadian Sport Snapshots

By SAM CORMIE

Moncton, N. B., Oct. 4 (CP) — When St. Thomas University at Chatham, N. B., tossed out English rugby and introduced Canadian football at the beginning of its fall term, one Maritimes sports writer viewed the switch as an omen.

Dave (Moncton Daily Times) McKay said the move "may be the opening wedge to the death" of English rugby in the Maritimes. "one of the last strongholds of rugby in the Dominion."

"It may take some years yet before the other universities and colleges in the Maritimes change over as the Canadian game is more expensive ..." Dave says. "But it would seem that the Canadian game will eventually replace English rugby."

Last year a veteran rugby coach — 75-year-old John McCarthy — predicted a great future in the Maritimes for rugby league football, the Maritimers' major autumn sport since 1900.

Although McCarthy said it would be impossible for all maritime universities to switch to the Canadian game, St. Thomas has done it.

Referring to the Canadian game Dave noted: "I caught on at St. Joseph's University — where it has been played for the last three seasons — and a team has been active in Moncton and Saint John in the previous two seasons."

"The greatest pressure for the new game," he continues, "is probably supplied by the fact that it is very popular in other parts of the country — and can be a revenue producer for the sports' funds of the colleges while English rugby is played before small-er crowds."

"So ... it may be," he predicts, "that the English game will remain in its standing for years to come.

Mustangs Will Start no Better Than 2nd Choice

By JACK PARK
(Canadian Press Correspondent)

London, Ont., Oct. 4—(CP)— For the first time since 1939, the University of Western Ontario's Mustangs will start as a better than second choice in the senior intercollegiate football union race.

Undisputed monarchs of the college football scene for years, the Mustangs were dethroned last season by Toronto Varsity and nothing seems to indicate anything to the contrary has occurred to add to the squad this year develop into first line stars, the Mustangs with the squad may have trouble climbing back to the top of the heap.

Johnny Mora lost nine of his 1948 starters through graduation and filling the gaps may be a job which will take more than one season. Chief question mark on the club will be the offensive wing posts. All four of last year's outstanding performers in their positions will be taken by three of last year's intermediate squad and a middle from last season who has moved over.

While the Mustangs have lost plenty of proven material they should be stronger in the coaching department than ever before.

Grooming Guidelines

Jack Hollister, a former Yale end, is also on hand. Taking a post-graduate course here, he is grooming the new western outsides. Metras, of course, remains coach and is devoting most of his additional help will give him more time than previously available.

Western will again specialize on speed in the backfield. The majority of last season's backfield stars are back, so with veterans like Jim Parry, Don McFarlane, Doug Gray, George Arnold, Gord Davidson, Bob Bear, Jack Matthews, Blake Taylor and Bob Jeffrey available it on, the offense should be well taken care of. To add to these Metras has a host of promising recruits. Gerry Fitzgerald, a St. Catharines boy, and Bobby Pierce, a Londoner.

The middle part of the line is fairly well intact. Big George Wearring will be one of the snaps with Bob Knox a likely alternate. Reg Ort, the other snap from last year, has moved over the middle where Ross Grant, Bill Downe and Tricky Duck are all back in action. Bill Ford, an all-star middle last year has been moved over to outside.

Nine For Two Positions

Nine hopefuls are currently fighting for inside positions. Four of them are holdovers — Elmer Quinlyn, Jack Thompson, Don McKinley and Jimmy Stephens. Among the promising newcomers are Eddie Exact, Bill Floyd and Jack Wyatt.

If the outside, all of them new, live up to advance notices, the Mustangs should be back in the beat. Harry Wade, who played snap for last year's Colts, Ross Black, a former Ross boy, Bob Monagle and Bill Ford are the main starters, but 10 men have been trying out for the spot.

The Mustangs open their college season at home Oct. 8 with McGill Redmen. They have still plenty of kinks to work out of their system, but barring injuries to some of the key men, they should be at least the top threat to Varsity.

The National Hockey League's new season doesn't start until Oct. 12 but already the injury list is long. Montreal Canadiens and New York Rangers are bearing the brunt with four injured players each.

Montreal—Billy Reay out with a torn muscle; Elp Mikopelle suffering a charley horse; Rookie left-winger Gilles Dube, suffering a pulled shoulder ligament; Kenny Reardon in hospital with a leg-crash.

New York—Defenceman Frankie Eddolls, an injured leg tendon; centre Don Raleigh, a bruised shoulder; and Wes Trainor and Jean Paul Deandy, both suffering undetermined injuries.

All players are expected to be back in the line-up before the season starts when Boston Bruins and Detroit Red Wings meet at Detroit.

The Canadiens break up camp today. They will leave tomorrow night for Toronto to open with teams of the American Hockey Association.

They will play Providence Thursday, Springfield Saturday and Buffalo Sunday. Then they move into Toronto where three of them—Reardon, Maurice Richard and Leo Gravelle—will line up with the N.H.L. all-stars August 30 against Montreal Maple Leafs. Monday night in the 1949 "Dream Game".

Montreal Royals Win First From Indianapolis

Montreal, Oct. 4 (CP)—Three runs in the bottom half of the fifth inning were enough to give Montreal Royals a 3-1 victory over Indianapolis Indians in the third game of the Little World Series here Monday night.

Royals staged only three hits, off Mal Queen, two of them coming in the fifth when, aided by an error, the Easterners scored all their runs. Queen was lifted for a pinchhitter in the seventh as Chet Johnson held Royals hitless until the end.

Meanwhile, Indians reached Dan Bankhead for five hits but managed to tally only once in the sixth inning.

Bankhead held Indians hitless until the fifth when catcher Clyde Klutts singled. The big Negro right-hander struck out six batters and walked only four.

The Royals meanwhile had got only one hit off Queen, a second single by Al Glonfriddo in the fourth frame in the fifth. George Schmees opened with a walk. When centre-fielder Ted Beard let Boo' Bridges single roll through his legs, Schmees scored the first Royal run and Bridges went all the way to third.

Toby Atwell followed with another single that scored Bridges and At-ell later scored on Glonfriddo's long fly to centre.

Oshawa Pedlars Shut out by Stratford Team

Stratford, Ont., Oct. 4. (CP) —Stratford Krechlers evened the Intermediate "A" hockey series here they shutout the visitors 5-0 in the OASA finals here Monday night. The Pitchers, Jack McConkey of Oshawa, and Veteran Nick Libett of Krechlers hurled great games. Except for the first inning when the homesters collected four runs off three hits, the teams were evenly matched.

McConkey struck out 10 and walked four. Libett whiffed 11 while giving up three walks.

The teams play the deciding game in Hamilton Wednesday afternoon. The winner will represent Southern Ontario in the final series against North Bay.

Only extra base hits of the game were Pat Garners' homer in the first which drove in Bob Phillip and "Boot" Hurley's double in seventh. Hurley later crossed the plate for the final Kroehler run.

REORGANIZATION

New York, Oct. 4 — (CP) — Following a mind - reading session with the opposing managers, Don Newcombe and Allie Reynolds emerged as the probable pitchers for tomorrow's World Series opener between Brooklyn Dodgers and New York Yankees.

Burt Shotton, elderly keeper of the Brooks, said: "You'll know Wednesday" about the Dodger starting at the Yankee Stadium. Casey Stengel was still huddling with his brain trusters. The jury may be in by sundown.

For the Dodgers it's almost certain to be Newcombe (17-6), the jumbo — sized rookie right-hander, or Preacher Roe (15-6), the crafty southpaw veteran. Roe needs several days' rest between starts. Newcombe, if he opens, could work three times in a seven-game series.

As for the Yanks, it's strictly a guess. Chances are that First-man Joe Page will be striding in from the right-field bullpen along about the sixth or seventh inning to mop up no matter what. He did it 60 times this season, 20 times for Reynolds.

Reynolds is ready. The chief has started many of Stengel's most important series, and when there is a "must" game to be won, Allie (17-6) usually has been the man picked.

Tommy Byrne (18-7), the unpredictable southpaw who either walks eight or 10 or throws a one-hitter, is a possibility.

Lopat Might Get Nod

The tie, which now are close to 3 to 1 in favor of the Yanks, appear out of line. It's not such a lopsided thing as that, although the plain here is the 7 wallops in six games.

Both clubs are weary and battered. The Yanks' 71 injuries have received top billing because such important men as Joe DiMaggio, Yogi Berra and Tommy Henrich had been effected. But the Dodgers' hospital list has been impressive.

There is no certainty that Carl Furillo, the .333-hitting right - fielder, will be able to open because of a bad leg. Pee Wee Reese has hernia trouble.

Read figures to help both teams.

Brooks Poor Risk Off Their Record In Series Play

New York, Oct. 4 — (AP) — It is true that there always is a first time, then it is not too fantastic to picture Brooklyn Dodgers as the world champions of 1949.

Off their record in World Series play, the Brooks are a poor risk. They've been in four of these things and lost them all. Only once did they manage to extend their foes to the limit of seven games. Once they won two games and twice they had difficulty winning one.

On the other hand, New York Yankees, representing the American League, have had remarkable success in these fall classics. They've been in 15 and lost only four. In fact, they've won 10 of their last 11.

Two of their World Series triumphs have come over the Dodgers. The Bronx Bombers whipped the Brooks in five games in 1941 and in seven in 1947.

It was back in 1916 that the Dodgers, led by Uncle Wilbert Robinson, won their first modern pennant. They drew the Boston Red Sox that year and managed to win only one game.

Brooklyn won its second pennant in 1920 and faced the Cleveland Indians in the World Series. They lost the first, won the second and third and dropped the next four necessary for a decision. It should be noted that this was a five-out-of-nine series, one of four such sets.

Manchester, England — Bart Walls, 182, Toronto, knocked out Fred Wilde, 210, Belgium (1).

Play ball! When these exciting words ring out tomorrow the World Series baseball games will get under way. You can follow play by play this most important sports event of the year on an Admiral Magic Mirror television receiver. All World Series games, wherever they originate, will be on television from both American and National League cities. Your nearest Admiral dealer invites you to his "open house" showing for all World Series games on television.

Pick Canadiens To Finish Third Or Better in NHL

By W. E. WHEATLEY
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Montreal, Oct. 4 (CP)—Just where Montreal Canadiens will fit in the coming National Hockey League campaign, aside with a band of capable veterans, a sprinkling of sophomores and only one or two rookies new to professional company:

It is a stand-pat club. On that basis the supporters feel it should go no worse than in third-place finish of last season.

Then the club had to fight a merciless injury jinx as well as the five other teams. Star centre Elmer Lach, the league's point-scoring leader the season before, was out for 34 of the 60 games and Dutch Bouchard, one of the smartest M.L.s defencemen, missed 33. His mate, Kenny Reardon, was out for 14 games.

If the fates are kinder this year, General Manager Frank Selke and Coach Dick Irvin have high hopes for the club.

"We're better than reserve strength now," said Selke. "Our development of players in amateur ranks and with our affiliated clubs of other pro leagues is progressing rapidly. We can look to growing rapidly. We can look to greater strength if necessary."

One Rookie Added

The one major change on the club to date has been the injection of Jean Beliveau, a left wing on the line with Elmer Lach and Maurice Richard. Duke Lamoureux from Shawinigan Falls in the Quebec Senior League and has shown well in pre-season play.

If this 23-year-old 163-pounder can stand the gaff and bring to the N.H.L. a good share of the scoring punch he produced in the tough senior league, he will be a fixture in the job that caused much worry and experimentation last season.

In pre-season play the veterans have shown no signs of slipping. Lach, 32 years old; so are Billy Reay and Joe Carveth. Richard is 28, the same age as defencemen Ken Reardon and Glen Harmon. Defenceman Roger Leger, in the club's early-season physical condition for years, is 30.

But if time does start to take some toll, it should more than compensate with the experience of a year or so in the N.H.L. of such youngsters as Gerry Plamondon, Leo Gravelle and Norman Dussault. In addition, there is Adjutor Cote, team-mate last year of Dube in Sherbrooke. Cote has not yet signed a contract.

Have Defence Strength

Canadiens have defence strength, in depth and ability, and veteran goalie Bill Durnan, now 34, says he is good enough to win the Vezina trophy, as low-average goalie, for the sixth time.

The six defencemen now carried all have solid experience. Bouchard and Reardon likely will lead up again. The other pairs are Harmon and Leger, and Hal Laycoe and Doug Harvey.

As his No. 2 line, after the Lach-Richard-Dube trio, coach Irvin has been using Billy Reay, the brilliant centre who carried much of the load last season, with Plamondon and Carveth.

The No. 3 line is the speedy combination of Cote, Dussault and Gravelle. The fourth line, specializing in defensive play, penalty-killing and break-away threats, has been made up of Ken Mosdell at centre and Floyd Curry and Rip Ripolle on the wings.

Extra forwards with the squad are Bobby Fillion and Ted Campeau.

MAY NOT RACE AGAIN

New York, Oct. 4 — (AP) — When and whether Stymie will race again is problematical, according to Hirsch Jacobs, who developed the one time plater into the world's leading money winner.

The eight-year-old stretch runner, whose earnings stand at $316,485, was retired from Saturday's New York Handicap lame in his right foreleg.

Stymie was second to Donor in the event and it was the best of his comeback efforts. His season following a long layoff.

World Series Notes

New York, Oct. 4.—(CP)—Guy Lombardo and his orchestra have been engaged to play at the World Series. The "Royal Canadians" will sit in centrefield at the Yankee stadium and play for 40 minutes before each game.

Today is a big day in Brooklyn. The Dodgers will be feted by borough president John Cashmore and the citizenry with a parade through the downtown section.

Officials said it would be "an orderly and dignified ceremony in keeping with the spirit of Brooklyn."

Just to be on the safe side, though, 1,500 police have been ordered on duty.

Bronx borough president James J. Lyons dispatched a telegram to Brooklyn borough president John Cashmore, which read in part:

"You may be sure the Bronx bombers will annihilate the Brooklyn Dodgers. Your visit to the famously subservient will at least benefit your people and improve their culture. . . ."

The first World Series ball will be tossed out by a nine-year-old boy, a victim of New York's heavy infantile paralysis epidemic this year.

He is Bruce Howard, and he will watch the series as a guest of Baseball Commissioner A.B. Chandler.

Senators Shop For New Manager, Kuhel Released

Washington, Oct. 4 — (AP) — The eighth-place Washington Senators today were shopping for a new manager to pilot their 1950 baseball team in the American League.

"The book is open," said club president Clark Griffith Monday night after announcing the release of Joe Kuhel as manager.

With the final standings for the 1949 season showing the Senators 47 games behind the American League champions, New York Yankees, Griffith said he had to let Kuhel go.

"It's just baseball," Griffith said. "I found no fault with Joe's managing. It was just the breaks that ruined Joe. Joe's a fine boy and in the two years with us things just didn't break for him. It's time for the Senators to try something different."

Kuhel was appointed Senator manager in 1947.

Wilson Beats Campbell's Mark But Doesn't Count

Picton, Ont., Oct. 4 — (CP) — Harold Wilson and his $100,000 Miss Canada IV speedboat again today will attack the world's speed record for powerboats. This time they have the confidence born of having actually, but unofficially, beaten the mark.

In one run Monday, the 27-year-old Fifiner from Ingersoll, Ont. sent his big boat roaring over the measured mile at 142.3 miles an hour. The 10-year-old record set by Sir Malcolm Campbell is 141.7. Wilson didn't break the record officially because he failed to race the second lap within 20 minutes, under regulations of the American Speedboat Association.

After that glowing one - way run there were hours of uncertainty until it was announced by Association officials that Wilson would be permitted another try today within the rigid Association rules governing such competition. He must cover a one-mile course twice, with the elapsed times charting success or failure of his attempt.

The fast run Monday, which also beat the North American record set by Wilson in 1948, was the fifth test run since Saturday. Wilson had set a North American record of 136.6 miles an hour, 12 miles better than the previous mark, in a test run Sunday.

Wilson's speed run Monday was in waters favorable to his sleek, 2,500 horsepower beauty. But after the first lap, and after Wilson had refuelled, he found the course had flattened out. The water was too smooth for his boat to travel her best on the stepped hull.

In a brief test, chief mechanic Charlie Volker found that the flat water caused so much section it was "just like a drag on the boat."

It is one of his easier teasers. At no-trump five tricks have been taken. Sit south now in the lead and take seven of the remaining eight tricks.

You can see six obvious tricks. Two of them are with king and queen of spades; one with king of hearts; two with, king and queen of diamonds; one with the dummy jack of clubs.

What you need is a seventh trick in some manner of play. And it is understood that opponents can safely possible precaution to prevent you from it. But to no avail.

The idea is to look far enough ahead so that one of your small cards will take a trick. If you do not find it in the first effort, be not chagrined. Give your brains a retread.

Let me tell you in advance that the play to anticipate is based upon a squeeze or one opponent. The actual squeeze occurs when you give up the only trick you can afford to lose.

A squeeze works only when an opponent does not have enough cards to protect what he is guarding. Therefore, one of the basic acts in a squeeze is to reduce opponents cards to the fewest possible.

Times are when this reduction is the result of cashing all the tricks you can take in. Sometimes you must reduce an additional card on a trick you have always intended to give up.

Now to the hero, lead one of your small spades and win with the dummy queen. Then come back a diamond and win with the south queen. Wake me up when you get it.

Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, Oct. 4 — (AP)— Shooting quietly in Culver City is a film which appears to have been written from the headlines of Los Angeles newspapers.

It's called "Trong (Ivy" and it's a thinly-veiled treatment of the local crime situation. The script concerns an attempt to set up a vice track information, wire in California—with various fireworks thrown in. Followers of recent news events will detect parallels to the Bugsy Siegel murder and the recent unsolved strip shooting of Mickey Cohen.

Slapping of crime and gambling in New York as well as Los Angeles may find themselves closely etched in the film, which stars Edmond O'Brien and Joanne Dru. There's no kidding about the seriousness of the project; Los Angeles police detectives are on the set constantly.

Roled Ahead

Joel McCrea is considering a "Captain Kidd" role after "The Outriders". He is balking because the film is not set in England.

Ida Lupino and Collier Young take on another picture with "Peadnoc", which will deal with Mexican-Americans in Los Angeles. The producers have already tackled the problems of unwed mothers ("Not Wanted") and polio ("Never Fear.")

Roy Rogers is the first top screen star to take on a regular television show. He'll put his act through its paces on a program called "Tricks With Trigger."

Glenda Jarman, Jr., will be either an actor, a farmer or a businessman, the preference being in that order. He says he'd like to keep on acting. "Might as well keep making money," he reasons. "People go to college to learn how to make money; so if you already are—why go to school"

Sport Shorts From Britain

By MICHAEL O'MARA

London, Oct. 1. (CP)— Gregory Ward, former Toronto hockey player who now helps manage Richmond Ice Rink, is trying to build an all-English team that will give the best a battle for the 1956 Olympics.

Ward is starting from the ground floor coaching 218 boys between 12 and 18 who have joined his Young Britain Amateur Ice Hockey Club. As a first lesson he puts as many as possible on the ice at once, throws in a puck and lets an old-fashioned shinny session develop.

He proposes a national junior tournament this winter, the finals to coincide with the world hockey championships to be decided in London this spring. At present he has eight teams operating at Richmond.

Roly Jenkins, diminutive Worcestershire and England spin bowler, wound up the cricket season in a blaze of glory by performing a hat trick in each innings of a match against Surrey.

The feat has only been recorded three times before in first-class cricket. Alfred Shaw of Nottinghamshire did it in 1884, Charles Parker of Gloucestershire in 1924 and T. J. Matthews of Australia in a test match against South Africa in 1912.

AT THE McCARTHY — Jennifer Jones as she appears with John Garfield and Pedro Armendariz in John Huston's "We Were Strangers," current feature attraction at Odeon's McCarthy Theatre.

I finished my homework and felt glad of it, only I'd of been still gladder if it hadn't of been first time to go to bed, and I said, Heck, pop, G, ma, I'm not anywhere near sleepy yet.

The most practical place to get sleepy is in bed, pop said, and ma said, If you know what was good for you, you'd look faliward to the opportunity of going to bed and getting a long refreshing nite's sleep.

By golies that's a fact, pop said. You just close your eyes and with no effort on your part you wuz in eighth of an inch dreams and storing up vitamins and calories and good will, he said, and ma said, Why of course, you awt to injoy going to bed.

G, I wish I could injoy it, but how am I going to learn to? I said, and pop said, That's your own problem and you'll have to solve it yourself.

Well will you let me stay up an extra hour if I use it all to do my homework over again and get it absolutely perfect? I said and pop said, Why yes, I'll put my initials to that contract.

I'll agree to it, too, ma said, and I said, Then I'd rather go rite to bed of my own free will. Oh boy I've solved my own problem, I said.

Oh dear, such a boy, ma said, and pop said, There's only one like him, and we've got him.

GOOD PUPILS

Roy R. Knight, Saskatoon teacher who represents that city in the House of Commons, is mighty proud of two of his pupils, even though he is opposed to them in the political arena. The C.C.F. member, left, is seen chatting with Fred H. Larson, centre, and John H. Harrison, his former pupils who are now Liberal members of the House. Mr. Larson represents Kindersley and Mr. Harrison is member for Meadow Lake. Mr. Knight says he takes no responsibility for their political beliefs although he is gratified to see them in the Commons.—(CP Photo.)

PROMISE FULFILLED

Third Man Dies Of Bronchial Ailment

Port Colborne, Ont., Oct. 4 — (CP) — A third man died today of a bronchial ailment believed caused by fumes discharged in the International Nickel Company's nickel-oxydizing process.

Frank Getin died early today in hospital of pneumonia which Dr. W. W. Moffat, attending physician, said was "a secondary condition arising out of an irritation." Getin, like John Toth and Frank Gulteau who died earlier, was employed in the company's leaching department.

H. C. Rickaby, Ontario Deputy Minister of Mines who ordered an investigation into the death of the two Nickel Company employees, said last week: "I think 65, is seriously ill and may resign in a few weeks. Premier Henri Queuille is likely candidate to succeed Auriol.—Central Press Canadian.

Three Teen-Agers Are Arrested At Gun Point

Toronto, Oct. 4 — (CP)—Three teen-aged Toronto youths, arrested at gun point in an east – end dry cleaning plant, are suspected by police of stealing a car in Hamilton and of snatching a purse from a Toronto woman in the north end of the city Monday night.

The stolen car was driven from Hamilton Monday, police said. They did not disclose the name of the owner.

It was found abandoned shortly after midnight. A check of nearby stores led to the discovery of the three hiding beneath a stack of suits and dresses.

The three picked up by police were William Shields, 16, Sam Martin, 18, and his brother Charles, 17.

Probe Promised Over Complaints U.S. Navy Morale

Washington, Oct. 4—(AP)— A thorough congressional investigation was promised today of complaints by high naval officers that morale in the United States Navy is at a low ebb with resulting peril to the country's security.

Chairman Karl Vinson (Dem. Ga.) told reporters the House of Representatives Armed Services committee will "get to the bottom of this" as soon as possible.

The Navy complaints were contained in typed copies of papers signed with the names of Admiral Louis Denfeld, Chief of U.S. Naval Operations; Vice-Admiral Gerald F. Bogan, commander of the first Pacific task fleet, and Admiral A. W. Radford, commander-in-chief of the Pacific fleet.

They were slipped to reporters Monday night in a downtown office building by a naval source who asked that his name not be used.

Not Official Documents

Vinson noted that they were not official documents officially released and said, too, that there was a possibility that propaganda on behalf of the U.S. navy might have been the motive behind their publication.

In speaking of such a possible purpose Vinson was referring to navy complaints, some made public and some otherwise, that the U.S. navy is getting a bad deal out of the "unification" of the army, navy and air force.

The three admirals, Vinson said, should be given an opportunity to "freely express what is on their minds, if they want to."

The gist of the documents was this:

1. A statement by Denfeld that a "navy stripped of its offensive power means a nation stripped of its offensive power."

2. An assertion by Bogan that navy morale has sunk "almost to despondency" because of belief that the United States is being sold "a false bill of goods."

3. A statement by Radford that most Pacific fleet officers concur in Bogan's and Captain John G. Crommelin's views. Crommelin has publicly charged that the navy's attack force is being "nibbled to death" by officials in Washington.

Black Boom

By Paul David Preston

"Miss Millie, ma'am dese white folks think they can sweettalk you into lettin' 'em sleep healin' Jason was horrified. "They wants to pay you money for suppah too!"

The matter took considerable tact, and in the end level-headed Thad Monroe supplied it.

The town it appeared was completely swamped with strangers. Thad explained the emergency to all concerned, suggested the use of spare beds and even cots in the halls "for some minor honorarium, so that the guests won't, feel themselves unduly obliged to Miss Millie." When it was all done, Miss Mayfield (almost as horrified by it all as Jason, but secretly thankful for the money) had taken in $52 in actual cash for one evening! If her whole happy routine was upset and if Jason Weems was virtually nervous wreck, the money went a long way to alleviate that condition. Thad Monroe had long since determined that the Mayfields family wasn't as well off financially as it needed to be.

During these proceedings, Martin Deale remained utterly silent. Lillian had agreed to double up with Baby Doll in order to rent her own room for the night to three lease lawyers and a geologist from Houston, all nice appearing men. Both girls rather liked the house-party atmosphere created. When Martin finally spoke he told Lillian it was deplorable to see her subjected to this intrusion. Lillian laughingly at him, and invited them all to go with her to the street dance at 8 o'clock.

The boys went to their own homes for supper but they came back soon. Lillian and Dorothy were ready, and Mrs. Mayfield almost so.

At least a thousand people were dancing when they got back to town. Martin took immediate charge of Lillian and danced twice with her, and when Thad and M.J. cut in they saw that she was constantly looking around.

"I got it," M.J. finally said. "Looking for the little man who isn't here."

"Don't be ugly to me, M.J." she pleaded.

"You know I won't. If you want him here I'll go drag him in by his scruff."

He didn't have to do that. Dal Tower came up to the group somewhat breathlessly, during the next intermission.

"Hello, everybody!" he was beaming. "I been slaving and I went out to the house, Lillian. Jason told me you had already come down."

He had studiously spoken to no one individually, save Lillian lest there be further clash 'with Martin Deale. Plainly he wanted only peace and comradeship with all of them.

But Martin had reddened, too obviously. He was across the little group from Dallas, perhaps 10 feet away, and all the others involuntarily glanced at him. His lips were pressed tight. He started to speak, but changed his mind and walked straight toward Dallas.

Then, as if by pre-arrangement Thad and M.J. stepped out to block him. They hadn't said anything about it, but they knew that Martin had armed himself with a gun.

Lillian felt a quick intuitive moment of fear when she saw Martin Deale step forward. She couldn't have said what she feared, but she had long known Martin's impetuous nature. Twice already he and Jg. Dallas Tower had clashed and his hatred of Dallas had become unreasoning, it at least was genuine, she knew.

Then in the same instant, Thad and M.J. stepped out.

"Glad you got here when you did Dallas," Thad raised his voice grasping Martin's right arm in comradely manner. As if casually he had moved directly in front of Martin and M.J. closed in to turn him. "We three had an appointment with an oil man and we're already late, but we didn't want to leave the ladies unattended. Take over for a while will you? We'll be checking back in."

"Oh sure Thad," Dallas nodded. "Glad to."

It was—Martin began to protest but it was promptly covered by Thad's affability, Lillian observed. She if not the others with her sensed that Thad and M.J. had acted with a purpose. And she was grateful for it as she watched the two escort Martin off into the crowd.

It was the closely packed crowd of dancers around them which prevented Martin's making any more effective protest; that and Thad's party conversation at which he was an artist. They had reached the sidewalk before Martin managed to speak again.

"What is the meaning of this?" he demanded.

"Had to make talky-talk with you about an investment, Mart," Thad was all set for him. "Now if this oil is going to make some people rich, you and M.J. and I might as well—"

"But did you have to force me away in that pre-emptory manner?"

"Aw, pardon us for that-never thought, I guess—but business won't wait for—"

"See here, Thad, I'm no fool! I know you forced me away from Tower. And I wish to tell you that I can take care of myself!"

"Look," M.J. slower of speech tried to put in a word. "Thad and I just figured that as friends—"

"I need no assistance from friends or any one else!"

Thad Monroe took the reins again then, and with the force that seemed inevitable. "Okay pal, okay; you'll get it straight. Matter of fact we did take you away from Tower but we tried to do it so everybody could save face see? You got smacked in the puss once today and I hear you have a hangover bellyache too. Well, we don't want any more of it! Somebody had to get you told!"

"I resent—"

"Resent, H—, Mart. Understand now, I'm still your friend. It's why I'm in it, me and M. J. both. We happen to know you're packing a gun right now. We don't intend for you to make a fool of yourself with it."

That statement sobered Martin momentarily. In fact it embarrassed him, flustered him. His face went sullen but he said no more.

Thad decided to make the lecture a complete one while he was about it. The three had edged over into the entry way of Crim's Furniture Store, several feet from possible listeners and in a comparatively dark spot.

"Now you've been acting as if Lillian were your wife or fiancee," Thad went on. "Say she does like you a lot. So what! She likes me, too. And M. J. But how we don't own the girl! Not yet, at least. Now I'm frank to say I'd marry Lillian in a minute if she'd have me, but if this Tower mug can cut in and do his stuff, why it's up to Lillian to stop him, not us. I intend to furnish him what competition I can. And anyway, damit Mart, he's just the New-Guy-In-Town! You've seen that before, I was it a few years back, myself. It all calms down."

M. J. was nodding. "That's right," he said.

"That's not the point!" snapped Martin. "He has come in here as a stranger and outrageously subjected Lillian to—"

"Nuts! You've been reading a book, Jay-way, my fran, you stay away from the Mayfields tonight. The women and whoever's with em. I think the oil boom's just got you down. Sleep on it, Mart, don't! And, give me that gun!"

Thad's tone and manner were so unmistakenly friendly, his words so sensible, that Martin offered no protest. Thad took the pistol from under Martin's double-breasted coat, broke it and removed the cartridges, then casually dropped it in his pocket.

"Now forget it," he said, "and let's go on back and play. There's other girls who need a little squiring."

* * *

For more than half of a century Rangeville had lived quietly in its routine of cotton and corn and pine lumber, a new product—black and greasy—with electric suddenness was upsetting the whole economic scheme.

"It's a black boom!" wrote Garland Harris, editor of Rangeville's 34-year-old weekly. "The more black grease on a man this week, the richer he is!" Garland had already borrowed the money to convert his weekly, circulation, 1,109, into a daily paper with Press Association dispatches. He expected a daily circulation of 10,000 before the boom reached its peak.

On that first afternoon a special train came in from Houston, bearing capitalists, geologists, engineers, lawyers. Big firms from as far east as New York City sent representatives down in airplanes (They had to land in Coover's pasture for want of a better field). The one tiny telegraph office was completely swamped, as were all other business establishments.

That night of the dance people paid as high as $5 each for a blanket on a rug in private homes. Some slept on roofs. Every private home that would admit them was filled with "boarders." Old Deke Daingerfield, Rangeville's only night watchman, said he counted more than 50 men sleeping in their automobiles, Smith's Alley which was just an acre of oaks where nobody had built a house and where a Mr. Smith lay in his 40-year-old tomb, became a camping-out spot for men who could do no better.

At noon two days after it blew in the gusher was still gushing and still burning, a great livid advertising of the wealth discovered. The News reel men and newspaper photographers had flown over and around it getting pictures. A Texas radio chain had conducted four half-hour programs within a quarter-mile of the well, Thad Monroe who enjoyed being everywhere where that life was interesting, managed to be with the news men and to be in on two of the broadcasts.

Thad made friends with Thomas Jewel Buck, the distinguished old lawyer from Houston. When he did Mr. Buck a simple favor that netted the lawyer's company at least half a million dollars in lease money, Mr. Buck reciprocated in kind. Thad Monroe declared, thereby, more than $20,000 cash in one week! He went to Mr. Buck with a piece of jewelry, thanks token.

MRS. PITRE TELLS OF SUICIDE SUGGESTION

Just Had Small Drink Captain Tells Noronic Inquiry

Denies Survivors Charge He Was Intoxicated

Toronto, Oct. 5 — (CP) — Capt. William Taylor of Sarnia, today told the federal commission inquiring into the Noronic disaster he was not under the influence of liquor Sept. 17 when his ship burned with the loss of 130 lives in Toronto harbor.

The 56-year-old captain said on that night he had "just one drink . . . a small one under two ounces which he poured himself. This was ashore at the home of friends.

The suggestion he was intoxicated was made at an inquiry in Cleveland where C. R. Wilson, a survivor, charged the captain was drunk. Other survivors said he acted in a normal manner.

At Toronto, Capt. Taylor denied Mr. Wilson's allegation. Counsel Frank Wilkinson, counsel for the ship owners, said instructions had been issued to start suit for $250,000 for libel or slander against the person or persons making the charge.

Earlier today, Capt. Taylor said he delegated to heads of departments aboard ship the task of instructing crew members on their duties in an emergency.

He said he knew C.S.L. written orders called for ship's masters to carry out this duty themselves.

Captain Taylor said he had been told by Capt. Norman Reoch, C.S.L. operating manager, to vary from written orders to make sure only with reference to manning. They were not issued crew members as required under maritime law.

"Yet you observed the order regarding muster buttons coming through on ammunition hoists from the company's" asked Commission Counsel J. W. Pickup.

"Yes," said Capt. Taylor.

Read Instructions

The captain said he had seen and read company instructions each season for the last eight years" he was master of the Noronic.

"...why did you not see that ...company instructions say that ...company instructions say that muster stations must be set up immediately after the last line is made acquainted with them. Was this or was it not followed?

Captain Taylor replied he had to delegate some of the duties and he had delegated the responsibility to the chief officer and heads of departments.

Capt. Taylor said he knew these duties had been carried out because each member of the crew had his "blue" card of printed

Special Propeller For Miss CanadaIV

Owen Sound, Oct. 5 — (CP) — Workmen here are working frantically to complete a special propeller for Harold Wilson's Miss Canada IV, to be used in a try for the world's speedboat record at Picton bay this afternoon.

Wilson said earlier today that he was waiting for the propeller before making another attempt. In earlier trials today the boat could not do more than 153.8 miles an hour.

As soon as word is flashed to Wilson that the propeller is ready he will send a plane to pick it up. The plane will land at Wiarton, 20 miles north of here, and the propeller will be driven there by car.

The company preparing the propeller said it is made from a special bronze alloy which is harder than steel.

Eclipse of Moon Thursday Night

New York, Oct. 5.—(AP)— The moon does another fadeout tomorrow night. Hayden Planetarium officials said the total eclipse will begin at 10.30 p.m. EDT and last until 11.23 p.m. with the exception of darkies, it will be visible all over North America, wherever skies are clear, and in most of the western part of the world.

WEATHER SYNOPSIS

Toronto, Oct. 5 (CP)—Strong—Cooler air now covers the province but today's sunshine will lift temperatures little this high stricted. This morning's weather map shows an elongated low pressure area moving from Saskatchewan to Colorado. This system will move eastward and is expected to produce extensive cloud over most of the province on Thursday.

Thursday's highs throughout the province will range between 60 and 70 degrees. Tonight's lows will be between 35 degrees in the north and 45 degrees in the south.

DEMOCRACIES MUST BE READY SAYS BEVIN

Mistaken Policy to Assume There Would be Period to Build

Ottawa, Oct. 5—(CP)—In the opinion of Foreign Secretary Bevin of Britain, it would be "mistaken policy" for even North America to assume she would have a long period to nourish and build strength after war starts.

That concept, he said here Tuesday, passed into discard with the second world war. It was made obsolete by air power. The democracies "can no longer keep light forces to contain an enemy and then build up as Britain did for years."

That was one of the numerous opinions Mr. Bevin expressed in the last of three days in the capital. They emerged at a press conference and in addresses to the Canadian Club and the annual convention of the Canadian Congress of Labor, both in Montreal today.

His statement on defence aroused some speculation because he made much the same argument twice, once in the presence of

MEMBERS DEBATE PRAIRIE PIPELINE FOR ALBERTA OIL

Drew Argues Line Should Be Built Thru Canada

Ottawa, Oct. 5 — (CP)— The controversial route of the proposed gasoline pipeline for Alberta oil erupted into debate Monday night in the Commons.

Howard Green (PC – Vancouver) opened a free-swinging discussion in which he and George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, disagreed with Trade Minister Howe on whether the pipeline should have its Great Lakes outlet at Superior, Wis., or the Canadian ports of Fort William and Port Arthur.

Mr. Green and Mr. Drew argued that despite the higher cost the line should be constructed through Canada and that the Alberta oil should be first used to supply Canadian needs before considerations of profit in exporting it to the United States.

Mr. Howe said economics and not patriotism must be the consideration that the oil should go through Superior. The cost would be $10,000,000 more to build the line to the Canadian lakehead and $90,000 a year more to operate it.

The minister said further that no permit had been issued yet for exporting any of the Alberta oil to the United States. The permit was for transporting the oil from Alberta refineries by boat from Superior, Wis., on Lake Superior. Mr. Howe further asserted the opinion that by free exchange of all United States dollars would come to Canada.

Mrs. Guay's Body Is Exhumed

Quebec, Oct. 5 — (CP)—The body of Mrs. Albert Guay, one of 23 killed in the Sept. 1 air disaster, was exhumed early today from a grave in St. Charles cemetery.

Her husband is charged with murdering her, and the exhumation order was issued by authorities investigating the bombing investigation. Execution of the order, however, was stayed for 24 hours.

DECLARATION PREMATURE

Toronto, Oct. 5—(CP)—Declaration that Sunday's Ontario election in Toronto will be stopped by the end of the year was premature, Frederick of the Milk Drivers and Dairy Employees Union said Tuesday. Despite Record-Breaking Schemes From Coast to Coast Cry is Still Same, More Homes

(By The Canadian Press)

Canadian houses are going to be as scarce as ever for some time to come and rents are likely to go even higher, a cross-country survey reveals.

The trouble is, The Canadian Press was told in its survey, that those who now have a place to live in the ever-crowding urban centres across the country are in no hurry to move. Those who are still looking for a home are hampered little respite because building firms just can't keep up with their demands.

About the only place in the country where any extra is indicated is in Montreal, the country's largest city. There realestate agents report they are actually looking for home-seekers to fill their empty houses, for the first time since the war.

From the south of Newfoundland to the Pacific the cry is still the same — "more homes"—despite record building booms, new schemes and developments in almost every province.

In St. John's, Newfoundland's capital, a joint Dominion - Provincial housing project now under construction that the oil should go through Superior. The cost would be $10,000,000 more to build the line to the Canadian lakehead and $90,000 a year more to operate it.

The minister said further that no permit had been issued yet for exporting any of the Alberta oil to the United States. People Still Think of Epileptics As Insane Persons but They are Not

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE
New York, Oct. 5 — (AP)— Thousands of years ago, people explained epilepsy this way:

Demons got into a person, they said. The demons made his mind and brought on the fits or convulsions. Demons, they said, are epileptic, or his demons might make on you. Priests were called in to purge or drive out the demons with magical potions.

Later medical science discovered that epilepsy is an ailment of the nervous system. But the demon idea lingered on. The mythical demons spawned new demons that still plague and haunt epileptics.

The new demons are the superstitions and old ideas about epilepsy that many people still believe. They are the ideas that all epileptics are insane. Or that epilepsy is always inherited. Or that epileptics can't live normal lives, hold down jobs, or marry. Or that epileptic attacks cannot be stopped or controlled.

For years these ideas made the person with epilepsy a social outcast, unless he could hide his affliction. Even in enlightened today he is still shunned and pitied by millions. But 75 per cent of people with epilepsy can live, work and play like other persons.

But all these demon ideas melt away and are purged by the light of the facts about epilepsy.

Epilepsy is not insanity. Some epileptics are brilliant, even geniuses. Others are morons. Most are of average intelligence.

Julius Caesar had epilepsy. So did Lord Byron, Alfred the Great, Guy De Maupassant, Van Gogh, and Dostoyevski the novelist. Today there are physicians, lawyers, artists, clerks and mechanics who are known to still have, epileptic seizures from time to time.

"It is no disgrace to have migraine headaches or epilepsy," says the authority. "And there is no reason for any stigma to be attached to epilepsy. Both troubles are similar in origin, and might be called cousins.

Something happens in the brain and nervous system to produce an epileptic fit. No one knows why.

There are 700,000 or more epileptics in the United States. That is as many or more than have tuberculosis. Unlike tuberculosis today he is still shunned and pitied by millions. But 75 per cent of people with epilepsy can live, work and play like other persons.

C.C.L. SUPPORTS FOREIGN-POLICY RESOLUTION

An executive-sponsored resolution went through by a majority of about 16 to one after its supporters had grown to the mat for 1¼ hours with party-liners who denounced the pact and U.S. aid to Europe as imperialistic U.S. proposals.

Hot Meeting

During a hot debate that broke out into name-calling at times the United Electrical Workers' Union — one of the spearheads of the attack on the policy resolution— was described as Communist-led and greeted by the Labor Progressive Party.

Several delegates had to be called to order frequently. Jeers and interjections from partisans

Racetrack Groom Fatally Injured As Horse Bolts

Toronto, Oct. 5. — (CP) — A groom was fatally injured and two others hurt when a Toronto Branch race track when a horse bolted through the outside rail during yesterday's fourth race.

Donald J. Conley, 26, of Windsor, died in hospital of a fractured skull when the horse, Little Action, smashed through the rail sending the jockey and four scantling flying into the infield. Conley was thrown over the back of the head with a piece of the railing.

George Doody, 24, of Montreal, and William Jewell, 16, of Windsor, who were standing beside Conley, suffered cuts and bruises when struck by flying pieces of wood. The jockey, Eddie Adams, also suffered bruises.

The horse was destroyed after the mishap.

The witness said she learned during the day that Mrs. Guay had been asked to the plane for Bale Comeau. She said she heard about the crash but did not pay much attention to the report. She said "My God, isn't it awful," and that was all.

Mrs. Pitre didn't notice what became of Guay after she took the parcel from him. She noticed that the name "Bouchard" appeared on the parcel.

Mrs. Pitre told the taxi-driver the parcel was fragile and was a statue. At the airport the driver carried the parcel into the air-

Newcombe, Reynolds Engage In Tight Pitching Duel For First Game of Series

By JACK HAND

Yankee Stadium, New York, Oct. 5 (AP)—Big Don Newcombe, Brooklyn's 23-pound Negro rookie righthander, was named today to oppose the Yankees' Allie Reynolds in the first game of the 46th World Series at Yankee Stadium.

After an early morning shower, the sun peeked through the low overcast and by game time, two hours before game time, the sun was shining and the bleachers were jammed with their 13,500 capacity and most of the 50,000 outside ticket windows had disappeared.

At least 48,000 fans will be here when the Dodgers and Yanks tangle for the third time in a series between all reserved seats have been sold for more than a week.

Choice of Newcombe over Letty Roe was a last-minute development as Roe had been slated back on his pitching nomination until after a secret meeting today. Newcombe is the first Negro pitcher to start a World Series game.

Opening the series is a tremendous mismatch between the husky righthander who moved up from Montreal Royals in mid-May after a spring training trial.

During the season, big Newk has been Stanley's hardest workman, pitching 245 innings en route to a 17-8 winning record. Of his 31 starts, 9 have been complete games. He has a low earned run mark of 3.28.

Despite a painful groin injury, righthielder Carl Furillo reported ready for play. Carl was fined out in pre-game practice that he couldn't make the grade, he will be in the starting lineup.

First Inning Dodgers

Reese watched Reynolds' first two pitches across the plate for strikes, then looked at a third that rolled to Henrich who made the putout unassisted at first base.

Snider swung and missed a three-and-two pitch to become Reynolds' first strikeout victim. Snider passed up a fine ball to right to gather in Robinson's fly.

Yankees

With the count one and one, Rizzuto attempted to bunt but fouled a pitch that Reese caught in front of the Yankee dugout.

No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

Second Inning Dodgers

Hermanski walked on a full count.

Furillo also worked the count to three and two before getting his base on balls.

Hodges fouled out two attempted sacrifice bunts then popped back to the box. Reynolds speared the ball-lobber and started a double play. He threw to Coleman who forced Furillo at second and Coleman whipped to Henrich to double up Hodges at first.

Yankees

Rizzuto attempted to hold back his swing on the third strike but missed. He was out and also ruled a strikeout victim by umpire Hubbard.

Stanley's timer a changeup pace expertly and stroked it into left field for a single, the first Yankee hit of the game.

Newcombe, blazingly fast, in this hazy muggy weather, poured a third strike past the swinging Coleman to retire the side via the strikeout route.

Third Inning Dodgers

Johnson and Henrich collaborated on a retire Reese on a nice play. The third baseman came in fast to make a nice backhanded pickup and underhand throw of Reese's bunt. Henrich helped with a low stretch and glove hand catch of the throw.

Jorgensen swung at Reynolds' first pitch and lofted a high bouncer to Coleman who threw him out.

Says Guay Told Her to Take Pills And Turn on Gas

Did Not Know Mrs. Guay Was to be Plane Passenger

By WILLIAM STEWART
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Quebec, Oct. 5 — Mrs. Arthur Pitre, key witness in the Quebec air disaster murder case, said today that J. Albert Guay advised her to commit suicide after an aircraft crashed near here Sept. 9.

Mrs. Pitre, facing a charge of attempted suicide but testifying under protection of the court, gave evidence at the second session of the preliminary hearing into the charge that Guay murdered his wife, one of 23 passengers aboard the plane.

Mrs. Pitre, who admitted Tuesday she had purchased dynamite for Guay and had carried a mysterious parcel to the airport before the departure of the doomed plane, said Guay advised her to "leave" or "disappear."

She said he suggested she "take sleeping pills, turn on the gas and everything would be finished."

Previously Mrs. Pitre had testified that Guay had backed notes by which she and her husband borrowed money from the bank.

The 41-year-old woman was the first witness today as a big crowd gathered in the courtroom for the second successive day of the hearing.

Chamber Packed

Seats on the floor of the big council chamber and in a narrow gallery at the back were packed well before the hearing was due to resume at 10.30 a.m.

Investigators of the plane crash Sept. 9, which police believe was due to explosion of a time bomb shipped by Guay, were at their places at a row of tables.

First witness of the day was Mrs. Arthur Pitre, who testified more than a half hour Tuesday until adjournment time. Guay, in the prisoner's box leaned on his elbow and watched Mrs. Pitre out of the corner of his eye.

Questioned About Parcel

Crown Prosecutor Noel Dorion questioned Mrs. Pitre again about the mystery parcel she received from Guay at Lake St. Joseph Sept. 9. Guay had told her it was "fragile" and was a statue. He told her the package was destined for Bale Comeau. Mrs. Pitre said she did not question Guay about the parcel.

Mrs. Pitre said Guay did not say why he was not to take the parcel to Quebec airport himself. She added that some time later Mrs. Guay was to be a passenger on the flight.

The witness said she learned during the day that Mrs. Guay had been asked to the plane for Bale Comeau. She said she heard about the crash but did not pay much attention to the report. She said "My God, isn't it awful," and that was all.

Mrs. Pitre didn't notice what became of Guay after she took the parcel from him. She noticed that the name "Bouchard" appeared on the parcel.

Radio Owner Fined, Mails Everything To Police--Summons, Fine, Radio

Kitchener, Oct. 5. (CP)— So angered at being assessed a fine for non-payment of his radio licence, a Waterloo County citizen Thursday mailed his summons, money order for the fine, radio licence and finally the radio itself, to the provincial police department.

The case of the Peace Leo Leyes though Christmas had come in advance when he opened the big unwieldy package by radio.

"Boy that fellow must have appreciation. We never had them sending radios to us before," he laughed.

The late listener, John T. Schmidt of Ayr, also sent a letter to Otto Lang, justice of the peace at the Kitchener office.

Mr. Schmidt expressed his disapproval of what he termed "one of the most unfair, discriminatory, unequally enforced and unsavory acts ever put into the statute books of Canada."

He added "in order to protect myself from the inconsistencies of this unconscionable act and in order to protect myself from the nuisance and encumbrances of owning one high-pressure sucker list, I hereby enclose money order for $4 in favour of the Receiver-General of Canada."

"It is, however, with the strongest protest that I submit that I take this action."

He said that he enclosed the radio, along with the summons and radio licence, "to obviate the necessity of having government sneaks running through my dwelling place."

Court officials are expected to sell the radio and use the proceeds to pay the difference between Schmidt's $4 and the $5 fine usually imposed.

CANADA'S YOUTH LED TO VIOLENCE BY CRIME COMICS

Member Says Books Should be Banned, Publishers Prosecuted

Ottawa, Oct. 5—CP—Lurid and obscene crime comics—not the stuff published in newspapers but the type bought in book form at corner stores—are leading Canada's youth to violence, crime and murder, the Commons was told Tuesday.

T. D. Bulton (PC-Kamloops), 33-year-old lawyer, said crime comics should be banned and the publishers and distributors prosecuted. He spoke during second reading adoption in principle, of his private bill which would amend the criminal code to make comics illegal.

The legislation-still was under discussion when the hour devoted to private members' bills expired. It went to the bottom of the list and may be reished again at this session, expected to proroged early in December.

Before the bill was talked out two members, Rev. Dan McIvor (L-Fort William) and Rev. E. G. Hansell (SC-MacLeod) joined in the battle to ban crime comics and obscene literature from the book-stalls.

"The comic books concentrate on aggressions which are imposed under civilized restraints—with fists, guns, torture, killing and blood," said Mr. McIvor.

Directed Wrong War

On the pages of these comics, flowing out of United States publication houses at the rate of about 700,000,000 a year, were portrayed "pictorial beatings, shootings, strangulings, blood-puddles and naturings-to-death."

They "invariably" portray the law and the administration of justice and "decency" as a "slow" stumbling and stupid progress."

APPLE DAY NETS SCOUTS $1,000

An apple a day may keep the doctor away, but an apple on the day of the Boy Scouts and Cubs fund-raising effort brought in a greatly appreciated amount of revenue.

Boy Scout officials stated today that just a few cents short of $1,000 was collected during the efforts of the Scouts and Cubs on their "Apple Day".

They expressed their sincere appreciation to not only the general public for its generous response but to all Scouts and Cubs, their officials and any one who in anyway assisted in the drive.

JUDGE REYNOLDS PRESIDES AT COURT

Eleven cases were listed for trial, two of the cases being appeals from traffic court decisions given by Magistrate T. Y. Wills.

Accidental Death Jury's Verdict

A verdict of accidental death was returned by a coroner's jury Tuesday evening at the adjourned inquest looking into the death of William Eves, 61, who died Sept. 30th in Belleville General Hospital following injuries sustained while struck by a car on West Bridge Street.

The jury found that Mr. Eves died as result of injuries received when struck by a car on August 30 while he was crossing the street. No blame is attached to the driver of the car, the jury decided as the mishap was purely accidental.

A total of seven witnesses gave evidence before Coroner Dr. J. Russell Scott. Witnesses included Albert Eves, brother of the dead man; Dr. H. Bateman; Dr. E. A. Miles, Police Constable Thomson and Norman Mann, and driver of the car, Wm. F. Thompson.

The jurymen included Edward George, Hazen Stairs, Len Foxard, William Lynch and William Birdie.

Fire Prevention Week Outlined By Chief Vance

A varied program to bring the observance of Fire Prevention Week before the residents of Belleville and District is being planned for next week, it was stated today by Fire Chief Gerald Vance.

Fire Prevention Week will be observed starting on October 9th and lasting throughout the week.

In an effort aimed at causing the children to become fire conscious, an essay and poster contest is being staged at all the city public schools and also the Separate School with cash and merchandise prizes being offered for the best essays and posters.

In addition to this a prize is being offered to the Boy Scout and Girl Guide troop showing the most activity in the fire and reports it to the fire department. A prize is also being offered to the Girl Guide who discovers the greatest fire hazard.

Fire Drills at All Schools

There will be fire drill in all public schools and at the Collegiate as well as at the Separate School, the Ontario School for the Deaf and the Prince of Wales School in Thurlow township. There will also be fire drill at the Belleville General Hospital. Demonstration will be given in the use of fire extinguishers and the rescuing of extinguishers.

There will be a thorough inspection as well at manufacturing plants in the city as well as all public buildings.

Demonstrate Equipment

To make the general public fire conscious there will be a demonstration of fire fighting equipment on one afternoon next week. This demonstration will include the new aerial ladder and the elevating platform. The display will be put on along Front Street in front of one of the highest business blocks.

Also there will be a parade of fire fighting equipment, including modern fire equipment owned by the department as well as some of more ancient vintage including a hand drawn hose reel.

Finally there will be a window display urging co-operation of the public and stressing the importance of fire prevention.

Obituary

MRS. MARJORY BOOMHOWER

Mrs. Marjory Victoria Boomhower, wife of Mr. Charles W. Boomhower, 35 South Front St., died in the Belleville General Hospital, about noon on Tuesday after a brief illness. She was born in Prince Edward County and was in her 63rd year. At one time she lived at Redneresville and for the past twelve years she made her home in this city. She was a member of the Church of England.

Surviving her are her husband, and one sister, Mrs. Clare Lauder, Toronto.

WILLIAM H. GUTZEIT
(Bath, Ont.)

William H. Gutzeit, musical doctor, passed away Thursday morning at his residence Fairfield Place, Bath, Ont., after an illness of one week from coronary thrombosis. He was born in United States of a musical family and came to reside in Canada over 60 years ago becoming a naturalized citizen of this city. He married Mabel Fairfield, who survives.

He was a prominent musician and his church anthems and compositions are in wide circulation. He resided in Toronto for many years, during which time he took an active part in the musical life of the city being organist of Wesley United, Parkdale and Rosedale United also Holy Blossom synagogue, where he studied the traditional Hebrew music.

Coming to Bath, he moved to Bath and took over the organ of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Kingston, during which time he wrote and produced with his wife two oratorios, "Christ Joseph and His Brethren" and "David the Shepherd King." He was always the perfectionist and his hymn playing the most important item of his life's work.

For the last seven months he was co-composer with Mrs. Gutzeit to raise funds for a memorial organ for St. John's Anglican Church, Bath, and had completed this project, but was too ill to be at the organ console for the dedication service on September 28th last. He was an arts connoisseur and an ardent supporter of Toronto Branch of the United Empire Loyalist Association.

The bearers were Arthur Wait, Frank Jeffrey, Frank Woods, Hilton Storey, James Bing and Lawrence Ketcheson.

ARRIVAL OF YELLOWJACK

Yellow fever made its first recorded appearance in North America in 1618.

Past President Gives Report On Convention

"The seeds of successful Kiwanis operation are sown during this annual get-together," stated Ted Schwab in commencing his convention report at the weekly luncheon of the Kiwanis Club of Belleville.

Before continuing with the report Mr. Schwab paid tribute to the work done by the host clubs in preparing a grand time. "Nothing was left to chance, every hour was well planned for the enjoyment of all," he said.

Mr. Schwab told the club that the convention opened with a Prelude in the Capitol Theatre with the first item on the program being the presentation of the colors by the Kiwanis Halifax Air Cadets. "This was significant to me in as much as we are about to sponsor the Belleville Air Cadet Squadron," he declared. He said that Belleville's Mayor Wallace officially welcomed the gathering with the Reverend Dr. C. N. Nicholson, Principal of Pine Hill Divinity Hall giving the feature address.

Haley Heard at Luncheon

He said that at the noon luncheon the speakers were limited to less than our old friend of the 100 per cent excess profits tax, the Rt. Hon. Mackenzie King, K.C., LL.D." He pointed out that because of the announcement of the Prime Minister's address earlier, Mr. Haley's talk on "Dollars and Pounds" was not publicized. "But", he added, "listening to a man of his calibre at any time and on any topic is a rare treat."

"The vast majority of Kiwanians in the convention city stated the curb fund-raising methods that are contrary to the laws of the city are unanimously condemned," Mr. Schwab, "and they are anxious to see the practice abolished."

Speaking on the Tuesday luncheon Mr. Schwab said the noon luncheon was one of the real highlights of the convention. "He said that the speaker, Mr. Norman H. Hadley, was an able and lecturer of note who spoke on Halifax and its 200 years of history. There was a great amount of humor into his remarks, which were unquestionably a treat for everyone present."

Mr. Schwab told the club that Ken. Lougheed of Toronto was elected governor for the 1950 season with Bill Richardson of Peterborough, as lieutenant-governor.

Mr. Schwab said that if he was to choose a topic for his talk he would use "Let's have a Kiwanis Club in Belleville as a title."

In conclusion he left a motto which he said could be posted by the president and committee chairmen for the next year. The motto is "No Dues Unless Personal Service."

Mr. Reg Hinchey also spoke at the luncheon meeting. He asked the club for their support when the topic of a bandshell for Belleville came to the fore. He pointed out that the bandshell could be used for various purposes other than for band concerts. He said that it would be a great asset to the community and that he hoped the Kiwanis club would be behind any such project.

Fire Chief Vance Tells Optimists Of Department

Chief Gerald Vance of the fire department was guest speaker at the Monday evening at the Optimist Club. Introduced by Optimist Jack Devine, he began by giving a review of the history of the Belleville force from its inception to the present.

Likening service in those early days to a voluntary jail term, the speaker, veteran of twenty-eight years fire-fighting, told of twenty-four hour duty for a period of forty dollars a month. From those days of horse-drawn equipment, Chief Vance traced the hard-fought growth of the department, then a force of ten men and chief, through the first mechanization to present staff of thirty men and chief, with equipment second to none. He spoke with especial pride of the new number two fire hall, the finest in the Dominion.

To the duties of Belleville fire department cover the protection of not only the city's $50,000,000 plus and $50,000,000 property, but the townships of Sidney and Thurlow as well. Since the vast increase in the responsibility of the department was shown by the increase in number of alarms answered, from 27 in 1916, to 348 answered in 1946 and 333 to date in 1946.

In addition, Chief Vance pointed out, whereas the old time fire department went into action only when a fire had started, a modern department fights fires before they occur. Citizens should welcome the fire inspector to their premises as gladly as they would the fire fighters, should a fire break out.

For fire prevention week, the annual commendation of Philip Gregat Chicago fire, Chief Vance promised a public demonstration of the new seventy-five foot life chute.

The speaker was thanked on behalf of the club for his excellent address by Optimist Harold Bankier.

Past President Donald Boyce conducted the initiation of Philip Flagler and George Simpson into the Optimist Club.

"r. Joe Shortt paid a visit to the meeting and presented an invitation to all members to take part in the coming Red Feather Community Chest Campaign.

Crippled Children From City Guests at Shrine Circus

A bus-load of crippled children, some of them enjoying such an excursion for the first time will leave the Shrine Club here tomorrow morning at 8.30 en route to Toronto where they will be the guests of members of the Shrine Circus in Maple Leaf Gardens.

The children will travel by Dawson's bus and will be under the care of Dr. Russell Scott and registered nurses. Careful supervision of the boys and girls will be maintained at all times.

The party will be given lunch during the journey and will arrive at the Gardens shortly before two o'clock. They will leave immediately following the performance.

Dr. Grant Fraser, of Medoc, colonizer of Guinness Shrine, has secured a block of 50 seats in a prominent place in the Gardens from which the small guests will be able to view practically the entire show.

Shrine officials said today that there is still room in the bus and any one knowing a crippled child who is physically able to undertake the journey, should get in contact with the Shrine Club, 51 Highland Avenue, telephone 1963, this afternoon or evening.

Albert S. Newman Retires As C.N.R. Engineer After Thirty-Nine Years of Service

Thirty-nine years a railroader without an accident is the proud record of A. S. Newman, 325 Dufferin Ave., who on Monday pulled his last throttle for the Canadian National Railways. Mr. Newman has retired as engineer since being in the company service since 1910.

"I have had many narrow escapes with auto drivers trying to beat the train, but then what engineer hasn't these days," Mr. Newman recalled, "I don't take any credit for that, but I never had an accident in all my time on the road."

Although he was on freight service at the time of his retirement, Mr. Newman, who comes from Essex, England, had seen passenger service. But he said he preferred the freights to be transferred back.

It was a particular pleasure for Mr. Newman to handle the throttle on one of the diesel engines on the Kingston-Montreal freight run. "For sheer power and ease of handling combined with comfort there is nothing to equal the diesels," he said.

Came to Canada in 1906

Coming to Canada in 1906 Mr. Newman was engaged in construction work on the Trent Canal when he first became interested in railroading. It was then that during his spare time he fired one of the Grand Trunk locomotives engaged in shoving up materials for canal construction.

One day a fireman asked him why he did not get a job on the railroad. His trial run as a fireman with Engineer Herb. Leavitt, now retired.

Three years later he was classed as engineer and since has operated trains to and out of Belleville.

Ardent Angler, Hunter

But retirement does not mean Mr. Newman will have nothing to do. On the contrary he expects to find plenty to do "around the house" and next summer will devote more than his usual time to his garden, out of doors.

And this fall he expects for the first time to have plenty of time to do a spot of partridge, duck and deer hunting. He also is an ardent fisherman.

Mr. and Mrs. Newman are regular attendants at Christ Church. They have two children, Jean, who works in a Bond insurance office, and Fred, employed in the office at Stewart Warner-Alemite.

Horses Gradually Being Replaced By Farm Tractors

Farm tractors are gradually supersending horses as power for hauling farm equipment with the result that horses are becoming a glut on the market.

In contrast to the picture a decade or so ago almost every farm in the Bay of Quinte district now has a tractor with the use of mechanical equipment being rapidly on the increase.

That horses are becoming a glut on the market is indicated by the weekly crop report published by the Ontario Department of Agriculture which says that the demand for farm horses is practically non-existent at farm auction sales.

The demand for fall freshening cows is heavy in the Bay of Quinte district with buyers purchasing for the American market.

The worth of artificial insemination units in producing better bred stock is shown by the fact that calves sired by bulls at the Quinte District Cattle Breeding Association have topped a number of the local calf club shows held in connection with fall fairs.

Good pastures are stated to be the keeping livestock over for the winter. However prices at auction sales are somewhat lower than a year ago.

Creamery Butter Production Down By 8.1 Per Cent

A dairy report issued Tuesday by the Ontario Department of Agriculture, showed that production of creamery butter for the month totalled 7,839,200 pounds—497,800 pounds or 8.1 per cent less than for August, 1948.

The cumulative output for the first eight months of the year was also down, but not quite as much. Up to the end of August, 52,653,000 pounds were produced, 2.2 per cent less than the 53,875,-000 pounds in the similar period of 1948.

Cheese production was down on— by about ½ of one per cent. In August 10,420,000 pounds of cheddar cheese was produced as against 10,535,800 pounds in the same month last year.

Production for the first eight months of 1949 was 84,346,100 pounds compared with 49,985,700 pounds in the comparable period of 1948.

C.C.L. SUPPORTS

broke in on the speakers. One leftist was threatened with being thrown over the microphone for attacking the congress executive.

Robert Haddow, Montreal member of the left-wing Fur and Leather Workers' Union, launched a torrid denunciation of the R.C.P. and Atlantic pact clauses of the resolution.

"It's no use guys saying I'm a Communist, a Russian agent," Brooks said. He hammered at the resolution.

He slashed at E.R.P. as a "device to enslave the people of Europe" and at the Atlantic treaty as a "fraud."

Sam Baron of Montreal, architect Canadian chief of the Textile Workers' Union of America, jumped into the fray with a declaration that the Canadian Communist party was trying to disrupt and split the nation to bring on the chaos.

Denounces Party Line

Denouncing the "party line" he declared Haddow knew that the Marshall Plan was not the root cause of the world's economic problem—that it had been created by the war. The U.S. was pouring out billions to help send Europe back on its feet.

J. K. Bell Halifax leader of the Maritime Workers' Federation branded the R.C.P. and its President A. R. Mosher when he said the executive was trying to "put over" Marshall Plan support.

"You can take your seat if you cast another aspersion" Mosher snapped.

Pat Conroy C.C.L. secretary-treasurer declared the measures proposed in resolution were necessary for the preservation of peace.

He defended the Marshall Plan as reflecting U.S. willingness to pour out aid to other countries.

Conroy said the "shrinking violets of the T.E.W." and the Labor Progressive party had neglected to tell the convention that Moscow had a substitute for the Marshall Plan—to use fifth columnists to bring Europe under the yoke of the Kremlin.

Two Murdered In Drinking Bout

Canton, Oct. 5. (AP)—Explorer Leonard Clark was arrested today on charges of slaying Shanghai-born Harold Harris and Montreal-born Alfred Freeman in a wedding aninversary shooting at the Freeman home, Sept. 3.

The 42-year-old San Francisco explorer, who claimed to have located the world's highest peak in the Anne Machine Mountains of Western China, was removed from a Canton hospital to a detention home.

He was shot near the heart in the affray, which culminated a drinking bout, Sheriff Lawrence Bonn.

Harris's widow and young daughter are living in Vancouver.

Clark was quoted by police as saying Freeman "pulled a [illegible] cuy act" at the conclusion of a "drinking bout", which was the preliminary to the fourth wedding anniversary of the Freemans and the birthday of blonde Mrs. Freeman.

instructions. He said heads of the departments had told them the duty delegated by him to them had been carried out.

"When did you ask them?" ... before the start of the spring cruise this year."

Capt. Taylor said he had checked the muster list by looking over the shoulders of officers as they checked to draw it up as the list was being prepared.

He [illegible] to which you looked over it?"

"Yes, sir."

Said Mate Was Confused

The witness said he was confused Tuesday in saying the Norcnic had a chart showing radio stations and allocating members of the crew to them by number. He said this chart was similar to one another C.S.L. steamer, the S.S. Kingston.

Capt. Taylor said the error was made because of his memory not being clear. The court he is still under medical care.

He agreed with Mr. Pickup that he now realized there was no such muster chart shown to the court. He said he had made a sheet on which similar information was typewritten.

Capt. Taylor told the Commissioner, Mr. Justice W. F. Kellock, that in emergencies ship's officers were assigned to lifeboat stations but not to fire stations He could not say definitely who was in charge of any one station.

The witness said he had not approved or signed the muster list as the master was required to do under company orders. He had not seen the Norcnic's muster list after it was completed.

Discussed Possibility

Capt. Taylor said after questioning at length by Mr. Pickup that he had discussed with department heads the possibility of fire while the ship was in dock. In that event they were told to get off engineroom as fast as possible.

"Can you recall any specific instructions you gave any officers?"

Capt. Taylor said he remembered having told the chief steward that if fire broke out in dock he was to see all passengers were roused and that he was to help in putting them ashore.

Capt. Taylor told Mr. Justice Kellock the station were also allocated to passengers. Senior officers had been allotted places throughout the ship for boat and fire drills.

He said the chief mate's post was all of C Deck; the Second officer A Deck; third mate B Deck and chief steward and purser D Deck.

Capt. Taylor said he always felt that while the ship was in dock it was more or less under the fire protection of the port of call. He had not considered the possibility of a fire in dock as "very serious" as one at sea.

The witness said on the night of the fire the Second officer was in charge of the ship. There also were on watch the quartermaster, watchman and a special officer.

Bellboys on Watch

Also part of the regular watch, in the engine room, were the chief engineer, an oiler, a water handler and four firemen, said Capt. Taylor.

He told the commissioner that he considered four officers on duty that night were part of the ship's watch. He considered their duty was to keep order among the passengers.

Capt. Taylor told Capt. H. S. Kane, Commission assessor from Montreal, he had never considered the shore patrol as an emergency extra facilities for getting passengers ashore in an emergency.

Asked if he did not consider some extra precautions advisable when crew discharge while at dock would be relaxed, Capt. Taylor admitted "it wasn't done anyway."

Capt. Taylor said he had at various times instructed the Norcnic's two special officers to be on the alert for fire aboard ship.

He said there were no labor troubles aboard the ship in 1949, and he had noted no signs of disloyalty or anything of that nature among the crew.

Capt. Taylor said that to his knowledge no tests had been made of the audibility of klaxons aboard ship. He said it could be heard "distinctly anywhere" aboard.

He testified he was aware that fire extinguishers were not discharged as required during fire drills. From time to time the chief officer had reported this to him, he said.

Returned at 1.30 a.m.

Capt. Taylor said he went ashore in Toronto about 10 p.m. EST, and returned about 1.30 a.m. He had spent the time with friends.

"Where?"

"In the one place."

"Any reason why you should not tell me the names?"

"Non whatever. Dean Bradley, Imperial Oil."

"You hear dhe suggestion that when you returned to the ship you were under the influence of liquor? What have you to say [illegible]

"I was not." Capt. Taylor said he had one drink all night. He said his physical condition wouldn't permit any more.

Asked the size of the drink, he said it was small, under two ounces — "I poured it myself."

Capt. Taylor told the commissioner the drink had been

Tells of Events

Capt. Taylor, then described events leading to the fire after he returned to the ship. Before proceeding to his cabin on A deck he had called on a passenger on C deck. He said there was no "reason whatever" why he should withhold the name of the passenger. He said she was a Miss Kerr.

When he learned of the fire, Capt. Taylor said he told Wheelman Donaldson to sound the fire alarm but should this not be heard him.

He said he did not think Donaldson turned in the alarm. He had heard later that Donaldson called the chief officer and told him to do it.

Capt. Taylor said after smelling and seeing smoke on C deck, he shouted fire and raced to the promenade deck where he shouted down to the deck to call the fire department. He received no reply.

He called three times for the fire department," he said.

He told of returning to C deck, pulling open a fireplug, opening the valve and turning a stream of water on the fire.

He said he heard the klaxon as he came down to C deck and he had taken charge of the ship's activities.

At one P. M. EDT, the inquiry adjourned until 10.30 A. M. EDT, Thursday.

DEMOCRACIES

Prime Minister St. Laurent and Defence Minister Claxton. The views of the Canadian government envisions small standing forces which would become the nucleus for large-scale expansion in the event of another 1914 or 1939.

Other Views Expressed

These were some of Mr. Bevin's other views:

Depression — Russia's assumption of a theatrical pose that "the world will in the end be 'hey own undoing" because it is based on the false belief that "we don't learn from our mistakes."

Economics—The British had been determined to "make the most desperate effort" to hold the sterling area together and to save it from going down into a shambles. The United States' $4,000,000,000 to its multilateral-trading friends in the title of the Marshall Plan, did not remove the chance that the west might be divided into dollar and sterling worlds whose conflicts would unleash World War 3. It was to avoid anything that would enhance such a prospect that Britain had recalled the U.S. and Canada when she concluded she wasn't strong enough to carry the title unaided to aid the pound. This was the prelude to devaluation.

British Revivified

Britain—Some people feel that "something terrible" has happened to the "Old Country." It's not the old country, a mother country. It has been "revivified" and will in the end be "hey colleagues, the dominions. It is a "young country, not a decadent country."

Russia—The true threat of Russia stood not in the attitude of Yugoslavia. It was not a question of Communism or anti-Communism but whether he was a Moscow Communist, whether he took his orders from Soviet dictates. To such an attitude the west would never yield.

Europe—Europe is "torn and weak," "unable to stand alone against "the foe." But with the aid of North America it will be possible to ensure peace for generations.

Canada—Canada could do "a considerable amount" to aid Britain financially by buying her goods.

SAY GUAY

line office for weighing. The load was 25 or 26 pounds.

Made Many Offers

Mrs. Pitre said Guay had once said if his "affairs went well" he we 't tear up notes for money he owes ever again. This was to b for Mrs. Pitre's "services" she said.

Guay had made similar offers of help before, she added, but she could not remember any such offers prior to her purchase of dynamite for Guay in August.

Mrs. Pitre said she did not see Guay the day of the crash after he left her in the grocery at the station. She telephoned her own home from her mother's and understood Guay was then at the Pitre home on Monsaigneur Gauvreau Street.

She could hear him over the telephone talking to another [illegible] she said. "Guay was joking, saying all kinds of things," Mrs. Pitre added.

Mrs. Pitre said most of the place crash "during the day."

She heard Mrs. Guay was aboard but did not know it was the same plane on which the parcel had been shipped she said.

Mrs. Pitre said Guay telephoned once after the crash to find out if she didn't "have something to give for the bank." Mrs. Pitre said Guay had caused notices by which the Pitres had borrowed from the bank.

Appeared Sad Over Death

Mrs. Pitre said on another occasion Guay said he had $1000 insurance on his wife. Mrs. Pitre said it was not much for loss of a wife, Guay had appeared sad over the death of Mrs. Guay, Mrs. Pitre said when she saw Guay Sept. 18 he carried a newspaper telling of a woman who had taken a parcel to the illfated plane.

Mrs. Pitre said she did not question Guay at that moment [illegible] the parcel he had given her Sept. 8.

Witness Given Rest

At this point Mrs. Pitre complained that the crowd excited her and the sitting was suspended for five minutes to give her a rest.

She left the court and Guay was taken from the prisoner's box.

When the recess was over Judge Roy asked the crowd for order during testimony. Judge Roy gave the order for the benefit of Mrs. Pitre. He said she was a "tired woman".

After the recess Mrs. Pitre testified Guay had told her if the parcel she had taken to the plane had caused the accident, she would be hanged.

Guay advised her to "leave" or "disappear".

Guay would say I'm guilty if I did that," Mrs. Pitre said. She protected, ordering Guay to leave.

Guay then advised her "to take sleeping pills, have a bag gas and everything would be finished," she added though he knew she was no more "guilty" than he was, Mrs. Pitre recalled. What ended Mrs. Pitre's testimony.

PAYS TRIBUTE TO CANADA

Tribute has been paid to Canada by the Washington News which stated on Monday that the Dominion of Canada has become one of the world's "greatest powers."

Canada is playing its part in international affairs and the News points to the election of Dominion Affairs Minister L. B. Pearson as chairman of the United Nations External Affairs Committee as proof of the increasing voice of the Dominion in world affairs.

Canada has many friends among the nations who realize her growing importance not only as a commercial power but also as a nation among the powers represented in the United Nations.

This recognition of an increasing influence in the world of affairs brings larger obligations in support of the peoples of the United Nations and must widen the scope of Canadian interest in other peoples.

The world is growing more a unit than it once was and every nation's place in reference to global affairs is one of the obligations of a nation in these days.

A WORLD OF TRAVEL

Large hotels are known in many parts of the earth. In fact they are the evidence of the spirit of the modern world shown in the vast army of men and women who are travelling everywhere on earth, except in those faraway places where the vanguard of progress has not yet arrived. Travel has expanded greatly in the modern world as inventions have widened the means of locomotion and travel. There used to be the stage coach and the bateau or boat. Then came steam and now diesel engines and great trains which are the model of comfort and speed. Into this fast-moving age have come the car and the airplane and the finger of this generation points all the time the way of progress. Hotels, large and small, answer the need to accommodate the thousands upon thousands on travel bent for pleasure or trade.

Oslo in Norway is building a 700-guest hostelry which will be largest in the "land of the midnight sun." People of Oslo have undertaken this hotel as a municipal enterprise and it will be rented to a private hotel company on completion. It will not be a luxury hotel according to News of Norway but will be appointed in simple good taste and will aim at providing first class service at reasonable rates. It will have a subway station within its walls for the accommodation of guests skiing at Holmenskollen on the city's outskirts. There will be modern appointments, the building being radiant heated with electric cables built into walls and floors of each room, a thoroughly modern invention.

The growth of the modern hotel and its hostelries and inns of ancient days is an interesting development of this modern age. It will expand as means of travel expand as science reaches out and as man's desire for discovery drives him farther and farther into recesses of the globe, so that what were once unknown parts are linked up with modern progress of Palatial and smaller structures are rising to open up new parts of earth and to take people more and more on travel to parts which offer new entertainment and new experiences among the peoples.

BOYS OF ELEVEN

This is the season when things seem easy to do. Wars look easier to win, which may be one reason invasions are started. Business executives turn up suddenly in their offices surprised at some of the new stenos and messengers who have been taken on strength only since the greens and fairways dried in the late spring, and therefore have not seen the boss before. Those past youth, who have no fall plowing, have difficulty getting enough exercise. A few gear this surging strength to accomplishing words conceived last spring or dreamed through the summer, or many summers.

Autumn is a very special time for a boy of eleven. It is not unlikely to be the height of his career, the height of his mental development, and the time when his life is least thought to need. Although he has many gloomy thoughts, as have children and adults at all ages, he worries less than most, and hardly at all about getting smarter or dying. He does not think either is possible.

If a boy is lucky in his environment, at the age of eleven in Canada, in the autumn, he runs with a gang. In some cities in most generations there are bad gangs of boys, but these are usually older boys. Boys of eleven in a Canadian autumn feel that life is spacious. They run and they yell. School is a burden and there may be side jobs like picking apples or working at a store, but there is enough sapience left for running and yelling. Organized sport may claim them if they are skilled, but the great thing of autumn is the wild, ferocious, innocent pack running and yelling in the early dusk.—The Printed Page.

THE MEASURE

We may be sure the kindest fate
Some day will be unkind.
The joy that makes the heart elate
Has sorrow close behind.

The greater seemed the love we've known
When skies above were fair,
The harder, all, when left alone,
Have found its loss to bear.

Fate, through the long years, must bestow
Both joys and heartaches and,
So measured by the griefs we know
Must be the joys we've had.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

THE TRIED AND TESTED

A friend came into my office recently and the talk turned to books. He said he was going to go back to the classics, the books that don't seem to go out of fashion," I commended him. This summer I read three of Mary Webb's novels again, and enjoyed them as though I had never read them before.

When these novels were first published few read them. The author was unknown, until Stanley Baldwin, the English Premier gave one of her books unusual praise. Almost over night she became famous. And increasingly does her fame grow though she has not live to enjoy it. This has happened with so many of the world's great writers.

Fortunately I heard of this writer many years ago from a naturalist, when visiting Banff Springs Hotel in western Canada. And soon had acquired all the books she had written, read them, and told others about them. A most unusual writer, though not yet read as she should be. She didn't write popular books—thank bel Just great ones. I can only name my favorite—"Gone To Earth," which she never wrote a poor book.

For the life of me I could name the first sellers of five years ago, but I can readily name the great books of "middle-time or fifty years ago! And they will still live long after I am gone from this earth.

And there is this about great books. Each year people coming back to newer generations. There was a time when the books of Henry James and Joseph Conrad were extremely popular, then for years there was a lull and their reading audience lessened. Now people are going back to them, reading them anew—because they had substance and worth. Great books never die. The tried and tested keep coming back.

I—and others of the first sellers of today. I shall wait and read them five years from now if they are still around. The names of plenty of neglected books still live...I have one in mind—"Weeds," by Edith Summers Kelly, a book that Paul Jordan-Smith, the Los Angeles Times critic says is "one of the best American novels of this century." Unfortunately it is difficult to come by a copy as only a handful ever sold! I still look forward to the re-publication by an appreciative publisher.

PITCHING HORSESHOES

By Billy Rose

A librettist who has had his name on a couple of hit musicals in recent years came in to see me this afternoon.

"How would you like to produce a play with music about Jean Lafitte, the pirate?" he said.

"That isn't a bad idea either," said the writer, "but before I do out and buy a Louisville Slugger, let me first tell you the story of Lafitte.

"The first scene takes place about 1810, the year he was swashbuckled into New Orleans from France, assembled a bunch of cutthroats, stole a small boat, captured a big boat, and set himself up as a Nineteenth Century Captain Kidd."

"It starts out like a B-movie," I said.

"Can't help it," said the librettist. "As a matter of fact, if we can believe the records Lafitte was Doug Fairbanks, Sr., with a French accent—he stood six-odd in his fancy boots, handled a cutlass with either hand, and caused plenty of eye-fluttering whenever he walked into a ballroom. He surrounded up the well-heeled belles and settled for a gentleman named William Wikes, a dark-eyed stunner who always carried a lace parasol and didn't mind living on Back Street."

"So much for the love interest," I said. "When does the mayhem begin?"

"It was going on all the time," said the writer. "In fact, Lafitte is said to have made a living. He walked so many crews that the governor put a reward on others—$500 for him, dead or alive. The pirate, miffed at this pleayune valuation, posted a $5,000 bounty square of New Orleans and tacked it on the door of Claiborne, the governor, dead or alive.

"However, the federal government stepped into the picture and the buccaneer and his buckos — under Lafitte's command — and you can check the history books if you think I'm kidding — became plumed a big part in winning the battle of New Orleans. After the British surrendered the grateful city threw a big shindig for Lafitte, and right in the middle of the soup course a messenger appeared in with a pardon signed by President Madison himself."

"Big flag-waving finale for Act One," I said.

"Not yet," said the librettist. "Before dropping the curtain, we make the audience cry a little with a flash scene of Catherine Villars alone in her bedroom — quadroons, of course, couldn't attend official receptions.

"In Act Two, our story really gets rolling. Lafitte, a man with money, prestige, a mistress he adored and a dozen dames panting for a legal alliance, was only 33 at the time, and his blood was still running at fever temperature. One night, so goes the story, he and his gal packed, said 'So long' to the solid citizens of this heavy cotton old hangout on the Gulf. And for the next couple of years, life was a Jolly Roger and a bo, ho, ho and a bottle of rum.

"One day Lafitte woke up to find himself an anachronism. Statesmen were talking about something called international law and, realizing he was fast becoming a dead pirate hanging, he led his freebooters to the last of the great pirate strongholds — Galveston Island in Texas."

"A little soft music," I said.

"Don't be facetious while the professor is talking," said the writer. "For a while there was a parade of loot for Lafitte and his hijackers, but the pickings soon petered out on them and finally, by agreement with the Feds, Jean and his cohorts scuttled their ships, his gold on a black schooner and sailed away."

"We lose track of him for several years, and then pick him up again in Yucatan, a very sad fellow. His old cronies pleaded with Lafitte to let them help him. He shacked away his riches, and a few seconds before the death rattle, he called a couple of them to his side, 'My treasure—my greatest love,' he whispered, 'is Galveston Island.'"

"It's a good penny — thriller in spots," I said, "but how do you resolve the love story?"

"In a tender epilogue," said the writer. "When Lafitte died, his men high-tailed it to Galveston where, after a lot of random digging, finally unearthed an iron chest with the initials 'J.L.' on it.

"But when they crowbarred the lid open, instead of gold they found a skeleton — and a yellow parasol.

"Curtain."

THE PACKSACK

OF GREGORY CLARK

The telephone first and the motor car second, have put an end forever, I guess, to the memory of the most middle-aged people in the cities and large towns, there are little or no memories of banana men, fruit peddlers, wood and kindling hucksters. "Cherry ripe!" "Peaches, fresh Crawford peaches!" were unfailing music faint in the distance, their cries ing closer and closer up the streets of residential districts both tony and tumble-down.

Throughout the summer season, from June to October all the fruit crops moved from strawberries through cherries to pears — Northern Spies of autumn, a series of baritone and tenor kindling hucksters. "Any rags!" "Peaches, fresh Crawford peaches!" were unfailing music faint in the distance, their cries ing closer and closer up the streets of residential districts both tony and tumble-down.

Throughout the summer season, from June to October all the fruit crops moved from strawberries through cherries to pears — Northern Spies of autumn, a series of baritone and tenor kindling hucksters. "Cherry ripe!" "Peaches, fresh Crawford peaches!" were unfailing music faint in the distance, their cries ing closer and closer up the streets of residential districts both tony and tumble-down.

These hucksters were the last to surrender. In their rickety wagons, with their slow pedaling old nags winding in and around the residential blocks the sheenies traded copper pots and pans for tresses, rags bones and bottles. The bones went first from their carries, Around 1910 it must have been, the cry changed from "rags bones bottles!" to the more abrupt "rags bones and bottles!" to the more abrupt "rags, bottles!" What happened to the bones I have had to say. Possibly the meat packing industry started, about 1910 taking the fat of most more economically. At any rate, the tireless old sheenies did a powerful job of salvage. Any day of the week, two or three of them would pass through the alleys. Their wagons were invariably loaded Where once they came for bones now? Are our homes slowly piling up with the junk the sheenies formerly got? Are we producing junk than our fathers and grandfathers?

It is easy to see what happened to the fruit peddlers. The motor car, for one thing, became a mortal blow, instead of driving to the country for fruit, the housewife would telephone the grocery, or wait for the peddler to cry by, you merely picked up the phone.

Finally, the ubiquitous little wheel barrow, the milk cart, came along, installed in place of the baritone wails of the fruit peddlers the tinkle, the rattle, bang and scrape of housewives backing the motor car out to run up the corner. . . . .

PAIN IN PIT OF THE STOMACH

A peptic ulcer is a "raw" pit or ulceration of the lining of the stomach or duodenum. The duodenum is that portion of the small intestine, the part that adjoins the stomach; therefore, it is that part through which all of the stomach contents pass, including the hydrochloric acid which is secreted by the stomach. Most peptic ulcers are in that part of the duodenum which lies adjacent to the lower end of the stomach, and they never become cancerous—well, practically never, for no rule is absolute in medicine.

There are many theories and explanations for the production of pain in peptic ulcers. The favorite one is the acid theory. Those who subscribe to this theory contend that when the stomach produces acid that comes in contact with the ulcer, the latter is irritated and causes pain to be experienced high in the abdomen. The facts which tend to support the explanation are that when the acid is most concentrated the pain is present, the pain is relieved by dilution of acid by food or neutralization by alkaline substances and pain can often be induced by the experimental introduction of acid into the ulcer site. But as usual, there are sufficient exceptions to prevent conclusions at this time.

In a "typical" case ulcer pain is most notable two to three hours after each meal (when the stomach contains some contents and after all food has passed through) occasionally in the middle of the night, when the stomach is empty, but (when stomach secretion of acid is at a minimum). To relieve this pain, ulcer patients take milk or cream, special alkaline powders or a combination of bland food or liquid. Oftentimes an intelligent regimen of sippy diet (milk and cream with soft toast added at intervals) and alkaline powders will cure an ulcer in several days to several weeks.

Peptic ulcers can become complicated. They can bleed profusely, perforate into the abdominal cavity, penetrate into surrounding tissues, obstruct the duodenum or stomach or they may act very sour and fail to respond to proper treatment. In these cases they are given a trial of medical treatment and sometimes surgical care is necessary.

Lucky Children

Hurrah for the 'doctrine of not wearing more clothes than are necessary for comfort. Hurrah for letting the children play in the park in shirt or sans or on the ice when they want to, and for the kind of heat that prevails whenever they like. I have the healthiest children in this neighborhood and they have always used their own discretion in the matter of clothes. (Mrs. H.L.)

Answer—Lucky children. Unlucky ones. All children should wear what they feel is necessary for comfort dictates, in any and all circumstances—that is, provided they are not idiots. A.W.

Police Believe Bandit Holed up In Lumber Camp

Ramore, Ont., Oct. 3 — (CP) — Ontario Provincial Police said today a bandit man who yesterday robbed a Ramore co-operative store of $1,215, may be holed up in one of a series of wooden huts in a lumber camp 20 miles north of Kirkland Lake.

Police who have blocked off the Wooling's Lumber Company camp, near this Northern Ontario hamlet were preparing this morning to move in, and search the buildings.

After interviewing the store manager and a taxi driver in whose cab the holdup man escaped, police put together this account of the robbery:

They said a stranger entered a taxi office at Matheson Tuesday morning and asked to be driven to a hotel. Manager Elton Walker assigned driver Hugh Clark who drove the man to two hotels in each of which the stranger had a beer. The pair then drove to Ramore where Clark's passenger had a third beer. He asked Walker to wait while he went to visit a friend.

Produced Gun

The man walked around the corner to the co-operative store and waited while the manager waited on a customer. After the customer left he asked to have a $20 bill changed then produced a gun and said: "This is a holdup I'm not fooling."

He ordered the manager to lie on the floor while he scooped the money from the till and the store safe. He put the automatic lock on the door as he left.

He told Clarke to drive him to nearby Beaverbrake Lake.

The manager raced to the door and called to the customer to stop the cab. When the cab sped off he called Ontario Provincial Police.

Police picked up Clarke whose car stalled with a flat tire as he returned to his office. He said he had driven his passenger to Beaverbrake and was paid $3.50 fare.

TRUCK DRIVER KILLED

Newtonville, Oct. 3 — (CP) — Frank Clark, 39, of (490 Reid St.) Peterborough, was killed today when his transport truck hit a cow on the highway half a mile west of here and overturned. After overturning the truck skidded a considerable distance before it came to a halt.

Traffic on the highway near Newtonville, about 50 miles east of Toronto, was held up an hour and a half while the wreckage was removed.

The truck was loaded with meat.

Miss Canada Fails Twice in Attempt To Break Record

Picton, Oct. 5 (CP)—Miss Canada IV failed twice in her attempts to break the world speedboat record this morning and driver Harold Wilson told reporters he did not know what is wrong.

He said he was "almost on the verge of calling off" his second attempt in five weeks to break the 141.7 miles an hour record set by the late Sir Malcolm Campbell 10 years ago.

Returning to the dock after one run on the course shortly after 10 A.-M. EDT, Wilson said he could get only around 135 miles an hour — far short of the world record and also less than his 139.6 miles an hour record set here Sunday.

Abandonment of the Miss Canada's bid is dependent on a showing late this afternoon. A specially-made propeller is expected to arrive here sometime between four and five P. M., from Owen Sound.

Wilson said simply: "If there is still something wrong we'll take Miss Canada out of the water and call the whole thing off. If it is O. K., we'll make another official try tomorrow morning."

Picton Bay Smooth

In the first attempt this morning the speedboat covered the course for an average of 133.8 M.P.H. This was made shortly after sunrise and with the Picton Bay water as smooth as a table-top.

Late today Wilson called reporters together and said: "There is something sour somewhere in the boat. I don't think it is the prop and I don't think it is the engine. There is something wrong somewhere."

He said the 2,500 horsepower Rolls Royce Clifton engine has "taken a lot of abuse and I hate to take chances of abusing it much more."

Wilson, who Tuesday received sanction from the Union of International Motorboating, with headquarters in Ghent, Belgium, to make as many attempts at the world's mark "as he desired," said: "It is a shame that something should go haywire at this point."

Prime Minister Speaks Bluntly To Labor Men

Ottawa, Oct. 5 — (CP)—Canadian labor today pondered a double-barrelled admonition from Prime Minister St. Laurent to improve production and not to push wage demands too far.

His advice:

1. Too-high wages could price Canadian goods out of foreign markets needed to keep her economy at its present level.

2. Productivity (production per man) is the key to a higher standard of living.

A third point put forward by the Prime Minister before 800 Canadian Congress of Labor members Tuesday night was that currency devaluation should result in long-run Canadian price reductions, despite labor leaders' claims that it will send up the cost of living.

Speaking in careful language but with unmistakable meaning, the Prime Minister warned that wages could be boosted to the point where unemployment might follow.

He said there was such a thing as getting wages so high that Canadian goods would cost too much to be sold abroad. In such a situation, surpluses would pile up, domestic trade and soon bring about "some degree" of unemployment.

Governments must organize some social security — and he admitted Canada still had some way to go in that respect—but the security of social security depended on production.

"The more that is produced, the higher and better can be our standards of living," he said.

Manslaughter Charge Laid After Fatality

Brantford, Oct. 5 — (CP) — A charge of manslaughter has been laid against Arthur Burnham, 27, of the Six Nations reservation, in connection with the death of Orville Davis, 31, a friend of Burnham, who was pinned beneath a truck driven by Burnham last Saturday.

Davis died in hospital at Ohsweken, about 10 hours after he was found semi-conscious lying in bushes beside the road where the accident occurred.

Burnham has already pleaded guilty to drunken driving and has been remanded to next Tuesday.

Police allege that Burnham let Davis lie injured without summoning help. Two other young men are believed to have been with him in the truck, owned by Burnham, when the truck rolled into a ditch.

Police said that Davis was found about 100 feet from the spot where Burnham says he was placed after being removed from the truck. Police believe that an autopsy report will be such that Davis could not possibly have moved by himself because of the extent of his injuries.

One of Davis' lungs was punctured, causing severe hemorrhage of the chest cavity and his neck is believed to have been broken. A full report by the coroner will not be published until Burnham's preliminary hearing on the manslaughter charge.

No charge has been laid against the other men in the truck.

State of Siege Is Declared

Asuncion, Paraguay, Oct. 5 — (AP) — The government decreed Friday night a state of siege to combat what it called activities intended to establish a regime of "despotism and terrorism" in Paraguay.

The decree was lashed only three weeks and three days after Federico Chaves left the Supreme Court bench to become president. He succeeded Felipe Molas Lopez, 49-year-old dentist who resigned under pressure from the ruling Colorado party.

U.S. Considers Clamping Down On Steel Exports

Pittsburgh Oct. 5 (CP)—The United States government is considering clamping down on the exports of steel in the face of dwindling inventories which threatens idleness to hundreds of thousands in American industries. Such a move would have a serious affect on Canadian economy.

Many U. S. companies are taking precautionary steps of their own as the country-wide strike entered its fifth day.

The double-barrelled walkout has made idle 513,000 steelworkers and 380,000 United Mine Workers.

The issues are about the same. The workers want a better old age security program.

The threat of a clamp on steel exports to keep employment up was made Tuesday night by Charles Sawyer, U.S. Secretary of Commerce.

To Canada it could mean a shortage of durable goods such as refrigerators, washing machines and stoves, and reduced employment. Almost one-third of the Dominion's steel requirements are imported from U.S., mostly in structural steel and sheet metal.

WEDDINGS

TOPPING—McKEOWN
PASCOE—McKEOWN

Grace United Church, Napanee, was the setting for the double wedding of Mr. and Mrs. Annie McKeown's two daughters, when Phyllis Myrtle, was married to Morris Gordon Topping, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Topping, of Napanee, and Margaret Elizabeth, to Morley Albert Pascoe, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Pascoe, of Melrose. Rev. C. D. McLellan, of Napanee, assisted by Rev. H. B. Harrington, of Newburgh, officiated.

Traditional wedding music was played by Mrs. B. M. Black and the soloist, Mrs. Harold Moore, sang "Because", preceding the ceremony and during the signing of the register, "For You Alone."

Given in marriage by their two brothers, the brides were gowned alike in floor length satin, fashioned with lace yokes. The skirts designed with a draped peplum ended in a short train, and their floor length veils fell from a halo of satin petals. They carried a cascade of white roses and Pinnochio 'mums.

Bridal attendants for Phyllis were Mrs. Glenn McKeown and Mrs. Kenneth McKechan, wearing floor length white taffeta with headdresses and mitts in blue, carrying nosegays of blue carnations. Attending Margaret were, Miss Veronica Hunt and Miss Ruth Gilbert, wearing gowns of white nylon and lace with headdresses and mitts in pink, carrying nosegays of pink carnations.

Betty McKeown and Marilyn Topping, the flower girls, wore floor length gowns of pale pink organdy. They carried nosegays of pink flowers with matching garlands in their hair.

Mr. Eugene Pascoe and Mr. Morley Topping were the best men for their brothers, and the ushers were Mr. Fenwick Amey, Mr. Ronald McKeown, Mr. Glenn Tucker and Mr. Ray Topping.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the home of the brides' parents, for about 70 guests. The table was centred with a lovely floral arrangement, flanked on each side with silver candelabra, holding tall white tapers. The three-tier wedding cakes were placed on each end of the table. Girl friends of the brides assisted in serving. The brides' mother received wearing an ensemble of steel grey with navy accessories, assisted by the grooms' mothers, Mrs. Topping in a black dress and Mrs. Pascoe in a black suit. All wore corsages of white and yellow 'mums.

For a trip to Quebec City, and the Laurentians, Mrs. Topping chose a suit of burnt almond gabardine, with natural accessories, wearing a corsage of carnations. Mr. and Mrs. Pascoe left for a trip to Algonquin Park and Georgian Bay, Mrs. Pascoe travelling in a suit of hunter's green gabardine, with tan accessories, wearing a corsage of carnations.

On their return, the two couples will reside in Napanee.

LAZIER—BRUMMEL

Before a background of Autumn flowers and gladioli, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Graydon Brummel, Napanee, Ontario, a pretty wedding was solemnized on Saturday, Sept. 24, at 2 p.m., by the Rev. T. F. Townshend, when their daughter, Ilah Mae Brummel, became the bride of Douglas Jamef Lazier, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lorne Lazier of Shannonville, Ont.

Miss Gwendolyn Ruyck rendered the accompanying wedding music, and Mrs. Guy Huyck, soloist, sang, "I Love You Truly", before the ceremony and "Because", during the signing of the register.

The lovely bride was given in marriage by her father, and wore a bridal gown of white slipper satin and lace. Her floor length veil of French tulle illusion was held in place by a braided headdress of matching satin. Long, white satin mitts of the same material and pointed at the wrist completed the ensemble. She carried a cascade bouquet of red roses.

Miss Lorena Brummel, sister of the bride, was bridesmaid, gowned in pale blue taffeta, with matching headdress, shoulder length veil, and mitts. She carried a nosegay of Sweetheart roses.

Miss Joan Brummel, petite sister of the bride, was flower girl, demure in her frock of pink organdy and headdress of pink roses. She carried an old fashioned nosegay of pink baby 'mums and rosebuds.

Mr. Oriey Lazier, of Belleville, and brother of the bridegroom, was groomsman.

The wedding reception was held at the bride's home, which was beautifully decorated with pink and white streamers, and white wedding bells. The bride's mother wore a becoming gown of navy blue crepe, and a corsage of pink carnations. She was assisted in receiving the guests by the bridegroom's mother, also becomingly gowned in navy fa-conne crepe with corsage of pink carnations.

For the wedding trip to Toronto, Niagara, and Buffalo, the bride chose a suit of hunter's green gabardine with brown accessories, and corsage of yellow carnations. Upon their return, Mr. and Mrs. Lazier will reside in Shannonville.

Musical Program Features Meeting

The first regular meeting of King George Home and School Association met on Monday evening in the auditorium. The meeting took the form of a reception to new members, with a large gathering of teachers, parents and guests in attendance.

Mrs. C. A. Brown, president of the Association and Mrs. F. B. Cross and Mrs. J. H. Mather, membership convenors, welcomed the guests at the door. After a short business session those present were treated to an enjoyable musical entertainment.

Dean Whalen gave several excellent numbers on the Hammond organ. The Christ Church male choir, conducted by A. W. Simpson and accompanied by Dana Cooke gave a wonderful rendition of "In a Monastery Garden", and "Teach Me O Lord".

The octet from Christ Church choir rendered two selections, followed by a solo by Larry Tucker accompanied by Dana Cooke.

By special request Dana Cooke played several selections.

A vote of thanks which expressed the gratitude and appreciation of the Association, to the talented musicians that contributed so much to an inspiring and thrilling evening, was extended by Norman Meldrum, Mr. Hackett and Mrs. Brown.

Mrs. Butler and her committee prepared refreshments which were served by the executive members.

Farm Women Plan Increased Output of British Foods

(By MURIEL NARRAWAY)
(Canadia Press Staff Writer)

London, (CP)—A hundred Canadian farmers' wives met in a small Ontario village 52 years ago to swap jam and preserving recipes, little dreaming they were starting a world-wide association.

But that little meeting at Stoney Creek, Ont., was the foundation of a vast organization now known as the Associated Country Women of the World with a membership of 2,500,000.

The association is the co-ordinating body for a net work of country women's associations all over the world. Britain's National Federation of Women's Institutes is the largest of these associations, with a membership of 400,000, and today their main theme is more production.

Stoney Creek's idea of pooling knowledge of jam making, fruit preserving, home handicrafts, home welfare and farm production has been retained and enlarged upon. The clubs are still non-political and non-sectarian.

Part of the wide British scheme is a marketing committee to advise cottage gardeners in selling their products—cottage gardens being too small for inclusion in any government marketing scheme.

There is also a produce guild which in 1947-48 brought forth 4,000,000 extra pounds of potatoes 31,000 new fruit plantings, 100 new pig clubs and 313 new rabbit clubs.

Active in Education

Pride of the British institutes in Denman College, established in a Berkshire country house, Fountain-head of W.I. educational activities, it offers courses on everything from tree-grafting to classical literature.

No part of the organization goes above the authority of the ordinary village member, and in the monthly meeting each institute settles—by vote—what it will do in the coming farming season.

In the Cotswolds they may decide to produce enormous quantities of plums; Wales may wish to have the champion choir; Devonshire may aim at a record honey yield. All over Britain the Institutes are deciding how to get the utmost production out of their home ground.

But the main activity is discussion on subjects such as housing and education.

Contact between different institutes is common. Many British Institutes correspond with their name-town Institute in Canada, while the Canadian towns send back food and other parcels that are gratefully received.

For even country women in Britain can appreciate additional food, since the government holds a tight rein on home-consumption of vital farm-produced food products.

LOVELORN ADVICE to the

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Their boy friends are neglected at home

It is a very touching and pathetic thing to find teen-age girls trying to give their boy friends the motherly interest and attention they should be, but are not, getting at home.

Two letters of this sort have just reached my desk.

The first one says: "I am writing you because I want to help my boy friend. He has some kind of skin disease and I believe it is acne. His mother could have done something about it long ago but she doesn't care about him. I would like to have him go to the doctor, and we have discussed it many times, but it has been put off because of lack of money. I don't think his mother would give him any money to go to the doctor and he wouldn't ask her.

"I hope you can tell me what to do; for I know it isn't any fun to have your complexion marked with blemishes."

The problem in the other letter, which is written by a girl of 18, says that her boy friend's mother makes his home so unhappy that he stays as much as possible at the homes of other boys. The boy is of a mechanical turn of mind, and had acquired a car and a motorcycle. But his mother demanded that he get rid of them, so his father sold them. His mother also is opposed to his going out with girls, and has made him so uncomfortable with her remarks on the subject that he is afraid to telephone any girl from his house.

The girl who writes the letter wants to know what she can do to help in the situation. She says that she has never met the mother because her boy friend was reluctant to have her do so, and the girl herself now believes that the mother wouldn't treat any girl right that knew her son.

Still she thinks she would like to try and make friends with her with the hope that somehow she could help this boy.

I feel quite sure that it wouldn't be a good idea at all for this girl to get involved in any situation that exists between this boy's mother and himself. She indicates that he doesn't want her to go to his home and meet his mother, so it would be very foolish indeed for her to urge him to take her there. I don't think there is anything at all she can do, except to be a kind and understanding friend to him, and hope that as he grows older he will be able to handle matters more successfully.

As for the problem in the first letter, there is of course much that can be done about acne, but any treatment should certainly be carried out under a doctor's direction. If the boy's mother is so uninterested that she will not see that her son gets medical help, then I think the boy might try to earn some money himself for the purpose. It certainly should not be too difficult for a teen-age boy to find some appropriate afternoon or Saturday job that would bring him in enough to finance a few visits to a doctor. The most helpful thing this girl could do would be to make this suggestion to him.

FATAL SKID OFF HIGHWAY

Oakville, Oct. 4 — (CP) — Harold Luscher, 22, of nearby Port Credit was killed today when the automobile in which he was riding skidded off the highway and struck four trees. Katherine Boyer, 18, also in the car, was not injured. Police said it was believed the girl was driving the automobile.

Fall Shades

By ALICE ALDEN

BROWN IS more than holding its own on the color card and is a good runner-up to black and winter navy. Tete de negre brown is the deep shade of this lovely afternoon dress fashioned of silk crepe. Jane Derby handled the fabric suavely and uses matching lace inserts on the bodice continuing down in the skirt to make for an apron effect. Flanges of the fabric make the wide open neckline. A soft self sash ties in a bow in back, and there are side slit pockets at the hemline.

MERMAIDS DESUNKED

Empty leather-like cases often found cast up on shore and commonly called "mermaids' purses," are coverings protecting the eggs of the skate — a species of rayfish.

GOOD MANNERS

MRS. CORNELIUS BEECHMAN

"Housewarming" or "Open House"

Dear Mrs. Beechman:

My husband and I have moved into our new house and we hope to be settled by the middle of November, so that we can give our first party here and invite all our relatives and friends. I've always liked the word "Housewarming" for this kind of party . . . and I believe you do too for you have used it quite often in your column, . . . but in several invitations we've received lately the words "Open House" have been used. Is there any difference, or may we use whichever we prefer?

H. T. M.

Either term may be used, and quite correctly. But "Housewarming" is the word generally used for the first party given in the new home. . . . and it's such a heart-warming word for this happy occasion that I suggest you using it. . . . you can use "Open House" for subsequent parties to which you invite a larger group of your friends. . . .

(Dictionary definition: "Open House", a house in which hospitality is extended to all visitors; "Housewarming", festivity on entering a new home.)

Woman guest at the right of her host

Dear Mrs. Beechman:

My cousin has invited me to go with him to a large banquet to be given in the ballroom of a hotel by an organization, and each man may invite one woman guest to the banquet. He and I would appreciate your telling us if, at the dinner, the woman guest is to sit at the right or the left of the man who invited her.

Bertha M.

The woman guest sits at the right of her host. . . . this is the "place of honor".

Introducing a stepfather when the name is different

Dear Mrs. Beechman:

Last month I "acquired" a stepfather. I am married and so, of course, his name and mine are different. Now should I introduce him to my friends? Specifically, (1) should I mention that he is my "stepfather", and (2) should I mention his name? Would you please give me a definite example of an introduction?

Verna M.

(1) Yes, you should mention the relationship, that he is your "stepfather", and (2) Yes, you should courteously add his name when you make the introduction. For example: "Mrs. Graham, may I present my stepfather, Mr. Adams". Or, more informally, "Mrs. Johnson, this is my stepfather, Mr. Adams".

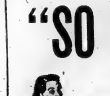
Bride is called on when she returns from wedding trip

Dear Mrs. Beechman:

My husband and I have always lived in a quite large city where there was much attention paid to the calling-conventions. But now we live in this small town which seems most conventional. In June we were sent two invitations to weddings here, both with "At Home" cards included. Now that these newlyweds have returned from their wedding trips and are in their own homes, are we expected to call on them, or wait until they call on us?

You should go to call on the bride some afternoon soon—she would not be expected to call on others until she has first been called on.

Fashion Flashes



ON EVERYTHING for sports or casual wear, it's ribbing. A purple heather jersey dress has deep violet knit ribbing to form a shoulder yoke. Also at the waist and edging the sleeves. Brown ribbing for a camel colored tweed coat frock, and white ribbing for a navy wool blouse.

ATTENTION is centred on pockets this Fall. A nice suit of pewter gray pin-wale corduroy is made up of a slim skirt and a back-belted boxy jacket with silver buttons. High up towards the shoulder line are big, side-entry patch pockets.

BORROWED from yesteryear is the wrapy coat, as well as the cloche and the beaded sheath for evening wear. Straight, slim and ankle-length is an evening frock of mauve pin crepe with an all-over scroll pattern in chalk white beads. Curved sweetheart neckline and narrow self straps with large roses at one shoulder.

SOME FOLKS must admire a wedding dress. Palest blush pink is used for a beauty in supple silk satin with a shirred band of the material carrying on the bodice and up to the shoulders below a deep nylon net yoke. Curved shirred bands of the fabric are used on the full skirt dipping to a rounded V in back.

MANY PEOPLE, perhaps you yourself, already live in houses which are as much "aluminum" as others are "brick" or "stucco".

Just look at the amount of aluminum which already is going into Canadian buildings:

Roofing and Siding — Last year alone about 100 Canadian fabricators shaped thousands of tons of aluminum for use as roofs and exterior walls.

Windows — Today a score of Canadian companies are making aluminum windows and sash which have unique advantages: they never warp, swell, shrink or crack, and never need painting.

Insulation — Aluminum has outstanding insulating properties. Already numerous Canadian companies adapt it to keep homes warm in winter, cool in summer.

Gutters, Flashing, Trim, Architectural Hardware — Because aluminum is attractive and lasts a lifetime, dozens of Canadian manufacturers are now kept busy making it into all sorts of forms for use outside and inside the house.

Why Aluminum?

Aluminum is becoming more and more popular for use in home building because . . .

. . . it does not rust . . . is practically indestructible. Therefore maintenance costs stay low.

. . . it is light and easy to handle, is very strong, needs only correspondingly light supports.

. . . it has an attractive natural finish, and can be painted if desired.

Ask your architect or contractor about aluminum for building. He knows the story of Alcan's continuing research into its uses. So he can tell you about its overall advantages and how you can profit from them when building or remodelling.

Talking About Tomatoes --- Green Tomatoes

Pity our poor ancestors who spured the "love apple" or tomato, as it is now called, simply because they unscientifically thought that vegetables was poisonous. Present day housewives have more than made up for the loss because nowadays tomatoes rank very high on the list of popular vegetables and, when they are in season, they are used by most families every day. Tomatoes are a most versatile vegetable and can be found on the menu as appetizer, soup, salad vegetable, main dish, pickle and even dessert.

Much has been written to extol the virtues of the ripe, red tomatoes and it would be a large book these days that didn't include many recipes featuring tomatoes. The green tomato which is the mature but unripened tomato hasn't received the same publicity but it should not be neglected. Most people are quite familiar with green tomato and onion pickle, often called Governor's Sauce, or with chow chows or relishes containing a high proportion of green tomato but comparatively few housewives use them in cooking.

Recipes Tested

The home economists of the Consumer Section, Dominion Department of Agriculture, have recently tested several recipes using green tomatoes and are passing one or two of them along to you today.

The experts also suggest putting away a few green tomatoes to ripen slowly for use later on. It must be remembered, of course, that these tomatoes, although green, should be mature; they should be absolutely free from insect injury or skin punctures and should not have been touched by the frost. The tomatoes should be individually wrapped in paper and stored in a box or drawer in a cool, dry place. They will ripen slowly and should keep for several weeks.

Green Tomatoes in Spicy Sauce

(Vegetable Dish)

- 6 pounds green tomatoes
- 1-4 cup chopped onion
- 2 tablespoons sugar
- 1-2 tablespoons dry mustard
- 1 Dash of cayenne pepper
- 1 Dash of pepper
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1-2 teaspoon cinnamon
- Dash of cloves
- 1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
- 1 1-4 tablespoons cornstarch
- 2 tablespoons cold water

Wash tomatoes, remove stem end and any scars. Cut tomatoes in quarters. Add onions. Mix sugar and spices, add to tomato mixture and cook slowly about 10 minutes. Blend cornstarch with cold water and add to mixture. Cook until mixture has thickened and the mixture is clear, stirring occasionally, about five minutes. Yield: six servings.

Green Tomato Relish

- 1 1-2 lb. green tomatoes (12 small)
- 1 1-2 lb. tart apples (6 medium)
- 1 1-2 medium onions
- 1 sweet red pepper
- 1 1-2 cups vinegar
- 1-2 cups sugar
- 1-2 teaspoon cayenne pepper
- 1 1-2 teaspoons ginger
- 1-2 teaspoon turmeric
- 1-2 teaspoon salt

Wash tomatoes, remove stem ends and any scars. Peel, core and quarter apples. Peel onions and wash and remove stems and seed pod of pepper. Put tomatoes, apples, onions and red pepper through a food chopper using fine blade. Boil vinegar, sugar, cayenne pepper, ginger, turmeric and salt for 1 minute. Add the chopped vegetables and apples and cook for 1-3 hour. Pack into hot sterilized jars and seal. Yield: about 8 cups.

Green Tomato Marmalade

- 5 cups chopped green tomatoes
- 2 cups sugar
- 1-4 cup chopped, preserved ginger
- 1 lemon, grated rind and juice

Wash and peel tomatoes. Put through food chopper, using coarse blade. Add sugar and let stand overnight. In the morning, bring to boil and boil gently for 35 minutes. Add grated lemon rind, lemon juice and chopped ginger and boil rapidly for about 20 minutes longer. Pour into hot, sterilized jars and seal. Yield—about four 8-oz. jars.

STIRLING

Gifts Given by Friends, Neighbors As Tokens of Regard

Stirling—Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Thompson, William Street, were remembered by their friends and neighbors last Saturday when they were presented with a beautiful table lamp as a token of the high regard in which they are held.

On Monday they were presented with two wall placques by members of St. John's church of which they are staunch and faithful members.

Mr. and Mrs. Thompson are deeply appreciative of the many kindnesses shown them and wish to express their sincere thanks to all their friends and neighbors.

They moved to their new home at Springbrook, on Tuesday.

THOMASBURG

Young Couple Presented With Fine Gifts

Thomasburg — On Thursday evening a large number of friends, neighbors and relatives gathered at the Oddfellows' Hall to honor Mr. and Mrs. Reg. Moore upon their recent marriage. The bride is the former Miss Jean Allan, of Moira, and is held in high regard in this community having been principal of Thomasburg school for a time prior to being engaged on the public school teaching staff in Belleville; while Reg also holds a high place in the minds of the people of this community, where he has attended school and church and been a neighbor and friend.

Mr. Cecil Geen capably acted as chairman for the occasion and after a few remarks invited the honored couple to take chairs on the platform. Mr. John Smith read an appropriate address on behalf of the community and they were presented with an upholstered reclining chair and a coffee table.

Reg and Jean both expressed their sincere thanks to one and all for the lovely gifts and also extended an invitation to their many friends to visit them at their new home in Belleville.

Refreshments were served and dancing enjoyed.

FRANKFORD

Rev. H. Lackey Presented With Gift of Money

Frankford—On Sunday evening, in the Bateen Recreation Hall, members, friends and adherents of Bateen United Church gathered for a neighborly evening. A program took place for the first part of the evening, consisting of a piano solo, "Chopin's Minute Waltz" by Miss Leigh Eino. Mrs. F. Skoutajan and Mr. Jerry Salmers favored with two piano duets. Mr. Victor Babey was accompanist on his guitar for community singing. Mr. Karlis Staaks played his electric mandolin, which he has recently made himself, and his son Alver Staaks played his piano accordion. Mrs. Harry Pearce, and Mrs. Arthur Duncan favored with a vocal duet with Mr. Felix Urgas assisting.

Mr. F. Skoutajan welcomed everyone and Hans Skoutajan introduced the numbers. Mr. Skoutajan gave the different reports of the church and Mrs. T. Tillis gave the W.A. report. Mr. Arthur Duncan spoke about finishing the church by the end of the year. Rev. H. Lackey was asked to come forward and Mr. Skoutajan presented him with a gift of money. Mr. Lackey responded with a very fine farewell talk.

Finds Rhubarb Pie Is Good Bear Bait

Dawson Creek, B.C. (CP)—Take it from Mrs. Joe Dill of this northern community rhubarb pie is the best bear bait.

A harrowing three hours alone in her cabin with freshly baked rhubarb pies and two bears inside Mrs. Dill reach this conclusion.

Mrs. Dill's rhubarb pies—as so often happens with fruit pies—boiled over in the oven, giving off an aroma of burnt sugar that brought unexpected results.

It wasn't long before two huge grizzlies, both with noses sniffing the air, ambled out of the bush towards the cabin. Unarmed, Mrs. Dill used her voice to frighten off the grizzlies.

But two black bears arrived on the scene and paid no attention to shouts or even hot water thrown in their faces. For three hours they circled the cabin sniffing through windows as the pies boiled away. Return of Mr. Dill with a hunting rifle finally drove off the curious bears.

Women's Institute

PINE GROVE W. I.

Stirling—Pine Grove Women's Institute met at the home of Mrs. Blake Johnston for their September monthly meeting on Thursday evening. Eleven members and one visitor answered the roll call by naming a factory which uses farm products.

The meeting opened in the usual way with the minutes of the last meeting being read and approved. The treasurer's report was read and general business discussed.

Mrs. Frank Pinkie, convener for Agriculture and Canadian Industries, gave an interesting program. After the meeting closed, dainty refreshments were served by the hostess and the Lunch Committee.

Sensible Way Says Howe

"To market oil in the United States simply means that you convert that oil into American dollars which you use to obtain oil from the cheapest source in other parts of Canada, and that is the sensible way to view the marketing of petroleum," Mr. Howe said.

Mr. Drew said the remarks of Mr. Howe contained two points of view.

"First of all, he made a statement that this pipeline was being carried through to Superior but that no licence had been granted for marketing the oil in the United States. The oil is to be carried to Sarnia. The balance of his argument was directed to the idea that we should sell our oil in the United States. It is one or the other.'

"Oh, no," Mr. Howe interjected.

"The point is this," Mr. Drew continued, "If the oil is to be carried to Superior for the purpose of selling it in the United States, then let us know that now.

"The statement of the minister lends support to the belief that is developing that the construction of the pipeline to Superior is not for the purpose of carrying oil to Eastern Canada but is to supply the Chicago area with oil. The geographical relationship of Superior to 'that natural market is apparent."

Mr. Howe said he could not see "that it is worth the extra $10,000,000 to construct the line to the lakehead.

No Possibility

"There is no possibility of a refinery at the lakehead, as far as I can see," he said. "Refineries are built in centres of distribution and it is very unlikely that the lakehead would ever be a centre of supply."

Mr. Drew disagreed with this, stating that the lakehead was the centre of an area of great iron and forestry resources. Development of these resources would be encouraged by the availability of oil.

Mr. Drew added that he is opposed to sending oil to the U.S. when Canada is badly in need of the product herself. The U.S. has taken 75% of itself before developing Canada's oil.

ing the war, he said. Canada should do the same now that her own wells have begun to produce.

Mr. Green read a newspaper dispatch from the lakehead quoting officials of Imperial Oil as saying they would agree to build the line through Canada if the government would give aid in finding a route and would subsidize the added construction.

He felt it would be worth the extra money to have the line in Canadian soil, carrying oil aboard Canadian ships to Canadian centres for refining and distribution.

Pipelines also came up for discussion in the Senate which gave second reading to a bill which would incorporate the Alberta Natural Gas Company.

Asks For Refusal

Senator J. W. de B. Farris (L—British Columbia) presented a petition asking the Senate to refuse to pass the bill. He was counsel for the Westcoast Transmission Company which has an application before the Board of Transport Commissioners to build a natural gas pipeline which would rival the proposed new company in piping gas to Vancouver.

There was lengthy debate but no final action as the Commons went into committee discussion of the bill to abolish appeals to the Privy Council.

The bill already has passed second reading—adoption in principle—over the opposition of the Progressive Conservatives.

Chief discussion Monday came after an amendment was introduced by E. D. Fulton (PC—Kamloops).

The amendment would, set out specifically in the bill that the Supreme Court of Canada in becoming the court of last resort would have to abide by tare decisis—a legal term referring to the court being bound by past decisions.

Prime Minister St. Laurent and Justice Minister Garson both contended that the amendment is an expression of lack of confidence in the Supreme Court.

No Action Taken

Mr. Drew said it was no such thing. It was designed as a safeguard of the rights of minorities and of the provinces.

The amendment sought only to give effect to a Canadian Bar Association resolution which urged that the rule of stare decisis be incorporated in the bill abolishing appeals.

No action was taken on the amendment, nor another amendment, sponsored by Wilfrid Lacroix (L — Quebec-Montmorency).

Mr. Lacroix wants four of the nine Supreme Court judges to be selected from lists of candidates submitted by the Lieutenant-Governors-in-Council of the provinces.

This would give the provinces some say in selection of the Supreme Court judges and would forestall any suggestion that the judges might as federal appointees be partial to the federal government on any matters of interpreting the constitution.

CANADA'S YOUTH

But the "gangster, the man of violence, is portrayed as acting quickly and forcefully," thus directing the sympathies of children "toward the wrong side."

Mr. Fulton cited the case of an American boy who turned kidnapper after reading a crime — comic magazine. In Montreal a 12-year-old beat his mother to death with a bat while she was sleeping. At the trial the boy said "he had seen that sort of thing in the comics."

A 16-year-old Philadelphia boy killed a 12-year-old comrade with a pair of scissors.

"His room was found to be littered with crime comics," said Mr. Fulton.

Got Idea From Book

There were other cases, too, in Los Angeles a 14-year-old boy poisoned a 50-year-old woman.

"He said he had got the idea from a comic book as well as the recipe for the poison."

In the same city a 13-year-old was found hanged in a garage with a crime comic illustrating "that type of thing" at his feet.

How was Canada to cope with this evil influence, Mr. Fulton asked. He was against a press censorship during peacetime, but had "the utmost confidence" in "proper legal processes".

This could be done through amendment of the criminal code, so that the offender could be tried, "it then would be up to judge and jury to say whether a publication was likely to influence youthful persons to commit crime".

Dr. Scrivor, a United Church of Canada clergyman, said he advocated elimination of crime comics.

Our Sunday-School teachers can work their heads off and still not succeed in combatting an agency such as obscene literature," he said.

Clergy Held up in Ridicule

"It is a curse. Sometimes a clerical gentleman is held up to ridicule and you see the effect on our youth. Sometimes a good mother and father are held up to ridicule in these obscene pictures —then it is suggested that they should break the Seventh Commandment (Thou Shalt Not Commit Adultery) and get a great thrill."

Mr. Hansell, a cartoonist with the now defunct Calgary News Telegraph before becoming a Christian church minister, said he did not support Mr. Fulton's amendment "because of my profession." He did it because it was the right thing to do.

Mr. Hansell said he had a hard job "keeping my youngsters from reading crime comics."

He showed a publication to the House and said it was an article on the life of a prostitute, to be confiscated.

The publisher could get around the law by showing that the girl paid for her crimes, "but that is not the reason some of our young people would buy this book to read."

Mr. Hansell was willing to let the members read the book—"but please, after the adjournment, do not rush me."

3,600 Bottles of Beer Confiscated

Cooksville, Oct. 4 — (CP) — Marvin Henrikson and John Harkins, joint owners of the Cooksville Club, were each sentenced to a fine of $75 or one month in jail when convicted of keeping liquor for sale contrary to the Canada Temperance Act.

The club is situated in Cooksville, Peel county, a dry area about 15 miles west of Toronto.

Magistrate T. H. Moorehead ordered 3,600 bottles of beer, seized in a raid on the club July 14, to be confiscated.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

THE PINK VISAGE DEPT.

During our vacation sojourn among the cool quiet of Algonquin Park, our erstwhile assistant in the sports department, young Boyd Upper, not only went out on the traditional limb in calling the winners of the National and American League pennants, but suggested if it didn't drag it down or anything sports experts with him. Two of the dozen called the turn perfectly with Dick Fitzpatrick and Jack Devine naming the Yanks and the Dodgers.

* * *

Master Upper, it seems, not only went out on the limb in his own selection, but he took in a whole orchard. The young fella couldn' see a thing beyond the Cardinals and the Red Sox. And instead of beside him on his lonely perch away out there is none other than City Editor Claude Tice, a Cleveland fanatic who names the Tribe and the Cardinals to grab the respective gonfalons.

* * *

With the exception of ye city ed., the boys confined their elections to the Yanks and Boston in the American and Brooklyn and the Cardinals in the National. Here's the way the boys selected their nominees and why:-

CLAUDE TICE, news editor of the Ontario Intelligencer —"Cleveland will take it in the American League. Last year's flag winners have not had a hot streak all year. With Feller coming back to form the champs will get hot in September and repeat their triumph of last season. In the National League it's the Cards. They have the pitching, the hitting, and the schedule in their favor and I expect them to take it all."

TOM MASCARO, manager of the Capitol Theatre, who takes a jaunt to Detroit every year to see the American League scrap in action—"Boston for me. They have the pitchers, the hitters and are free from injuries. They'll take it, but it won't be close. Nothing will stop the National League flag because Durocher is coaching the Giants. And besides they have Robinsen, Newcombe and Campanella to spark their final drive."

DICK FITZPATRICK, second baseman for Northern Electric in the Intermediate "A" OBA race, who just returned from a week in Cleveland where he watched the Tribe in action against the Yanks and the Sox — "The Yankees. They have DiMaggio, and with Henrich and Mize coming back before the end of the season they are in. They are great on defence, especially Coleman at second. Brooklyn has pitching, speed, and reserves to win in the National."

TIM SULLIVAN, tonsorial maestro at, of all places, Tim Sullivan's — "The Yanks have the batters; and the Cards are well fortified for the stretch."

FRED ETHIER — "The Yanks because they have the better all-round team. When those injured players return it will be a breeze. I have been a Cardinal fan from way back. They have not disappointed me up to now and I don't expect to be disappointed this year."

GERALD "Shud" ETHIER, softball umpire in the Commercial League — "Boston for me. The Yanks are riddled and Cleveland is too far behind to catch up. Brooklyn is the team in the National. They have the pitchers, the hitters and the reserves."

WILFRED FITZPATRICK, Dick's dad — "The Yanks and the Cards. They have the best ball clubs."

JACK ELLIOTT, catcher for Northern Electric in the District League — "I like the Yanks and the Cards."

JACK IRVING, sports director at CHML — "The Yanks. They have the power. Give me Brooklyn in the National. They are a great bunch when the chips are down."

EARL BUSH, awarded the Most Valuable Player trophy in the Belleville and District League this year — "Boston. They are more powerful than the other contenders. I would like to see Brooklyn win in the National but I think it will be the Cards. That's where the power is in the National League."

SPEEDY ST. LOUIS, a baseball fan from away back — "I'm for the Yanks. They have had all bad luck so far and are still in front. I think they can keep it up. With Henrich back before the end of the season, they are in. The Cards are the team in the National League. They have the steadier pitching and a lead."

Bill (Deacon Bros. Ltd.) Moore one of this city's better sportscribes was down Montreal way over the week-end and dropped in to see one of the Little World's Series games between Indianapolis and the Montreal Royals. Bill was much impressed with the showing of the Indianapolis squad especially with pitcher Joe Muir and his battery mate. He feels that the Royals will have to wrap their best baseball bibs and tuckers if they want to win the series if the performances of the Milliner in the first two games which they won can be judged anything.

* * *

Before the Saturday game Bill dropped in the Royals dressing room where he is a favorite with the players. Speaking with Bobby Bragan, Montreal shortstop, who was awarded the "most valuable player" in the International league for the season just past. Bill happened to mention our "Mouse" Bush who won the Belleville and District Leagues award. Bobby was interested in "Mouse" since he too, is a shortstop and after asking several questions subscribed a baseball "Congratulations to 'Mouse' Bush from Bobby Morgan."

* * *

Bill brought the baseball back with him and will, if he has not done so already, present it to Bush. He may be has made the presentation because if not, the news might take the edge off the surprise in store for the Belleville player.

* * *

Montreal fandom, according to Bill, took Sam Jethro, colored star of the Royals to its heart in the same manner it did Jackie Robinson. Jethro is slated by the Dodgers for next year and will likely start the season in a Dodger uniform. He was lured in his prime of the Montreal people. "They are wonderful folks," he told Moore, "and I hate to have to leave them. They have been generous to a fault with me and I have formed many personal friendships that I came here. I'm sorry I won't be back—but that is baseball—and I will make good in the Dodger training camp."

Latest word regarding the series between Northern Electrics and Napanee for the championship of the Belleville District Baseball League, is that the date has again been indefinitely postponed pending the outcome of an official protest entered by the Cobourg baseball squad following their second series game with the Gilbardmilk gang. Napanees offered to play the second game with Northern this afternoon, but the players, it seems, cannot play in the afternoons. Northern agreed to play Saturday night, then up popped the protest question, and that was out.

* * *

According to the report of the second Napanee-Cobourg game which the former won 5-4 to tie the two-of-three series, the pastime was played in steady rain and was called on account of darkness at the end of the sixth. Just what Cobourg hasn's is protest on is not definite since Napanee led all the way. They scored two in the first, three in the second with Cobourg getting two in that innings. The winners scored one in the fourth and two in the fifth giving them an 8-3 lead in their half. Cobourg came through with three runs in the bottom of the innings and both squads scored singles in the seventh.

Hundreds Huddle Outside Stadium To Purchase Seats

New York, Oct. 5 (AP)—Hundreds of baseball fans huddled outside the Yankee Stadium early today awaiting the opening sale of 13,000 bleacher seats at 10 A. M. EDT for the first game of the World Series.

The fans began to gather early Tuesday afternoon. Shortly before 3 a. m. police put up wooden horse barricades to keep them in regular formation and prevent line crashing.

Some of the early arrivals wrapped themselves in blankets during the wee morning hours and reclined on the pavement. Others played cards or listened to all-night disc jockeys on portable radios.

The owners of a nearby restaurant distributed 30 gallons of coffee among the fans, bringing cheers from the crowd.

The pair of smiling Adonises peeking at you from the above pictures are Whipper Billy Watson and his in-and-out-the-ringbuddie, Pat Flanagan. This good-looking pair of beat-busters will have their hands full on Friday night when they tangle with Fred Atkins and Hardboiled Hannigan in a team-tag rassle party. Atkins has as match love for the Watkins - Flanagan duo, collectively and individually, as a sellout for a hunting pooch, and you can bet the grannygaiters store molars there'll be fists and other fireworks when the explosion sounds off. Ben Sharpe and a newcomer named Cipoli will sound off in the semi-final while Al. Korman takes on the old favorite Toar Morgan in the opener.

Dauthuille Wins 10-Round Decision Over Sonny Horne

(By the Canadian Press)

Laurent Dauthuille, blonde belter from France, Tuesday night scored a unanimous 10-round decision over Sonny Horne of Niles, O., in a non-title middleweight bout in Montreal that saw Dauthuille open cute over Horne's left eye and bloody his right eye.

Dauthuille weighed 156½, Horne, 160½.

The bout at Montreal's forum was the first major fight of the fall season and a near-capacity crowd turned out to watch the popular Frenchman who now makes his home in Montreal.

Dauthuille was the aggressor all the way and concentrated on Horne's head. There were no knockdowns but in the eighth Horne was slagged and only the bell saved him.

The fight was regarded as a tune-up for Dauthuille, who is pointing toward a shot at the world middleweight title, now held by Jake Lamotta. Dauthuille scored a decision over Lamotta here before Jake won the crown.

Canadian-born football players are holding their own against American imports in the individual scoring race in the western Interprovincial football union, with five home-brews showing in the big ten.

Vern Graham, Stampeders' Calgary-born flying wing, continues to lead with 33 points, statistics compiled by the Canadian Press at Winnipeg show. But Sammy Pierce of Saskatchewan Roughriders, import from Baylor University, crashed through for a touchdown last weekend to bring his total to 30, while Graham was only collecting two points.

Canadian Matt Anthony, Riders' sticky-fingered end, moved into undisputed possession of third place with 25 points.

National Hockey League offices at Montreal announced Tuesday that the N.H.L. pension society will be luncheon host to hockey executives, writers and players at the all-star game Oct. 29 at Maple Leafs team in Toronto next Monday.

The luncheon will be one of the functions associated with the annual games of all-stars vs. Stanley Cup winners to be played Monday night.

President Clarence Campbell of the N.H.L., the league's six governors and president Maurice Podoloff of the American Hockey League have been invited to the luncheon.

Jack Scruton, 19-year-old hockey player who suffered a fractured skull while working out with Galt Red Wings of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior "A" circuit, was reported "progressing favorably" Tuesday night in a Toronto hospital where he had undergone an operation.

He was struck by a skate when he and his partner fell during practice a week ago. He was treated for a cut and fell a second time as was not until Friday that a check-up revealed that the blade had pierced the skull. Doctors have not yet determined whether he will be able to play hockey this season.

Jersey Joe Walcott, Camden, N. J., heavyweight boxer, arrived back Tuesday at New York after a tour of European countries. He was accompanied by his manager, Felix Bocchicchio, who said Walcott began to sign with Ezzard Charles for a title bout in December. Charles is recognized by the National Boxing Association as the world heavyweight champion.

Walcott defeated Olle Tandberg at Stockholm in August, and had 17 exhibitions while abroad.

Toronto's Mariboro Seniors have signed a well-experienced goal-tender for this season's Ontario Hockey Association race. Pat Boehmer, who played with the 1944 - 45 Toronto College Memorial Cup champions, will fend off shots.

The 24 - year - old netminder, since playing with St. Michael's, has seen service with Hollywood Wolves, Boston Olympics and Pittsburgh Hornets, for whom he played one game. He did not play at all last season.

Brockville winners of awards at the annual Ottawa Rowing Club Regatta Tuesday expressed dissatisfaction with this year's rowals, which they have just received.

They claim that the 1941 prizes are made of copper or brass, with the crest of Canada on the face and with no inscription to indicate the year or side of the races, the type of race or the winner's name.

Barrie Flyers edged out a 5-4 victory over Toronto St. Michaels in an exhibition game Tuesday night at Midland before 1,000 fans. O. H. A. senior A team. Goalscending played a big part in the final outcome with Flyers using three while Hokes was the lone St. Mike's custodian.

World Series Notes

New York, Oct. 8 (AP)—Don Newcombe, who may be Brooklyn's opening day choice in the world series watch gets under way at the Yankee Stadium today, is ready to pitch in three games, if necessary.

"I'm ready in pitch every day, if Burt (Shotton, Dodger Manager) wants me to," the big 225-pound Negro righthander said. "I feel strong and I've never had a sore arm in my life. Working with a two-day rest has never bothered me before."

Pee Wee Reese, Dodger captain, is the only member of the 1941 pennant winners still with the club. In all three world series, the Yankees were his opponents. The Yankees whipped the Brooks in 1941 and 1947.

Manager Burt Shotton of the Dodgers and Carl Furillo, his No. 1 outfielder, ought to get together. Furillo, who aggravated a groin injury in the final game of the season, says he can't play. Shotton says he will play.

"I can't swing and I can't run," Furillo complained Tuesday. "Unless the doctor performs a miracle, I can't see how I'll be able to play."

"Furillo will play, and let's not argue about it," snapped Shotton when informed of Carl's statement.

A majority of baseball writers polled by The Associated Press pick New York Yankees to defeat Brooklyn in the world series scheduled to open at Yankee Stadium today. Thirty-three of the scribes selected the American League pennant winners while 19 picked their National League rivals.

Gene Hermanski of the Brooks looked around and shouted, "my goodness, look what's happened to Yogi Berra."

Berra, the Yankees' popular catcher, has been mentioned as a likely contestant in a beauty contest.

Sports Roundup

BY HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

New York, Oct. 5 (AP)—Perhaps it seems strange that two clubs which go in for farm operations in a big way, the Yankees and Dodgers, will be opening the world series with pitchers developed by other teams....Allie Reynolds, Manager Casey Stengel's choice, was brought up to be a Cleveland Indian and came to New York in the Joe Gordon deal two years ago....Preacher Roe, expected to get the call from Barney Shotton, belonged to the Cardinals and pitched four seasons for Pittsburgh before he was shipped to Brooklyn with Billy Cox in a package deal....Of course, that's just another indication that it's due to be a wacky series....

Two other Yankee mound reliables, Eddie Lopat and Fred Sanford, came from the notably weak White Sox and Browns. And of course, Jackie Robinson, Roy Campanella and "Don Newcombe were trained in the Negro baseball leagues.

Cleaning the Cuff

Baud leader Guy Lombardo will spend about $2,000 to have his Royal Canadians' play at Yankee Stadium during the series. He isn't being paid for it but he's giving his musicians fill pay, buying lunches and has also invited their wives to attend the games at his expense....

Some one has estimated that 75 miles of hot dogs will be sold during the series.

Yogi Berra's comment on the Yankee victory (as reported in one local paper): "They said we hadn't ought to done it," but we did."

Preacher Roe, Allie Reynolds Likely Starters in First Game; Carl Furillo May Not Play

By JACK HAND

New York, Oct. 8—(AP)—Preacher Roe, the tuguiar Arkansas traveller, looks like the Brooklyn starter today against Allie Reynolds of the Reynolds Page corporation in the Dodger-Yankee World Series opener at Yankee Stadium.

Switch to the lefthanded Roe from Don Newcombe, the 225-pound Negro rookie, was indicated front Dodger sources although Manager Burt Shotton still held off definite word.

Faiharly Burt, a firm believer in the eight-hour sleep, said: "I don't want my boy staying up all night."

Casey Stengel confirmed his choice of "Old Wahoo" Reynolds, the Oklahoma Indian who opened so many key series in the club's gallant drive to the American League pennant. Down the stretch every series was vital, but Allie, with Joe Page as his shadow, drew the "big" assignments.

Reynolds wound up with a 17-7 record as compared to 15-6 for the Preacher but the Yankee right-hander threw only four complete games. At 31 starts Reynolds needed mop-up help from fireman Joe 20 times. Roe completed 13 of 27 starts.

Prospects Not Bright

Next to the debate about the Brook starter, the weather was the most talked-about subject. The prospects were not too bright. The forecast called for more rain.* Despite the threat, there was a line at the bleacher gate by early Tuesday afternoon.

The standing room, 4,000 tickets, was sold in advance, but the 13,000 - odd bleacher seats go up for grabs this morning.

The Dodgers, 17 - to - 10 underdogs in man-to-man betting in this best-of-seven competition, will be handicapped by a first injury to Carl Furillo, their .322-hitter right fielder. Furillo said Tuesday at the final workout he couldn't hit or run. Still Shotton calmly announced Furillo as his starting right - fielder, with no alternates.

If Furillo is unable to go, the Brooks will be hurt. Down the stretch the young man from Reading, Pa., has been their most consistent hitter, batting the ball at a .431 clip in the last 46 games.

Furillo and Cliff Mapes, Yankee right fielder, are the strongest throwing arms of the series contenders.

Plenty of Juggling

Casey juggled intricate combinations of players all season during the siege of 71 injuries that crippled every regular. Both he and Shotton are expected to continue juggling in the series. The result could be a record for total men used.

The comparative rest and quiet for the last two days, broken by two light workouts, figures to help Joe DiMaggio most of all. The Yankee Clipper, still looking like a man who has been drawn through a knothole, is slowly regaining his old mobility.

A virus infection that kept Dixie Walker out of the lineup for nearly two weeks almost cost the Yanks the pennant.

Most critics looked askance at the betting odds, figuring the series a toss-up. Because of the American League victory record and the magic name of the Yankees who dubbed themselves the "team of destiny,' the edge probably belongs to that side, but on 10 to 17. Brooklyn never has won a World Series. The Yanks have copped 11 of 15—so far.

Golden Gaels Team of Rookies And Veterans

Kingston, Oct. 5 — (CP)—The Golden Gaels, Senior Intercollegiate football entry from Queen's University, face the 1949 season with a team of rookies and veterans in almost equal proportions. Weakened by the loss of nine of last year's Varsity squad, the Tricolor have dug deep in their talent barrel to mould a 'dark horse' outfit.

Gone are wingmen huskies Dino Bastiani, Jim Phillipsanou, Roy Salder, Roy Fardell, Art Jackson and Bob Stevens. Plungers Frank McIntyre and Bill Huntley and quarterback Billy Bell have hung up their cleats for the season.

However, some 20 of last year's senior gridders are back to form an encouraging nucleus.

Quarterbacks Don Bonner, former Ohio University regular, Morris (Moe) Richardson from the intermediates, and Dave (Rosie) Bryane show promise in their handling of the intricate T formation plays. Husky Al Lenard, another quarter who was twice voted intercollegiate allstar for the position, is being considered as a possibility at flying wing if the current over-supply of field generals continues.

Many for Backfield Posts

Ross McKelvey, three time Ontario Rugby Football Union All-star half, Harry Bolger, in his third year with the seniors, John Faulkner and Billy Gatfield, also veterans, and Joseph Peterborough Collegiate and intermediate all-star Bart Francesco and Bobo Penner are all in the running for backfield posts.

On the line, the Gaels have a solid collection of starters with replacements in reserve. Burly Jim Charters is back at snap. Hal McCarney, six foot-three and 225 pounds dubbed himself the 'team of destiny,' the edge probably belongs to that side, but on 10 to 17. Brooklyn never has won a World Series. The Yanks have copped 11 of 15—so far.

Canadian Sport Snapshots

By AL VICKERY
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Winnipeg, Oct. 5 (CP) — The unfortunate accident in which Baz Bastien, Pittsburgh Hornet goalkeeper, lost an eye, has prompted an argument that hockey goalies should wear masks.

Vince (Winnipeg Tribune) Leah says "We've seen many a goaltender laid low by stopping a puck with his noggin and often wondered why they didn't take a leaf from their boxia brethren and wear a faceguard, especially in modern hockey where you find 13 men milling around in front of a net in the confused jamming passes for the power play.

"Not only does the goalkeeper suffer physical hurt when the vulcanite wipes out some of his molars or guts a crease in an otherwise handsome nose, but psychologically he may become what the boys call puck-shy.

"Some goalkeepers have been laid low umpteen times and come back for more, but we've also seen kids who were hit once and thought better about going back into the cage.

Let's Face It

"A goalkeeper would not dream of assuming his position in the net without leg pads, chest protector, goal gloves and the rest of his paraphernalia, but he forgets about his face, which is one part of him people have to live with," Lear says. "Broken cheek bones, jaws, lacerated mouths, loss of teeth are not funny and the loss of an eye is a downright tragedy."

Three-team Playoff?

Maurice (Winnipeg Free Press) Smith says general opinion has been that it is to be a two-team playoff for the Western Inter-Provincial Football Union championship, the same as it has been for the last few years. However, both Winnipeg and Edmonton are anxious that a third team get in, Smith claims.

"Can't see where Saskatchewan or Calgary should have any objections . . . either one of them could knock off Winnipeg or Edmonton without drawing a deep breath . . . only thing they might worry about is possible injuries . . . a three-team playoff would be a life-saver for Bombers or Eskimos, as both clubs are faced with dwindling gate receipts now that the Roughies and Stamps have run away and hidden from them."

Ivan Says Team Will be Hitting Harder This Year

By GEORGE TATHAM
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Detroit, Oct. 5 — (CP)—More hustle, more bump and more balance — that's the way Coach Tommy Ivan describes the Detroit Red Wings as the team prepares for the National Hockey League's 70-game schedule.

The upper coach bases his forecast on a new training formula in which the team plays itself into shape with exhibition games in Ontario and the United States, rather than the former method of hours of drilling.

"And you can quote me — the boys will be hitting harder, and more often, this year than last," Ivan said. Most of the last season squad is back — with defenceman Bill Quackenbush a major acquisition. He was obtained from the Indianapolis Capitals, Detroit's American League farm club.

One of the hottest players in camp is Johnny Gee, who has been pivot man between Gordie Howe and Ted Lindsay in exhibition games. The former Chicago Black Hawk, acquired by Detroit last season, has been going strong both ways but Ivan says the centre spot "on any of the four lines" is still wide open.

Wilson Given Unlimited Time To Break Mark

Picton, Ont., Oct. 5 — (CP) — Hard-luck Harold Wilson who has been dealt some poor cards by Lady Luck in his effort to break the world's speedboat record, finally has an ace.

It came in the form of a telegram Tuesday, telling him he had an unlimited extension of time to try to establish a new world mark for inboard racing boats.

Among the forwards available are Gerald Couture, Fred Glover, Jim McFadden, Max McNab, Gerry Reid, Marty Pavelich, Jim Zelo and Steve Black.

Fogolin, up from Capitals the middle of last season, Benny Woit and Al Dewsbury are also in the running for a rearguard position.

Goal tending chores will come again to Harry Lumley who, in the opinion of Ivan, looks sharper "and in better shape" than he did a year ago.

less than the world's record. A pipe split when he was half way through the first mile, pulling down his speed. The boat was docked and the hose line repaired within minutes.

Wilson's mechanics said the water was too smooth this morning and they were waiting for a slight ripple which would produce suction on the boat's hull before making another run later today.

The telegram from Art Bobick, of Los Angeles, chairman of the Inboard Racing Commission of the American Power Boat Association, came just four hours before Wilson's arbitrarily-set, four-day deadline. It read in part:

"You can make as many trials as you desire . . . and this is the referee's authority to extend time and extend sanction from day to day until you get suitable weather . . ."

The telegram also stated that Wilson's mark of 138.6 miles an hour, set Sunday, is recognized as the North American record.

The temperamental Miss Canada IV, in one of her better moods also broke the world record of 141.7 miles an hour, set by the late Sir Malcolm Campbell on Lake Sir Malcolm Campbell on the Lake Ontario, England, when she skimmed over Picton Bay at 143.8 miles an hour. Minutes after this mark, although officially timed, was not accepted as a world record because the craft made only one, one-mile run instead of two as specified by powerboat rules.

The telegram from Bobick was just what Wilson needed. Bugged by smashed propellers, lost propellers, obstinate supercharger and bad weather, the Ingersoll, Ont., driver had almost despaired of breaking the world mark this season. Even Tuesday, after taking his $100,000 water baby out on a successful trial run shortly after dawn, foul weather swept across the bay as he took time out to replace a propeller for an official run.

Rain and high winds worsened his chances as the day progressed and the long-faced Wilson was considering asking for a one-day extension when Bobrick's telegram arrived.

♣5

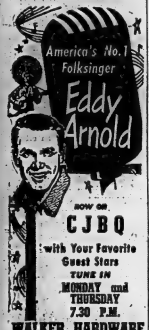
You are south as the declarer at a no-trump contract and your hand is now in the lead. Five of the tricks have already been taken. Take seven of the eight remaining tricks to be had.

Your jack of clubs in dummy is a trick. Your south king and queen of diamonds are two tricks. Your king of hearts is a trick. Your queen and king of spades are two tricks.

Six tricks of the eight are no trouble to you whatever. It is the seventh trick for which you must lay a special play. Force one of your opponents to give up a trick he expects to take.

Start by leading one of your small spades and win with dummy queen. Come back a small diamond and win with the south queen. Lead the spade king and sluff a dummy heart.

Now lead your lone club and win with dummy jack. What will west cough up on this trick? A heart. Else he will let you make a trick with a small spade or a small diamond.



By this time each hand is down to four cards and dummy exits to east with the small club. On this trick your south hand throws the small heart. But what will west shed?

West is in a meckuvahess. If he throws a spade your south spade is good. If he flings a diamond both your remaining south diamonds are good. Therefore, west gives up his heart jack with dejection.

Meantime, east is endplayed with nothing but hearts. Leading a small or high heart gives dummy two heart tricks. What should east lead? Maybe a cleaner life.

Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, Oct. 5—(AP)—In these days of pressure groups and abused minorities, Dan Dailey seeks a fair deal for the outsided male.

Without the aid of uplifting theme or any number from off-screen, Dailey ranks as Hollywood's highest star. He rises to a chandelier-brushing height of six feet, four inches. Now this may sound ideal to males constructed on a smaller scale.

But the actor claims it has disadvantages, due to man's inhumanity to tall men.

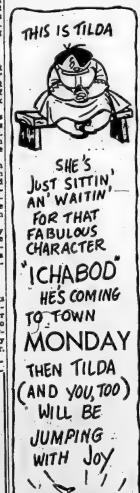
"I'm in favor of all tall men in the country organizing to combat various discriminatory practices against," he said militantly. "Standard sizes just aren't big enough for us."

Everything is Small

"Regularly, once a week, I hit my head on the top of my car," he complained. "When I get out of the car, my legs are so stiff from being folded up I can't walk straight.

"But it isn't just automobiles that make me smack. Finding clothes that fit is a long, arduous task. Sometimes it's easier to have them made. Of course, that means more expense."

Dailey moaned that he seldom gets a good night's sleep when on film locations. He has to fold himself into bed like an old concertina. Anytime he has a custom-made seven-foot bed, a luxury he promised he'd get once he got in the chips.



He added that he practically holds up brands wherever he stands up in his "Ticket to Tomahawk" dressing room. He has a half-inch clearance on the ceiling.

More Problems

Towering height also brings problems for an actor. Most leading ladies are so much shorter that it takes camera trickery to avoid making it look like a father-daughter team. Sometimes they have to dig a trench for the actor. Sometimes the actor almost has to kneel.

"Yes," mused Dailey with a political glint in his eye, "I think I will get Jimmy Stewart, Gregory Peck and Rory Calhoun together and organize a committee to see that all tall men get their rights."

SCOTT'S SCRAP BOOK — By R. I. SCOTT

Little Benny's Note Book

Ma shook her head to herself, saying to pop, A leopard cant change his spots, William.

That's a fact, he's silly to even try, pop said, and ma said, Maud Hawes dropped in for tea this afternoon.

Did she bring her spoon? pop said, and ma said, She brawt her nitting. She's been nitting a dress for herself, and wherever you see Maud she's sure to have her nitting with her like inseparable companions.

Is she nitting a spotted dress? pop said, and ma said, When I mentioned her spots I was alluding to herringboned and lifelong habit of talking about herself. There's hasn't changed her spots at all, you think tha twas nice, William? ma said.

I think it was underhanded, deceitful and I dont know why it makes ents that she considers too insignificant to relate down to its last detail. So you can imagine my surprise when she maintained a steady unbroken silence and allowed me to talk for a change, ma said.

That must of been a thrill, pop said, and ma said, Well, it was, naturally. I was full of bottled up information that I hadn't had a chance to even mention the last 2 or 3 times I saw Maud, and I could hardly believe my ears when I saw her listening with intense flattering silence. And then I saw what she was up to. She was making twice as much headway silently working on her nitted dress as I was, chattingly nitting on mine. You see, we're having a sort of race to see who can finish their resp the first. So as far as her character goes, she hasn't changed her spots at all, And he laffed like anything.

Northern Electric Softball Champs Held to 7-All Tie by All-Stars

The rest of the class, mixed and jumbled but fitting into the jig-saw puzzle very nicely, proved to the scholarship winners in the Commercial football College at Alemite Field last night that they are well up in the three diamond "R's" as are the winners of the Pellar Trophy.

For Herbie Henn's husky Lord Fauntleroys with their diplomas fresh off the presses were held to a seven-all tie by Cy Barriage's select company chosen from ten or eleven other classes in a game that the faithful thought had as much at stake as the world series.

The second battle of this series between the Hennery Gang from Northern Electric and the Barriage Bunch of Assorted Ball-Blasters will be staged on the Alemite campus come Thursday evening while the third test tussle has been scheduled for Monday, Thanksgiving Day starting at five o'clock or thereabouts.

Last night's get-together was productive of practically everything on the softball curricula. There were some healthy clouts that sent the ball sailing to the faraway places, bobbles that were more or less costly, pitching of a better than fair variety and some neat but not gaudy tossing of the ball around the infield which missed the intended targets by the proverbial mile while base-runners gallooped merrily around the back and home stretches to come under the wire by at least four minutes ahead of the bell.

Four Umpires

The boys did the thing up right. They added a swanky touch when they appointed four umpires (for free) with "Shud" Ethier's basso profundo leading the quartet with third base solos at times. Teamworked the plate job with Vern Goyer at first and Cy Young viewing the game from the vicinity of second base.

Coach Barriage nodded his head at Al. Adams, who did his flinging for Howe and Hagerman during the schedule, to start the mound business. Al was promptly greeted by an eight-man Northern Electric reception committee who graciously accepted his offerings without a care in the world. They flung four solid clouts to the outfield; Al generously donated a walk and by the time someone yelled "Binge" the Northern runners had scampered home. It looked like a runaway for the champs.

Score Two in First

But the All-Stars had other ideas. Rex Young starting hurler for the champs, did a neat job allowing but one hit in the lower half of the first but his mates played tiddley-winks with the ball on two occasions and the bout ended with the score at 4-2.

Electrics added two runs in their half of the third bringing the count to 6-2 and it still looked as if Henn's Yanks had the edge on the Barriage Dodgers. Then in the fifth Mr. Young developed a streak of wildness. With two out he issued three walks and these garnished with a pair of hits resulted in a three run explosion on the part of the Barriage clan that brought them within one run of Electrics.

In the fourth they continued their merry way, blasting out two hits which with a walk and another pair of Electric bobbles gave the All-Stars two runs and the lead for the first time in the game.

Pitcher Switch

Enter Mr. Lum Carson and he stifled the All-Star bats over the rest of the seven-innings affair. Bobby Green went to the mound and did a fine job until the fateful seventh when the reliable Moe Rollins bobbled an easy grounder. Two walks and a hit sent over the losing run and Master Bob Hunter to the All-Stars mound. He retired the side.

All-Stars had the winning run on bases in their half of the seventh but Carson, who was bearing down heavily got the side away and the game ended all even-stephen.

The teams:

Northern Electric: Barriage and Garrow, lf; Henn, c; Woods, cf; Young, lb; Halsey rf; Wanamaker, 2b; Whiting 3b; Prout, ss; Rev Young, Carson, p.

(By The Canadian Press)

Toronto Maple Leafs are preparing for the annual National Hockey League All-Star game with more than the usual enthusiasm. Coach Hap Day and his charges take the view that the game will settle an issue that has been bothering them for a long time.

When the All-Star team was picked last Spring, Maple Leafs, last year's Stanley Cup winners, were dismayed to learn that none of their members were included in the blue-ribbon team. The three-times world champions haven't forgotten what they regarded at the time as an undeserved slight.

Conn Smythe, Leafs manager, puts it this way:

"This is the game we've been waiting for. Monday night will provide the answer as to who was right, the All-Star selectors or the Leafs.

"I'm looking forward to the game to prove to myself that we were the All-Star team and I think the team feels the same way about it."

If Leafs win, they will establish a precedent. In each of the two previous All-Star games, the All-Stars have been the winners. Two-thirds of the proceeds of the game will go to the N.H.L. Players' Pension Fund and the remainder will be split among several Toronto charities.

Sacos Roll up High Score In 'B' League

The Ontario Intelligencer "Inkspots" while piling up the second highest score in the Major "B" (Tuesday) Bowling League at Recreation Alleys last night, fallied to collect a point and went down before Sacos by a 7-0 score. Sacos aggregated 3203, the highest count of the evening.

Hibbard's Electric also marked up a "duck egg" on their score sheets, bowing to the Pigeons by a 7-0 score. In the other game the "Our Gang" team defeated "Just Us" by five points to two.

Al. Hitchon was the bowling star of the evening getting the high single of 306 and high three-string of 739. J. Mitchell rolled a three-string of 704.

The scores:—

Sacos	(7) 3203
Ont. Intell.	(0) 2812
Our Gang	(5) 2778
Just Us	(2) 2748
Pigeons	(7) 2735

Service Darts League Opens New Season

The Belleville Service Darts League got away to a good start on Monday night with the three matches ending in identical scores.

Perhaps the upset of the evening was the defeat of last year's champion Army, Navy, Air Force Veterans team by the Hasty Pets by a 5-5 score.

The 9th Anti Tank Regiment took the measure of the Canadian National Railway Veterans by a 6-5 count, while the Brewers Warehouse turned back the Follwell Supply team by the same score.

The first half of the schedule which winds up in December has been drawn up and will be published tomorrow. The teams hold their weekly matches in the ANAF clubrooms, the Bridge St. Armouries and the Church Street Armouries. Play is called for every Monday evening starting at 8 o'clock.

Black Boom

By Paul David Preston

"Needn't have brought this, Dallas said over and over, as son," Mr. Buck asserted. "You favored me first, took me to the right man at the right moment, and anyway I like you. I may be able to help you some more yet. And some of your friends, if they can dig up a little money to put in."

Thad rushed to M.J. Parker, Martin Deale and—after due thought—to Dallas Tower. He loaned M.J. $5,000 to use, and offered as much to the other two. Both these declined it, but for different reasons.

"I never forget it, old man,"

Some people can be—oh—happier without trying to make money every day. I think you're smart there. Just wanted to see if you were interested."

"Martin's none-to-cordial response damped him for a while but toward the end of the day Thad screwed up courage to go to Mrs. Millicent Mayfield, in private. He considered her his friend. And to a man of Thad Monroe's rare unselfishness, friend was a person with whom to share good things. Nevertheless he stood in awe of Mrs. Mayfield's "position" and background.

Their talk was a little formal at first. Thad had decided that he could even lend her $1,000 to invest, if she had no money. But he couldn't think of a graceful way of offering it. To imply that she needed money might be a technical insult to a family as proud as hers. Thad even chuckled a bit to himself, thinking what old Jason Weems would say about such a thing.

Mrs. Mayfield saved Thad that particular worry. When he laid his investment possibility before her she asked if she might put in $500 of her own.

"I...yes, Mrs. Mayfield," Thad was relieved. "I wasn't sure you had any ready cash, ma'am, and I didn't want to embarrass you I mean—"

"I didn't have, Thad, and to tell you the truth I was distressed until yesterday. Out of a blue sky a man came and loaned me $500. All he would take is a mortgage on my back lot here. But he said he would probably need some ready cash today—he said it! He said I could expect you!"

"Hmmm!" Thad murmured, in surprise.

"Yes. I am lucky to have two such friends. Thad can you guess the other one?"

"No, Mayfield, I'm sure you have lots of—"

"It was Dallas Tower. He is a most remarkable man!"

At ten o'clock one night the telephone rang and Lillian herself answered it.

"Why Dallas!" she exclaimed, when she recognized the caller. "It's good to hear you!"

"Were you about to go to bed?"

"No, silly! Not this early."

"Chad's hoodlums hanging around the porch, no doubt?"

"We-e-ell, Dallas—"

"I know. I know. Be there myself if I could. Haven't seen you in years, Lillian. Could I—look, could you possibly find a sore throat or something and call a doctor in? Or, say, slip off from the gang and meet him down by the front gate in 10 minutes?"

She smiled to herself there at the phone. "It's very irregular but—I'll do it! I'm sinning, Dal!"

It was, in truth, irregular. But Dal Tower had to be an exception. She knew he had been working literally night and day. She knew why he hadn't called to see her for more than a week (he called it years!) She knew that he doubtless had been to any patients this very evening, and here at about 10 suddenly found himself free. If he didn't hurry, didn't literally run away from his office and his room and the hospital and the drugstore, some other patients would summon him. Not that patients weren't essential but a man must relax some time.

Several people were on the porch tonight and Martin Deale was playing the piano while they sang. Lillian felt she wouldn't be missed from the happy hullabaloo so she didn't bother to tell them where she was going. At the front door, though, alert old Jason accosted her.

"You goin' off this late, Miss Lillian?"

"Sure, Jason. Dr. Tower has a free half hour!"

"She sutt! Ah wondered had he done forgot you!"

Dal's headlights caught her white print dress near the parking tree, and he opened the car door for her.

"Well, Miss Mayfield," he began somberly, "just what are the symptoms?"

"Severe neglect," she shot back.

"Ah hum. Yes. Let me feel your pulse."

He lifted his right arm, as if to put it around her.

"I have a pulse here on my left wrist, doctor. If you must feel."

"Consider me squelched!" They both laughed.

"I don't know," said he then, "I kissed you once, impulsively. And you didn't get angry. Ever since then I've known you didn't misunderstand me. I wasn't just—reckless."

"Of course you weren't, Dal. If ever you try that—golly, I'm no prude! I'm not a boy I—I mean, really kiss—is going to know it! And is going to have a hard time not marrying me."

"Ouch!" Dal murmured, looking ahead. "Prescribe me that!"

"Shall we lift the conversation to—to—oil, let us say. You have headed right into the oil field, Dal."

"Did it automatically. Most of my calls are out here. I can turn and—"

"No. Let's stop up on the Granite Butte and look at it."

The Butte was a natural lookout point. From it they could see not one derrick outlined in lights but nearer 100. All of them had mushroomed in less than three weeks.

"It's unbelievable!" Lillian whispered.

"But true! And Rangeville is vastly different from what I found it. Twice—no, five or six times as large. And hustling 24 hours."

"I know. Mother is terribly upset, Dal. She resents all the change and crowding in. Even her Church has leased its site, near the courthouse, and they're going to grill right on it!"

"I heard. But they got enough money to build a fine new church on Burford Hill. If they strike oil, the church will get royalties and have enough to hire six ministers. But I hear oil talk all day long and I only fed up with it and I came out to talk romance."

"Suits me, kiddo!" Lillian nodded. Let's pretend something hush! Say, for instance, that I am Guinevere and you are Sir Lancelot with a—"

"That's out. I'm a realist. Here's a very real—not a play like—box of candy to prove it. It's five pounds and it cost me $7.50, dogone it. Women are expensive!"

He reached behind the seat to bring it to her, a truly gorgeous box of chocolates.

"O-o-o-o-o, Dal!"

"Yump! The old gush act now, Leading me on. Probably begin hinting for something else soon. Gold digger. No, old digger is a better name in this region."

She was blithely ignoring his banter. "Just keep running on, mister! I'm not listening. I never listen with my mouth full. Dal you're a darling. Thank you ever so much."

"A darling!" He suddenly chuckled, "I wish my artist friend could have heard that! Whoops!"

"Oh the boy can paint. I haven't a thing against him."

"He's at the house now."

"Naturally."

"You haven't seen each other much since—since those first hectic days have you?"

"No. I've dodged him."

"Why? I don't think Martin harbors a grudge."

"I'm scared of him."

She turned slowly to look at Dr. Tower.

"No," she said simply.

"And anyhow Thad Monroe ordered it. That's the worst part about this whole scheme—I like Monroe immensely and I've got to fight him!"

"Whatever are you talking about, Dallas?"

He smiled wryly, looking off. "Anyhow I'm glad Monroe is in the money. He deserved every good thing. And he had already made himself independent in this boom. I think he's the most unselfish man I ever met."

Lillian nodded, then spoke with a hint of sarcasm. "That clears up everything of course. You've got to fight him, and he's the most unselfish man you ever met.'

"Yump. Cay, chile what say we run over to Kilgore and dance? It's hardly eight miles. Pike Road."

She agreed. Pointedly he wanted to change the subject, however, near to a confidential moment he had drifted. And it would be good to dance with him.

GUAY COMMITTED FOR TRIAL ON MURDER COUNT

Mistreatment of Americans Protested

U.S. Wants Russian Officials Punished For Inhuman Acts

Washington, Oct. 6 — (AP) — The United States today sent a strongly worded note to Russia protesting the "shocking" mistreatment of Americans who stray into the Soviet Zone of Germany.

"This treatment the United States government finds to be in shocking contravention to the most elementary standards of international decency," the note said.

At the same time the United States, through Ambassador Kirk in Moscow, notified the Russian Foreign Office that "it expects that those Soviet officials who are responsible for these acts will be punished."

The American note referred specifically to the case of the two American college students who "inadvertently and innocently" entered the Russian zone while bicycling and who were detained for eight weeks.

Brutal Conditions

It also cited the case of Pfc. John L. Sinkowski, an American soldier, who escaped Sept. 16 from a prison in the Soviet sector of Berlin after 10 months of imprisonment. The note said he was held under "brutal and uncivilized conditions".

The note said bluntly:

"There can be no justification for this kind of treatment of citizens of a friendly nation, persons whose only violation of law is purely technical in most cases, whose innocence of criminal charges can easily be established."

Skunk Gives Police Shotgun 'The Treatment'

Kitchener, Oct. 6 (CP).—A police drive against skunks came to a halt Wednesday when one of the striped residents beat the cops to the punch.

Called in to give shotgun treatment to a skunk that had been burrowing under the chicken-house in a garden, police were disappointed.

Details have not been released but it appears that the attacking force laid down its weapons to help hunt the skunk. While they were searching the skunk came out and gave its usual treatment to the shot gun, left standing against a chicken-pen.

The eradication campaign has been temporarily suspended while the firearm is hung out to air. The skunk hasn't been seen since.

COST-OF-LIVING INDEX DOWN HALF POINT IN AUGUST

Lower Food Prices During the Month is Cause of Drop

Ottawa, Oct. 6 — (CP)—Lower food prices pushed down the cost-of-living index during August.

The index now totals 163.3 — down a half point from the all-time high of 163.8 registered during July.

It had been increasing steadily without a drop since last March when it hit 159.3. By sports and bounds it climbed to successive new highs, urged forward mainly by food-price increases.

With food production at its height during August, price declines were registered for beef, lamb, pork, eggs, oranges and vegetables, the Bureau of Statistics said Wednesday in announcing the August cost-of-living index.

The index, a barometer of living costs, is calculated on the basis 1935-39 equals 100. Those costs now are estimated to be 63 per cent higher than they were in August, 1939.

While food prices helped send down the index in Canada, they helped were boosting the index in the United States.

The American index in mid-August reached 168.8 per cent of the price level during the 1935-39 period. It was a gain of 0.6 per cent from the previous month.

Food Drops 2.2 Points.

Of the six sub-groups that make up the Canadian index, the food group showed the biggest change during August. It dropped 2.2 points from the 203.2 peak in July.

Rents, clothing, fuel and light made slight advances but home furnishings and miscellaneous groups were unchanged.

Rental changes in the index are made every three months when the Bureau completes a quarterly survey. The sub-index advanced slightly from 123.4 to 123.9, an increase of a half point. The rental group now is at an all - time peak.

When the quarterly survey was completed last June, the advance was from 122.4 to 123.4 — a full point.

Higher coal and coke prices sent the fuel and light sub-group up two-thirds of a point to 130.1. This is nine-tenths of a point below the all-time high registered last March and April.

Clothing also climbed to an all-time high in August. The sub-index gained three - tenths of a point to 152.5. The buyers attributed the increase to greater buying stimulated by the introduction of fall clothes.

PROSPECTORS ARE GIVEN SUPPORT BY GOVERNMENT

Subsidies Suggested By Some Members

Ottawa, Oct. 6.—(CP—The men who take their chances in the great gamble of hunting for Canada's hidden, mineral wealth received a morale-lift not financial boost in the Commons Wednesday.

Rev. Dan McIvor colorful Liberal member for Fort William initiated discussion with a resolution asking the government to give assistance to prospectors in developing mineral finds.

After varied general expressions of support from both sides of the House, Mr. McIvor wrote finish to the discussion when he said the purpose of drawing the matter to the attention of the government has been accomplished. He then withdrew the resolution.

There was general agreement that the prospector has contributed much to the development of the country's resources. Canada.

G. S. White (PC-Hastings) dwelt particularly on uranium prospecting, currently being carried out in all parts of the country. Lloyd Fie Recommendations

Mr. White listed six recommendations which, he said, would encourage prospecting in Canada.

1. The government should increase from $2.75 to $3 a pound the money paid for uranium oxide.

2. Large laboratories should be constructed and operated by the Department of Mines and Resources to help prospectors, particularly those hunting for uranium ore.

3. Government geologists and mineralogists should visit prospective fields and give advice and practical help to prospectors.

4. Canada should offer a prize of at least $10,000 (similar to the U.S.) for developing producing uranium mines.

5. The government should put up capital to help get mines into operation.

6. The Commons committee on atomic energy, the idea of which was accepted by Trade Minister Howe last week, should be set up immediately.

Wilson Abandons Attempt To Set World Record After Breaking Propeller Shaft

Picton, Oct. 6 — (CP)—Harold Wilson today abandoned his speedboat trials, still in search of the world's record.

Finale in the latest attempt came when Miss Canada IV was taken from the water early this morning after breaking a propeller shaft.

"That's all for the year," Wilson said as he reached the dock. "Miss Canada was running well but the pilot on one end of the propeller shaft broke."

The mishap occurred as he hit the startling line of the mile-long Picton Bay course.

In a trial run earlier this morning he skimmed over the course at a speed estimated at close to the world mark of 141.7 miles an hour. It is now held by the late Sir Malcolm Campbell.

After the shaft broke Miss Canada slowed down to a walk, finished the run and William let the motor off about one mile farther on — 11½ miles from his dock. A motorboat went to bring him in.

"We had perfect weather—the best yet," Wilson said.

Today's official attempt ended a series of misfortunes for the much-ballyhooed 35-foot craft. It had finished only two previous public appearances — the Harmsworth races in Detroit early in August, the world trials at Picton three weeks later and the Silver Cup races at Detroit in September.

Sets One Record

Miss Canada set a North American record of 138 6 miles an hour there Sunday and Wilson figured this was "some consolation".

"We still have a lot of experimenting to do," he said.

"Speedboating is a hit-and-miss proposition and it takes time to iron out the kinks."

Wilson was almost on the point of calling the whole thing off Wednesday after two disappointing attempts but changed his mind when arrangements were made for speedily delivery of a new propeller from Owen Sound, Ont.

Dodgers Lead Yanks by Run As Robinson Scores in Second

By JACK HAND

Yankee Stadium, New York, Oct. 6 (AP). — The sun shone dully on the Yankees' Bronx home today and the fans cheered wildly as the early birds of a 63,000-capacity crowd lured for the second game of the New York-Brooklyn world series.

After today's battle the scene shifts to Brooklyn where the next three games of the fifth is necessary, in this best-of-seven series, will be played Friday, Saturday and Sunday. If they need more, they'll be back at the stadium Monday and Tuesday.

Roe was a 15-8 winner in the regular season with 13 complete games and seven shutouts th 27 starts.

First Inning

Dodgers — Raschi buried the first pitch to Reese over the heart of the plate for a called strike. Reese grounded the next Raschi pitch and sent a high skyscraping fly to Lindell in right-center field. Jorgensen looked at a ball and strike, then grounded to Henrich who beat Raschi to first by a step to make an unassisted putout. Snider swung viciously and missed a wicked curve ball, then slapped Raschi's third pitch right at Stirnweiss and the baseman got with plenty to spare. No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

Yankees—Rizzuto fouled Roe's first pitch into the lower stands in back of the Dodger dugout. He ignored a ball, then rifled a solid single over third baseman Jorgensen's head into left field. Tommy Henrich, hero of yesterday's 1-0 victory, received a tremendous ovation as he stepped into the batter's box. Hermanski raced into the right field corner to get under Henrich's looping fly. With Rizzuto on first, Henrich almost threw the ball away in an attempt to pick Rizzuto off first. A nice catch by Hodges saved him from an error. Rodgers walloped into force-out at second before first base to gather in Bauer's pop. DiMaggio flied deep to Snider who made the catch in left-centre field. No runs, one hit, no errors, one left.

Second Inning Dodgers

Hermanski fouled to Coleman directly in front of the field boxes in short right. Robinson tagged up and made a daring dash for third which he made easily when Coleman slipped on the wet grass as he made the throw.

Pacl<y sent a dribbler down the third base line and was out in a close play, Johnson to Henrich as Robinson was forced to hold at third.

Hodges rifled a single past the outstretched glove of Rizzuto to score Robinson. When Lindell fumbled the ball in left field, Hodges continued to second on the error.

Campanella was given an intentional walk.

Roe struck out, swinging.

One inning, no hits, one error, two left.

Johnson also ran up a 3-2 count, finally on Snider working made a gloved-hand catch after nearly misjudging the ball. Snider slipped as he suddenly had to backtrack in order to make the catch.

Coleman fouled off four consecutive pitches, then lifted an easy fly to Snider.

No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

Yankees

Silvers popped to Jorgensen standing at or two behind the third base sack.

Raschi bounced out to Reese who came in behind the grass to field his topper.

Rizzuto slashed a grasscutter to Reese who babbled the ball and the runner was safe at first on the error.

Rizzuto was credited with a stolen base when he did into second ahead of Campanella's one hop throw to Reese.

ACCIDENTALLY SUFFOCATED

Lindsay, Oct. 8 (CP). — Peter McColl, four-months-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm McColl, R.R. 2, Bobcaygeon, accidentally suffocated in his carriage Wednesday, Mrs. McColl said the baby had finished its bottle, seemed very restful and was put to sleep in his carriage on the front verandah of their farm home. Ten minutes later Mrs. McColl returned from her house work to find the young child turned over, with his face down in the sheets, suffocated.

NEARLY THOUSAND PRAGUE CITIZENS PUT UNDER ARREST

Cabinet Asks Inventory Of All Church Property

Prague, Oct. 6. (AP) —Mass arrests of Prague citizens and new government controls over the church were reported in the Czech capital, Wednesday night.

Reliable sources said nearly 1,000 persons were arrested in Prague, Tuesday night. There was no official confirmation and reasons for the arrests were not known.

The Prague Prusse disclosed that yesterday's Communist Cabinet has voted to demand inventories of all church property, and to give the government power to dismiss his post any Church official whose citizenship as questionable.

There was speculation in Prague that the mass arrests might indicate forthcoming treason trials similar to the recent Budapest hearing in which Laszlo Rajk former Hungarian Foreign Minister and two others were sentenced to death.

Leading weight to this theory was the remark last Saturday by a foreign minister spokesman that the "same type of traitors" as those convicted in Hungary might be caught in Czechoslovakia.

Rajk said in his confession that he conspired with Yugoslav Marshal Tito's regime to overthrow the Moscow-backed Hungarian government. The Czech government earlier this week expelled the Yugoslav ambassador to Prague, charging that his Embassy was used as a base for spies conspiring against the Czechoslovakian Communist regime.

Water-Dowser Predicts Sex Of Unborn Babies

Portland, Me., Oct. 6 (AP).— Can the sex of unborn babies be divined?

Historical novelist Kenneth Roberts, and a water-dowser named Henry G. Gross, say it can.

The dowser, Henry H. Gross, 34, predicted four boys and one girl for five expectant mothers at Maine General Hospital's prenatal clinic Wednesday.

Gross used his divining rod—a supple, twin-pronged cherry-wood stick—only to check on his principal instrument, an ordinary needle and thread.

He held the needle, suspended by the thread, over each mother-to-bee. If the needle swung in a circle, he said, it indicated a boy; if it swung back and forth, a girl.

The method is not new, said Roberts. He claimed doctors in the 16th century recorded futures but never publicized the fact for fear of being called witches.

Claims Poisoning May Follow Over-Feeding of Certain Vitamins

Cincinnati, Oct. 6 — (AP) — Over-feeding of children with certain vitamins may cause poisoning and crippling, Dr. John Caffey said.

Dr. Caffey, of the College of Physicians and Surgeons, Columbia University, discussed the subject in a report prepared for the American Rotogen Ray Society.

He cited seven cases of infants and younger children being poisoned because of the "over-enthusiasm" of mothers for vitamins and ignorance of the dangers of a high vitamin intake.

"The symptoms of vitamin A poisoning from the routine feeding of vitamin concentrates A and D to healthy infants and children are considerably greater than the hazards of vitamin A deficiency in healthy infants and children not fed vitamin concentrates," Dr. Caffey said.

He reported that toxic effects followed the feeding of three types of vitamin A and D concentrates when taken in sufficiently large quantities and over a sufficiently long period.

"A child may be over-fed vitamin A concentrates with a resultant poisoning and crippling," he said.

Rapid recovery resulted, however, he declared, when the feeding of the concentrates was stopped.

Accused Charged With Killing Wife By Using Bomb

Trial Set for October 11 With Sittings at Quebec

By WILLIAM STEWART
(Canadian Press Staff-Writer)

Quebec, Oct. 6 — (CP) — Thin-faced J. Albert Guay, looking out calmly on a packed court-room audience, was ordered today to stand trial for killing his pretty wife by blowing up an airliner with 22 persons aboard.

Guay, 33-year-old Quebec jeweller, was ordered for trial before a jury of his equals by soft-spoken Judge Lactare Roy who listened to two days' evidence in the extraordinary case.

The judge's decision at the start of the third day of Guay's preliminary hearing on a murder charge laid Sept. 23 brought a sudden end to the hearing. Evidence presented since Tuesday brought the people of Quebec to a high pitch of excitement.

Judge Roy's role in the hearing was to listen to the case established by the Crown through the testimony of two dozen witnesses and rule whether a full-fledged trial was justified.

Before a nervous audience on the day, the grying judge accepted crown prosecutor Noel Dorion's submission that there was sufficient evidence to support the charge against Guay.

Nelsey Break Up

The hearing broke up noisily after argument between counsel over the trial date which will be fixed definitely after the opening of the autumn term of Quebec Criminal Assizes on November 7. The date will probably be in November.

The end came after crown prosecutor announced that he would not call the four additional witnesses he had planned to bring into the court room. He expressed belief the crown had established a case sufficient to bring Guay to trial.

The crown alleges that Guay arranged to have a bomb placed aboard a Canadian Pacific Airlines plane which crashed Sept. 9, killing 23, including Guay's wife.

Crowds have pressed into the courtroom ever since the preliminary hearing began Monday and seating space was taken up again today as the third session opened.

No Defence Called

Defence counsel said he had no witnesses to call.

Crown counsel asked that the trial be fixed for Nov. 7. Defence lawyer Bertrand Marcotte then replied that in a month it would be impossible to prepare a defence for the trial at a term later than in November. Judge Roy said he could not grant the defence request. It was not within his powers.

The judge fixed Guay's trial for the Criminal Assizes term starting Oct. 11 with sittings to be fixed later.

Guay remained standing during discussion of the trial date made no comment.

STRIP CROPPING

Brantford, Oct. 6 (CP)—Strip cropping, contour plowing and other conservation measures will be some of the attractions at the international plowing match to be held Oct. 11-14 at nearby Burford, demonstration calls for laying of crop strips to prevent loss of top soil and moisture among other things.

NORONIC CAPTAIN TELLS OF BANGING ON CABIN WINDOWS

When He Went Ashore He Thought Watch Was Adequate

Toronto, Oct. 6 —(CP)— Capt. William Taylor of Sarnia, opening the third day of his testimony at the Kellock Commission inquiry into the Noronic fire, said today both wheelsmen on duty were on the gangplank when he returned to the ship early Sept. 17.

Under questioning by the commissioner, Mr. Justice H. L. Kellock of Ottawa, he admitted one of the wheelmen should have been on the bridge all the time but he made no comment as he boarded the ship.

"When you came back to the ship that night was there anyone on the dock?"

"There were numerous people on the dock."

"Who were they?"

"Some might be passengers, other relatives. I didn't recognize them." Capt. Taylor estimated there were about 20 or 30.

The commissioner asked Capt. Taylor to repeat the testimony he gave Wednesday relating to what he did next.

Capt. Taylor said when he shouted "fire" from the ship to the dock, the crowd there had increased to twice the number he saw on his return to the ship.

He said he believed some of them were passengers who had gone ashore because of the fire.

Capt. Taylor said the commissioner the hose he removed from the rack just before into the C deck portside linen closet "unfurled" as the water came through.

38 OF ARMED FORCES GIVEN COMMISSIONS

Thirty-eight other ranks of the Royal Canadian Navy, Canadian Army and Royal Canadian Air Force have been selected for upgrading to commissioned rank in their respective services, Défence Minister Brooke Claxton announced today. The 38 have been sent to various Canadian universities this fall as public expense.

Included in the list are Cpl. A. L. Chapman, Army, of Deseronto who is attending Queen's University and ACI E. A. C. Pritsch, RCAF, of Delhigh, Ont., also attending Queen's.

CAMPBELLFORD DENTIST GIVEN CAPTAIN'S RANK

W. R. Thomson, Campbellford, is one of the twelve university students commissioned as second lieutenants in the Canadian Army at the commencement of their final year in dentistry, now serving as dental officers in the Royal Canadian Army Dental Corps. All have been promoted to the rank of captain.

SHOTGUN PELLETS SPATTER ROWBOAT

While out for a row on the Bay of Quinte, Jim Cook, of Cobb's Bicycle Store, Front street, was surprised and not a little alarmed Wednesday to have shotgun pellets spatter into the water and against his boat.

Police were notified of the incident and investigation revealed a number of members of the Belleville Gun Club had been engaged in trap shooting on Zwick's Island and it is believed the shotgun pellets came from the guns of club members. Fortunately Mr. Cook was not injured by any of the pellets.

MEMBERS OF SOCIAL CLUB ENJOY EVENT

On Wednesday evening the members of the J. and J. Cash Company staff were entertained at an evening of bowling and dancing. The party was held at the Recreation Alleys where bowling was enjoyed with Miss June Newton having the parcel and Mrs. Lorne Brown and Max Shorey for the men. The assembly then retired to Jury's Dine and Dance restaurant on the Kingston Road, east of the city where a delightful social time was spent. Prize winners were Mabel Wesmiller and Kay Dancy, Frank Ewald and Dick Bashell. All report a most enjoyable event.

LACK OF INTEREST CANCELS PARADE

Lack of interest on the part of merchants and others who would be expected to contribute towards the financial support has resulted in the cancellation of arrangements for the Santa Claus parade this year, it has been announced by the Chamber of Commerce.

The executive committee of the Retail Merchants' Association have found they are unable to raise the necessary funds to finance the parade and arrangements have been cancelled. Contributions toward the parade expenses which had already been received have been returned to respective donors with a letter of explanation and appreciation.

Electric-All-Stars Game Time Changed to 5.30

The softball game between the Northern Electric champions of the Commercial League and the selected All-Stars team scheduled tonight at the Belleville Field, will be played at 5:30 instead of 8 as formerly announced.

The change in time was made necessary because of lighting restrictions and regulations which forbid the use of floodlights.

The third game of the series will be played on Monday, Thanksgiving Day at the Almonte Field starting at 5:30 p.m.

Jimmy the Spaniel Seen in Wild Dash Following Mistress on Bus

"Jimmy" a handsome brown spaniel residing on the West Hill, is the proudest pooch in his neighborhood, if not the city.

For yesterday he made the startling discovery that fleetness of foot is not confined to the proud greyhounds, terriers and other speed-possessed members of dogdom.

This data clarified underslung canine Man O' War of the Parker Street variety demonstrated in no uncertain way, while admiring humans looked on, that speed and endurance are two of his hitherto undiscovered characteristics.

Today, "Jimmy" lifts a disdainful snoot wherever a bus goes by. He passes bus-drivers with his aristocratic head held high. No longer does he make sniffing reconnaissances of the streets for automobiles-carrying vehicles.

For Jimmy has a reason.

Yesterday, he accompanied his mistress and her daughter on a down-town shopping tour. Came time to go home and the trio awaited the bus at Front-Bridge Street intersection. "Jimmy" dutifully but firmly hid his mistress and boarded the bus, but an apologetic John Bull put a restraining hand, "Sorry, madam," he murmured, "no dogs allowed. Regulations and such, y'know."

I disappointed, "Jimmy" tail discouragedly drooped, slowly picked his way off the bus. As the door closed he looked back and upwards. His mistress beckoned to him and said softly "Here, Jimmy". The bus moved off.

The spaniel followed it with his eyes. Then he leaped into action. A brown furred streak raced along Bridge Street West, and turned left into Dundas and around the legs of startled pedestrians. It tore across the city bridge. Disdaining traffic, "Jimmy" now in high gear did a "Man Canine" on Dundas Street. Ahead the bus had halted. Over it he leaped.

Passengers aboard the bus witnessing the gallant efforts of "Jimmy" stood up and watched the rushing pup come racing up the hill.

He narrowed the gap and when the bus made its first stop "Jimmy" exerted yet more speed. His flanks were heaving, a pink tongue showed itself out of a panting mouth.

At the second stop "Jimmy" was in yelping distance. A few yards of triangle lasted on his lowlis. The race was nearly over.

At Parker Street where his mistress debussed, "Jimmy" was a few scant yards behind. He slid to a stop and a tail wagged in high delight at his mistress.

"Jimmy" did not exactly win the race, but his is the moral victory. Now his Paddock Pooches is the envy of the canine colony of the neighborhood.

"Busses, pooh! bring on the cliffiters, or maybe a couple of greyhounds," he boastfully fanned the winner of the Highland Avenue Derby of 1951.

Rawdon Becomes Part of Hastings High School Area

The township of Rawdon officially became part of the Hastings High School area this week when members of the township council passed, the necessary by-law. In joining the high school area the township agrees to assume financial responsibility for its share of the debenture cost for new Marmora High School.

Council members were told that Gordon Webb be paid $36 for sheep killed by dogs while road vaucher No. 8, amounting to $2,169.41 was ordered paid.

Reeve W. Spencer and the deputy reeve of the township were named a committee to make the necessary arrangements for a joint service to be held at the Stirling Cenotaph on Nov. 11.

Talk on Farm Equipment Given

The guest speaker for the evening was Mr. S. Morey, president of Truck and Farm Supply Co., of Belleville who explained the Junior Farmer farm equipment project, which deals with the maintenance and safe operation of farm equipment and tractors. Eleven of the members agreed to take part in this project.

Business for the evening dealt with public speaking, a banquet for the junior meeting, a dance for a bus trip in January and a skating rink which the club is undertaking to build.

Mr. Carl Nielsen formerly of Denmark and now residing in Melrose, gave an interesting talk on "Farming Methods in Denmark." A discussion followed this instructive address and the speaker answered many questions asked by the audience.

Conservation Will Benefit Business Man

Following recent power restrictions that went into effect on the first of the month, members of Belleville Chamber of Commerce are being told that the full observation of power is all to the benefit of the business man.

In a circular letter to all members, the Chamber has pointed out that the local power consumption increased 9.5 during September over a similar period last year.

Business men are advised that their sales will go down if power is not saved as it is only when there are full pay envelopes that business is good. The executive committee of the chamber therefore ask that power be saved at every opportunity in order that factory shutdowns be avoided and retail business be kept at a high level.

It is urged that every unnecessary light be switched off.

Dr. Barker Fairley Barred From U.S.

Bryn Mawr, Pa., Oct. 6. (CP) —Dr. Katharine E. McBride, president of Bryn Mawr College, said Tuesday that Dr. Barker Fairley, a University of Toronto professor, has been barred from the United States by immigration officials.

Dr. McBride made the announcement in a speech opening Bryn Mawr's academic year and said that as a consequence a series of lectures which Dr. Fairley had been scheduled to give at Bryn Mawr have been cancelled.

The Bryn Mawr president said United States immigration authorities gave no reason for refusing to let Dr. Fairley enter the country.

Dr. Fairley, Mrs. Fairley and John Goss, artist and theatre director from Vancouver, were detained for questioning by the immigration service last March in New York. The three then were attending the Cultural and Scientific Congress for World Peace in New York.

At the time, Mrs. Fairley and Goss were ordered to leave the United States.

Dr. Fairley said in Toronto, Wednesday night that he is not a member of any political party and never has been.

A leading authority on Goethe, the German poet, dramatist and philosopher, he said in a written statement:

"It all arises out of my being invited to visit the United States during the Goethe year. Since early in the year I have lectured at various U.S. universities, including Yale and Princeton. I was to give the Mary Flexner lectures at Bryn Mawr this Fall. But instead I find myself ostracized and denied a hearing before a board of special enquiry.

"Without prejudice to others, I may say that I belong to no political party and never have.

Nor have I ever lectured or otherwise on a political matter. But I have associated myself with certain non-party causes, making for peace and civil liberties causes which in their hearts the great majority support."

Milk Price Increased to 18c Per Quart

The retail price of milk by the quart in the city has been increased from 17 cents to 18 cents, effective Friday, Oct. 19, it was announced here today.

Pint and half-pint prices, 10 cents and seven cents respectively, cream, remain unchanged.

Milk prices here, it is stated, were arbitrated last June with dairies holding the price at 17 cents per quart although prices generally throughout Ontario were increased.

However, the increased price of feed caused, it is said through dry weather last summer, has resulted in increased costs to dairies. These, in turn, feel they cannot carry on with the current prices.

The one-cent increase will be put into effect by producers, and not retained by dairies, a spokesman said today.

Consumers are asked to leave a cent with each quart ticket starting Friday.

Sub Post Office Established at 189 Victoria Ave.

Postmaster J. C. Waddell announced today that the Post Office Department has authorized the establishment of a sub Post Office at 189 Victoria Avenue, (Maple Leaf Groceteria), to be known as Belleville, Sub Post Office No. 2, with Mr. George D. Wannamaker as Postmaster. A letter box and parcel receptacle will be installed at the new post office from which morning and evening collections will be made. Stamps will be sold, as well as money orders up to the value of $100, letters may be registered and parcels will be accepted for insurance or C.O.D. collections.

"In Mr. Wellman," stated Mr. Waddell, "we have a man who has had previous experience in Post Office business and it is expected that these services will prove a great convenience to the local residents in the area and will also tend to relieve some of the congestion at the main post office."

H. & P.E. Regt. Members Ready For Reunion

"Old sweats", though still young in years, of the famous Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment will converge on Peterborough over the national Whang Thang Regimental association of holding the fourth re-union of the infantry unit that wrote a blazing page in Canadian history in World War II.

General activities will start with registration of the "troops" in the Peterborough Armouries on Saturday morning, while that austere building will ring with reminiscence in a "breeze-shooting" get-together during the afternoon.

Saturday night the boys will sit down at the banquet table and afterwards they, with their ladies, will be the guests at a ball.

On Sunday they will attend a special Memorial Service following a parade through city streets.

Will Hold Meeting

During the reunion the regimental association will hold its annual meeting at which their election of officers for the coming year, reports and committee activities including the regimental scholarship fund and other business will be transacted.

Lieut. Col. J. J. Kennedy, D.S.O. of Town Ipsden is now the president of the association for the past three years, and it is altogether likely he will remain in office if willing to be returned to office.

A large number of "Hasty Pees" from this area, including Lieut. Col. J. M. Porritt, M.C., E.D., newly appointed commanding officer of the reserve army battalion of the regiment, and Regimental Sergeant Major Angus Duffy, will attend the reunion. Buses will leave the city on Saturday morning and those who have no other means of transportation. Picton, Madoc, Trenton and other former Hasty Pee centres will be represented by a number of former members of the regiment.

It was stated today that there is a strong possibility that Major General Howard Graham, D.S.O., M.C. Bar, of Ottawa, will attend the get-together of the members of his old regiment.

D.P. Acquitted Of Rape Charge

Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., Oct. 6—(CP) — Aleksandres Logins, 28-year-old Latvian displaced person, was acquitted Wednesday on a charge of rape.

The complaint was laid by a 20-year-old girl who alleged that Logins criminally assaulted her the night of July 14.

The jury deliberated two hours before bringing in its verdict.

Mr. Justice Schroeder, after discharging the jury, warned Logins that he has made a bad start in Canada by associating with bad companions and drinking indiscriminately.

"You do not have a good future unless you decide to change your ways." Mr. Justice Schroeder told the prisoner. Logins replied that "but I hope that this trial will go a long way towards causing you to mend your ways and find more suitable companions."

The charge arose out of a driving-drinking trip engaged in by five young men and two girls. The girls had met the men in Thessalon, had a few beers and arranged for a ride with them to the Sault where one of the girls was to have visited her mother.

En route the party stopped in a gravel pit off the highway and drank more.

Logins testified that he could not remember attacking the girl and believed that it did not happen.

FINED FOR CHEATING

Williamson, W. Va., Oct. 8 — (AP)—Two men convicted of cheating at a church supper fowl dinner, a total of $19,300 and sentenced to one year in jail each by Judge W. W. Maynard, were fined $2,000.

Mullitt and Oliver Newsome, were accused of cheating Kirryl Georgeff of $3,680 in a poker game here last May 3.

NORONIC CAPTAIN

Commission Counsel J. W. Pickup then resumed his examination of the Noronic's master.

Capt. Taylor said the stream of water from the hose put out the flames only momentarily. Then flared again almost as fast as they went out.

Circuit May Have Been Broken

Capt. Taylor said the klaxon signal stopped sounding shortly after the ship's whistle started to blow. He believed fire reaching the wiring would have broken the circuit.

He said the steam whistle did not sound the recognized fire signal of two blasts, one long, one short.

"Why would some one sound a continuous blast . . . when passengers were told the fire signal was to be a sounding of the klaxon?"

"That I cannot answer," replied the witness.

Frank Wilkinson, counsel for Canada Steamship Lines, ship owners, at one point and counter-tested that the witness was being "pressed too hard" by the commission counsel.

Mr. Justice Kellock said he thought there was no reason for objection. Addressing himself to the witness, who again was visibly nervous and rushed feet of his replies, the Commissioner advised Capt. Taylor to answer each question as fully as possible then wait for the next one.

Hammered on Doors

Capt. Taylor said after realizing the blaze could not be controlled from the ship, he instructed a crew member to handle the hose and ran forward.

"As I went I hammered with my hands on cabin windows, and shouting."

The Captain said he got no response to any of his efforts to rouse any passengers who might still have been in their cabins.

On his way forward, the witness; said he passed two fire hydrants which were not in operation. He told the Commissioner they should have been in operation by someone "if he could have got there."

Capt. Taylor told the Commissioner that other than shouting and banging on cabin windows he made no other efforts to rouse passengers and assist them from the blazing ship.

Questioned by Judge

"What were you thinking of?" asked Mr. Justice Kellock. "Why did you not realize, since you knew the fire was beyond control, you should do all you could to help passengers ashore?"

"There were people going over the bow . . ." the Captain started to explain.

"That was not my question," said Mr. Justice Kellock.

"I tried to make as much noise as I could," the Captain said.

Subsequently he said he went about welding the nozzle end of a hose and breaking windows of cabins in which there was flame.

Mr. Justice Kellock observed that nothing had been done to rouse passengers in cabins back of the Social Hall at the stage of the holocaust.

"I can't say", said the witness.

The Commissioner also asked why at one stage of efforts to rouse passengers four crew members including the Captain moved along in a group.

"Didn't it occur to you to send some of the others to try to rouse passengers some place else?"

"It didn't occur to me," said the Captain, adding he was "confused."

Capt. Taylor said he remembered telling Special Officer M. R. Brown, "We have got to get the people out here."

Thought Passengers Out

Under further questioning by the commissioner, the captain said the thought occurred to him that the passengers in some of the cabins after were out.

"We know now, they weren't," said Mr. Justice Kellock.

Capt. Taylor said he had no knowledge of what was done to rouse passengers on the starboard side of the Noronic, and he received no reports on this from any member of the crew.

The witness said he was restrained from entering one flaming cabin with a hose as he moved toward the stern on the port side.

He said subsequently he dropped another hose he picked up because there was little water and it was of no use.

Capt. Taylor told Mr. Justice Kellock he had never seen hose aboard the Noronic project water any more than "30-40" feet.

"Yet the inspector comes here and tells us it should be 125 feet," noted Mr. Justice Kellock.

Apparently this answer questioning. Capt. Taylor, who when he began testifying three days ago spurned a court offer to give evidence from a sitting position, finally took a chair at the suggestion of C.S.L. counsel.

Lights Failed

Capt. Taylor said at no time after he returned to the ship did he see any fire extinguishers being used. He said the lights failed in several places.

The witness said he brought none of his belongings off the ship and that at no time did he give an order to abandon ship.

"Do you know of any instructions given the crew about how to fight fires?"

"No, I don't."

Capt. Taylor told the Commissioner that when he went ashore on the night of the fire, he was satisfied the watch was adequate. He had not himself given shore leave to any of the crew.

"Would there have been any overtime pay involved in keeping any of the men on board that night who were given shore leave?"

"There would have been," replied the captain.

The witness said he believed there had been a letter from the company on the subject of overtime in 1949 and that the company tried to avoid overtime pay wherever possible.

VALUABLE FISH

One of Canada's most valuable commercial fish, the cod, is caught at practically all parts of the Atlantic coast.

ACCUSED

Her hearing was put off until Oct. 14.

Wednesday a chemistry professor demonstrated before an excited courtroom crowd how an alarm clock could have been used to detonate dynamite and wreck a building.

The demonstration by Dr. Lucien Gravel of Laval University followed testimony that Guay had obtained dynamite and an alarm clock. Detonating device, had ensured his wife for $10,000 and sought the suicide of a woman who is an important cog in the Crown's case against him.

Claimed She Bought Dynamite

Other witnesses Wednesday included Mrs. Arthur Pitre, who said she bought dynamite for Guay; her crippled brother, Genereux Ruest, who said he rigged up an alarm-clock face with which Guay wanted to detonate dynamite "in a box"; and Ovide Ruest, who told Guay 10 pounds of dynamite, set off by a time device, was enough to wreck a building.

Mrs. Pitre told admitted carrier of a 26-pound parcel to the ill-fated aircraft said that 10-days after the crash, Guay urged that she flee away with herself or vanish from Quebec. Mrs. Pitre is charged with attempted suicide.

Ruest, a 47-year-old watchmaker, said that Guay asked him two days before the crash not to mention the work he did on the clock-face dated 1 September.

Ruest said he thought Guay wanted to use dynamite for blasting at Sept Iles where the jeweler wanted to build a house.

Dr. Laval, who put together an alarm-clock detonator during a 10-minute court recess and watched it ignite a dynamite fuse while he testified, told the court:

"Ten pounds of dynamite detonated by such a mechanism would have completely destroyed the interior of a plane and knock everyone aboard unconscious."

AMONG COMMUNIST STATES

In Eastern Europe is seen something not so strange but rather familiar—the treatment of a state once associated with the other Communist states under Moscow's eye. Treaties have been renounced which have been in force for no short a period of time, four years in the case of Yugoslavia, all because of a certain independence or foresight on that state's part. Those were 20-year treaties of friendship and mutual aid. But who is surprised? Neither the democratic West nor surely even the Soviet states themselves can claim surprise because it is the very spirit of Communism. It is the way of the Reds.

"The non-communistic leader within the orbit," says the New York Times, "is a more immediate threat to Soviet power than democratic governments outside. And non-cominformism is spreading rapidly as one Soviet blow after another fails to dislodge the rebel who defies Stalin in the name of Communism."

HARDER FOR THIEVES

Thieves who smash jewelery store windows and grab and run are finding it less easy than it used to be. But it is going to be even worst for them, in fact their ability to smash a window may be quite out of the question.

In England they have developed a new type of laminated glass similar to that in windshields except that the plastic between the two layers of glass is three times as thick.

The proof of the strength of the glass was given by the Chairman of the Dollar Exports Board and a member of the Economic Planning Board when armed with a sack holding a five-pound brick he hurled himself against a Willesden (London) shop window but the glass only shattered. Others followed suit with bricks and car jacks. Still the glass did not break.

Science is making it harder for the burglar.

NEW U. K. HELICOPTER

Everyone has seen the helicopter that can hover about or fly in any direction. Though the helicopters do not attract the attention given the airplane, they have interest on account of their maneuverability, which indicates a future for this mode of travel.

Britain has developed a lightweight helicopter, a one-man machine which is light, compact and cheap. It will fly straight upwards to a height of 12,000 feet or downwards, sideways, backwards, hover motionless or turn on its own axis.

One of the features of the helicopter is that in case of engine failure the machine windmills to a light, safe, powerless landing. It is called the Hopplicopter and has two 16-foot span contra rotating blades and weighs only 175 pounds. The controls consist of a throttle knob and control stick and the blades rotate directly above the pilot's head. Back of him are a two cylinder engine and gas tank, and under his seat is the battery.

It is claimed that the "Hopplicopter" will take off land in 30 square feet and will carry about 100 pounds of luggage. Its tried undercarriage is claimed to assure that the machine will stand steady on most uneven ground.

Its general appeal it is said will be for touring and sport but it has also application for certain specific purposes like patrol work on forests.

Britain has naturally taken the lead owing to the many purposes to which it has been put and to its speed but the helicopter appears as if it will have no small place in the future.

SHIRT-TALE

We are still puzzled over a piece in one of the Western Canadian dailies about shirts. On this subject it relates that an English firm has solved the problem of how to make shirts last longer. Thus:

"The manufacturers supply an extra collar for a quick change when bosom or cuffs is worn and frayed. . . ."

The writer concludes that this might be as great a boom to mankind as the two-pant suit.

Of course East is East and West is West and all that sort of thing but here in the offete East, shirts with two collars have been on sale for at least 40 years. Or is somebody kidding somebody?—Ottawa Journal.

THE MARKET

The market is a busy place
Where women go for silks and lace;
And frocks and hats and children's shoes
And everything that mortals use.
For true it is, until we die,
That some must sell and others buy.

Merchants and buyers all are we,
Exchanging something for a fee.
From errand boy to parson
we,
Each barters what another buys.
Doctors sell comfort to the ill;
Lawyers, to litigants, their skill;

No man so high and none so low
But to the market place must go,
From birth unto the funeral knell
All need what others have to sell,
And all in some way must supply
What others need and have to buy.

The Nationals of this city were defeated by the Bell Telephone team at Conboy Park in Toronto on Saturday, the score being eight to 6. Claude D. Tice, Sports Editor of the Daily Ontario, in his report of the game says: "Finis was written to the activities of the Belleville Nationals for this season on Saturday afternoon at Conboy Park, Toronto, when the Bell Telephone team won the right to compete against Walkerville Chicks in a series of games for the baseball championship of the province by gaining a decisive victory, the score being 8 to 4. On the day's play the better team won and they should give a good account of themselves in the final series. The fans of Belleville have enjoyed an excellent season of ball and on Saturday the team journeyed west to again compete in the final series, but the batting punch of the Bell team was too much for them. The following composed of the Belleville team: Scott, V. Weir, H. Mills, W. Mills, Blakely, A. Weir, M. Green, E. Green, Tice, Proctor, Polster, Polster replaced Utrouski as pitcher in the 3rd inning. The men for Belleville were scored one each by Vernon Weir, Blakely, W. Mills and Alan Weir.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

SECOND-HAND LIVING

One reason why so many are inspired by the reading of the thoughts of Thoreau is that he thought things out for himself. He did not relish the idea of living out the ideas of others, but decided that the world belonged to him and so from it he must evolve his own manner and philosophy, which he did. Second-hand living was not for him.

Thoreau was an individualist. We should all be that sort, and chart out our lives in individual fashion. Each of us is an "unique," as Emerson has so well stated. We ourselves are a problem. And it is well we solve that problem in individual ways and means.

We have all nature as a text-book. We have our natural gift, through birth and no two of us have the same, it is our task and privilege to develop to the full all that has come to us through endless generations. We don't need to borrow from others, or eating from the storehouse of our inheritance.

Thoreau didn't cherish the idea of living out a second-hand life. He tells us in "Walden," that he "went to the woods because I wished to live deliberately, to front only the essential facts of life, and see if I could not learn what it had to teach, and not, when I came to die, discover that I had not lived."

We can live hapsiest and most successfully, by observing keeping close to nature simplifying our lives, and figuring how best we can adapt our abilities to envy change and emergency that may come up. We are so entity in ourselves, yet the whole world is our stage, and each one of us is his own interpreter of the part selected to play. We ought always to be our selves.

Hehe again Thoreau. He said: "I live a broad margin to my life." That explains him. And it ought to explain each one of us, as we face the facts of life and chart out a way of life that will give to us the supreme satisfaction. Not second-hand but first hand." And with that "broad margin" we ought to write out a useful experience.

Strength for the Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

CHRISTIANITY AND COMMUNISM

Alexander Miller, a New Zealand preacher, statistician in his recently published books, Christianity and Communism, that there is no necessary conflict between the two doctrines. Communism, he says, however, that agree with it or not, is nothing more than the economic system and a theory of psychology, and therefore is entirely outside the scope of religion. He materialism, that arises merely from the fact that it is an economic system, and therefore a religion as by definition materialistic we can have no quarrel with it on that score.

As far as it goes, Mr. Miller's thesis is sound enough. Certainly the objectics of both communism and capitalism are both materialistic. But the difficulty is that communism, as it is practiced today, is part and parcel with militant atheism and the persecution of religion. Hence communists could be content with be difficult to convince them religious point of view. But they are not. Instead, they make atheism a part of their creed, an aim of equal importance. Hence the Christian has no recourse but to oppose them with all his strength on religious grounds. He believes it his duty to see there is necessarily no conflict between Christianity and Marxian economics—that most of us certainly doubt—there can be truce between Christianity and Communism.

THE PACKSACK

OF GREGORY CLARK

The word "sport car" have an entirely different meaning in England and America. A sport car on this continent means a care designed and equipped for going to a summer cottage, for fishing, hunting, camping, visiting the country or the summer resort.

In England and Europe sport car means a car designed for the sheer sport of driving. Driving a car is a sport in itself, like sailing a boat or figure skating. When you see the little English sport cars in the races and at the fall fairs, the first—aegcin a one or six-cylinder—get all their limited seating capacity, luggage room and their enormous engine power. You say to yourself gosh not, much room for tackle, or bounds for a picnic lunch, or room for going fishing with. But a sport car is a Stradivarius compared to what a speed boat or a fine small sailing craft is to us. In America, we haven't got much of an idea of driving for the sport of driving in itself. We have left that to the speed racing cult.

But there is, and have been for a good many years a fairly large cult of speed boat and sailing craft fanciers on this continent. There are thousands of men who think nothing of spending several thousand dollars on speed launches that has nothing else but speed. Such craft are worthy; they won't hold more than three or four passengers; their luggage is frowned on. Fabets out of a belitry these small speed boats race for hours on end in the resorts for a limited two month season. There can be no cruising in such craft except the sheer delight of driving them. It is to this constituency in Canada and the U.S. that I suggest that the English sport car is directed. Some 20 or 25 years ago the only launches available were vehicles. The family went put-putting about in the launch, fishing up a church. The day may come, when our American car manufactures will offer something more than the present put-putting physician who examined the pupil himself or herself, not the kind that just gives the patient the run-around, gives "specialist" to "specialist."

UNCOMFORTABLE AFTER MEALS?

A person in normal health should be able to "stow away" a substantial meal without following distress. Distress following eating does not necessarily indicate anything wrong with the stomach or bowel.

Bloating is a word often used in distress after eating. By bloating the patient presumably means that "gas" has formed in unusual quantity in his stomach, sufficient to cause distention.

The stomach and intestine normally contains a variable amount of air. This air is readily detected by X-ray or fluoroscopic examination of the digestive system. Despite the convictions of the patient, the X-ray will often reveal no more than the average amount of air in the digestive system during the period of time the patient complains of bloating.

The interpretation by a patient of an annoying symptom is perhaps more often wrong than right. Thus, to many a person, any discomfort following eating is caused by "gas" and, therefore, is complained of as "bloating." Despite the convictions of the patient, the X-ray will often reveal no more than the average amount of air in the digestive system during the period of time the patient complains of bloating.

The interpretation by a patient of an annoying symptom is perhaps more often wrong than right. Thus, to many a person, any discomfort following eating is caused by "gas" and, therefore, is complained of as "bloating." Despite the convictions of the patient, the greater is the accumulation of gas, according to the notion, and the idea of "distention" is one which logically follows, with scant regard for the physical facts.

Based upon the conviction that "gas" is causing the trouble, many a person will resort to plain and fancy belching in an effort to relieve himself. Belching is not something the stomach does, but something the stomach does, but something the patient does. In other words, belching is a conscious effort on the part of the patient to do something which the function of his stomach is wrongfully failing to do.

By far the greater part of all air contained in the digestive system is swallowed air. That produced by "fermentation" is negligible in quantity. The air in the digestive system is carried there by its normal functioning and is utilized as a "dilutor" by the process of the peristaltic action of the stomach and bowel. The person who resorts to belching will generally swallow more air than he gets rid of.

The person who thinks that by belching he is ridding himself of bloating" is deceiving himself. What happens is that carbon dioxide is released by the action of the stomach acid on the bowel wall. But the pressure of the normal "air bubble" is increased thereby and automatically follows

Thousands of Country Residents Witness Splendid Horse, Cattle, Produce Exhibits at Madoc Fair

Madoc (Staff) — This historic Hastings county village yesterday proved a mecca for thousands of county residents who jammed their way into Madoc fairgrounds on the occasion of the annual fall fair.

A conservative estimate placed the attendance at approximately 6,000 fair-goers who were attracted by the promise of a top-notch fair program. And they were not disappointed as there was hardly a dull moment from the time when the gates opened until close to seven in the evening when the winner of the horse drawing contest was eventually decided.

Tuesday night's rain which caused considerable uneasiness on the part of fair directors actually proved to be a blessing in disguise insofar as attendance was concerned, for morning the weather had cleared but farmers nevertheless decided to take the day off, and thus it was that the natural amphitheatre which is Madoc's fair ground was thronged by both country residents and their urban cousins.

Good Agricultural Show

Again proving to be one of the best agricultural shows of the district, the exhibits at Madoc were second to none. There was the produce of farm and garden, poultry fanciers brought out their finest fowls and district livestock breeders apparently went all out to make the fair a success.

In fact the judge in one of the cattle classes was heard to say the showing of cattle was the best on record at Madoc. And the number and quality of horses shown gladdened the heart of county horse lovers.

There was an unusually large entry of heavy draught horses which proved that despite the popularity of tractors, farmers still take pride in the quality of horseflesh on their farms. Also there were many entries in the carriage horse classes, the half-mile race for carriage class horses topping off a very satisfactory afternoon of racing.

Geese, ducks, pigeons, barnyard and fancy fowl, were included in the poultry exhibit which all but filled the poultry building.

Calf Club Out in Strength

Members of the Madoc Calf Club were out in strength with a total of 30 Holstein calves owned and cared for by the young club members. The young owners in addition to showing their calves contested for showmanship.

There was a good showing of cattle with Cal Trotter of Madoc showing Shorthorns; Fred Holmes of Queensboro showing Polled Angus and R. S. Stinchcombe of Long Lake exhibiting Herefords.

There were four entrants in the Holstein classes, including Alec J. Merrill and Sons of Campbellford; John Burnside, Max Burnside and Philip Harris, all of Madoc. Garnett Kerr of Campbellford was on hand with his fine herd of Jerseys.

Elmer J. Woods of Ivanhoe and Miller Parks of Wallbridge were showing in the Ayrshire classes.

Harold Ward, Henry Marsh of Little Britain showed Berkshire hogs with Don Heath of Stirling showing in the Tamworth and Yorkshire classes. Bruce Cumming of Napanee also showed in the Yorkshire classes.

Emphasis on School Exhibit

Sheep exhibitors included Donald Heath, showing Shropshire; Henry Mark, Oxfords, E. Mark, Dorsets, with several other exhibitors showing Leicesters.

Naturally the womenfolk found their point of interest in the many exhibits to be found in the agricultural building.

It was here that emphasis was placed on the junior section as school children had their own paper domestic science, garden produce and handicrafts. Also there were the usual classes for school work, including writing, drawing of maps and art.

The display of domestic science with row on row of fluffy white bread, pies, tarts, cookies and cakes were literally mouthwatering, and proved beyond a doubt that the women of Madoc district can more than hold their own in the culinary art.

Excellent Quality

The quality of vegetables and grain was excellent while there was a splendid display of apples and other fruit. Also the horticultural show was worth mentioning. There was a good display of art while the various needlework classes were well filled.

The Stirling band under the baton of bandmaster Horace Bell rendered lively airs during intermissions between novelty and other events. The varied midway was crowded to capacity while members of the Eldorado-Banockburn Women's Institute served up delectable sandwiches and other refreshments.

Novelty events on the midway platform were the centre of attraction for a large percentage of the fair goers. Here master of ceremonies Kenneth Holmes kept the various contests rolling along at a good clip. A professional platform performance consisting of a slack wire artist and a very capable feminine baton twirler, was well received.

Oldest Man on Grounds

Mr. James Green of Brighton, at 91, and a soldier taking part in the Rell Rebellion in Western Canada, took the honors for being the oldest man on the grounds. The oldest lady was Mrs. Henry McWilliams of Corbyville, who was 79.

The ladies' nail driving contest was won by Mrs. Charles Wager of Kelleyville who drove the required number of nails in just 14 seconds. Other winners were Miss Leona Hinds of Marsh and Mrs. Bob Whitton of Bloomfield.

The step dancing contest was run off in two classes giving the younger entrants the opportunity to get in the money. In the adult class Bud Seeley of Birds Creek, a frequent winner at Madoc, showed his heels to other contestants. His twin sister, Mrs. James Gaffney, also of Birds Creek, took second money, while John Moran of Millbridge was third. Junior class winners were Ed Palmateer of Ormsby; Joe Wilkins, Ivanhoe; Harold Ward, Millbridge, and Don Quinlan, Queensboro.

Cowboy Singing Contest

The cowboy singing contest was won by Wally Jackson of Springbrook with eight-year-old John Simpson of Bannockburn second, and Miss Lela Wright of Marmora third. A special prize went to four-year-old Wayne McCann of Stirling.

Roy Wilson and J. Walker of Coe Hill won the log sawing contest, it taking them just 39 seconds to drop their crosscut saw through a twelve inch elm log to take first money. In second place were E. Cannif and E. Allair of Queensboro; third place winners were Roy Laundry of Thomasburg and Clarence Bell of Madoc, with Fred Bowers of Trenton and Gordon Young of Belleville being fourth.

The mouth organ contest was won handily by Bruce Ash of Madoc, he being the only entrant.

Large Cheese Exhibit

The cheese exhibit was one of the largest seen in years at Madoc fair with 47 cheese being shown. There was also one exhibit of butter, this being shown by Archie Pitt of Madoc.

Winners in the dairy cheese class were Harold Elliott, Trent River; Roy Huffman, Plainfield; and E. O'Coin, Queensboro; John Finnigan, Marmora, and Irvine Sine, Stirling.

The Dominion Bank special for best white cheese was won by R. Huffman; H. Elliott, Murray Heath and J. Finnigan. The Madoc Cheese Board special was won by Archie Pitt; B. O'Coin, J. Finnigan and Charles Clarke of Queensboro. The McCrary special for highest scoring cheese was won by Elliott and Huffman.

The Hastings county cheese producers special for best white was won by Elliott; O'Coin, Heath, Pitt and Huffman, and the J. Wilkinson special for best Polish was won by Heath and Huffman, as was the Swift Canadian Company special for the same class. Four entrants with seven cheese each obtained the W. S. Cook special for the largest number of cheese on exhibit.

Starred by Accidents

The horse racing events were marked by two accidents. Owen Burns of Madoc, received a nasty cut on his head when struck by the starting gate. He fell onto the track and the wheel of a sulky ran over him. Also Ruby Ritz, a horse entered by Spencer in the 2:15 class cut tendons in her leg when she fell. The horse was taken from the race.

Mackenzie's Column
Bishop of London Taken to Task For Statement

By DeWITT MACKENZIE
(Associated Press News Analyst)

The Bishop of London, Dr. John W. C. Wand, says he was surprised to find during his recent six weeks tour of the United States that 50 per cent of Americans "have no religion at all."

The Church of England prelate remarks that in Britain practically everybody owns to having a religion and "it be is not very sure about things and does not go to church regularly, he says he is Church of England." Dr. Wand doesn't define the term "religion" in his statement.

Not being a theologist myself, but in seeking a definition, I am referred by my dictionary to the New Testament — James 1:27 — where I read:

"Pure religion and undefiled before God and the Father is this, (for man) to visit the fatherless and widows in their affliction, and keep himself unspotted from the world."

That, I take it, involves following the golden rule and living a correct life in the eyes of Heaven. Anyway, what I'm leading up to is a homely little story which I encountered Wednesday night.

Help When Needed

An artist friend of mine cracked up a few days ago and is in hospital awaiting a serious operation. He is one of the foremost illustrators in the United States. When he collapsed he was just starting to do five pictures for an important rush order.

In desperation he took this work to the hospital with him, and was struggling helplessly with his crayons when an artist friend called.

The visitor immediately recruited four other distinguished illustrators and they gathered in one of their studios. In a few hours the panels were completed and dispatched to their destination.

One of the quintet dropped in to see how the sick man was getting along and the latter replied to express his gratitude for the contribution of his colleagues. The visiting artist flushed and squirmed:

"Forget it," he growled. "There isn't one of us who hasn't been helped by you when he was in a jam."

WEDDINGS

McKEOWN—HUNT

Pink and white gladioli formed a pretty setting for the wedding on Saturday morning, Oct. 1 at St. Anthony's Church, Toronto, when Anna Mildred Hunt, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Dan Hunt, of Read, became the bride of Thomas Edward McKeown, son of Mr. and Mrs. James McKeown, of Erinsville, Ont.

The bride was given in marriage by her brother-in-law, Mr. Ernest Dyrry, and looked charming in a gown of blush satin with a fingertip veil held by a headdress of satin flowers. She carried a bouquet of red roses with white mums.

Miss Merylin Rivers as bridesmaid wore a gown of mauve nylon with picture hat and gloves to match and carried a bouquet of yellow mums with maidenhair fern.

Little Miss Barbara Anne Flynn was flower girl, wearing a gown of yellow taffeta with headdress and bouquet of mauve mums and fern.

Mr. Joe Garrett acted as best man and Gerry Riordan and Joe McKeown were ushers.

Dinner was served at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Flynn, 199 Westmoreland Ave. The bride's sister, Mrs. Don McLaren with the groom's mother received the guests.

The happy couple will live in Toronto after a trip to Huntsville and points east. For going away the bride wore a grey suit with navy blue accessories.

Many out-of-town guests attended the wedding.

Two Members of Tabernacle Choir Give Travel-Talk

After the evening service the choir of Tabernacle United Church met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Johnson, Bellevue, April 1, to honor Miss Wynne Judge, and Mr. Arthur Wynne, two of the members who spent their vacation in England.

The delightful part of the evening was the informal travel-talk given by each. A bit of music and a cup of tea ended the interesting evening.

Women's Activities

LADIES' AUXILIARY

On Tuesday the Ladies' Auxiliary Canadian Legion Branch 99, held their regular meeting in the Sacco Club rooms. In the absence of the President, Mrs. Jeffs, and the 1st Vice President, Mrs. Cleaver, the 2nd Vice President, Mrs. Turner was in the chair. There was a good attendance of members and an initiation of new members, also applications for more.

Very interesting letters were read in acknowledgment of parcels sent overseas. More names were then drawn for more boxes.

Arrangements were made for the visit of the Zone representative from Brockville, and for two banquets for veterans.

21 EXPERT DIETITIANS OUT OF 30
IN SOUP TASTE TEST
VOTED HEINZ FIRST FOR FLAVOUR

More than 70 percent of a group of dietitians declared their preference for Heinz Cream of Tomato Soup after scrapping it with another popular brand. They were served with two bowls of hot soup and asked to vote, without knowing the brands they were tasting. The preference of these professional food experts for Heinz came close to coinciding with the 65 percent choice of 151 average housewives in a similar taste-test at about the same time.

"Heinz flavour is richer and smoother," said one, "better blended —fuller-bodied," said another. "No other competes with it," said a third.

If you have been buying some other brand for any reason, try Heinz Cream of Tomato Soup just ONCE. It will be the beginning of a long friendship. Taste will tell!

Some Good Grooming Secrets

The girl who is really well groomed is careful about every detail of make-up. She would never stick neatly, but for instances fail to apply lipstick neatly, but is carefully

By HELEN FOLLETT

DAINTINESS is essential for perfect grooming. A girl can't be dainty unless she is a bear for cleanliness, wouldn't miss the daily bath for all the wealth in the world. She flings money like crazy for fragrant soaps, bath use after the bath.

salt, sweetly smelling lotions to

You'll never catch her with finger nail polish that has started to flake, or lipstick that's not neatly applied. She spaces her shampoos regularly, keeps her appointments at the beauty shop right on the minute, always looks as if she had just come from under the hands of a hair stylist. Perfectly Groomed

She is, in fact, perfectly and beautifully groomed. There are other strings to her good looks bow. When combing her hair she has a little cape to tie over her shoulders. A stray hair or two on the back of one's frock will throw one completely out of form, as will the slightest sign of dandruff in the hair. "Spick and span", that's the slogan for any girl or woman who would make the pulchritude goal.

This paragon of a girl of whom we speak takes good care of her shoes. Men are shoe conscious, but few women are. Sometimes they won't even remove the dust that has collected while the shoes were in their rack. Tape on the heels get run over and the journey to the cobbler's shop is postponed until the last minute.

There is also that natter of the overstuffed purse, stuffed with all sorts of junk. There should be a clean up week, every week, for women's purses.

Scotch Songs, Pleasing Piano Numbers Presented at Recital

Under the sponsorship of the Belleville Community Nursing Registry, Palma D'Orazio, pianiste, and Jean MacLeod, contralto were heard in recital at the Collegiate Auditorium on Wednesday evening.

Miss D'Orazio is a fine example of the talent that is to be found in young Canadians as she carried her audience on wings of music with her brilliant technique and masterful interpretations of some of the masters. Born in Toronto, she is of Italian parentage and she has appeared in many broadcasting programs over national networks. She is a petite young brunette with a charming dimpled smile.

Brilliant Style

Opening her presentation with a Sonata in C Minor by Scarlatti, she went on with Brahms' Scherzo in E Flat Minor, Vivace, Trio 1 and Vivace Trio II. In these numbers the mood ranged from the contemplative to one of wild elation and called for forceful and brilliant style. The second part of the performance embraced two compositions of Chopin; Nocturne a number of wistful tenderness, followed by Valse Brillante which has many difficult passages as variation followed variation of the theme. Three numbers concluded Miss D'Orazio's part of the program; Players by Granados, a vivacious Spanish Dance; Sacro Monte by Tustina; and Hungarian Rhapsody by Liszt, in which the pianist gladly performed with outstanding merit. With gracious willingness she returned for two encores playing first Brahms' Hungarian Dance, Number Seven, followed by Chopin's C Sharp Minor.

Jean MacLeod is a winsome bonny lass of Scottish ancestry, although she was born in New Zealand, and her songs were all studies from the Highlands and the Islands of Scotland, bringing nostalgic memories to the hearts of the Scots present. Her contralto voice is pleasant to listen to, and she sings with the profound simplicity that marks the true artist. Her accompanist at the piano was Leila Frenston Wat-son. Included in her vocal numbers were "The Piper of Dundee", an air from a reel called "The Drummer" by David Stephen; "This Is No My Plaid", a Scottish air; a Hebridean air called "Heart o' Fire Love"; and Hugh S. Robertson's "Westering Home".

The latter number was especially fine with some tonal shadings that were markedly perfect. Her song "O' the Birnie Rins Sae Clear", sung in a muted voice was also most appealing. An old Highland rowing measure, "The Sky Boat Song", was followed by "There's Nae Luck About the House" and "Come Along", a lilt trampling song arranged by Hugh Robertson. She responded to the applause of her listeners with two numbers which included "The Cockle Gatherers" by Marjorie Kennedy Fraser and "To The Isles".

Explains Nursing Registry

Before introducing the two performers, Mrs. Lorne Donaldson explained something about the Nursing Registry, which was begun in 1945. There is a twenty-four hour service maintained, and nurses are sent wherever needed, sometimes out of town to Trenton or Picton, and often to the hospital as well as to private patients.

Sometimes a particular type of nursing service is needed and Registry tries to meet the demand where possible. Considerable time and thought and telephoning goes into the service and there is no outside support, it is self supporting. That is why they must raise funds to carry on the work.

Later they co-operated in the rallies held at Rome and Naples, in Italy, with the last seven weeks being spent in Scotland, Wales and England.

MANY TEACHERS GETTING MARRIED

Toronto, Oct. 6 — (CP) — Cupid is playing hob with the primary school teacher situation in Ontario and there's nothing can be done about it, says Dr. J. G. COAL NEWS!

GOOD NEWS:

1. We now have genuine Welsh Buckwheat coal for blowers. This is the world's best blower coal, available now for the first time since the war—priced $22.50 per ton.

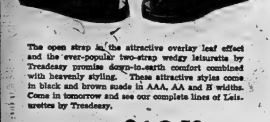
2. The Anthracite coal miners' strike is now ended, and we are happy to announce that we can take care of all orders for any quantity of any size required: Nut, Stove, Egg, Pea, Buckwheat.

3. The strike of Bituminous coal miners is still on, but we have sufficient stock on hand to take care of all orders for stoker coal, steam coals, coke, etc., for the duration of the strike if it does not last too long.

BAD NEWS:

(But Not Too Bad)

1. The regrettable item under Bad News, is that prices on recent and future shipments had to be advanced to take care of the recent 10½ per cent. advance in United States exchange rate. This of course is beyond the control of any coal merchant.



However, all orders taken by us up to the date of the advance in exchange, are being and will be honored by us at the old prices.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Lonely People need to develop initiative

There is one thing more than that I wish lonely people could be made to realize is that they themselves are the ones who primarily have to solve their own problems.

So many boys and girls, men and women, write me about how lonely their lives are and want to know what they can do about it. It never seems to occur to them that the first move toward doing something about it, and many subsequent moves as well, must come from them.

To those lonely people who are unmarried, and who think that marriage would solve their problem, there is another important thing that should be emphasized. This is that while it would be a very fine thing if a happy marriage came their way, it is perfectly possible to enjoy life thoroughly even without husband or wife.

Typical of many letters that reach me from women who have been widowed is this from a young woman of 30: "Since my husband died two years ago," she writes, "I don't think I have been out of my house more than three times, except to go to see my mother. I am finding life so lonesome, and trying to bring up my two children by myself, but I don't know where to go.

"I would like very much to meet a nice fellow whom I could later love, honor and obey, and who would be a good father to my children. People think a widow would just marry for security, but I am one who doesn't think money makes a marriage—just love and only love.

"If you could help me find a little happier life, and tell me where I could go to meet people my own age, I will surely appreciate it."

The first thing I think this young woman should do is to stop making the finding of a new husband the primary concern of her life. If she will do as I suggest, and start taking steps to broaden her life, she certainly can, as I have also suggested, find that there is much happiness to be won even though one is single.

So her problem becomes a matter of how to gain more interests and make more friends. Why can't she do that by having good times with the friends she already has? She says that except for visiting her mother, she has scarcely been out of her home more than three times since her husband's death. I can't understand why not, if she has any friends at all; and apparently she has, since she mentions them, surely she could have been more sociable with them.

If her problem was taking care of her two young children, she and her friends, many of whom no doubt also have young children, certainly could take turns baby-sitting with each other's children and their own, leaving the others free for an afternoon of fun. Or why can't several of them get together in the home of one of their number, say once a week perhaps, and sew or play cards while their children play together? There are all sorts of ways of arranging these things if people will just use their heads a bit.

Another good way to make friends and acquire more interests is to take part in some community activity, or join a club in a church, the YWCA, or just a neighborhood affair. If there is no neighborhood club, why not organize one? Since this girl apparently lives near enough to her mother to visit her frequently, no doubt her mother would be glad to take care of the children occasionally.

Any of these things makes a good beginning for a wider social life, but it takes real initiative for anyone to make a start, and initiative is something no one can give another person. It must be found within one's self.

So I hope this young widow will give herself a mental boost and start looking around to see what activities there are in her own community in which she could take part. If she goes at it with real determination, she will certainly soon be getting much more enjoyment out of life, as well as increasing her chances of making new friends among young men as well as among young women.

GOOD MANNERS

MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Guests shouldn't sit back an expect to be entertained

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

To keep a beautiful friendship from "going on the rocks", will you please give my husband and me your help? We are very close friend of ours invited my husband and me to a supper and dance given by a club to which he belongs. We didn't know anyone at all there, but he of course knew everyone. During the course of the evening he would see friends of his in one or another of the rooms, and would leave us to go for talks with them, staying fifteen or twenty minutes at a time. This happened so often that the last time he left us, I got fed up and told my husband I wanted to leave. Not being able to get his attention to tell him we were going, I told the hostess to tell him we had gone home. When later I did mention to him about having us so often, he said he had to, both for social reasons and to greet his friends, and for business reasons. Please tell me if I was wrong in taking the attitude I did, and in doing what I did. Thank you, if you will advise me.

Worried

I'll grant that it would have been wise for your host to have explained to you and your husband, when he invited you to this supper-dance of his club, that it would be professionally important to him to busily mingle with other guests there, and so he would have to leave you and your husband to your own social resources to meet other guests, chat with them, dance with them. But whether he did or didn't, you shouldn't have taken it for granted that, on such an occasion as his club supper, he would be expected to give all his attention to you and your husband, and you sat there waiting to be entertained. You didn't go to and with other guests . . no need for introductions in an atmosphere of "mingle", exchange dances with other guests? You really had no reason to go home when there were doubtless so many pleasant people to meet. I'm indeed I do think you were very rude and graceless to leave without saying "good night" and "thank you" to your host. . . that's too weird an excuse lady, that you were not able to get his attention to tell him! you were departing. Remember this: When people accept an invitation, they should step forth to the party willing to do everything in their power to pull their weight in the social fabric, no matter how much thought and energy it takes! I hope the hostess to this fine friend of yours, say you're sorry for your rudeness and lack of understanding, invite him very soon to some special kind of party to show him you want to keep this friendship you and your husband have with him a "fine and abiding reality."

Proposing the toast at the wedding anniversary

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

A married couple, very dear friends of ours, are planning to celebrate their Twenty-fifth Wedding Anniversary with a supper and dance at a hotel here. The husband's brother, who was the best man at their wedding, has passed on, and they would like to know who should give the toast at the supper . . the "groom's" next oldest brother, perhaps?

E. K.

It would be an excellent idea for the "groom" to ask his next oldest brother to propose the toast, and the brother might even make a devoted memorial bow to the brother who was the best man, by saying, "Twenty-five years ago today our brother Arthur was Bill's best man, and he proposed the wedding toast to 'the bride and groom'. With loving friends by him and as his next sentative on this important occasion, I should like to propose a standing toast: To the bride and groom and to their happiness always!"

BEAUTY

By HELEN JAMIESON

Keeping your face clean

Soap is the queen of cosmetics. For the average complexion there is no beauty treatment so satisfactory in every way as a good thorough lathering with a firm complexion brush, warm water and a good soap. Then have a warm rinsing followed by a cold one. This opens the pores, cleanses them of effete matter, stimulates underlying glandular activity and whips up circulation. The cold rinsing tones the tissues, keeps them firm. The antiseptic qualities of soap have a solvent effect upon bacteria-laden matter that is likely to be present.

Once a week give yourself a clay pack

On a dry, sensitive skin this treatment may prove a little irritating. For greasy skin, it will remove make-up with a thin cream, letting some of the cream remain on. Press a moist, well-soaped cloth to the flesh, then rinse and dry gently. Follow along with a light massage with a beautifier cream.

A cosmetic meal can be substituted for soap. These meals are delightful toiletries and it is a pity that more women are not familiar with them. They are sprinkled on a moist cloth, used the same as soap; they are almost equally cleansing, and the starchy elements give softness and smoothness to the flesh.

When stubborn blackheads have formed, ordinary treatment, of course, will not avail. Sebaceous oil has blocked the pores, formed wax-like masses, the outer ends of the plugs being incorporated with atmospheric dust that produces an ugly black point.

Soap and water will not always dislodge them. Hot, moist applications, if repeated, will often soften the deposits in the pores. If you suffer from this affliction, dip a heavy washcloth in hot water after the face-washing and press it close to the skin. Repeat half a dozen times. After drying the face, apply a soda solution—one teaspoonful of ordinary baking soda dissolved in a cup of warm water—and let it dry on.

Once a week give yourself a clay pack. Get some kaolin—which is refined Fuller's earth—from your druggist. Mix with witch hazel until the mass is the consistency of whipped cream. Spread over a clean skin surface. Be sure to include your neck as this mask has mild, bleaching qualities and you don't want your face and your neck to have a color divorce.

Pick up your mystery story and read for fifteen or twenty minutes. By that time the kaolin will be dry and will start to flake. Wash it away with tepid water, dry and lave with witch hazel, patting it on with pledgets of cotton.

Never press out blackheads with your fingers. Use a comedone extractor so the flesh will not be bruised.

New patterns, new colors and new styles are combined with our greater than ever value for Fall and Winter. Individually created to your measurements. $46.50

"WALK UPSTAIRS AND SAVE"

A Feathered Gentleman

By A. Henderson

Peter had the loveliest eyes. They were blue, and deep, and dark as a woodland pool, lighting up whenever you came near like a flick of sunshine on a cloudy day. He was a natty dresser, a perfect Beau Brummel, and given to brilliant color. His jacket was dark, between a bronze-green, and rust, but this was offset by his waistcoat - which was of tawny-orange. His feet were dainty and beautifully formed, and he was proud, and loved a compliment.

When Peter first came to us he was tiny, and hardly any clothes on at all; just a little darkish fuzz covered him, and for a hat he had three tiny greyish hairs sticking straight up. Mother found him in the Rhododendron bush. He was the youngest of four children, and the last to leave home. How this came about, we never found out, but most certainly, Peter never should have left home when he did.

Grew More Beautiful

Like the ugly duckling, he became more beautiful as he grew older. The first few weeks of Peter's life with us were weeks of great activity, on our part; and on his, a great hiatus of a mouth. Every fifteen minutes he called in no uncertain terms for food, so we stuffed him, mother and I, for it took the both of us. Then mother thought if he were put outside his parents would no doubt take pity on him and feed him till he was able to shift for himself.

But we were mistaken. His mother fed him but once, and then deserted him. So the task fell to us. Many a time mother said she would send him adrift, after he had himself properly clothed, especially as the task of stuffing him with bread and milk was proving too much for her, seeing my assistance terminated due to teaching at the Bible school.

One day, mother resolved that that was the zero hour—Peter had to go, but she wouldn't do it just then, in the afternoon when she had her work done. You see, by that time we had become very attached to Peter. He really was a dear. So gentlemanly, so delighted when we let him out to sit on our shoulders, I never saw him jump or snatch anything from the hand. He was so gentle, and his every move was one of gracefulness.

Ignored Freedom Offer

After mother had her work finished, she took Peter outside in his cage to clean it, saying as she did so, "I think I'll wait for a better day, one more away before I set him adrift." Presently mother came in with the top of the cage in her hand, minus the bottom part, also minus Peter. "Oh, you did let him go after all," I remarked. "Then Mother realized she had not attached the cage bottom to the upper part, and now there would be no need of the dreaded parting. But there was no parting, for when she returned for the bottom part of the cage, there sat Peter as meek as could be. So that explains how Peter became one of the household.

Besides Peter we had several other birds, all tame canaries which were home-grown, raised on the premises, and these, too, like Peter, were great pets. It was amusing to see them all together when let out in the rooms for their daily doses. The canaries never quite became friends with Peter, though he always was the perfect gentleman among them. Still, the rung beneath the old rocking chair in the kitchen was his special domain, and if any of the marauding canaries chanced to come near it, or inadvertently light on the rungs, he would nearly nip their toes, so that they sought other perching grounds.

Loved Oranges

Peter's food consisted, after he became mature, mostly of flies, and fruit, especially oranges and bananas, one-half orange being his daily quota, as well as pieces of hamburg steak and he dearly loved to pick at a chicken bone. Bread and milk were still an old stand-by. Nearly anything we were eating he teased for by giving a peculiar whistle-like sound, and prancing up and down his perch, or hanging on the side peering over to see if we had anything he didn't.

In the early morning, we were sure it was time to be up, for Peter's melodious call resembling that given by the lads of today when a nicely attired girl chances to come into their line of vision, would echo through the house, and on entering the kitchen he would give another one, as if to say, "Good morning, it's time for breakfast."

Peter stayed with us for nineteen years, a happy little oriole, and then one morning he slept away, and went to be with the other orioles in their happy hunting grounds, wherever that may be. But his empty cage still reminds us of a little pet who was a gentleman of the first water among our feathered friends.

Ex-Cadets Take R.M.C. Flag Back To West Coast

Montreal, Oct. 5—(CP)—Lt Brig. D. R. Agnew, Commandant at Royal Military College, wants to know who snitched that flag from R.M.C. last Saturday—well, it was a bunch of Royal Roads ex-cadets who were "demonstrating the continuing superiority of the senior service."

Score; Navy 1, Army 0.

A chuckling gentleman, who obviously doesn't want his name in print, told the Canadian Press Tuesday about "the incident".

He also said Brig. Agnew had some of the facts mixed. It wasn't a union jack that was snitched, as reported in a Kingston dispatch. It was the R.M.C. flag which flies from the same pole above the union jack.

Futhermore, it wasn't taken, as the Commandant was reported in the dispatch, "without being noticed" by members of the college staff.

The flag was removed, said the gentleman who possibly has all the qualifications of a flagpole climber, "in full view of scores of alert army cadets in front of the R.M.C. cadet block."

Before the army boys could recover from their alertness, the Royal Roads group—five of them on their way to a class reunion—had made off in a car.

The flag? Oh yes, it's on its way to Royal Roads on the west coast as a "donation" to the naval cadets there.

SAY YOUNG DRIVERS BOOST CAR INSURANCE

Toronto, Oct. 5 — (CP) — Damage caused by young drivers in Canada would pay salaries for 1,500 secondary-school driving instructors, H. G. Kemper, president of the Lumbermen's Mutual Casualty Company, told an agents' luncheon here Tuesday. Drivers under 25 years of age have an accident record at least 50 per cent above the general average and add more than $4,250,000 to the cost of private automobile insurance in Canada, he said.

"Good-for-you" Salads are better with nutritious Canned Salmon

CORAL SALAD

1 lb. can Salmon
2 cups chopped cabbage
1 cup diced beets
½ cup sweet pickle sliced
1 tsp. salt
2 cups boiled dressing
3 hard cooked eggs
1/16 tsp. paprika

Flake salmon, add other ingredients, reserving the eggs. Mix lightly and arrange on individual plates lined with small leaves of lettuce. Rice the egg yolks and sprinkle around the border. Sprinkle a little paprika over the egg yolks and garnish with a few hearts cut from beets.

Work your salad magic around Canned Salmon and be sure of wonderful eating plus exceptional food value. Every pound of Canned Salmon you buy yields a full pound of nutritious food, rich in essential food elements. There is no waste in Canned Salmon—it's all edible and that makes Canned Salmon a real boon to your budget. For appetite glamour at low cost and assured nutritional value, use Canned Salmon in your salads.

NUTRITIOUS CANNED SALMON CONTAINS

VITAMIN "A" — To guard against infection.
PROTEIN — Canned Salmon contains more body building protein than almost any other commonly served food.
CALCIUM and PHOSPHOROUS — Builders of sound bones and teeth.
VITAMIN "D" — Rich in the precious sunshine vitamin.
Plus valuable amounts of Iodine and Vitamin "G"

GENDARMES PLAY ROUGH

Double lines of Paris gendarmes stand fast and burl back waves of charging women who besieged the French War Ministry to protest the war in Indo-China. The women, who, the authorities said, were Communists, claim they are mothers of French soldiers killed in Indo-China. Many of the demonstrating ladies accused the police of slapping them about.—Central Press Canadian.

REORGANIZATION

41 YEARS IN BELLEVILLE

THE NEW LOW IN FUR PRICES MEAN SAVINGS TO EARLY PURCHASERS.

When fur prices were at the lowest point in years, Woodley Furriers made large purchases of skins and fur coats, and these savings are being passed on to our customers, who are choosing their coats from our present stock. In the past month raw skins have advanced in price 10 to 20% and this will mean a substantial increase in the cost of fur coats. It is just not common sense to wait until this increase becomes evident in fur coat prices, so the wise woman is choosing her new fur coat now. There are two convenient purchase plans:

THE LAY-AWAY PLAN

By this plant you pay 10% at the time of purchasing your coat and the balance monthly, with the full amount having been paid, before the coat is taken out. There is no extra charge for this convenience.

THE BUDGET PLAN

If you would like to pay for your fur coat while you are wearing it, the BUDGET PLAN is designed to suit your needs. You pay 10% now and monthly payments until the coat is taken out. At least one-third must have been paid by this time and the balance, with a moderate carrying charge, may be spread over the following ten months. Many business women find Woodley's Budget Plan most convenient when buying their fur coat. You are invited to enquire about it.

Conserve the Nation's Game

Harry Bernard Litt. D., author of this article is C-I-L Oval entitled "Conserve the Game" is editor of Le Courrier de Syracuse, the oldest French weekly newspaper in Canada. An author of numerous books, he is much interested in wild life, and is a Fellow of the Royal Society of Canada.

What is conservation? It is simple common sense. To conserve is to keep for later usage, for future pleasure for others as well as ourselves. From east to west, Canada is rich in wild animals, in birds and in fish. But one, two or three centuries ago it was richer.

Remember the passenger pigeons or the native pigeons that our grandmothers made into appetizing pies? There were once so many of them they could be hit with a stick in the fields. Today, from one end of the continent to the other, not a single passenger pigeon survives. What of the American bison? If a half dozen—ancestors of the present herds—had not been domesticated and then bought by the government, we would today not know of the species, except from pictures and stories. If we do not take care, within 50 years or even 30, other valued members of our wild life society may disappear.

The American Elk, or moose, is threatened. Stag or deer remain, but none can be seen over vast areas. The beaver has taken refuge in the most inaccessible regions, but they too will only be a memory if more severe laws do not protect them.

Getting Rarer

The bustard and wild duck, and the prairie chicken, which is a member of the grouse family, are becoming rarer and rarer, even in remote places. The sucker and the grey mullet, the perch and the catfish are invading waters once abundantly filled with small-mouth bass, dore and maskinonge. There's many a lake a reasonable distance from town where one can't catch a trout in three days.

This year Quebec is the only province permitting the hunting of moose. Elsewhere the species is so diminished government authorities have decided to forbid hunting it.

The deer is hardly in a better position and good sportsmen recommend heavy penalties for those who chase with dogs, or lure with baits and the fatal fascination of spotlights.

Although it is the exception rather than the rule, the deer is even trailed in the closed season because buyers can easily be found for his flesh at a good price. Those who buy are just as guilty as the seller.

When a poacher is arrested, he pays a fine which, even if it is considerable, is likely divided among 10 or 20 friends so that it is nothing to be feared. New Brunswick is the only province to find a solution to the problem of the systematic destruction of deer. It enforces a prison sentence without an option of fine on those who kill illegally.

From a conservation point of view, not even all law-abiding hunters and fishermen have a clear conscience, for rare is he who denies himself a shot at a good target, even if the game is useless. And rare is he who will put back into the water a dore caught before May 16, a small-mouth bass before June 16, or a maskinonge before June. 16. (These dates apply to the province of Quebec.) Gourmets of tasty frogs' legs ignore the fact that they would prolong their pleasures for many years if they would postpone some of their suppers in July until after egg-laying time.

Acts of Vandalism

Some acts of vandalism occur because of errors or omissions—such as not teaching children to put back in the water small-mouth bass or trout that are only three inches long. Another false concept is that fish pricked with a fish hook will die once returned to the water. It has not completely swallowed the hook and of the gills are not injured, it will live a normal life. In holding a fish to remove a hook, one precaution must be observed: the hands should be carefully wetted in order not to raise the viscous coat that the fish is covered with, and without which it will develop a fungus growth which will shorten its days.

The big principle in conservation is to capture and kill at the appointed time, after the next generation has already been assured—in other words, only after the young ones have been brought into the world and are able to take care of themselves. That is why hunting and fishing periods are regulated by law.

Many species should be respected at all times because of their rarity, their utility or their ornamental value. For example, the humming-bird belongs to the first category; the porcupine and insect-eaters to the second; and the heron, the black-throated-diver, the blue-jay and the kingfisher to the third.

The porcupine is the most stupid animal in our forests, but the law forbids molesting him because he is the only animal that a lost man can kill with a stick for food. Though quite fat, its flesh is excellent. It is everyone's strict duty never to kill a porcupine without good reason. Although it rarely happens, no woodsman ever knows when some unfortunate day, he will depend on the animal to save his own life.

Thoughtless Hunter

Several years ago, while with some companions on the Lievre river in the Mont Laurier region, we saw a magnificent heron apparently asleep, near the bank, standing on one foot with its neck sunk inbetween its shoulders. My neighbor immediately seized his gun and sighted it. I had all the trouble in the world to prevent him from firing.

I pointed out to him that the bird was to be conserved, if only for our pleasure; that we had nothing against it, except for its lean meals of small fish and frogs; that its flesh was not edible; and, that its feathers probably housed a million lice. Although he finally yielded to my argument, he did not appear convinced. He would have sacrificed life and beauty for a good shot.

Would-be hunters who practise by shooting squirrels, chipmunks, green woodpeckers, bobolinks, and even goldfinch can never have stopped to reflect on what they do. They kill, without profit of any sort, harmless animals who should live if only for their graceful movement and the charm they add to the scenery. Moreover, these untrained hunters usually do not know what to do with the carcass, and they leave it to rot where it falls.

Also unaware of the harm they do are those who crush under their grass-snakes and toads, animals with which people may have little sympathy, but which are useful. The grass-snake feeds on field mice, the toad on harmful insects.

There is food in the animal kingdom that can be easily procured if we know it exists. No law forbids the hunting of the black-starling or the crow. Their flesh is excellent. That of the crow is black, a little like wild duck, and tender. Of course, one might be disappointed in trying to roast a bird 15 or 20 years of age.

Crows Good Sport

Those who are fascinated by hunting and who wait with impatience each year for the opening of the hunting season would find a new thrill in the pursuit of the crow. They would have to use all their knowledge and strategy because the crow is extremely alert and suspicious, and not easily approached.

Let us hunt the crow and the starling, but let us save the woodpeckers, the ever - busy thrushes, the large - and small waders, and also the sparrow hawks, those birds of prey so dreaded on farms.

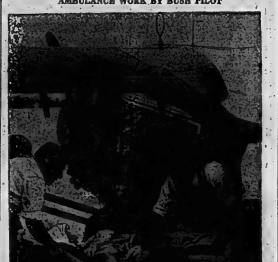
Much error and prejudice have been circulated about the sparrow hawks. They actually should be protected. True, they have been known to steal a chicken or a young pigeon just trying its wings but they feed, above all, on rats, field-mice, and brown (wharf) rats; and occasionally on the hare, which we warmly. They must be classed among the useful birds, like the owls and screech-owls who continue, throughout the night, the work that many others do by day.

Another aspect of conservation is not always kept in mind, but it is important. Although game animals have been over-hunted, their natural enemies, hard-put to value for food, have not been equally hunted. The proportion of wolves, coyotes, magpies and the like has become too great. Some conservationists claim that for every dollar spent in hunting game animals or birds, a day should be spent in hunting the birds and animals that prey on them, thus preserving nature's balance.

Good, Bad Points

Hunting and fishing have their good and bad points. There are places where it seems you can never catch a fish, or kill any game. Yet there are places where you take too many fish. Or where miles in the forest on your own, you wonder what to do if you kill a moose or a couple of deer. The principles of conservation offer you the right answer. If you can't carry out your bag, don't shoot.

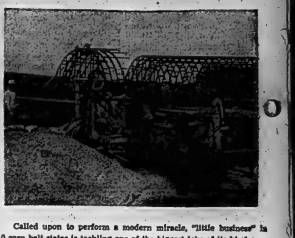
In a lake full of fish, what point is there in taking hundreds, even thousands, of speckled trout, dore, or northern pike? Conservationists advise that you do not deprive yourself of fishing, if your heart is in it — but do it in a sporting way. You use all the devices at your disposal. But use fish hooks that have the barb filed down, and return the fish to the water.



You can do something better. Weigh and measure each specimen and attach an aluminum tag to its mouth before returning it to its parents. Note your observations, the date and place taken, and mail the information to the government of your province. You will thus contribute to the research on animal life going on all the time across the country. The authorities will encourage you in an undertaking of this kind and will probably even furnish you with the necessary equipment to do it.

Respect the Laws

In spite of the lack of foresight in the past, and of destruction due to thoughtlessness or ignorance, many people have been and are putting their heart and soul into conservation so that Canada is still well stocked with game and fish, more than most countries. Let us all help to keep it that way by respecting the laws and avoiding wastage and misuse. Let us further the cause of conservation both by example and by teaching the young.



Animal life belongs to no one exclusively. It belongs to all. As we have inherited it from those before us, let us bequeath it to those coming after us.

STEEL HUTS FOR CORN STORAGE

Called upon to perform a modern miracle, "little business" in 10 corn belt states is tackling one of the biggest jobs of its kind ever undertaken anywhere in peacetime. Its Herculean assignment is the site preparation and erection of 2,300 steel buildings—each 32 by 96 feet; or larger—at 270 widely separated locations. The task arose with the U. S. grain belt's acute need this fall for space in which to store the record-breaking carryover of 1945's corn crop. ROBIN HOOD POPOVERS

1 cup sifted Robin Hood Flour — 1 cup milk
½ teaspoon salt — 2 eggs
1½ teaspoons melted shortening

What wonderful puffed-up popovers you make the Robin Hood way — crisp and golden outside, light as thistledown!

1. Preheat oven to 475°F. (Very hot oven.) Place approximately 9 thick muffin pans or custard cups in oven to heat while making batter.

2. Measure sifted flour into sifter, add salt. Sift together into mixing bowl. Add milk gradually, beating until smooth.

3. Beat eggs until thick and light. Add to flour and milk mixture, then add melted shortening. Beat for 2 minutes with rotary beater. Batter should be thickness of heavy cream.

4. Remove pans from oven and grease thoroughly (butter gives best flavor.) Pour batter into pans, filling half-full.

5. Bake in a very hot oven 475°F. for 20 minutes, then reduce heat to 350°F. (moderate oven) and bake 20 minutes longer.

Serve warm. Yield — approx. 9 popovers.

GAME POSTPONED

Indianapolis, Oct. 6 — (AP)—Montreal Royals and Indianapolis Indians will try again tonight to get the Indianapolis phase of the Little World Series started.

Rain Wednesday night forced postponement of the fourth game of the best-of-seven series between the playoff champions of the International League and the American Association. Indianapolis came home with a 2-1 lead after three games at Montreal.

Endurance Fliers Set New Record, Still Carry on

Yuma, Ariz., Oct. 6 (AP) — Arizona's endurance flyers, refreshed and rejuvenated by marking up a world record, hoped today to spend another week in the air.

They passed the old endurance flight mark of 1,008 hours at 10:13 P. M. EDT Wednesday night, and immediately announced the emotional lift of bettering the record had removed much of the fatigue they have felt in the last four days.

Their single-engine plane, "The City of Yuma," carried them past the record without a major falter during their six weeks in the air.

Shattering of the old record by the two havy veteran pilots—Bob Woodhouse and Woody Jongeward — touched off a major celebration at the Yuma county airport.

One minute before the goal was reached, all lights in the city and area were turned off. Then, the lights were flashed back on, and police sirens, fire whistles and automobile horns were blown in celebration of the event.

Woodhouse and Jongeward started their flight Aug. 30. It was their third attempt to break the record set last spring by Dick Riedel and Bill Barris of Fullerton, Calif. The two previous attempts were halted by motor trouble after less than a week.

MOVE TO OUST PASTOR

Toronto, Oct. 6 (CP) — Officials of York Road Baptist Church, Guelph, moved Tuesday to oust Thomas H. Guthrie as pastor of the church. The legal action brought to Osgoode Hall by five of the six deacons follows a dispute which arose in August over a statement by Mrs. Robert Stitt, 27, that she had received a love letter from the pastor, Mrs. Stitt was dismissed from the church for precipitating what was termed "the greatest church scandal in Guelph's history."

Yugoslavia Expels Members of Embassies

Belgrade, Oct. 6 —(Reuters)—Yugoslavia has expelled five members of the Czechoslavak embassy here and eight from the Polish embassy, usually well-informed sources said today.

The expulsions, ordered Wednesday night, were presumed to be in reprisals for similar measures taken against Yugoslav diplomats in Poland and Czechoslovakia.

Both the Czech and the Polish charge d'affaires are reported to be included among those expelled.

Anti-Communist Forces in Control Of Labor Congress

Left-Wingers Defeated In Four Major Issues

Ottawa, Oct. 6 (CP)—Communist sympathizers are not wanted in the Canadian Congress of Labor.

Delegates made that point clear at the big labor organization's annual convention Wednesday as anti-Communist forces routed left-wingers in a day-long running battle.

In a series of noisy, rough-and-tumble debates the red-liners absorbed four resounding defeats and took thumpings on a number of minor issues.

With the 800-odd delegates voting about 10-to-one against the leftist fringe of the convention approval was given to an executive-sponsored foreign policy resolution declaring support of the Atlantic pact, E.R.P., and world inspection of control and disarmament.

The noisy, hard-struggling left-wingers lost by the same majority as the convention registered support of a new union set-up by the C.C.L. in northern Ontario in the mine-mill field.

The move virtually sealed the doom of the Communist-influenced International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers, whose union has been suspended by the C.C.L. executive will propose its expulsion later in the convention.

Free Five-Point Plan

The leftists also took a thumping defeat as approval was given to a trade resolution in which the Congress urged a five-point plan to meet Canada's "foreign trade crisis" by cutting down imports from the United States, stepping up exports to the U.S. and stimulating markets in Commonwealth and other countries.

They failed, to jam through a proposal for reaffiliation of the Congress with the Russian-dominated World Federation of Trade Unions. The C.C.L. broke away from the federation earlier this year.

Right-wingers, led by Sam Gompers, National Director of the Textile Workers' Union of America (T.L.C.) pulled no punches as they fought off and routed the leftists. They described the left-wing United Electrical Workers of America as Communist-led and as aligned with the Labor Progressive Party of Canada. Five high officers of the U.E.W. have been suspended from the C.C.L.

Driver Lies Down Hangs on to Seat And Saves Life

Goderich, Ont., Oct. 6 (CP) — The presence of mind of Joseph St. Pierre, driver of a tractor trailer truck owned by Rawlings Cartage Co., of Chatham, saved his life when the vehicle turned completely upside down here yesterday.

When the accelerator failed as the truck was making a curve at the intersection of highways 8 and 21, the driver lay down on the seat, hung on and when the truck came to rest upside down he crawled out of the cab uninjured.

It jack-knifed, hit a rut, and crashed into a tree before turning upside down on the boulevard.

Princely Driver Taken to Castle, Now M.P. Hdqtrs.

Vienna, Oct. 6 (AP)—Prince Adolf Auersperg, scion of an old Austrian family, was arrested Sunday by military police because the tall light of his automobile was not working. He was taken to the United States Provost Marshal's office.

The prince looked the place over and smilingly told an American sergeant it appeared to be a nice place to have headquarters.

"You can have this old dump any time," the sergeant told him.

The prince wished he could. The office is in Auersperg Palace, his family home, requisitioned by the Americans in 1945.

PIPELINE APPETITE

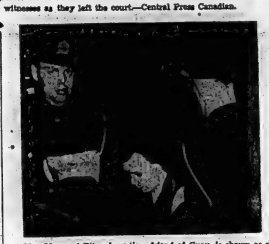
To fill a 1,750-mile pipline being laid from Edmonton to Superior Wis., will take 1,838,000 barrels of oil and to move one barrel of oil between the two cities will take 26 days.

In the prisoner's dock at the hearing, Guay, centre of all eyes, was expressionless as evidence piled up. So far he has avoided all efforts to photograph him, has said nothing.—Central Press Canadian.

Crowds in the courtroom at the Guay hearing were so great that at one point Mrs. Pitre could not see Guay to identify him. A still greater crowd waited outside the Palais de Justice waiting for an opportunity to see Guay and the witnesses as they left the court.—Central Press Canadian.

Biting Dog Gets Patrolman on Hip

Denver, Colo., Oct. 6 — (AP) —Patrolman Gerald J. Sheehan took six-year-old Nancy Joe Wagner to a hospital Wednesday for treatment of a dog bite.



Then he went back to warn the owner about the biting dog.

The owner wasn't home. The dog was. He greeted the patrolman with a bite in the hip.

Sheehan went back to the hospital for an anti-tetanus shot of his own.

ASIATIC CAPITAL

Ayuthia, founded in 1357, was the ancient capital of Siam until 1767, when it was sacked and half destroyed by the Burmese.

Mrs. Margaret Pitre, long-time friend of Guay, is shown as she entered the Quebec courtroom where she told of attempts by Guay to talk her into committing suicide. Guay, she said, tried to convince her that because she had taken the "statue," believed to be the time-bomb, to the plane just before its fatal flight, she was suspected by police of having caused the crash. Mrs. Pitre faces a charge of attempted suicide.—Central Press Canadian.

Times moment in the trial of Albert Guay, charged with murder of his wife in the alleged time-bomb crash of an airliner on Sept. 6 came when Lucien Carreau, above, told the court that Guay had offered him $500 to poison Mrs. Guay.—Central Press Canadian.

Presiding over the hearing in Quebec City is Judge Roy, who is seen leaving the courtroom—Central Press Canadian.

Truman to Set Arms Program In Operation

Fourteen Countries Will Receive Aid From U.S.

Washington, Oct. 6 — (AP) — President Truman today sets in operation a $1,314,010,000 arms program aimed at helping to provide the Allies of the United States with powerful sinews to discourage the advance of communism.

Fourteen countries in Western Europe, the Middle East and the Far East will receive military assistance from the United States by terms of the legislation which Truman arranged to sign at noon (EST).

Eight of the countries authorized to get U. S. weapons and military supplies are European partners in the North Atlantic Pact, whose defence committee Wednesday night set up machinery to draft strategy for any future attack.

The defence group set up a military committee of top professional strategists which was called into its first session this afternoon. Heading this group is Gen. Omar N. Bradley, chairman of the U. S. Joint Chiefs-of-Staff. Other members were not announced at the time.

Also established was (1) a three-man "standing group," composed of Bradley and British and French defence chiefs, which will have some of the functions of a high command; (2) a military production and supply board which will meet in London in December and (3) five regional planning grounds.

The European countries for which military help is authorized are Norway, Denmark, Italy and the five countries which already have a working alliance in the Brussels Pact,— Britain, France, Belgium, The Netherlands and Luxembourg.

The legislation earmarks the funds this way:

$1,000,000,000 for North Atlantic Pact countries, half in cash and half in contract authority; $211,270,000 for Greece and Turkey; $37,640,000 for Iran, Korea and the Philippines; $75,000,000 to be spent in the China area at the president's discretion, either for military or economic purposes.

Truck Tire Explodes, Driver Injured and Thrown Twelve Feet

Dundalk Ont., Oct. 6.—When a truck tire he was changing exploded, John Bowman, 37, of Mount Colemer Brown four teeth, a broken rib and chest injuries. He was thrown 12 feet by the blast. He was attempting to remove the tube, with about 90 pounds pressure of air in it, when the accident occurred.

Col. Matt Winn, Kentucky Derby Impresario, Dies

Louisville, Oct. 6 — (AP) — Col. Matt J. Winn, 88, president of Churchill Downs and impresario of the Kentucky Derby, died at St. Joseph's Infirmary at 2.45 A. M. CST today.

Col. Winn had been in serious condition for the last several weeks following two operations. The exact nature of his illness was not announced, but it was understood the operations were designed to correct a stomach disorder.

Col. Winn was one of the few persons who had seen all 75 of the Kentucky Derbies. He was the first one as a boy of 13 and last May he achieved his life's ambition when he attended the diamond jubilee of the Derby.

Wife of Senator A.G. Hardy Dies In Brockville

Brockville, Oct. 6 — (CP) — Mrs. Dorothy Hardy, wife of Senator Arthur C. Hardy and daughter of the late Senator George T. Fulford, died Wednesday at the family residence here at the age of 63. She had been in ill health for some time.

A member of one of the district's most prominent families, Mrs. Hardy and her husband were well known in Ottawa where they resided during parliamentary sessions.

Mrs. Hardy became seriously ill last February while she and her husband were on a cruise to the West Indies. She had been in failing health since that time.

She was active in many Brockville projects. Her father left $400,000 for the erection of the Fulford Home for Aged Women in Brockville and Mrs. Hardy took great interest in this work.

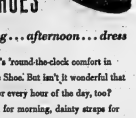
She is survived by her husband; two sons, Fulford P. Hardy, of Brockville and Arthur S. Hardy, Ottawa lawyer; one daughter, Mrs. J. L. Elvidge, of Ottawa; and one brother George T. Fulford, of Brockville, Liberal member of parliament for Leeds.

Mum About Title For Years, to Wed As Baron Lyveden

London, Oct. 6 (AP)—For 23 years Robert Vernon, a 57-year-old lawyer's clerk, kept mum about his title. Today, though, he disclosed he's the fourth Baron Lyveden — had been, in fact, since he inherited the title from his actor father in 1923.

Vernon is getting married Oct. 18 at fashionable St. George's Church. He thought it better to wed under his true title. His bride-to-be is Mrs. Doris Patterson, a widow.

"I did not publicize my title because I found it necessary to do a job of work," explained Vernon, whose father's estate was small.



GASOLINE RATIONING WILL BE REINTRODUCED IN AUSTRALIA

Canberra, Oct. 6 — (Reuters)— Gasoline rationing will be reintroduced in Australia Nov. 18 o next month, Prime Minister Chifley announced today. The ration scale will be about the same as that in effect before June 6, when Australia's high court declared the Commonwealth government's rationing law was invalid. The earlier ration scale provided for 180 miles of pleasure driving a month.

TWO YEARS IN PENITENTIARY

Toronto, Oct. 6 — (CP) — Harold Cough, 29, convicted by a county criminal court jury on charges of theft of an oil burner and possession of burglar tools, Wednesday was sentenced to two years in penitentiary.

Clifford Dickinson, 47-year-old father of two children, and convicted of having been an accomplice of Cough, was given nine months in jail.

REORGANIZATION

Young Mothers Helped

At a recent board meeting of the Victorian Order of Nurses, Miss McGeary, who is in hospital, the result of a motor accident at Ottawa over the weekend, reported on the value of the demonstration bath to the mothers coming from hospital with their first babies.

In this connection she told of one young mother who was so nervous of her baby that she felt sure she was going to need the nurse's services for a matter of weeks. Under the guidance of the nurse she found herself bathing her own baby in two or three days' time . . . and enjoying it!

To be able to give to young mothers the assurance of their own ability to care well for their own babies is one of the privileges of being a "V.O.N." The nurses of Belleville, Miss McGeary reported, made 1,247 visits to babies under one month of age both for the purpose of demonstrating the bath, and to carry out the follow up visits for health counselling. The needed service is made possible by generous public support of the annual Red Feather appeal for the Belleville and District Community Chests. This year's objective is $16,000 to be raised between October 14th and 20th.

FATALLY INJURED

Toronto, Oct. 3 — (CP)—John Mika, 55, was fatally injured when struck by a street car early Wednesday while crossing a west-end street. He died about two hours after being admitted to hospital with head and chest injuries. Police said no charges would be laid against the car operator, T. F. Leaver.

PROSPECTORS ARE

Mr. White, a lawyer from Madoc, Ont., said his constituency showed promise of becoming a large uranium ore producer. Deposits had been found close to railway, hydro and high facilities. The cost would be much less than producing uranium at Eldorado in the northwest territories.

Facilities Inadequate

The present facilities of the Department of Mines and Resources are inadequate to handle the ever-increasing volume of work sent from the ore fields for sampling, Mr. White said. In addition the department was not active enough in promoting field work.

C. W. Hodgson, (PC-Victoria, Ont.) said the government should extend gold-mining assistance, particularly for new mines.

There had been considerable prospecting in the Hanburton district this year and Geiger Counters had shown radio-activity over a wide area. Samples had all been good and had shown a high percentage of uranium.

Rodney Adamson (PC-York West), a Toronto mining engineer, suggested that in cases where a mine pays off, the investors should not be called upon to pay taxes before first taking out their initial investments.

Mr. Adamson said gold has been the magnet which has drawn prospectors into the far reaches of Canada, opening up many districts. In recent years, however, prospecting had been discouraged by the taxation structure.

Cannot Get Capital

It costs between $2,000,000 and $5,000,000 to bring in a gold mine, he said. Because of the taxation set-up many companies holding large areas were unable to get necessary risk capital to open mines.

In recent years, he said, incentive to look for gold had been "seriously diminished". Until gold again became a prospecting "magnet" the future development of Canada would not be fulfilled.

J. A. Simmons (L—Yukon-Mackenzie River) suggested a grant of $500 a year to prospectors. This would encourage those men who faced great difficulty in such areas as the Yukon and Northwest Territories where the cost of even reaching the prospecting ground was high.

C. M. Murray (L—Cariboo) said that while it is worthwhile to consider providing prospectors with subsidies and equipment, the government could do more by extending roads and railways into new areas showing promise.

World be of Value

Gordon F. Higgins (PC-St. John's East) said encouragement for prospectors would be of value to Newfoundland. Much of the island had never been prospected, although traces at practically all known minerals had been found.

David Gourd — (Chapleau), who seconded Mr. McIvor's resolution, suggested members should visit the various mining areas in Northwestern Quebec to see how much employment the mining industry provides.

He said he is sure that as a result of devaluation and the continued payment of government assistance to gold mines there "will be great mining development" in Northwestern Quebec. Gold production aided the country's economy by providing American dollars for the purchase of other goods.

Mr. McIvor's resolution urged that geologists be displayed to investigate any promising finds reported by prospectors.

If the geologist made a favorable report, the government should direct drill the property, paying the cost out of subsequent production.

Shipowners Hit By Low Rates

Montreal, Oct. 6 — (CP)—Currency devaluation has placed the "last nail in the coffin for Canadian shipowners, A. L. Lawes, president of Montreal Shipping Co. Ltd., said.

"At least half a dozen ocean freighters of the Montreal Lines will be tied up in port because of increased costs of operation and decreased returns on freight rates," he said in an interview.

"We can lose less money by tying up the ships."

Grain freight rates have slumped below $4.75 a ton, he said. Two years ago, the tonnage rate from Montreal to European ports was between $10 and $12, but some British companies now were reported accepting grain as low as $4.50 a ton. Canadian operators claimed it cost them "more than $5 a ton" to ship grain.

DETAINED AS MATERIAL WITNESS

Montreal, Oct. 6 — (CP)—Provincial police said Tuesday they are detaining Jack Hanlon, 50, of St. John's, Nfld., as a material witness in connection with the drowning of Stanislaus Verkricues, Lithuanian-born Great Lakes seaman from Toronto. The body of Verkricues, 30-year-old crew member aboard the lake vessel Mondoc, was recovered Tuesday from the St. Lawrence River.

Education Bd. Holds Meeting

The regular monthly meeting of the Board of Education met on Monday night with chairman C. I. Hatton presiding and Dr. R. A. Peterson and Messrs J. H. Belshaw, J. Black, H. Donnan, H. E. Fox, R. A. Patterson and H. R. Tompkins were in attendance.

The purchase of several reference books for use in Home Economics Department and for teaching English and Agriculture was authorized at this meeting.

Principal J. L. Good reported at attendance of 123 at the Stirling High School and submitted a list of reference books needed in Home Economics and Agriculture Departments.

A request from Mr. Garrison presented by Mr. Good for $15 for music, record for teaching of MacBeth: and two reference books in English was considered by the board and on motion of Messrs Black and Fox $10 was allowed for music and the purchase of the reference books authorized.

Mr. Good also reported that Mr. Mahon had purchased 34 hens for the Agriculture Department from proceeds by the sale of last year's poultry and eggs and still had a balance on hand for the purchase of feed.

Sum Allotted.

The treatment of a stated sum towards Physical Education equipment was advocated by Mr. Good and after consideration a sum of $30 was allotted up to end of 1949.

Principal C. A. Wells of the public school reported a ditto rod purchased by the Board in February last had to be replaced, the radio phonograph ordered some time ago had not arrived and gave a list of supplies needed by Mrs. Bell for the primary class and in the shop. He also asked the Board for the purchase of some footballs and a rugby ball for the students.

On motion of R. A. Patterson and Dr. E. A. Carleton the various requests were granted.

J. M. Black chairman of the purchasing committee reported 25 new seats ordered for the public school had not arrived.

Chairman Hatton stated he had interviewed a representative of the company in Toronto and thought the seats would soon arrive.

Coal Purchased

R. E. Fox vice chairman reported a car of stoker coal being put in the public school and chairman Hatton authorized placing an order for a car for the High School.

R. W. Meiklejohn tendered his resignation as representative of the Board of Educaton on the Library Board and on motion of J. B. Belshaw and R. A. Patterson, Mr. Bruce Bell was appointed to fill the vacancy until the end of Mr. Meiklejohn's term in January 1951.

ROSLIN

Roslin—While playing at his home on Sunday afternoon, little Donald Waite, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Waite, fell and struck his head on a stone.

He was taken to the office of Dr. Simpson and later rushed to Bellevue General hospital where it was discovered that his skull had been fractured, a number of stitches were required to close the wound. At present he is a patient in the hospital.

Personals

Mrs. D. Fawns and Mrs. Chen of Toronto spent last Monday with the former's brother, Mr. Wm. Gillespie and Mrs. Gillespie.

There was no service in the Anglican Church at Roslin on Sunday morning, owing to the illness of the rector the Reverend R. Bristow.

Service in the afternoon at Moscomore was taken by the Venerable Archdeacon Arthur Cowan of Belleville and in the evening his Reverend Everett Coman of Belleville was in charge of the harvest festival service in Thomasburg. A number from Roslin attended this service.

The speaker chose as his text for the evening "It is nothing to you, All Ye that Pass By," taken from Lamentations 1:12.

WROTE FOR CHILDREN

Lewis Carroll was the pen name of mathematician Charles Lutwidge Dodgson, who wrote the fantasy "Alice in Wonderland" and other books.

MINTO

Minto—Mr. and Mrs. Doug Stapley, Gary and Sandra of Cambellford were Sunday evening guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Tanner and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Courtney and Mr. and Mrs. John Courtney visited Mr. and Mrs. Jack Weese of Melrose on Friday.

Mr. Eric Allen underwent an appendectomy on Saturday evening. Friends hope for a speedy recovery.

Several of the ladies from St. Thomas W. A. and Salem W. A. attended the afternoon tea and bazaar held at Springbrook on Friday under the auspices of the W. A. of the United Church.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Morgan and Beverely spent Sunday evening with Mr. and Mrs. Lindsay Tanner and Mrs. Morgan.

THOMASBURG

Thomasburg—The annual Harvest Thanksgiving festival was observed in Christ Church on Sunday evening with the Rev. Canon Everett Smith of Belleville in charge owing to the sudden illness of the Reverend H. Flotch.

The Church was suitably arranged with flowers, fruits, vegetables and autumn leaves, symbols of the harvest and special Harvest Thanksgiving hymns were sung during the service. Mr. Smith delivered a very impressive address using as his theme—"Is It Nothing to You All Ye that Pass By."

Mrs. Charles Robinston of Fort Frances spent several days last week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ross Wilson.

Mrs. J. C. Morton of Sidney has been the guest of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Yeterman and renewing friendships in the village during the past week.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Murphy (nee Miss Bessie English) of Vancouver B. C. are guests of her parents Mr. and Mrs. Mathew R. Ross Wilson.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Coulter were guests on Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. Roy MacLaren at Melrose.

Mr. and Mrs. Wager and family of Newburg were guests on Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond French.

Saturday, Oct. 8th is Newspaperboy Day

Honor Him on Newspaperboy Day and every day.

Not many years from now he will be out of his teens and taking on a man's responsibilities. Then he will look back on his newspaper days and say:

"I recognize that the real things I earned while a newspaperboy were not in the form of money but rather in the form of valuable experience with people and business. My customers were, of course, anxious to have their newspaper on time. Most of them understood that I was a young business man earning profits rather than wages. Whenever it seemed that I was to lose a customer, I tried, in my boyish but effective way, to continue having the paper delivered.

"It is now apparent that whether I succeeded or failed in those efforts, the experience I gained was of great value to me."

You have every reason to admire and to help your newspaperboy today and every day. Canada's future depends on him.

1,000 Shipbuilders Unemployed At Tyneside

By ALAN HARVEY
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, Oct. 5 — (CP)—Reports of unemployment on Britain's shipbuilding Tyneside cast a chill this week in the minds of men who remember what happened at Jarrow 13 years ago.

Reports said briefly that 1,000 shipyard workers have been laid off at Hebburn-on-Tyne, and that another 500 will be discharged at nearby yards within two weeks.

For the first time since before the war, the pressure of orders is easing. Old-timers estimate there are more unemployed on the Tyneside than at any time since 1935.

One forecast said that 10,000 will be left idle in the next two years if no new orders are received.

The managing director of the Hebburn yard said:

"We have been kept busy repairing war damage to ships and doing war-to-peace conversions. That is coming to an end, however, and gradually we are coming to be dependent almost exclusively on ordinary marine casualties and routine work."

New Orders Hard to Get

The manager of a Walker-on-Tyne yard said unemployment is growing, particularly among the finishing trades. New orders were hard to get because "high costs and wages are resulting in high prices for the finished job."

Unemployment anywhere in Britain would be sourly regarded by the Labor party. One of the conditioning factors of present Socialist policy is a sharp recollection of what are called the "bad old days" between the wars and a set-faced determination that those days of slump and unemployment shall not return.

One of Labor's pet illustrations of how bad things used to be under "Tory misrule" involves the shipbuilding town of Jarrow, in Durham county high on England's northeast coast. The late Ellen Wilkinson, once Britain's Education Minister, called it "the town that was murdered."

In 1934 Jarrow's shipyard was sold on the understanding—later waived — that it should not be used for shipbuilding for 40 years. The result was misery for the town's 35,000 population. Two years later 80 per cent of the insured population was on the dole. Of 8,000 skilled workers, only 100 remained in temporary jobs.

Headed by Miss Wilkinson, 200 unemployed staged a 370-mile hunger march from Jarrow to London. For 25 days they plodded through the October rain to hand in their petition.

Philadelphia, Oct. 4 (AP) — "Read all about the big murder," bellowed a newsboy on a Philadelphia street corner.

Passersby stopped either to buy papers or look over the shoulder of someone who had.

"I don't see anything about a murder," said one buyer.

"Read all about it," yelled the newsboy. "Yanks murder Red Sox."

Upper Darby, Pa., Oct. 4 (AP) — You've heard the one about the wolf and little Red Riding Hood's grandmother. Well, here's the sequel.

An Upper Darby beauty parlor posted a sign telling male customers-by:

"Don't whistle at any girl leaving here — it might be your grandmother."

Lake Placid, N. Y., Oct. 3 (AP) — Arthur Rodzinski is going to have to buy a lot of steaks to eat with a mushroom grown at his summer home here.

The edible mushroom, the symphony orchestra conductor says, weighs 12 pounds. Normally mushrooms weigh a few ounces.

Rodzinski has placed the huge steak - garnish display in a village market — until he gets ready to eat it.

Cairo, Egypt, Oct. 4 (CP) — Two rival Panamanian "consulates" went out of business in Alexandria Saturday. A third Panamanian Consul arrived and told police both the others were phoney.

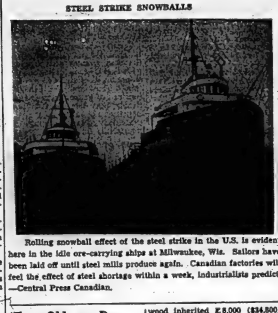
Alberto Allmann, newly - appointed Panamanian consul, uncovered the fake operations when he began setting up a legal consulate.

Police said they had evidence of "wholesale forging" of Panamanian passports and false visas to a number of South American countries.

Chicago, Oct. 4 — (AP)—You couldn't say accurately that all was quiet Sunday on the picket lines at strike - bound steel plants in the Chicago area.

There were too many portable radios,-tuned in at top volume to baseball announcers describing wind-up games of the pigand-tuck pennant races.

The small sets were carried by pickets, and listened to in baseball seemed to outweigh that in strike issues.



And company officials too, kept their eyes on baseball.

CITIZENS INSPECT WRECKED PLANE

While a curious crowd gathers, emergency crewmen check the wreckage of a private plane that crashed just outside Los Angeles, bringing death to Buddy Clark, radio singing star. The crash was overlooked by Sam Hayes, news broadcaster, who, with four others, suffered severe injuries. Returning from a football game in Fresno, Pilot James L. Hayter tried to make a crash landing on Beverly Boulevard, but hit a power line. Others in the plane were Mrs. Hayes and two radio executives, Jennings Pierce and F. A. Berend.—Central Press Canadian.

STEEL STRIKE SNOWBALLS

Rolling snowball effect of the steel strike in the U.S. is evident here in the idle ore-carrying ships at Milwaukee, Wis. Sailors have been laid off until steel mills produce again. Canadian factories will feel the effect of steel shortage within a week, industrialists predict. —Central Press Canadian.

'Too Old to Do Anything' With $24,800 Inheritance

Teddington, Worcester, England Oct. 5 — (AP) — Harold Greenwood inherited £8,000 ($24,800) but he doesn't want it.

"I'm too old to do anything with it," said Greenwood, who is 73.

He inherited the money from his 76-year-old brother Ernest, a recluse, whose hoard was found in a bank after he died.

Canadian-Built Jetliner Makes Official Flight

Toronto, Oct. 5 — (CP)—Canada has literally rocketed ahead of the rest of the world in adaptation of jet aircraft for commercial use with the unveiling of the new Canadian-built Avro jetliner.

The huge, 36-ton airliner, built to carry 40 to 50 passengers on distances from 200-800 miles, Tuesday made its first public appearance at the suburban Malton airport. An estimated 1,000 persons, including Trade Minister Howe, Hon. Laurence Steinhardt, United States Ambassador to Canada, Air Marshall W. A. Curtis and leading Royal Canadian Air Force officials saw James H. Orrell, chief test-pilot for A. V. Roe Company of Manchester, England, put the sleek craft through its paces.

Has Normal Range

The jetliner has a normal range, with full payload, of 600 miles, increasing to 1,200 to 1,600 miles with similar load. It was designed primarily —with the busiest air routes in mind. It operates at its most economical on distances of from 200 to 800 miles, the distance between most heavily travelled points in Canada, the United States and Europe.

The plane was built on specifications suggested by officials of Trans-Canada Air Lines and Tuesday's flight was the culmination of three years of research and development. The Canadian government gave financial assistance to the project.

So impressed by the airliner's performance were RCAF officials present, that Air Marshall Curtis admitted that the RCAF was "interested."

Jetliner Shows Power

No attempt was made during the flight to extract maximum performance from the plane. Highest speed during the flight was about 350 miles an hour, but the jetliner showed her power when she climbed to 10,000 feet at 2,000 feet a minute.

The safety factor is stressed by the fact that although the big airliner is powered by four Rolls Royce Derwent jet engines, it can maintain flight with two. On its maiden flight in August the plane developed trouble with the landing gear — which since has been changed — and in a crash landing merely scrubbed the finish off its sleek nacelles.

Pictures of the flight were televised over a United States network last night showing scenes of people what Trade Minister Howe rightfully described as "an epic-making flight."

$1,949,000 NET REVENUE

Montreal, Oct. 5—Operating revenues for the Canadian National System, all inclusive, for the month of August, 1949, amounted to $43,823,000. Operating expenses were $41,574,000. The net operating revenue was $1,949,000. In August 1948, revenues were $40,440,000; expenses $40,170,000 and the net operating revenue $270,000.

Russia's Object 'Destruction Our Way of Life', Says Simonds

Kingston, Ont., Oct. 5.—(CP)—Soviet Russia would never be satisfied with seeing a country converted to Communism, unless it was dominated from Moscow, warned Lt.-Gen. Guy Simonds, C.B. C.B.E., D.S.O., in an address to the Kingston Junior Chamber of Commerce, Tuesday night.

"Russia's object is the destruction of our way of life," he said. "I don't believe there is any doubt about that whatever."

General Simonds recently became commandant of the National Defence and Staff Colleges in Kingston.

"The dominant factor in world politics today," he said, "is the clash between Soviet Communism and western democracy."

It was fundamental differences which had given rise to that clash. A great many people would debate whether the present expansionistic policy of Russia was an example of Russian imperialism or a new ideology. He believed it was a combination of the two.

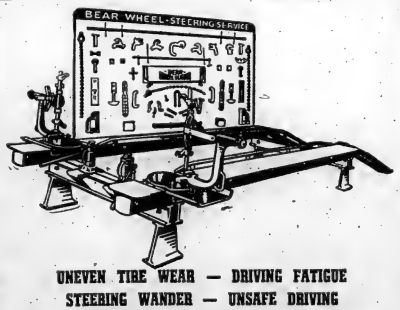
"If is quite clear from the things they have done that they cannot be satisfied with seeing a country merely governed by Communists—it must be dominated by Moscow," he said.

What the politburoau and the leaders of Russia intended was to communize the world in such a way that all would take their spiritual lead from Moscow and nowhere else.

"Every one of their main writers from Lenin onwards, has made it perfectly plain that they don't believe Communism and what is known as our western democracy, can live side by side," he said.

Russia's greatest deficiency consists of a lack of highly skilled light industries and he considered that if she gained control of Western Europe's fine industries, she would become world power number one, he said. They have far greater potential resources than anything in America.

"From the military and strategic points of view, we cannot allow that situation to arise," he asserted.



The only thing Russia respected was formidable strength. She had to be dettered with something more than words. If we won the cold war, there would not be a shooting war.

Tommy Henrich Has Been Jinx For the Dodgers

New York, Oct. 6 — (AP).— What did Brooklyn ever do to Tommy Henrich

Sure Allie Reynolds shut out the Dodgers Wednesday with two hits but he would have been pitching yet if "Old Reliable" hadn't sent one of those two runs and the ninth + inning homer for the 1-0 edge.

Henrich's hex over Flatbush started exactly eight years ago Wednesday — Oct. 5, 1941.

Those who saw it never will forget the Sunday afternoon at Ebbets Field when Hugh Casey's third strike for the last out of a Brooklyn victory rolled past catcher Mickey Owen. The Yanks went on to score four runs and take the ball game.

Who was the hitter that Casey struck out? Naturally it was Henrich, the Dodger hex.

The next afternoon when the Yanks applied the knockout blow it was Henrich's fifth + inning homer off Whit Wyatt over the Ebbets Field right field wall that put the lock on the game.

Six years later in 1947 the Yankees and Dodgers met again. Tom was a top New York slugger with a 323 series average that included a landoff homer in the fifth inning of the second game against Vic Lombardi.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

Frank Gusp dynamic coach of the Hamilton Wildcats will be the guest speaker at the Commercial Softball League banquet at Hotel Quinte on Friday night. Gusp, he says he has three big strikes left to make a flying trip here flies fish-day evening for his Wildcats tangle with the Toronto Argonauts in the Dominion City on Saturday afternoon. The Hamilton coach will regale the boys with some of his sports experiences in a brief talk and will inject some timely philosophy on sportsmanship at the same time.

* * *

With Gusp will be Johnny Nameth, former softball great who hails from Hamilton, stamping grounds of the great Russ Johnson, one of the best mushball hurlers Canada ever developed. Nameth is a former team-mate of Johnson and he will likely unfold a few stories that should be right down the bowling alley. Johnny by the way is associated with Gusp in business, being connected with the Fuller Brewing Company.

* * *

Actually, the story behind this two-man Fuller invasion is the presentation of the handsome Fuller Trophy to the player who led the Commercial League sluggers during the schedule season just over. The player to whom the honor was bestowed polled out more safeties than any other player in the league. Gusp will formally make the presentation to the player during the fiesta on Friday.

* * *

The trophy is not a cup, nor a goblet comprised of figurines in striking poses against a background of chrome, silver or gold. It is a plaque, very striking in appearance and beautifully built. It is a trophy worthy of its cause and of the Fuller Brewing Company, its donors. It is shield-shaped with a sportsmanlike figure of a softball player adorning a bat while just below is the inscription plate on which is engraved the name of the donors and for what the award is made.

* * *

While Commercial League officials will express their appreciation to the donors for the handsome gift, and by the way, it was the player winning the award who was first presented with a beautiful miniature of the player figurine as his permanent property, we might add that the Fuller Brewing Company is another organization that is showing interest in and sponsoring clean wholesome sport. In further-ing their support of sports the presentation of the trophy not only providing an incentive for players, but also substantiating the Fuller belief that the future of the nation lies in the physical condition of its youth. And competitive sport under organized supervision is one of the first stepping stones towards physical betterment.

* * *

Gusp will arrive in the city just before noon on Friday and will entertain with Johnny Nameth members of the press and radio at an informal luncheon in the Hotel Quinte. We don't know whether Frank will talk too much football "shop" or not as he may be too busy figuring out plays whereby his Wildcats can scuttle the Argonauts on Saturday afternoon. However, its a fine gesture on the part of the Hamilton coach to travel this far to address a luncheon and we are not presuming too much when we say that it is more than appreciated by the officials and players of the Commercial Softball Loop.

* * *

And while on the commercial softball subject, tonight at 6.30 the Northern Electric team, champions of the loop and the All-Stars clash in the second game of their new best-of-three series. Tuesday night, while the first innings gave every evidence of the champions parading to an easy victory over Cy Wellman's selects, things took a decided turn. The big-arm troupe suddenly flashed a good brand of softball and with a couple of surprise coaching strobe Hem's change to drop their guard for the moment and out loose with expensive bobbles, the crowd sensed something of the devastatin.

* * *

The Barrage were not only out down first a 4-0 margin then a 6-3 gap to tie the score but were ahead in the fourth by a score of 7-6 lead. And they held it thru the seventh seventh when the All-Stars slumped temporarily to allow the tying run to cross the plate. Then in their half of the innings the Belcks had the winning run on second, but the couldn't capitalize and the game ended in a tie.

* * *

Barrage will parade the full strength of his selection of eighteen or twenty all-stars tonight in an effort to get the measure of Hem's saucy champions. With perhaps a shake-up or two, a replacement here and there occasionally, Cy feels his "Barrage coat" team will take the measure of the league winners. On the other hand Herbert feels that his stars can get by with Manny Harrison's bench so tonight's tussle should be excellent softball fare.

* * *

One of those typhoon-tussles of the mat, a tag team match, will head Friday night's wrestling card at the Memorial Arena, when the combination of Whipper Billy Watson and Pat Flanagan will meet the terrible two-some of Fred Atkins and Hardboiled Hannigan. Watson defeated Atkins in last week's headliner, but Whipper's friend Pat, was accused by Ferocious Fred of aiding Whip in achieving the victory. Hannigan landed in the after-bout argument, with the result that the two battling factions demanded the arena management put them have it out in the ring in a four-man jest on Friday night. Whip and Flan have established themselves as one of the top team combinations in the game, but they won't dare to allow any slips to occur in their strategy against such a rugged pair as the Atkins-Hannigan alliance.

The semi-final will have Ben Sharpe against a newcomer Angelo Cicioli, with Tony Morea making his local invasion against Al "Krusher" Korman in the opener.

Picton, Strathroy Meets in O.B.J. Int. Baseball Finals

Picton will send a baseball team to an Ontario Intermediate "A" championship series tomorrow for the first time since 1932. The Athletics "from the little Spanish town" who won the Eastern Ontario title in their OBA classification meet the powerful Strathroy Arrows, Western Ontario champions in the first game of four-of-seven series in Picton Friday afternoon. The second game will be played there on Saturday afternoon and the teams trek to Strathroy for the third and fourth games next week. Games start at 3 p.m.

Sports Roundup

(By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.)

New York, Oct. 6. (AP)—Red Rolfe, Detroit Tigers' manager, visited Casa Manana, the Yankees bench, just before Wednesday's World Series opener. . . talking about his own team, Rolfe commented: "good pitching can cover up a lot of mistakes". . . .

And he might have been calling the turn on Wednesday's game. . . . Four Yankee pitchers in relaying a fast ball that the Yankees said dipped down around their knees, and his control was virtually perfect. . . Allie Reynolds had it in the clutches, too, so much that Joe Page didn't even warm up. . . .

On the other hand, Johnny Lindell and Joe Dimaggio, between the two, played Spider Barrett's outstanding drive into a double, Gerry Coleman bobbled a grounder ball and almost cost Allie into difficulties; the Dodgers tried to the hit-and-run several times when the hitter could only get a loud foul, and on the one Dodger steal Yogi Berra made a high throw to second — those are the mistakes that the pitching cured.

Stadium Shadows

Will Harridge, American League president, like everybody else, felt that the World Series was a trifle anti-climatic after the wind-up of the regular season. . . . "We didn't know where we were going until Sunday," he commented, "and it was hard to believe that the Yankees could win both those games from Boston. Those were real World Series games."

Canadian Sport Snapshots

By GERALD PRATT
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Vancouver, Oct. 5. — (CP)— Things have been brewing at the 19th hole of the royal and ancient St. Andrews golf club as evidenced by rule changes recently announced.

Angus MacDuffee now has more of a break when he attempts to cut down that 20 handicap, says Eric (Vancouver Province) Whitehead.

The new sweeping penalty devaluation costs Angus but one stroke for lost balls, unplayable lies and out-of-bounds drives—compared to the previous penalty of two strokes.

That, says Whitehead, makes any other devaluation he has seen look like a pitch.

Actually it has changed the course of countless tournaments" states Eric.

He utter the Canadian open held at Shaughnessy two years ago as an example. On the narrow rifle-ranged 13th hole at Shaughnessy, Pros Bud Ward, Eric Monti and Jimmy Thompson each in turns strode up and clubbed two successive tee shots out of bounds.

Each then rapidly calculated the six-stroke debit, put away their clubs, and quit cold, right there.

Don (Vancouver Sun) Carlson Cliffs Coast League soccer wish remarks that could apply to many other sports.

"I believe," says Don, "the Coast League's gravest error is that it is a willing victim of nostalgia. It keeps looking back to the good old days when soccer was supposedly so much better than it is today."

Frankie Brimsek Gives Chicago A Real Goalie

By BRITT JESSUP
(Canadian Press Correspondent)

North Bay, Oct. 6 (CP)—President Bill Tobin says the addition of goalie Frankie Brimsek to Chicago Black Hawks will give the club the steadiness it lacks to enter the National Hockey League playoffs.

During the Hawks' training camp session here, Tobin recalled that a year ago he had predicted fourth place or better for the team in the six-club league race. "And we'd have made it, too, if injuries hadn't cut us down at the worst possible time," he said.

"I figure Brimsek will steady our team, and don't forget we have depth in goal with Sugar Jim Henry available should Brimsek get hurt."

Coach Charlie Conacher, who whipped the Hawks through a strenuous training drill for two weeks here, was better pleased at performances from Bill Gadsby this season. The 23-year-old defenceman at 190 pounds is 10 pounds lighter than last season and appears generally good as an exhibition game here against Kansas City Mohawks.

Nattress Injured

Up front, the addition of Ray Powell, from the Kansas City farm team at Kansas City, should give the Black Hawks additional scoring strength. Powell led the United States Hockey League with 106 points in 61 games, scoring 46 goals and 60 assists.

A centre-man, Powell has been working with Bert Olmstead, another Kansas City product, and veteran Red Hamill or Sep Guidolin.

The Doug Bentley - Roy Conacher-Bill Gadsby trio remains best scoring threesome in the NHL last season, and Jim Conacher may carry a big share of the offensive again. And another unit back from last year is the Jim Conacher-Leo Bodnar-Gaye Stewart trio.

Metzky, Pyzyk, brilliant youngster who hasn't yet "arrived" in the big time, may do so this season, and Adam Brown gives the club plenty of experience.

If Tobin clicks on a deal for a really good defenceman to bolster his admittedly weak defence corps, his Black Hawks may live up to his predictions and make the playoffs.

Allie Reynolds Throws 2-Hitter While Henrich's Homer in 9th Gives Yanks Win Over Dodgers

By JACK HAND

New York, Oct. 5 — (AP)—Allie Reynolds' amazing two - hit shutout of Brooklyn Dodgers boosts New York Yankees into the driver's seat in the 40th World Series.

Now Manager Casey Stengel has the edge. He can gamble and lose, still confident of no worse than an even break. For "gambling" purposes he has a fit-and-ready Vic Raschi, the hero of Sunday's pennant clincher against Boston Red Sox.

Burt Shotton, pilot of the Brooks, can't afford to miss with this afternoon's choice of Preacher Roe.

In any World Series, the first-game winner has a tremendous jump. Often they lose, as Boston Braves did after whipping Cleveland's Bobby Feller in last year's 1-0 opener, but the odds are in their favor.

After Wednesday's 1-0 victory, made possible by Tommy Heinrich's homer in the ninth, the Yank makers rubbed off the old 10-17 odds favoring the Yanks and made it 1 to 2. For today's pairing of Raschi vs Roe, they quote 10 to 13 with New York favored.

Few Predicted Better Duels

Few series games have produced better duels than the battle Reynolds, the 31-year-old Oklahoman, and big Don Newcombe, the Dodger's 230-pound Negro rookie, staged for 62,256 fans Wednesday at Yankee Stadium.

It was a soul-satisfying triumph for Reynolds because "Old Wahoo" has been blistered all season in the public prints. Folks point at his 17-8 record and sneer "Yeah, but only four complete games. Where would he be without Joe Page."

Reynolds supplied the answer in spades. Never was he better. It curve ball drifted past Dodger bats like the blue haze of the sultry October afternoon. Page spent the afternoon sitting, not throwing, in the bullpen.

"I wouldn't have wanted to go in when a fellow was pitching like that," said Fireman Joe. "Even if Casey had asked me."

HEARTBREAK: That's what yesterday's dramatic World Series baseball game meant to Don Newcombe, colored hurling star of the Brooklyn Dodgers. Newcombe pitched sensational baseball striking out eleven Yankees, but went down to defeat when Tommy Heinrich's ninth-inning circuit clout broke up one of the closest fought games in World Series history.

Page Relief Ace

Page, of course, is the relief ace who followed Reynolds in 20 of the 21 regular - season games he started. The Reynolds-Page corporation has been dissolved, temporarily, at least.

For 35-year-old Newcombe, making his first series appearance, it was a disheartening setback. The Montreal graduate pitched well enough for the Brooklyn just didn't give him any runs.

As fine as Newcombe was, Reynolds had to be better. The first-inning double by Spider Jorgensen that Johnny Lindell failed to reach after a late start, might have been caught. Allis didn't allow another hit until Pee Wee Reese singled to centre with one out in the eighth.

They might still be out there, pitching their arms away, if "Old Reliable" Heinrich, the Dodgers hex, hadn't poked a Newcombe pitch among the right-field seats. Between them they struck out 26 men, only two short of the record set in the 1944 St. Louis Cards-Browns Series.

Crafty Lefthander

Roe figures to give the Yanks trouble today. He is an experienced crafty left-hander.

The Preacher has one vital weakness — the old home-run ball or the gopher pitch. Most of the black marks on his fine 15-6 season record have come from that chink in his armor. It's the first series for the 31-year-old vet.

Raschi, 30-year-old right-hander, saw service briefly in the 1947 series, working 1 2/3 innings on relief. He really came into his own during the last two seasons.

At the early date of June 18, Vic had rolled up an 11-1 record. Although he had 15 by July 31, he didn't make 20 until the last week of the season. Victory No. 21 was Raschi's most important, for it was a five-hitter against Boston Sunday, the pennant winner.

THE TOAST OF GOTHAM: Frank Merriwell in his balmiest days never won a more sensational victory than did hard-hitting Tommy Henrich, New York Yankees' infielder who smashed out a dramatic ninth-inning home run yesterday to defeat the gallant Don Newcombe and his Brooklyn Dodgers in a pulse-stirring first World Series game. Henrich's clout scored the only run in a tension-fraught game.

Oshawa Pedlars Advance into All-Ont. Finals

Hamilton, Oct. 5 (CP)—Oshawa Pedlars advanced into the all-Ontario D.A.S.A. Intermediate "A" final against fourth but here Wednesday by virtue of a 7-3 win over Stratford Kroehlers in the deciding game of a best-of-three series.

Morris (Lefty) Meulemeester buried brilliant ball for the winners, allowing but four hits and striking out 15 Stratford batters. The only two Kroehler runs were counted in the fourth frame when a single, a fielder's choice and a double gave Meulemeester his only trouble.

Oshawa, on the other hand, slammed two Stratford pitchers for 11 safeties, including a homer and two triples. The Pedlars started on the mound but was relieved by Tom Templeton in the fourth when Oshawa staged a three-run uprising to move into a 3-2 lead. They added two more runs in the fifth and two in the seventh.

Wes Keeler, with a homer, a triple and a single, led the winners at the plate while Jack Lindman collected three singles. For the losers, Bob McCardle banged out two doubles in four trips to the plate.

BUDDY CLARK BURIED

Glendale, Calif., Oct. 8 (AP)—Entertainment notables attended the funeral Tuesday for Buddy Clark, 36-year-old radio and recording singer killed in a private plane crash Saturday night on busy Beverly Boulevard. Singers Frank Sinatra and Clark Dennis were among the pallbearers.

Enrico Bertola Dies of Head Injury in Bout

(By The Canadian Press)

The ring career of Enrico Bertola ended in tragedy at Buffalo Wednesday as the 27-year-old Italian boxer died of a head injury suffered in a bout Tuesday night with Lee Oma.

It was the eighth boxing fatality this year in the United States.

District Attorney Gordon Steel ordered an immediate investigation and told police to produce all ring officials, handlers of the fighters and officials of the sponsoring organization, the Fairview Athletic Club.

"I have ordered Oma detained and held here until the matter is resolved," said Steel. It was understood, however, that Oma will be permitted to remain in his hotel.

Steel ordered an autopsy to determine the exact cause of death.

Bertola, who took the Italian heavyweight championship only two years ago, suffered a beating about the head in dropping the 10-round decision to Oma. However, he walked from the ring.

Fifteen minutes later he complained of vomiting sick to his stomach. Later he lapsed into a state of unconsciousness from which he never recovered.

The New York Daily News Wednesday night quoted Jackie Robinson of the Brooklyn Dodgers as saying of plate umpire Cal Hubbard: "I've never seen such a rotten call. He actually called a pitch-out a strike. That's the payoff."

"Robinson was referring to the pitch on which Pee Wee Reese stole second in the eighth. Spider Jorgensen was at bat, but the ball got by, and was shocked to learn, an instant later, that Hubbard had called it a strike.

"'It was wide,' related Jackie, 'and way up here'—and he stretched his arm out at forehead height. 'And he called it a strike!'"

Argentina's Cesar Brion stopped Tami Mauriello in 2:18 of the second round of a scheduled 10-round fight Wednesday night at New York's St. Nicholas Arena, and the veteran New York heavyweight announced he was retiring from the ring.

"I am through — I don't intend to fight again," the battered Mauriello said in his dressing room after the bout.

Mauriello, although only 26 years old, had an active and stormy career.

He fought Gus Lesnevich twice for the light-heavyweight championship in 1941, losing 15 round decisions on both occasions. He met Joe Louis for the heavyweight crown Sept. 18, 1946, losing by a kayo in the first round.

It was in 1946 that he scored a fifth-round knockout over Bruce Woodcock, British heavyweight king.

Coach Dick Irvin and his Montreal Canadiens have embarked on a three-game exhibition tour in the United States—a primer for the National Hockey League race which opens Oct. 12.

The game-hungry Canadiens left four players behind—three of them forwards.

Irvin says that in this way he will be able to work his remaining front-line combinations, paying special attention to Adjutor Cote of Sherbrooke, Que., who has postponed signing a contract until after the training season.

The Canadiens will meet American Hockey League Hershey-Providence Thursday, Springfield Saturday and Philadelphia Sunday.

Those left behind were rearguard Glen Harmon and Rip Riopelle, Neil Campbell and Bob Fillion. Harmon remained in Montreal because Irvin said he didn't need five defencemen.

An ex-New York Ranger, who figures being traded to Toronto Maple Leafs was "the biggest break in my life" doesn't think much of his old club.

Says 24-year-old Cal Gardiner: "I'd have been ten years getting on a Stanley Cup team in New York."

Gardiner, traded for Elwyn Morris and Wally Stanowski, will be filling the first-string centreline again this season.

The Trancona, Man., centre's view:

"The main difference between playing for the Rangers and Leafs is condition. You either work here or go down. It's business. We never had P.T. (physical training) in New York and had to figure things out yourself."

Hollywood, Oct. 6—(AP)—It took some doing, but Bob Hope will get to see the world series. Then he hops off for a brief Canadian tour.

Recently the comic lost a battle with his air sponsor over whether he could record his show. Now the sponsor is relaxing its stand and will let Hope tape-record next Tuesday's program so he can take in the baseball classic.

Here's the log of Hollywood's best traveller: He left Monday night for Duluth, Minn., to do his air show. Return to Hollywood to record monologue and music for next week's show. Leave for New York Thursday night. (He'll miss two games.) Record other half of show in New York, return after series.

Then he plays shows in Toronto, Guelph, Montreal and Buffalo, N.Y., on successive days beginning Oct. 12. Return to Hollywood and start thinking up new places to go.

Thursday Topics

Esther Williams and Ben Gage tossed a fancy preview to introduce their latest enterprise, the Trails Restaurant. It's a fancy place with monkey and bird cages lining the walk, and a water tank, but Esther wasn't dressed for swimming.

Ellen Corby was a script girl on 143 pictures before she scored as an actress in "I Remember Mama." She has been an actress for four years (her latest is "The Gun Fighter"), but she still keeps her membership in the script clerks' union. "You've got to be prepared," she says.

"The Ap Story" has stalled because of story problems. Producer Tony Owen can't find a logical story that will span the 100-year history of the Associated Press.

AT THE CAPITOL — Rod Cameron, as Johnny Tremaine, avenging U.S. Marshal in Republic's Trucolor epic, "Brimstone," resists the smiles of the fiery Charlita in a scene from the action-filled picture now playing at the Capitol Theatre. On the same program "The Marshal of Amarillo," starring Allan "Rocky" Lane. Both runs are first city showings. Matinee daily at 2.00.

'HORSE SENSE BRIDGE'

By SAM GORDON

The Kibitzer

Tight, bridge puzzles can keep any group of hot players from dying on the vine. The tougher they are the harder they fall for the solutions. It polishes up their safety plays.

Look at the deal shown here:

	NORTH
	♠A J 3
	♥A J 8 3
	♦A J 6 3
	♣A 3
WEST		EAST
♠10 9		♠Q 5 4
♥10 9 7		♥Q 5 4
♦10 9 7		♦Q 5 4
♣10 9 8		♣Q J 5 4
	SOUTH
	♠K 8 7 6 2
	♥2
	♦K 2
	♣K 7 6 2

This is a problem made up by publisher Ely Culbertson & Cottin. At a contract of no-trump south is in the lead and his side must take all 13 tricks.

Obviously this is a fixed deal. The cards have been placed in certain positions deliberately. The purpose of the whole thing is to present a basic principle of play.

Cards exactly like these will never come to you again during a lifetime of bridge. But the general idea involved in the play may come up in other combinations time and time again.

Why south is in the lead has nothing to do with it. But we will assume east stuck in a phony no-trump bid and was doubled. This would make south the leader. Have him and north take all the tricks.

To start off, lead a small south spade and win with the north ace. Have north come back with the spade jack. If east covers with the queen, south king wins. If east ducks, so does south.

Anyway, this method of play assures south and north of all the spade tricks. It is something to keep in mind when you have such a combination and you suspect where the queen is.

On the third spade round west must discard. He must hang onto all his red cards to keep north from hogging these suits. So, he will no doubt give up a club and hope east can protect clubs.

Having come this far, carry on. Show south and north how to take all the tricks. If you like, have west discard a red card instead of a club. Either way, 13 tricks can be taken against east and west.

Absence of Wine Pains Frenchman

Winnipeg—(CP)—There's only one thing which keeps a Frenchman from feeling at home in Canada, in the opinion of Emil Dambrolas of Paris—it's the lack of wine.

"Water and milk and the common beverages of this country get so monotonous," M. Dambrolas complained in an interview.

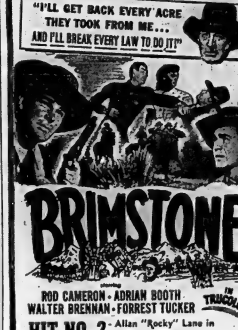
He manufactures paints and varnishes, and is touring Canada displaying a new type of interior wall paint which he has invented.

The new paint is a heavy, oily fluid which when applied separates into two color tones to give a darker base. With a twist toned surface of the paint can be shaped into wallpaper-like designs with a bi-color contrast.

An ingredient known as "potato flour," or starch, is the secret of the trick, M. Dambrolas explained.

"More than 75 per cent of the materials, including starch from potatoes, linseed oil and pigments used in the manufacture of my paint in France are imported from Canada."

M. Dambrolaise said he felt France made considerable progress since the war.



"But France will never be as happy as she was before two wars crippled her."

"However, you can't take a Frenchman's smile away. During the occupation the ordinary German soldiers took our way of life. If they'd stayed there a few more years we could have made Frenchmen of them all."

SEEK TO CATCH FERVERT

Tillsonburg, Oct. 6 — (CP) — Full co-operation of citizens is asked by police here to catch a sex pervert believed to be in town. Several women have reported cases of indecent exposure by an unidentified man and recently a 18-year-old girl was criminally attacked.

SCOTT'S SCRAP BOOK By R. J. SCOTT

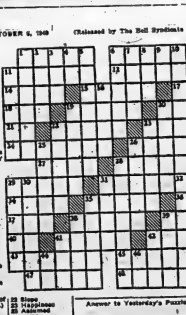
Little Benny's Note Book

Our radio got out of order, and pop took it out with him this morning to ask the man what was a matter, and after supper ma sighed a sigh to herself, myself to pop, just to think, William, the air is full of misery and adventure and melody and the latest news of recent happenings, and we cant hear a sillable of it. Doesn't it seem strange, William? she said.

It seems too good to be true, pop said, and ma said, My, we mits as well be stone deff or another planet. What did the radio man say, William? she said.

He didn't say much. He was a quiet sort of chap, pop said, and ma said, Well didn't he say when it would be fixed, for land sakes!

I didn't ask him, pop said, and ma said, Now William, really, I mean really, how could you possibly walk in and out of that shop with your head in the clouds when you knew very well I want that radio back the very first minute possible!



In that case, my dear, you shall have it before you can say "Alexander Gram Bell Marconi," or even "Bob Hope," pop said, and ma said, Now William, that's impossible unless the man fixed it on the spot.

My dear, you've jumped to the correct conclusion pop said. The chap was very obliging. He gave me his immediate attention and just pushed a wire and charged me for a new tube. And now my ears have injoyed an unaccustomed hour of peace and quiet and I'm satisfied, because I'm a man who's content with small favors. I'll go and get the radio, he said.

Which he did, out in the front hall where he left it when he came home.

BAIL FORFEITED

Whitby, Oct. 6 — (CP)—William T. Harris, 35, of Whitby, forfeited $1,000 bail when he neglected to appear on a charge of breaking and entering. After being picked up in Peterborough he was tried and acquitted— for lack of evidence.

World Series Notes

New York, Oct. 5 — (AP) — Pewee Reese has been in three world series and he never has been caught stealing. He had three stolen bases in 1941 and one Wednesday—none in '41.

Yankee owner Del Webb got off one of the best cracks after the game. Confronting Reynolds he said: "Let me shake the hand of a great hitter — and a fair pitcher."

Commented Don Newcombe: "It's a thrill to pitch in the series, but this is just another game after Sunday's." One of the big reasons Shotton went with Newcombe was that the big fellow would be available again Saturday in Ebbets Field.

Joe DiMaggio, who survived the entire game, had nothing but praise for Newcombe. Marvelled at his control.

One of the most valuable Yankees, said Dewey, got in a series game. He's Hugh Casey, now ineligible, but who hustled with the Dodgers in the 1947 series. He's given Stengel a wealth of information on the Brooks.

B.C.I. Gridders Defeat Trenton In Senior Tilt

By DON ROSE

In a fumble-happy game played at Albert College field, B.C.I. defeated Trenton H.S. 11-0 in senior O.R.F.U. play. It be a first-quarter splurge. It was a scheduled game in the Bay of Quinte District, Senior C.O.S.S.A. League. Jack Dean, Trenton, and Vern Goyer refereed and umpired.

The first quarter started with Trenton kicking off. B.C.I. rolled down the field with Trenton fighting all the way. J. McBride made a staggering run to Trenton's 10 yard line. K. Allen then bucked through for B.C.I.'s first touchdown. The convert was lost through a fumble. In all, the 5 points were scored in three minutes of play. Later when Trenton had the ball on their own 25 yard line they fumbled and B.C.I. gained possession of the slippery pigskin. D. Walmsley on an end run scored the second touch. There was no convert. With 3 minutes remaining A. Galbraith kicked for a rouge, 1 point. Score at end of quarter (11-0).

Trenton Missed Chance

Trenton came back in the second, clicking with an aerial pass, but failed to go any farther. Play continued up and down until Trenton blocked Galbraith's kick and recovered the ball on B.C.I.'s 1 yard line. The Trentonians got over on the next play, but were over-anxious and lost 5 yards for offside. Forwards failed and the Collegiate boys held until the middle ended the quarter and Trenton's best chance of scoring. (11-0).

A series of downs and fumbles moved the ball up and down the field. The highlight came when B.C.I.'s L. Faulkner matched a high aerial pass. A Galbraith punt bucked to Trenton's 10 yard line. But another of the many fumbles killed their chance.

The 4th quarter started with an injury. J. Burley first line middle of collegiate suffered a leg injury during a buck. This stopped the play. Until Trenton was forced to fight harder, but the game ended (11-0).

Don Hill, quarterback, sparked the Trenton High School.

Varsity Blues Look Stronger Than Last Year

By JIM BASTABLE
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Toronto, Oct. 8 — (CP)—University of Toronto's Blues, good enough last fall to end the long reign of Western Mustangs as Ontario Intercollegiate football season with a team that looks even stronger than last year's champions.

Bob Masterson's big Blues have everything that counts — power, speed and timing. They showed it last Saturday when they defeated Toronto Balmy Beach of the Ontario Rugby Football Union 40-6 in an exhibition game. The season starts Saturday when Toronto meets Queen's University here.

A glance at the official figures:

A heavier line — averaging 180 pounds — than last season; a good supply of members of last year's team mixed with a band of promising rookies; and a powerful backfield speckled by triple-threat Bruce Cummings, the 172-pound halfback who paced the Blues last season.

Saturday, the Blues were minus the services of Cummings, who paced them to their first title in 10 years with a spectacular performance last season. But others like newcomers Bill Brewer and Dick Brown; and veteran Ronnie West quickly took over. Brown looked particularly good with his kicking and passing and threw most of the 18 forwards completed in 19 attempts.

Some Intermediates

Other backfielders in the lineup expected to make things tough are Bill Danyluck, one of the league's top scorers last season, Johnny Chorneyski, and Wally London and Nick Purdue.

Intermediate backfielders slated for plenty of work are Greg McFadden, Al Stevenson, Jack Kelly and Jim Bell.

Masterson has seven of last year's linesmen returning, Harrison Clark and Archie Jones at centre; Bill Lloyd and Don Leggat at inside guard and Fraser (Moose) Mustard, Ed Fisher and Johnny Millward at tackle.

One of the brightest additions up front is 22-year-old Stu Bennett of Toronto. He was with Toronto Argonauts of the Big Four last year before returning to college.

At outside wing, the Blues have two veterans back again — starry little Jack Gray and big Alec Lewan. Others on the end positions are Johnny Roe and Jack Kennedy.

Sport Shorts From Britain

By SHAUN McGUILLAN

Referee for nearly 40 years, Moss Deyong, now 71, is one of the oldest men in British boxing today. There are few referees who move more quickly around the ring.

"Mossy" as he is known to the fight fans, keeps fit with plenty of sage, turkish baths and as much walking as possible.

"I never stay anywhere," he says.

Deyong has refereed bouts many of them championship clashes, throughout Europe. His proud boast is that he was referee before the biggest-ever boxing crowd in Europe—91,000 at Barcelona, Spain, for the Primo Carnera-Paolino Uzcudun fight in 1930.

Deyong's connection with boxing began when he was 13, as an amateur middleweight. But he retired when one of his opponents was seriously injured.

He considers the toughest fight he refereed was the Jack Petersen-Charlie Smith contest at Cardiff which Petersen won with a 13th-round knockout.

THE REAL TRUTH ABOUT PILES

Here is a Revealingly Candid and Honest Discussion on a Delicate Subject

FOREWORD: This is a frank attempt to give you in non-technical language certain information regarding a widespread and personally annoying physical condition. A condition which not only afflicts about three-fourths of all those who suffer but which also makes them constantly subject to mental discomfort, pain and embarrassment. For too often this condition—at first superficial in itself—must be Nature's warning of more serious trouble to come. We believe every man or woman who suffers from this condition owes it to their own personal comfort to read the statement below.

Lambreth Proprietaries, Ltd.

Since the dawn of civilization, medical men have carried on a ceaseless war. Not only to save human lives, but to relieve—to better still, prevent some of the physical afflictions of humanity and the loathsome human misery they cause.

True, when a famous physician or a noted scientist makes an important therapeutic discovery or perfects a new surgical technique, the news rings around the world. Yet, even while these front-page discoveries are taking place, some of the most widespread human maladies—"buy fever"—"the common cold"—"athlete's foot"—certain digestive disorders—are undergoing constant scientific study and laboratory scrutiny by men the public never hears of . . . simply because these "everyday" maladies do not seem serious.

Among these seemingly commonplace afflictions are "piles". Those who suffer from this amazingly widespread trouble are burdened with a double hardship.

They yearn for relief, but hesitate to seek it — merely because of "false pride". The sheer embarrassment of seeking advice on treatment often makes it preferable to suffer in silence. There is no "shame" about piles. No blame — no glory — no front-page fame for the man who finds a way to help pile sufferers. The subject itself is mostly taboo . . . It is seldom, if ever openly discussed. But no man or woman who has known, or now knows, the agonizing embarrassment, torment of, itching, burning piles—the loss in business efficiency, in social prestige, in good looks and energy and sheer enjoyment of life—will deny that a safe and efficient method for relieving this condition would be a real and lasting contribution to human health and comfort.

• • • •

WHAT ARE PILES?

Piles, as such, are not a primary ailment but result from some condition preceding or associated with them. The underlying conditions that cause piles never originate in the parts affected.

In their early stages, piles are inflamed, distended rectal veins—actually, "varicose veins" in the delicate membranes of the rectum. One of their primary causes—surprisingly often, in fact—is hepatic congestion or torpidity of the liver which results in constipation, everyday constipation. In ordinary layman's language, here is what happens:

1. When the liver is unduly congested and its normal function is impaired, it increases the flow of blood to the liver from the lower bowel is retarded and dozens of small rectal veins become swollen and distended with blood.
2. This sluggish, congested liver action usually causes constipation.
3. With the start of constipation, hard, clogging masses form in the lower bowel and colon.
4. These hard masses press upon and irritate or bruise the sensitive, distended rectal veins.
5. Blood thickens and stagnates in the bruised area. The veins become more greatly inflamed, over-sensitive, lumpy and even painfully painful.
6. The pain from these blood swollen veins, plus aggravation of the constipation itself, is "self perpetuating". The condition increases the itching, burning pain and soreness, which further irritates the constipation—which in turn tends to further enlarge and irritate the blood veins which then become pile tumors. It is a vicious circle.

This is why, from the very onset, piles are sheer torment—as their victims know all too well.

• • • •

But the agony and embarrassment of piles are only the beginning—really Nature's first call for help.

If help does not come in time, if the vicious circle is not broken, then, unfortunately, may be only one answer—chronic piles or the surgeon's knife. A big price to pay for lack of knowledge!

• • • •

Yet, today in many cases, relief action may not be the only answer. More than half a century ago a famous Canadian physician began an intensive study on the whole subject of piles—their cause and cure. He found a combination of 5 active herbs that may be broken. This man compounded and tried, in his own practice, many different combinations of ingredients. He finally devised a formula of medically proven elements which showed amazing results in 88 out of 100 consecutive cases tried in his own personal and professional attention. Proving that piles can be conquered internally—from inside the body—never from an outside cause in his final formula was an internal remedy, small tablets taken by mouth.

Since piles are not (as many believe) merely "strained muscles" the relief of the pain, nor treatment of the constipated condition is enough. In analyzing the 5 herbs many cases treated indicated internal medication was not only required but mandatory—a medication that not only relieves hepatic congestion, stimulates the liver and bile, gently relieves constipation and works to improve the circulation of blood in the lower bowel. To have an effective internal remedy that relieves the internal congestion which is the primary cause of piles, be decided that man.

• • • •

He gave his final formula the trade name of Hem-Rold and began to use it not only in his own practice, but also to furnish Hem-Rold to his friends and acquaintances. Several years later, in 1904 to be exact, he sold the formula and name. Hem-Rold was then offered to the general public.

• • • •

The remarkable results through the use of Hem-Rold are a matter of record extending over the last 50 years. Millions of packages have been sold in various countries throughout the world. Hundreds of users have testified to its quick and efficient action.

• • • •

SPECIAL NOTE: The makers of Hem-Rold sincerely believe that pile sufferers everywhere will welcome this information. Of course some persons, in very old, long standing, neglected cases should consult a physician. But for the average pile condition, those that have not been neglected and are greatly aggravated by such neglect, we know nothing better than Hem-Rold to give you the action and results you desire.

• • • •

ACCEPT THIS SPECIAL OFFER NOW

We want Hem-Rold to prove itself to you in your own case. We also want to protect you against money loss if you are not satisfied as we make this guarantee. Secure from any drug store a package of Hem-Rold, the 30 tablet, 30 full days treatment, with the amazingly low cost of $1.25. Use the tablets exactly as directed for 30 days. If at the end of that time you are not delighted with the results you get, return the unused portion of the package to the druggist and your full purchase price will be refunded without question. You are the sole judge. You cannot risk nothing—not even the small cost of Hem-Rold, if a few persons are left dissatisfied and you do stand to gain quick and immediate relief from the pain, discomfort and embarrassment you have endured. Why suffer longer? Try this costly and perhaps more radical methods when inexpensive Hem-Rold may bring you quickly, easily and pleasantly just the help and benefit you seek?

• • • •

MANUFACTURER'S NOTE: There has been no increase in the retail price of Hem-Rold. The druggists' retail price is exactly the same now as it was 50 years ago—a remarkable value then, a more remarkable value today —$1.25 per package of 60 tablets, 30 full days treatment. And it is entirely possible that in less than 30 days use are needed to prove its value.

"A Good Medicine to Know About," Says Mr. Aberhart

Tells of Benefit From Using Syntona. Helped Overcome Stomach Disorders, Rheumatic Pain. Backache and Nervousness. "Wouldn't be Without it," He Says.

The great popularity of Syntona Herbal Compound is by no means accidental. It is due almost entirely to the experiences of men and women who have taken it and who in turn have recommended it to their friends and neighbors because of the good results it gives. And in this way Syntona has become a favorite remedy in thousands upon thousands of Canadian homes.

A typical instance of the benefits to be obtained by taking Syntona is found in the recent experience of Mr. John Aberhart, 36 Delatre Street, Woodstock, Ont., who said:

"A few years ago I began suffering from stomach disorders. I had a bad stomach. After my meals I would have very bad distress from gas, heartburn and sour stomach. I often had dizzy spells and sick headaches and my nerves were all on edge. I could sleep well at night, as I would have bad dreams and nightmares. I had a nagging pain across my back and shoulders, pains in my limbs, joints and muscles and often my head ears and arms ached.

"I began taking Syntona after it was recommended by a friend and it wasn't long until people began saying to me, hy, how well you look', and I felt well. Syntona relieved my stomach distress afterwards and the aches and soreness had left my limbs, back and joints. My nerves calmed down so I could enjoy a good night's rest and sleep and the fatigued feeling went away.

"For some time I have kept Syntona in the house. If a cold or sore throat ever run down, I take this medicine a while and soon I'm all right again. It's certainly a good medicine to know about and I wouldn't be without it."

MR. JOHN ABERHART

Syntona is sold and recommended in Belleville at DOLAN THE DRUGGIST. Find out how it can help you, too.

Black Boom

By Paul David Preston

Kilgore was another once sleepy town now getting a vicarious thrill out of the oil field excitement, and feverishly engaged in "Hot Play" of its own. That is, leasing and land speculation were the order. An old-time dance pavillion had been refurbished with the most expensive orchestra money could hire. In two weeks it had earned a reputation for wildness and as yet neither Lillian nor Dal knew much about the place. They simply elected to go to it.

Even here at 11 o'clock or so the crowd was warming up. Easy money brought in many couples from every walk of life.

"Judas, what a mixture!" Dal murmured, looking over Lillian's shoulder.

"Democratic," she agreed, swaying with him.

Her one word, surprisingly, was almost a prophesy. For as the music stopped, ending that dance a stranger girl was at their side looking at handsome Dallas Tower, She had carmine lips, deep knowing eyes.

"Dall boy!" the new one cried in high elation.

Dallas smiled, automatically. But the smile sort of froze on him.

The girl had left her own party and she came to Dal and flung her arms around him, hugging him close. In the quite interval of waiting Lillian saw that the girl was youngish and had hair as fatty-colored as her own. Moreover she was undeniably pretty.

"—excuse me—I—"

Dal tried to interrupt her—and found himself kissed full on the lips! He drew back shocked wide-eyed.

"Dally, I'd know you anywhere! Come on over with us you big old sweet! I told you we'd meet again. I just knew it! Do you have to bring the girl friend or can you hang her on the line somewhere?"

Lillian Mayfield, of East Texas aristocratic Mayfield family suddenly realized that the other girl was boldly trying to shake her and lead Dallas Tower away.

* * *

Martin Deale was reciting poetry and doing a good job of it. He liked poetry. He even wrote it—of a sort—when he didn't feel in the mood to paint and didn't have any other distractions.

Tonight he had what is sometimes termed a small but appreciative audience. Of the several people before him all save Thad Monroe listened with genuine interest. Thad irreverently slump ed back in one of Miss Millie's easiest easy chairs and snored.

"You're discourteous, Thad Monroe!" Sally Dell Mayfield informed him at the end of one poem.

"Somebody must shovel the dirt of life," quoth he, melodramatically, "and I am but a humble slave. No, kids, poetry sifts right through me."

"Oh come Thad," Martin sprang to his own defense. "What about Elizabeth Browning?"

"I'm for her, judging from her name. Get any dimples?"

"Stupid she's a poetess! Or was. One of the greatest. Love sonnets. Listen—"

"Never mind, never mind! Mrs. Mayfield with your permission, as to raid the ice box—ah me."

The group all laughed. "You know you're always welcome, Thad. There's fruit. I'll come help you. Where's Lillian?"

Nobody knew. It was past 11 and Mrs. Mayfield had just come onto the porch—her time honored hint for departure. But with Lillian still absent—

Mrs. Mayfield didn't like that. Didn't like not knowing where her daughters were every minute. She and Thad Monroe sat on opposite sides of the little breakfast table to munch open-faced sandwiches and refrigerator brick snacks. The others were singing again, on the east porch three rooms away.

"Thad, you know I like the easy way you make yourself at home here," Mrs. Mayfield said. "You don't stand on ceremony and you never offend, either. My body would think you southern born!"

Thad smiled. "Now that's a real compliment, Miss Millie!"

"I am still grateful to you for helping me make the candy. You knew I needed it. Mr. Mayfield was—was—"

"I understand. And you're sure welcome." It was a delicate subject, Thad knew and he didn't want to get too deep into it. Nevertheless his hostess had created a mood here and something responsive swelled up in him. The kitchen was private now; the little breakfast nook cozy and intimate, Mrs. Mayfield in extra friendly temper. Thad was prompted to talk.

"Mrs. Mayfield," he said, slowly, looking at the food, "there's something I've been waiting to—uh, mention to you, when I could. Now you say you like me around. That's great! I think a lot of you, also. But Mrs. Mayfield, I—well the fact is I've been doing right well. I—"

"I'm sure you have, Thad. I'm happy for you."

"Thank you ma'am." He swallowed, still avoiding her eyes. "You have never met any of my people. They're all out west, California. It's an easy-go-lucky country and ours is an easy-go-back class, I suppose. But there never has been any Monroe in jail, to my knowledge.—well I often brag that there was a President Monroe. I doubt if we are descended from him but my grandfather was right well off."

"Oh surely so, Thad." What was the boy getting at, she wondered.

"Yes. And—and—well, I'll have to speak out plain! I have been wondering if maybe you could manage to accept me as a son! That is as a son-in-law!"

"Oh!" Millicent Mayfield murmured it. "Oh, I see!"

Poor Thad squirmed. And seeing him, who was always so completely poised, thus ill at ease was itself something of a phenomenon in his favour now. She smothered a quick little smile.

"Of course, Thad you—surprised me! I hardly know what to say! Have you—? I mean, you and Lillian—"

"I'm six years older than Lillian, Mrs. Mayfield. That may be too much. And I'm a little too fat. And I'm not much of a glamour guy, I know what I mean? But confound it, I love Lillian and I can't help it! I've been loving her since I first turned up on your porch. Excuse me, ma'am but I just had to talk about it tonight!"

Until past midnight then, Thad and his hostess had what he in later months was to call his one and only heart-to-heart hour. Moreover, it did both of them good. It always does good to open the windows of a soul and let a friend look in. Millicent Mayfield told him here this evening to set him at ease. But it was advice, she herself never took.

. . . and so if you and Lillian arrange it, I couldn't possibly say no, Thad," she was saying, toward the end. "I feel that you have honored me by asking me first. It—it's what Mr. Mayfield would have appreciated. It's sentimentality thing to have done. And, what about Lillian's feelings? I regret to say that my big girl has rather grown away from me. I suppose it's natural. She likes you I know, but—"

"I haven't asked her, haven't proposed," Thad admitted. "Not really, I mean. I joke too much, matter of fact. I intend to quit that and let her know, I'm serious! You say she likes me? I mean, sort of seriously, maybe?"

MEMBERS URGE ACTION AGAINST CRIME COMICS

Claim Hand-to-Hand Circulation Made

Ottawa, Oct. 7 (CP)—Hush-hush, hand-to-hand circulation of hair-raising, crime-laden comic books is frustrating the attempts of responsible parents to stamp out this menace to the morals of young Canadians.

Parliament was solemnly told Thursday night how young people are perpetuating the ill effects of lurid crime comics by engaging in voluntary exchanging libraries in a secretive manner.

This said H. P. Cavers (L-Lincoln), is why parents—as well-meaning as they may be—are unable to keep these vice-ridden comics from children. And this was why the Commons might well take some action to stamp out them on these magazines which were doing little more than glamorizing crime in the minds of impressionable young people.

Mr. Cavers, a St. Catharines lawyer, spoke in debate on a bill to make the criminal code apply to distribution and publication of crime comics.

Sponsored by E. D. Fulton (PC-Kamloops), the bill would provide in general terms for making illegal comic books of the crime variety.

It would, however, leave the final decision on any suspect periodical in the courts which would decide whether any comic book came within the definition of an objectional publication.

Action Deferred

Action was deferred at Thursday night's sitting because Justice Minister Garson was absent. He wants to discuss the bill before

Cheese Producers to Build Curing, Storage Warehouse In City Directors Decision

Construction of a number of cheese curing and storage warehouses at strategic points throughout Ontario, one of which would be built at Belleville, is proposed by the Ontario Cheese Producers' Marketing Board.

The announcement of the proposal was made Thursday following a meeting of the directors of the Association held in Belleville this week. The first of the warehouses would be located in Belleville and another in the eastern part of the province.

Funds for the construction of the cheese storages have been appropriated by the Ontario government. The Hon. T. L. Kennedy, Minister of Agriculture, informed the marketing board through his director of dairying, C. F. Lackner, that the Cabinet had approved the funds necessary for the project.

The funds to be made available by the province for the construction of cheese storages would be in the form of a grant and would not be repayable, it was stated. Store 100,000 Boxes

Storage capacity of the building proposed to be constructed in Belleville would be over 100,000 ing cheddar cheese, it was stated. boxes of cheese, according to C. N. Heath, secretary of the Ontario Cheese Producers' Association.

The building would be of two storeys with dimensions of 165 by 145 feet.

Tenders would be called for construction of the storage warehouse. Location of the proposed warehouse was not stated other than that it would be in Eastern Ontario.

Site of the Belleville plant would be immediately east of the Stephens - Adamson plant and south of the Canadian Pacific railway tracks. A C.N.R. siding also runs past the property. The property owned by the Cheese Producers comprises approximately 2,000 feet of frontage along the Bay of Quinte and takes in the former Belleville beaches site.

Kenner Great Benefit

Directors of the Ontario Cheese Producers' Association said they believed the construction of cheese curing and storage warehouses would render a great benefit to the Ontario cheese producers and also would serve the entire cheese industry. The warehouse would be for the purpose of assembling, grading and hold-

MAID SMOKING IN CLOSET SAYS ONE SURVIVOR

'Careless Thing to do' Evidence of Witness

Toronto, Oct. 7 — (CP) — It was a "careless thing to do" for a maid to smoke in a linen closet, the Kellock Commission inquiry into the Noronic fire was told today by a survivor from Detroit.

Miss Ethel Clawson said she saw a maid in uniform smoking in the C deck closet where it is believed the fire which left a toll of 103 identified dead and 20 missing started Sept. 17.

Miss Clawson, who told of having taken cruise on the Noronic each year since 1942, said she couldn't remember when the maid-smoking incident happened. She believed it was the day before the fire.

"I remarked at the time," she said that it was a careless thing to do. She was the second survivor to testify to having seen a maid smoking in the closet.

Miss Clawson, who described herself as a nervous person at the panic, said she was aroused early Sept. 17 by the sound of some one running down the corridor. She saw no one when she opened her cabin door.

"I looked toward the companion stairway and saw smoke. Some one was crouching there as if fighting the fire."

She returned to her room for a coat, warned her sister in a nearby cabin "there is fire."

Fire Bursts into Flame

"By the time I was ready to get off," she said, "the fire had burst into flame. It was blazing red like a sunset."

Miss Clawson described some confusion as she was hurried from onto D deck from an opening in the upper deck as "probably melted paint."

She testified that she watched another passenger, Emmett Long, attempt to play a hose onto flame for "two or three minutes."

Then: "Nothing came out of the hose," she testified. She said she then left the ship.

Mrs. Irene Pavey, another survivor from Detroit, said she saw no reason for panic when she noted a crew member with a fire extinguisher after seeing a haze of smoke.

Canada's Reserves $985,000,000 At End of Sept.

Amount Not Affected By Dollar Devaluation

Ottawa, Oct. 7 (CP)—Finance Minister Abbott today announced that Canada's reserves of gold and United States dollars were $985,000,000 at the end of September.

They were $987,000,000 at the end of August, $973,000,000 at the end of July and $977,000,000 at the end of June.

The end of September a year ago, they totalled $855,000,000.

It will be two years ago next month that Canada first started to take emergency action to build up reserves which had fallen to "dangerous" levels.

At that time the reserves were approximately $461,000,000.

In making his announcement today Mr. Abbott said all the figures given for the gold and dollar reserves were expressed in terms of U.S. dollars and thus not affected by the recent devaluation of the Canadian dollar.

He also said the figure for Sept. 30, 1949, does not include $36,000,000 in U.S. funds set aside for retirement on Oct. 1, Nov. 1, 1948, and Feb. 1, 1950, of government bonds payable in U.S. dollars.

These funds were part of the proceeds of the $100,000,000 issue of government bonds sold in the U.S. in August.

RUSSIA'S NEWEST SATELLITE UNDER COMMUNIST RULE

New Red Regime Built Up Without Formality of Election

Berlin, Oct. 7 — (AP) — The East German Republic — Russia's newest satellite—was proclaimed today under the leadership of German Communists.

The German Peoples' Council, heretofore a pro-Soviet public forum without any legal powers, voted unanimously to become immediately the lower house of the "German Democratic Republic."

The "Germans now" have two separate regimes — the one for the eastern part of the country established today and the recently formed West-German government which has authority in the British, American and French occupation zones.

The new Red regime was built up without the formality of election in a week of intensive Soviet-fostered propaganda.

Informed Berliners said the Russians already have promised the infant state full membership in the Cominform — Soviet-dominated political bloc.

The Communists propose to represent their regime as a government for all Germany, including the 45,000,000 people and more highly developed resources of the west. At present they have some 18,000,000. Eastern-zone Germans and a largely agricultural area under their control.

Will Have Foreign Minister

The Soviet - licensed press asserted that the East government will have a foreign ministry and representatives abroad — something which the West German government at Bonn has not. The United States, Britain and France reserve those rights in West Germany.

German news sources said a 14-man cabinet already has been named by the Communist Socialist Unity (Communist) Party, with George Dertinger nominated as foreign minister.

These sources said Gerhard Eisler, Communist fugitive from United States justice, has been picked as propaganda minister.

Just what the Russians will do about withdrawal of "occupation expenses" remained unclear. Some sources say the Russians still maintain more than 250,000 troops in the eastern zone and there are no signs of reducing the number.

Comic-Strip Gang in Washington To Lift Sales of U.S. Govt. Bonds

Washington, Oct. 7 (CP)—Li'l Abner, Joe Palooka, Terry and the Pirates and the rest of the comic-strip gang came to Washington today to help sell bonds.

They brought with them their creators—the 50 top-drawer cartoonists of the United States—for a three-day jaunt around the capital. Their prime purpose was to give a lift to the sale of United States Government savings bonds.

The historic aspect of the show came when the comic-strip characters found themselves placed along the staid walks of the Library of Congress in an exhibit entitled "20,000 years of comics". Pralse Sir Secretary

There, the cartoonists heard themselves praised by John Boynton, secretary of the treasury, as men "whose creations are awaited each day by more people than have ever seen a Rembrandt or a Raphael." Their readers totalled more than 40,000,000 a day and the library itself preserved their work in 10,000 volumes.

The exhibition of which their creations formed a part traced the history of comic art from the cave man era to modern times. In addition to ancient drawings, it included such early modern comics as "Yellow Kid", which was issued in the old New York World in 1896, "Buster Brown", sponsor in "Yellow Kid", and "Happy Hooligan", one of the most famous of the early strips.

The cartoonists took time out to greet—and sketch—President Truman at the White House. After a session of sketching in the White House rose garden, Milton Caniff, author of "Steve Canyon" and president of the National Cartoonist Society, asked:

"Mr. President, do you want us to leave these sketches of you here or with the Secretary of the Treasury?"

"You don't think I'm going to take them out of here, do you?" Truman shot back.

From Washington, the cartoonists went on a 17-day tour to push savings bonds.

WATER POLLUTION RESPONSIBILITY OF PROVINCES

Navigable Channels Only Under Federal Rules Says Transport Minister

Ottawa, Oct. 7—(CP)—Provincial governments mainly are responsible for solving the problem of pollution of Canadian waters with oil, chemicals, raw sewage, rubbish and similar materials, the Commons was told Thursday.

Transport Minister Chevrier, saying that the international joint commission has been asked to investigate causes of the pollution of international waters, told members his department has powers only to see that navigable channels are kept clear.

The department has jurisdiction, he said, to keep out of the channels or navigable waters garbage, sawdust, shavings, slabs and such things which may pile up in the channel and impede navigation.

He spoke before the House received "one dingbat"—without a formal vote—a private member's bill that would have given the government power to deal with the pollution of waters with any product or thing.

The bill, sponsored by Rodney Adamson, (PC-Grey North), also would have required municipalities with a population of 5,000 or more to build sewage-disposal plants. It would have given the government power to appoint inspectors to plants likely to discharge noxious substances in navigable waters.

Mr. Chevrier said the bill was clearly ultra vires — outside the jurisdiction of parliament—because it asked the federal government to handle matters involving a direct interference with the provinces' jurisdiction over property and civil rights.

Battered Body Of Taxi Driver Found in Ditch

Saint John, N. B., Oct. 7 (CP) The battered body of a 72-year-old taxi-driver was found here early today lying in a road-side ditch on the outskirts of the city.

Police said William Puddington had been beaten over the head with a heavy car fender which was found near the body.

Police were called out shortly after midnight when a passerby, William Connell, reported an unconscious man lying in the middle of a street.

Finding the car empty and recognizing the taxi as a vehicle operated by Puddington, police searched the area and the driver-tourist Society, asked:

"Mr. President, do you want us to leave these sketches of you here or with the Secretary of the Treasury?"

"You don't think I'm going to take them out of here, do you?" Truman shot back.

From Washington, the cartoonists went on a 17-day tour to push savings bonds.

Wonder Hormones, Acth, Cortisone Represent Great Medical Advance

Chicago, Oct. 7 (AP)—The two new wonder hormones—acth and Cortisone—"may well represent a medical advance of history - making proportions in the field of cancer."

This view was expressed today by a man close to the subject—Dr. Charles S. Cameron, medical director of the American Cancer Society.

He said Cortisone had shown "spectacular success" in treating several cases of leukemia, a cancer-like condition of the blood, and "definite benefit" in treating acth.

"It's my opinion these drugs will find rather extensive uses in tumors in general," he added.

This was the first public announcement that the hormones, developed from cattle glands, have a major weapon in the fight against cancer.

Dr. Cameron cautioned that the studies on the new drugs are preliminary and that not many cases have been tried.

Both drugs are extremely scarce and difficult—to-produce. The hormones are available or expected this year is not sufficient to treat a fraction of one per cent of the 7,000,000 arthritis sufferers in the United States.

Cortisone originally was isolated from the adrenal glands of animals. Now it is produced by a complex process from ox bile. It has been estimated the bile from 30,000 oxen is necessary to produce the cortisone needed to treat one arthritis patient one year.

Acth is obtained from the pituitary glands of hogs. It produces about 400,000 hog pituitaries to make a pound of acth. Doctors say production of enough for how be increased 5,000 to 10,000 times to meet the needs of arthritis sufferers.

Yankees Tied in Fourth Frame When Pee Wee Reese Homers

Ebbets Field, Brooklyn, Oct. 7 (CP) — New York Yankees took a 1-0 lead at the end of three innings in today's third game of the 45th World Series with the series tied up one game for each the Yanks and Brooklyn Dodgers.

The New York run was scored by Cliff Mapes who got on base on a walk, was first given up by Dodger pitching in the series. His went to third on Tommy Byrne's single and then came home after Rizzuto's fly out to Furillo.

Byrne's hit was the only one in the ball game up to this three-inning mark and it set the wild-man of the Yankee pitching staff on the verge of his first complete game. Byrne faced Ralph Branca on the mound.

The First Innings

Yankees — Rizzuto fouled off Branca's first pitch, then went out on a routine grounder to Mikata. Henrich drove down the right first baseline to Hodges who made an unassisted putout. Berra went down swinging, after he had fouled off four pitches. No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

Dodgers — Byrne burned over the first pitch for a called strike to Reese, who worked the count to 1-2, then was hit on the right leg by a fast ball. Gilliam then caught Mikata's high pop foul in front of the Yankee dugout and threw to Coleman at second to double up Reese who had attempted to steal on the pitcher's catch. Furillo flied to DiMaggio in right-centre, swinging at Byrne's first pitch. No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

Second Innings

Yankees—DiMaggio struck out on four pitches, missing a fast-breaking curve ball. Brown popped to Robinson in front of the first outfield grass. Woodling fouled to Mikata near the Yankee dugout. No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

Dodgers — Robinson popped Byrne's first pitch to Coleman behind first. Hodges fouled to Dan Bankline and threw him out on a close play. No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

Third Inning Yankees

Mapes walked on a full count after Campanella failed to hold onto a foul tip and Mapes would been a third strike. It was the second pass given up by Branca pitcher in the series.

Coleman was called out on strikes and Mapes was nearly doubled up as he got back just in time to the first baseman's throw to first.

Rizzuto singled sharply past Robinson into centre field, and Mapes, with the hit and run on, moved all the way to third.

Rizzuto flied to Furillo. Mapes tagged up and scored after the catch as Furillo's throw came in far over to the third base side of home plate. Byrne held first.

Henrich walked on four pitches. The throw was out on a soft liner to Robinson.

One run, one hit, no errors, two left.

Fourth Inning Yankees

DiMaggio went down swinging

Chief Mediator Tries His Hand To Settle Strike

Washington, Oct. 7 (CP)—Lenky Canadian-born Cyrus Ching, the United States government's chief mediator, tries his hand today at coaxing soft-coal operators and John L. Lewis into a strike settlement. The prospects looked poor.

Negotiations for a new coal contract were recessed indefinitely at the White Sulphur Springs and Bluefield, W. Va., so the government could bring the interested parties together here.

The government gave little outward indication early over closer the 19-day coal strike or the shutdown of the country's basic steel mills by Philip Murray's C.I.O.-steelworkers.

Ching, born at Red Point P.E.I. turned his attention from steel to coal this week, but was expected to find that the talks would be aimed at halting the steel strike, too.

Any fact-finding board appointed in the coal strike undoubtedly would study the $100,000,000-a-year welfare fund which Lewis has set up from the royalty of the 20-cent royalty on each ton of coal, collected from the operators and paid by the customers.

The pensions and other benefits have been suspended by Lewis and the other trustees Sept. 16 on grounds the fund was running out of money.

That brought the shutdown of hard coal and most mines across the U.S., without any public order to that effect, to the Pennsylvania anthracite mines in Pennsylvania and the soft coal diggers west of the Mississippi River to return to work last Monday.

for the second straight time.

Brown fouled to Mikata behind third base.

Woodling unloaded a double of the scoreboard in right-centre field.

Girl is Rescued From Thames River

Chatham, Ont., Oct. 7 — (CP) — An apparent suicide attempt by an 18-year-old London girl was foiled Thursday by Chatham police and hospital attendants who pulled her from the Thames River.

Previously, police report, the girl had taken approximately 20 headache tablets after grabbing a bottle when she came to the emergency ward of Victoria Hospital.

Police say the girl then apparently passed out so a doctor notified police and attempted to revive the girl. She came to and escaped from the hospital and then jumped into the river.

'Moderate' Rise In Shoe Prices Is Forecast

Montreal, Oct. 7—(CP)—Higher production costs resulting from devaluation of the Canadian dollar will be reflected in "moderate" increases in the price of shoes, the Shoe Manufacturing Association of Canada announced today.

Four reasons were given for the increases:

1. The increase in the price of leather. The leather markets in Canada are closely related to those in the United States.

2. Shoe machinery, parts and replacements, all purchased from the United States, have also risen in price.

3. Added to these increases are the sales taxes on the new purchases.

4. The break - even point in the shoe business is now very high and it is impossible for the industry to absorb the added charges.

UNEMPLOYMENT HIGHER

Ottawa, Oct. 7—(CP)—Claims for unemployment insurance benefits filed by Canadians during August increased by 55 per cent over the same period last year. A total of 57,750 claims for benefits were filed during the month the Dominion Bureau of Statistics said in a report released Thursday on operations of the Unemployment Insurance Act. The August total compared with 49,586 claims in the previous month and 32,183 during August, 1948.

Amacher Gets Six Months Term On Harm Charge

Toronto, Oct. 7 — (CP) — Earl Sydney Amacher, 49, was sentenced today to six months on a charge of causing bodily harm to his wife.

A charge of attempted murder was dismissed Sept. 22 when Amacher was convicted on the lesser count.

Amacher's wife testified during the trial that she was shot one night of the assault and found a pillow over her face. She said she thought at first Amacher had put her husband with an axe.

Mr. Justice Chevrier told Amacher "I believe the protecting hand of Providence spared you."

Report Princess Margaret May Visit Canada Not Confirmed Nor Denied

By H. L. JONES
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, Oct. 7. (CP)—Neither confirmation nor denial came from royal circles in London today on a report that Princess Margaret may make her first visit to Canada next year.

While admitting that such a trip was a possibility, these sources insisted that there was nothing said on the subject at this time would be nothing but pure speculation. Nothing is known of her plans so far as is known.

The report appeared in the "Inside Information" column of the London Daily Graphic. It quoted "Court Circles" as saying it was "almost certain" that the Princess would visit the Dominion in 1950.

The report failed to stir much reaction in London where frequent rumors are heard regarding the movements of the royal family—and frequently prove wrong. Buckingham Palace authorities ignored this latest speculation about Princess Margaret.

A spokesman at Buckingham Palace said he could not confirm nor deny the report, but emphasized the fact that it being left undenied should not be taken as official confirmation. The palace could not deny it simply because they don't know anything about it."

The spokesman said this was the first time he had heard a suggestion that Princess Margaret might visit Canada. It was pointed out that the Princess has made only one official trip abroad alone —to The Netherlands to attend Queen Juliana's coronation in September last year.

Last summer the Princess went to the Italian Riviera and spent most of two weeks dodging photographers. But this was pure-

RUSSIA'S NEWEST SATELLITE UNDER COMMUNIST RULE

New Red Regime Built Up Without Formality of Election

Berlin, Oct. 7 — (AP) — The East German Republic — Russia's newest satellite—was proclaimed today under the leadership of German Communists.

The German Peoples' Council, heretofore a pro-Soviet public forum without any legal powers, voted unanimously to become immediately the lower house of the "German Democratic Republic."

The "Germans now" have two separate regimes — the one for the eastern part of the country established today and the recently formed West-German government which has authority in the British, American and French occupation zones.

The new Red regime was built up without the formality of election in a week of intensive Soviet-fostered propaganda.

Informed Berliners said the Russians already have promised the infant state full membership in the Cominform — Soviet-dominated political bloc.

The Communists propose to represent their regime as a government for all Germany, including the 45,000,000 people and more highly developed resources of the west. At present they have some 18,000,000. Eastern-zone Germans and a largely agricultural area under their control.

Will Have Foreign Minister

The Soviet - licensed press asserted that the East government will have a foreign ministry and representatives abroad — something which the West German government at Bonn has not. The United States, Britain and France reserve those rights in West Germany.

German news sources said a 14-man cabinet already has been named by the Communist Socialist Unity (Communist) Party, with George Dertinger nominated as foreign minister.

These sources said Gerhard Eisler, Communist fugitive from United States justice, has been picked as propaganda minister.

Just what the Russians will do about withdrawal of "occupation expenses" remained unclear. Some sources say the Russians still maintain more than 250,000 troops in the eastern zone and there are no signs of reducing the number.

CHANGE PURSES OF MILK DRIVERS RANSACKED AT OFFICE

Milk drivers' change purses left in the office at Reid's Dairy on Parker street were ransacked Thursday night or early Friday when collected a total of $12 in change for his trouble.

Entry to the building was gained by way of a back door, following which the night prowler made his way to the dairy office where the change purses were hanging. Dairy employees discovered the theft when they reported for work shortly after four o'clock this morning.

New Public School For Stirling Being Considered

Construction of a new public school in the village of Stirling on the same site as the present school is being considered by the Stirling Board of Education.

Council will seek the approval of the Ontario Municipal Board for a $135,000 debenture issue for construction of the new school.

Addressing the Board at their last meeting relative to the need for a new school, C. I. Hatton, chairman, said accommodation as the present school was over-taxed with six rooms being held in the high school. Public school attendance was increasing each year, with 310 pupils registered as of the Central Hastings High School area in January, the board was faced with providing accommodation.

Remodelling the present school has been considered but the construction of a new school was favored. Plans call for the construction of a minimum of six classrooms, the new school to be laid out so additional classrooms could be added.

Grinder Blows up, Campbellford Man Seriously Injured

Clare Lockwood, 37, of Campbellford, is in Belleville hospital in a critical condition as result of injuries suffered Thursday afternoon when a grist mill blew up. Lockwood sustained serious head injuries, face cuts and many broken bones.

After first aid by Dr. Bright and Dr. Ward Baker of Campbellford, the accident victim was taken to hospital where he is under the care of Dr. G. H. Stobie.

Lockwood was pouring grain into the mill when there was a sudden blast. Archie Dewey, a helper who was standing close by, stated the grinder blew up just like an explosion. Pieces of metal from the machine were scattered like shrapnel.

Body is Found At Bottom Well

Toronto, Oct. 7 — (CP)—The body of a 70-year-old bachelor house painter, who lived alone, was recovered Tuesday from the bottom of his 12-foot deep well in nearby Leaside Park district.

Police said they believed the body of James Ryan had been there a week.

Police were called when a bread salesman, Allen May of Toronto, noticed a pile of newspapers, a stale loaf of bread was still on the porch of the three-room shack.

Police said they found two bottles of wine and one partly full on the kitchen table. They said Ryan may have bought them in the well under the influence of liquor.

Child's Death Accident is Jury's Verdict

A verdict of accidental death with no blame attached to the driver of the vehicle, was returned by a coroner's jury at the adjourned inquest held Thursday afternoon touching into the death of three-year-old Joseph Walters, small son of Dr. Austin Walters and Mrs. Walters.

The small lad died in Belleville hospital Sept. 27 a few hours after being struck by a panel truck as he was crossing Bridge Street East, in-front of his home.

Orville May, Benjamin Street, driver of the Rob lin Dairy panel truck which struck the small child, told the jury that he had been proceeding west on Bridge Street between 25 and 30 miles per hour when he saw two small boys emerge from behind a car just a length and a half ahead of his truck. One of the boys went back to the curb but the other continued across the street.

He said he had applied his brakes immediately but had no time to sound his horn.

Fair Brakes on Truck

He said the brakes on the panel truck were "fair" but on question from Crown Attorney B. C. Donnan said if the truck had been equipped with perfect brakes the accident could not have been avoided.

Coroner Dr. R. T. Potter also asked regarding the brakes on the truck, the driver replying the brakes could have used some adjustment but repeated he could not have missed the child if the brakes had been perfect.

Other witnesses called included Police Inspector J. Clair Hayes who said there were brake marks 23 feet before the point of impact. He took place at Coleman avenue had been 97 feet.

The inspector stated he thought the braking distance of the truck had been consistent with the speed.

Testifies as to Injuries

Dr. Ralph Bird testified as to injuries suffered by the child, while Constable Harold Reid testified as to measurement at the scene of the accident. Thomas Collins, insurance adjuster, who assisted in testing the brakes on the truck stated they were in fair condition and his opinion could stop the truck in the regulation distance.

Dr. Austin Walters, father of the child, said he had come out from the verandah of his home just as his son had started across the street.

"Just as I saw Joseph start to run I saw the truck coming. It all happened in a second," he said.

Asked regarding the speed which the truck had been travelling, Dr. Walters replied he could not judge speed, but felt the truck had been going too fast for the circumstances.

Jurors included Don Thomas, foreman, Joseph White, John Baker, C. Mulvey and Bert Mason.

Common Wage Plan by Unions Urged in France

Paris, Oct. 7 — (AP) — Communists and Catholic labor unions drew closer together today in the midst of the biggest political crisis France has seen in more than a year.

The crisis resulted from the resignation of Henry Queuille, middle-of-the-road cabinet which has ruled the country for a year and 25 days.

President Vincent Auriol accepted the resignation Thursday and began consulting political leaders, seeking Queuille's successor. Queuille lost out because he opposed socialist - backed demands for labor pay raises.

Today the leading Catholic labor union, the 800,000-member French Federation of Workers called on communist and non-communist unions to meet with it and draw up a common wage program.

The Communist force Ouvrier has not yet replied, but the central organization of the large communist-led Confederation General Du Travail said it was ready to join any meeting of that kind.

All three unions are more or less agreed, already, on what they want — a cost-of-living bonus and quick setting of wages by a return to collective bargaining.

Spanish Speaking Students Converse With Kin Folk

It is a long way from Latin American countries in South America to Belleville, but Spanish speaking students of Albert College are finding that the distance can be overcome by a short bridged via short wave.

It all started when a teacher from Albert College was visiting at the home of Eugene Hitchon, Belleville radio sales assistant, when her host was engaged in conversation with another "ham" in a foreign country.

The teacher mentioned there were students at Albert College who spoke only Spanish and suggested it might be interesting for them to contact Spanish speaking people from their own countries.

The date was arranged and the next night four Belleville radio homes were in Latin America instead up at Mr. Hitchon's home. Call letters for stations in South America were sent out and for an hour or so the students conversed back and forth in their native language.

"It was only s shot in the dark so to speak" related Mr. Hitchon, "but nevertheless the time we had a whale of a time. The next step will be to write and contact persons in South America whom the students know."

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, Oct. 7 (CP)—Prices slipped steadily in comparatively dull dealings on the Toronto stock exchange today. Slight selling pressure depressed key issues that had been strong gainers in markets earlier in the week.

Base metals led the downtrend as leaders dropped as much as a full point. Industrials weakened for the first time in three days and golds and western oils sagged quietly.

Volume for the first four hours was 839,000 shares, about 48,000 shares less than Thursday's similar period.

The majority of industrial issues trading were ahead but key issues appeared in the losing columns.

Noranda and Hudson Bay were down a full point in Base Metals and International Nickel, Quemont and Consolidated Smelters eased fractions.

A handful of small issues featured activity in golds. Changes were slight with some early firm-ness disappearing as the session progressed.

MAID SMOKING

"I thought the fire had been located and it wasn't serious," she said. She described the scene that aroused many of people rushing about with hair and night attire afire, women being pulled out of their cabins through windows.

Crew Rushing About

Mrs. Fawcett also saw three members of the crew "rushing about." They were first mate Jerry Woods, bo'sun Bob Morrison and an oiler.

"Jerry—Mr. Wood—was trying to direct people into the bow of the ship."

She said there was no panic but the passengers seemed dazed.

"The little old ladies and old men just didn't seem to want to move or perhaps were afraid to try going over by the ropes."

Mrs. Fawcy, who said she finally le the ship by a rope sling rig by members of the crew, testified the only alarm she heard was the bo'sun's man... and heard him say 'are you people all right there'...I recognized him from his voice and said: 'My God that's Captain Bill.'

"He had only a grief-stricken look on his face...he had a fire hose and ran round to the port side which was burning. As far as I saw...the hose hadn't been inflited and I saw no water."

Still In Lounge

Mildrette M. Briggs of Detroit, said she shared a cabin with Mrs. Hazel Hackshaw who perished in the fire. The witness said her cabin mate was still in the lounge when she retired.

"I think she was roused by a fellow-passenger. Earlier she had heard the sound of breaking glass and some one shout "fire".

"It didn't sound like an alarm but more like someone horsing around and I thought at the time it was a silly stunt to do."

Miss Briggs said flame crept through a grill into her cabin, ignited some paper, a hat box, clothing and quickly enveloped the room. She fled through a window, the train of her night gown aflame.

She too, told of the efforts made by First Mate Wood and Boatsain Morrison to assist passengers from the ship.

Doing Marvellous Job

"Jerry (Wood) was doing a marvellous job," and it was his work in directing people, urging them to keep calm that prevented panic, she said.

Miss Briggs said she saw Captain William Taylor. He didn't look himself but "like a desperate man", making motions with a hose as though dousing fire. No water came from the hose.

Miss Briggs told Frank Wilkinson, counsel for Canada Steamship Lines, ship's owners, she had seen only three members of the crew, including the captain, during the night.

Miss Briggs said when she returned to the ship from a visit up town, she saw no member of the crew.

James C. Miller, of Cuyahoga, Ohio, said he saw nothing unusual in the behavior of passengers, or excessive drinking, during the post-season cruise.

He told of a conversation he had heard about 11 p.m., E.S.T. between "two members of the crew in uniform" aboard ship.

Miller said one remarked he had a date, while the other talked of arranging one. One of them said "but I can't go over after three! I am on duty until one o'clock."

Miller said a uniformed member of the ship's crew was in him during the fire and gave him directions where to go to leave the ship. He heard no alarm apart from the ship's whistle.

C.P.R. Challenges Ruling Made By Transport Bd.

Ottawa, Oct. 7 (CP)—The Canadian Pacific Railway today challenged a ruling of the Board of Transport Commissioners and asked the board's permission for appeal to the Supreme Court of Canada.

It based its appeal on two questions of law in connection with a board decision last Sept. 28 authorizing an interim increase of eight per cent in freight rates.

The C.P.R. claimed the board had failed to perform its functions given it by the Railway Act in decision on freight rates until the Royal Commission on Transport makes its report to parliament.

The company's application for permission to appeal will be heard by the board Oct. 17.

The Canadian National Railways did not join in the application.

The railways said its application that it is a matter of "widespread public importance" that the Supreme Court should determine:

1. If it is the duty of the Board of Transport Commissioners to decide to what extent increased freight rates should be authorized because of changing conditions in the cost of transportation.

2. If the board failed to carry out this duty by postponing a final decision on the railways applications for higher rates—made on July 27, 1948—until after the Royal Commission reports.

It said "irreparable injury" would be done to the C.P.R. by delay of a final decision.

The board's judgment in September was on an application by the C.P.R. and C.N.R. for an increase of 20 per cent. The judgment awarded them an interim increase of eight per cent, adding that a final settlement could not be made until after the Royal Commission reports.

The new rates already have gone into effect. It has been estimated they will add $30,000,000 a year to railway revenues.

DENIES REPORTS

Washington, Oct. 7 — (CP)— United States Air Force official denied Thursday night a newspaper story that the United States has cancelled a $1,000,000 order to purchase 24 Beaver planes from the Dellavilland Aircraft Company of Toronto.

Commenting on the story, carried by the Toronto Globe and Mail, an air force official said "The U.S. Air Force never had any interest in this plane from either the standpoint of research or construction or with intent to purchase."

Left Wing Fails To Halt Vote On Expulsion

Ottawa, Oct. 7 (CP). — Wild pandemonium broke out at the Canadian Labor Congress convention today as left-wingers staged a violent demonstration on the heels of a successful motion to expel the communist-tinged International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter workers.

Boiling mad, backers of the mine-mill union fought angrily but unsuccessfully to bar a quick vote on the issue as Chet Jones of them rushed the officer's platform amid a deafening uproar of breasting, jostling and fist-pounding.

One girl opponent of the expulsion move—youthful Pat Rooney of the United Electrical Workers in Hamilton—strode determinedly to the platform, made a few tentative steps at the president A. R. Mosher and grabbed his gavel as she tried to get a hearing.

Then she ousted executive councilman J. E. McGuire away from the speakers microphone, seized it and began a shouted denunciation of the expulsion move while delegates milled around the big hall in the wildest demonstration witnessed at the Congress for many years.

Another angered opponent of the convention action rushed the platform to join Miss Rooney, but he was shepherded off by Sam Baron, another executive member.

After the angered Miss Rooney had held the centre of the rostrum for several minutes with executive members uncertain how to handle her, some of her union colleagues eventually coaxed her off the platform.

Killer of Thirteen Persons Insane, Goes to Asylum

Camden, N. J., Oct. 7 (AP) — Psychiatrists today found Camden's mass killer Howard B. Unruh insane. Prosecutor Mitchell H. Cohen said he will ask that Unruh go to asylum without ever standing trial for the slaughter of 13 people on a Camden street Sept. 6.

The decision came after a month-long study of Unruh at the New Jersey State Hospital at Trenton.

Psychiatrists reported to Cohen today that the 30-year-old Unruh is "a case of dementia praecox."

Dementia praecox is a type of insanity in which the brain slowly deteriorate. It is considered incurable.

"HOT SEAT" GAG
CAUSE DEATH

Detroit, Oct. 7 (AP)—A welder's "hot seat" gag at a car factory here Wednesday had these results, police reported: Robert Gunn, 40, a welder, is in a serious condition from a head injury. Edward Fife, 32, victim of the gag, is held on an assault charge. Fife said he and Gunn were over the head with a ballpeen hammer after Gunn, just to see him jump, headed his metal seat with a welding torch.

Heavy Holiday Travel Expected

Toronto, Oct. 7 — (CP) — Thanksgiving weekend travel out of Toronto is expected to be the heaviest in several years, transportation companies estimated said Thursday night. Railways are putting on extra coaches, companies plan additional buses, and airlines are arranging extra flights.

CALLS OFF PROPOSED PROBE

Niagara Falls, Ont., Oct. 7 (CP). —Reeve G. W. Monroe of suburban Stamford township and Wednesday Stamford Council is calling off a proposed probe into alleged irregularities by a contractor placing 100 wartime houses on permanent foundations for new owners.

Mr. Monroe made his announcement after a conference with Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation officials.

He said Central Mortgage officials have agreed to repair all damage said to have been caused by the contractor.

Priest Befriends Boy, Now Facing Charge of Theft

Peterborough, Oct. 7 (CP)—A youth who had been given two nights' lodging by a Roman Catholic priest in Lindsay now faces a charge of robbing the priest.

Provincial Constable G. W. Stevens arrested the youth, John Paul, 20, of no fixed address, when he left a poolroom at nearby Omemee Thursday night. He was carrying $100.

An alert Omemee storekeeper was responsible for the tip-off. He told police Paul purchased a wallet, flashing a large roll of money. The storekeeper informed Constable Stevens who then kept an eye on Paul.

Police said Paul had been lodging Tuesday and Wednesday nights at the rectory of Dean J. V. McAuley of Lindsay. Police said he returned to the rectory last night and stole more than $100.

At the time of Paul's arrest the theft had not been discovered or reported. The youth, originally from Ottawa, was handed over to Lindsay police.

C.C.L. Re-elects Mosher as Head

Ottawa, Oct. 7 (CP)—A. R. Mosher, President of the Canadian Congress of Labor since it was founded in 1940, was re-elected for another year at the C.C.L.'s annual convention today.

The 65-year-old labor leader, who also is President of the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway employees, won by a wide margin over a candidate put up by the Congress left — wingers.

The vote was 503 for Mosher to 147 for Robert Haddow of Montreal, Canadian chief of the International Union of Fur and Leather Workers.

For National Secretary-Treasurer, Pat Conroy was re-elected, scoring a 524 to 130 win over William Stewart, Vancouver shipyard worker.

The convention re-elected as Vice-Presidents C. H. Millard of Toronto, National Director of the United Steel Workers of America, Sol Spivak of Toronto, manager of the joint board of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers, and Alex Mcmainne, of Canadian chief of the Oil Workers' International Union.

They were vacancies created by two left-wing candidates — Steve Anco, Toronto auto worker and J. R. Hall of Sudbury, secretary-treasurer of the Maritime Workers' Federation.

ty a holiday and not an official visit.

The Highland Light Infantry of Hamilton last summer invited Princess Margaret to visit at Preston, Ont., where they received the freedom of the town on July 4, the colonel-in-chief of the parent regiment in Britain, they were later advised the Princess could not make it.

This summer there have been reports, both from North America and from London, that she would visit the United States soon. These have been denied by Buckingham Palace.

SAFETY AND TRAVEL

Thanksgiving always attracts a large number to travel by rail and by car. Fortunately the railways have an enviable record for safety of travel. While the highways which bear a tremendously heavy volume of motor traffic have to account for many accidents during the year. The best efforts of the department and the police have been put forth to educate the travelling public to observe the rules and regulations of travel, which are adopted for the safety of all.

The mounting traffic accident rate has called again and again for care, courtesy and common sense in the use of the roads. Never was there more need for these qualities behind the wheel and on foot, highway officials so warn.

All who use the highways and roads have the right and obligation to exercise that privilege with safety to themselves and all others. That all do not do so is seen in the fact that during the first six months of this year 5,695 Ontario motorists had their driving licences suspended, an increase of 21.5 per cent over the corresponding period of last year.

Besides of more than 100,000 suspensions since the Financial Responsibility Law went into force, approximately 38,000 were still in effect.

Commencing on the fact that in the effort to reduce accidents police have been prosecuting all persons who by their failure to observe the laws have become involved in accidents, Highways Minister recently said that "withdrawal of the privilege of owning or operating a motor vehicle is generally considered as having a most salutary effect on offenders."

It is to be hoped that at this happy time of Thanksgiving all will drive or use the highways, roads and streets wisely and safely.

RADAR AND SHIPPING

Radar, the gift of British minds to the success of the United Nations in the war on the Axis, has rapidly been finding use in shipping. It is reported that there has been developed a new radar equipment by a London firm. This equipment cuts down on capital charges, installation and maintenance costs by half. It is extremely compact and this is a matter of great importance. This latest development is for smaller craft and gives performance of the greatest value. A trip on the Thames revealed a panorama of the river shown on the 5-in. screen with a demonstration of 25 yards to 25 miles.

Radar will play no small part in the navigation of the future and safeguard of ships.

Yet it is only a few years old and was brought before the world's public attention as late as August 1945 at the close of the Second World War.

BEDROOM TRAGEDY

The death of an Oakville man, when fire razed the small shack in which he lived, is attributed to the belief he fell asleep while smoking in bed.

This is a habit that is by no means uncommon and many disastrous fires, in which lives are lost, are traced to this source.

Many people read in bed to induce drowsiness and if they are smokers into the bargain the reading and smoking are combined in a pre-sleep occupation.

How often have you noticed people in public places, reading a newspaper or a book, and after a little while their heads start to nod and the reading material falls to the floor?

The same result often comes from reading in bed and a partially smoked cigaret will fall unnoticed into the bed clothes because a cigaret butt will smoulder for hours it is usually in the early hours of the morning that the first flames start to flicker.

Military tactics were often based on pre-dawn attacks for the very simple reason that the deepest sleep occurs at that time. Fire breaking out in a bedroom would therefore not necessarily awaken. In all likelihood he would be asphyxiated by the smoke.

An oft-quoted expression, applied to many things, is "there is a time and place for everything."

There can be little criticism of reading in bed, although medical authorities have differing views, but smoking in bed should be among the unwritten bans.—Sudbury Star.

What an absurd thing it is to pass over all the valuable parts of a man and fix our attention on his infirmities.—Addison.

CHILDISH GROWN-UPS

The more I study men at play
And hear the angry words they say,
The more my conduct I
The heedless, foolish things I do—
The offence this thought is bad!
"The way of children aren't bad."

We scold our little girls and boys
As ripe for making too much noise.
Yet, at their sociall parties
Grown-ups are noisier than they.
The men with louder voices speak,
And louder is the female cry.

We're children all! Some older grown
With childish traits that still are shown.
The faults of children we
But, oh, our own are often worse.
About you little girl and lad!
Compared with us, you're not so bad.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

LIFE IN OTHERS

Can there be anything more comforting and inspiring than to feel that you have helped to maintain life in others?

We are more inter-dependent upon others than we realize. We feel this when we find ourselves alone. We miss everyone. There are memories, however, and that rare acquaintanceship with oneself that helps so much to nourish so many silent hours when far from friends and home. Others then maintain life with us.

The finer qualities of one's mind and heart are extremely contagious. How often we hear the expression: He reminds me so much of—. We all have so much in common. But it's what maintains life in others that counts.

Each of us undoubtedly has traits that have come down to us from scores of generations. And not wholly through blood, but through the influence of blood. Great characters always radiate and uplift no matter where they move and have their being.

In that inspiring little book, by Haniel Long, "The Power Within Us," there is this statement: "The power of maintaining life in others, lives and works on in us, and from each of us does it recede when unused." Not until we begin to give ourselves away do we come to realize how wonderful it is to have the power of influence, and to keep it functioning.

None of us stand alone. There are scores of invisible hands that are forever outstretched that give us steadily upon our feet. We rarely think of this. Some loved one always near, to help us with love and confidence. To fortify our faltering confidence he must be reassured with a yard stick. Like the breeze that bends the tree, it has no dividing line. It keeps travelling.

I keep thinking of the loved ones who have journeyed out of life here upon the earth but the rare substance of themselves remains to continually comfort and inspire. Nature is eternally creative. Just as are Love's Expressions—imperishable, wherever they have touched life in others goes on and on. And none of us can give of ourselves without a healthy and wholesome come back.

French Crisis Reflects More Than Politics

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
(Associated Press News Analyst)

The fall of the French government of Premier Queuille is not in itself cause for any extreme gravity; it's what must be expected frequently in a country which has such a multiplicity of political parties that maintenance of a government majority in parliament is difficult.

However, the present crisis reflects far more than domestic politics. It grew out of devaluation of the franc and is a part of the Western European economic disorganization which also is strongly in evidence in Great Britain.

That dislocation is causing increasingly deep concern in the chancelleries of the democracies, for it renders peace more vulnerable.

It scarcely can be by mere chance that the French crisis comes as an intensification-et-the bitterness in the quarrel between Moscow and the fiery Balkan state of Yugoslavia.

The consensus of observers is that the French government crisis has its roots in the recent devaluation of the British pound sterling, which forced a like devaluation upon France and other Western European countries.

Gravely Embarrassed

The Conservative London Daily Mail says Queuille's resignation was due largely to England's devaluation, about which France wasn't consulted. The newspaper adds that the premier has been gravely embarrassed by the consequent rise in prices.

In any event, an increase in prices, and fear of inflation, brought quick demands from French labor for increases in wages to meet a higher cost of living. This was reflected in the labor unrest which became divided over the issue.

The government (that is, the cabinet), has been the central core in parliament between the followers of Gen. de Gaulle on the extreme right and the Communists on the extreme left. Queuille, who is a Radical Socialist (Conservative), was strongly opposed by the former, and apparently he believed would create further inflation. On this he stood.

In this the premier was supported by the right-wing members of his cabinet, but opposed by the leftists. Naturally that created a difficult situation, and finally he tendered his resignation. That left the country without a government pending the formation of another cabinet.

THE PACKSACK

OF GREGORY CLARK

A prison chaplain has just told me that ninety-five per cent of all inmates of prison are just stupid.

"In the past couple of years," he said, "I've seen children grow up, have been insisting on going to the movies, in an effort to bring me down to date, I suppose. I have been greatly shocked by the type of some of the movies in depicting criminals. They bear little if any resemblance to the real thing. On the screen, criminals are clever, cunning, alert, often wise.

"In real life they are painfully dull and stupid. I don't suppose I've met a dozen in all my dubs on earth than you will find in the title of the law. Some of them think they are smart—and they are the dreariest of all.

"Psychiatrists tell me that a great many criminals are defective. This is probably so. If laziness is a defect, then criminals are defectives. Sheer laziness is surely one of the chief sources of crime. In an effort to escape work, a young man tries to be smart, and get by without work. One of the commonest attributes of a lazy person is a silly pretence at cunning. In nine cases out of ten the handcuffs on a criminal are merely confessions of his own stupidity. In no other part would he that they were born a fool, stupid, and very lazy as the result. I am not so sure that it is to me that if their parents had spanked them into a reasonable respect for work, they would have had less trouble. On the other hand they may be the children of lazy and stupid parents.

"At all events, both the movies and the fiction in which I am doing a great wrong in picturing criminals as smart. Possibly they would be so in order to make a story, in order to sell their stuff. But the vast majority of those who end up in prison are just plain stupid. There is no art to it and nothing at all clever about of them, movies and fiction and the contrary, there isn't much of a story to tell."

PITCHING HORSESHOES

By Billy Rose

"There must be a lot of amusing differences in readers' tastes around the world," I said.

"Yip and Yap," the editor told me, "we find that the pulling power of the comic strip characters ratio to how closely it affects the reader. Our polls indicate that kids like Connecticut want to know the same basic things—how to get by, how to be successful and how to be happier."

"All the same," I said, "a dissecting team of psychiatrists and items can't have much appeal to a mass literate millers away."

"Foreign readers are interested in almost anything that has to do with life in the United States," said the editor. "Of course, there are exceptions. For instance, we seldom use pictures of motorboats about old age pensions, health insurance and interplanetary relations. The Danes, Swedes and Norwegians consider them old hat and the people of the United States is so far behind their own progress in these fields. On the other hand these pieces are eliminated in our South America editions for the opposite reason."

On my way into New York, I got to thinking of this problem also periodical on the thinking of the world. As I got it, is quite a circulation here and abroad better than 16,000,000 copies a week. Judging by my recent trip around the globe, it probably comes closer to being the Voice of Democracy than the Voice itself. For one thing, people like the oversized eight-ball have more eye than words and, for another, a privately-published magazine can be more outspoken which is attached to anything official.

My house in Mt. Kisco is only five miles from the Digest's editorial offices, and my wife says she doesn't like this one little bit. Eleanor figures it this way: If the Russians ever decide to atom bomb us they're certain to drop the bombs right down on the one plant in Pleasantville, and with their notoriously bad aim it's a cinch to fall smack down over our chimney.

DIABETES AND FEET

In a recent letter a woman started: "I am a diabetic. I take insulin every day but what worries me in the trouble with my feet, and I want to get some remedy to heal them. I have a pain in them all the time. Arteriosclerosis or "hardening of the arteries," is a very common condition after the age of fifty, and arteriosclerosis obliterans is partial or total occlusion of the arteries which supply the extremities. What has this to do with diabetes and his feet? We have learned that the diabetic is prone to acquire this condition much earlier in life than the individual with normal secretion of insulin.

The facts regarding the relationship of diabetes and premature arteriosclerosis are that diabetics have an excess of cholesterol (a fatty substance) in the blood, and diabetics with advanced arteriosclerosis also have a blood cholesterol level. The sclerotic (hardened) arteries has deposits of cholesterol in them, which cholesterol is diet does not necessarily predispose to arteriosclerosis, but research has not been able to learn exactly how these facts can be applied to the situation in the individual case. The research scientist tries so hard to disprove a theory or assumption as to prove it, and to his dismay he often succeeds. But even though the facts in this case been entirely correlated, they have not been established for method of treatment and prevention of complications in the diabetic with early arteriosclerosis.

In a study of diabetics and normal patients of comparable ages, it has been found that excessive arterial process is eleven times more frequent among the diabetics.

Adequate blood supply is an absolute necessity for the maintenance and life of the tissues of the body. The feet and lower extremities are especially subject to symptoms and complications of inadequate blood supply due to the occlusion or shutting-off process by arteriosclerotic obliterans. Cramping pain occurs in the leg or foot with exercises such as walking, which increases the amount of blood required in greatest during exercises. Sometimes an actual gangrene occurs in rest with more severe obliteration of the arteries and the patient feels cold, and the use of hot water, a stove or fire, or any other kind of heat to warm them is very dangerous, and may lead gangrene.

Diabetic gangrene of the toes is due to the same arterial disease and is a sort of rotting of the dead tissues. If the arterial occlusion is severe, the cure for this type of gangrene is amputation above the knee because the operative wound tends not to heal below that level. Gangrene in this case first appears as a greenish-purple discoloration of the skin and then a black crust near the tip to the toe or the nail. Also because of the poor blood supply infection of the feet is more likely to occur and is dangerous. Pressure from poorly fitting shoes can cause the gangrene or ulceration of the skin.

Proper control of the diabetic and care of the feet are very important in the prevention of these complications. Mechanical injury and damage by heating the feet should be avoided. The feet must be kept clean and dry with careful attention to the nails. Toe-nails should always be cut straight across and to avoid injuring the margins. Corns and caluses should be cut but razor blades that fit safely should be purchased to prevent them.

THE UNDERSTANDING HEART

As Solomon prepared himself for the throne, God appeared to him in a dream by night and said, "Ask what I shall give thee." And Solomon said, Give, therefore thy servant an understanding heart."

It is interesting to observe that Solomon did not ask for an understanding mind, but rather for an understanding heart. That is a confronted life he wanted not just a mind with which to deal with facts; most of all he wanted a heart with which to deal with people. He knew that the most important thing in the world is personality and he wanted to have an understanding heart that he might serve persons.

One of the greatest needs today is the need for understanding hearts. Most of the international chaos is due to the fact that men who control the destiny of great groups of people do not have understanding hearts. Men could not act as dictators if they had the least feeling for people. Men plan both World Wars from the War Office Building and manage troop maneuvers from shelter so far behind the front that they can scarcely hear the solemn booming of guns.

Men can only be great when they are lacking in understanding and sympathy. They have understanding hearts to discern understanding minds and evil, how low their fellow men too much to hurt them.

ANGRY VICAR URGES "CAT" FOR ROBBERS

Leicester, England — (CP) — All the world's robbers should be flogged with the cat-of-nine-tails, said Rev. J. R. Collins, vicar of St. Mary de Castro, Leicester, at the recent theft of two candlesticks from his church.

"If a few of the rogues who spend their time robbing churches were given one, I'm sure they might think twice before committing the offence a second time," the vicar said.

Injuries are hampering Toronto Maple Leafs of the National Hockey League—just as they're preparing for the All-Star game at Toronto Monday.

The Stanley Cup champion Leafs, none of whom had been placed on the All-Star team, Thursday lost the services of Franklin Mathers, who suffered a broken toe during a practice session. He is expected to be out of the lineup for at least two weeks.

Mathers is the second rearguard sidelined for the "big" game. Gus Mortson last week suffered a minor leg fracture at the Leaf's St. Catharines training camp.

However, Mortson is expected to be in shape when the Leafs open their N.H.L. league schedule Oct. 15 against Chicago Black Hawks. The league starts Oct. 12 with Boston Bruins at Detroit Red Wings.

The New York Rangers' roster is taking more definite shape as the Blueshirts whirl through practice sessions at their Lake Placid, N.Y., training camp.

Manager Frank Boucher and Coach Lynn Patrick Thursday talked new contracts with players following their 4-1 win over New Haven Ramblers, their American League farmhands, Wednesday.

Boucher started Chuck Rayner in the nets with Wally Stanowski and Gus Kyle, star rookie from Regina Capitals, holding down the first-string defence posts.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, Jr.

New York, Oct. 7 — (AP) Sounds that pass in the night: two of the hottest rumors around World Series headquarters are that Terry Moore will become manager of Cincinnati Reds and Buffalo's Paul Richards will be named pilot of Chicago White Sox . . . You probably could make money betting they're both wrong.

Warren Giles, Cincinnati general manager, insists he hasn't made up his mind about a new manager, but he gives every indication it will be someone with plenty of managerial experience . . . and the signs point toward

AT THE CAPITOL—Top action star, Red Grooms, lands the impressive first of the Republic Trucolor epic, "Rustling," attraction at the Capitol Theatre today and Saturday. On the same program "The Mystery of Amarilio," with Allan "Rocky" Lane. Continuous show Saturday from 1.00 p.m.

AT THE CAPITOL — Noted actor, Walter Brennan, gives another of his outstanding performances as the murdering cattle baron, Pete Egan, in "In Republic's magnificent Trucolor epic, "Rustling," attraction at the Capitol Theatre today and Saturday. Continuous show Saturday from 1.00 p.m.

Jack Ohlow remaining with Chicago even though Frank Lane may occasionally praise him with faint damns.

Jake Pitler, the Dodger coach, might qualify as a minor prophet as a result of yesterday's Brooklyn victory . . . Before the Brooks took the field, Jake predicted: — "We're going to beat them today. If Roe has his stuff they won't hit him hard. He won't beat himself; they'll have to beat him . . . At any rate they won't beat us like they did in 1947. They're the same fellows, two years older, but maybe without quite as much speed and power as they had then."

Johnny Lindell, hitting a neat .343 so far, recalls the 1947 series when he hit .500 against Dodger pitching . . . "I had nine hits for 18 at bats and seven R. B. I.'s," says big John. "I'd like to repeat about half of it."

You can be a good enough bridge player without being able to solve framed bridge puzzles. But it is good practice. Here and there you pick up a hint that may serve you in an emergency.

The contract is in no-trump. South and north must take all 13 tricks. A spade is led. If you so desire, take trick one with the north spade ace and return the spade jack.

Whether or not the east queen covers the north jack, the south and north spades can take five tricks. The first three spade tricks that are won, however, start a series of squeezes.

West must discard on the third spade. His duty here is plain. He must protect the red suits against north. He must depend on east to block the clubs. So, west shifts a club on the third spade.

South then takes two more tricks with spade leads. On them go the two clubs remaining in west. North sheds a small heart and a small diamond. East lets go of a club and a heart.

Then three heart tricks are good with king and ace and jack. The heart jack lead squeezes east into coughing up a diamond or a club. Whichever he does has no effect on the result.

If it is a diamond that east sheds, three good diamonds and two top clubs take the last five tricks. Firing a club does east no good. Top diamonds and good clubs take the remaining tricks.

On the third spade trick west might elect to throw a diamond or heart instead of a club. On the next two spade leads from south the squeeze begins working against west and east again.

Such problems are too far fetched for most of us. We do not have the photographic mind that retains the steps. We get something out of it, however. Usually a headache.

WEDDINGS

LANE—BRYANT

At Little Current United Church, on Wednesday, October 5th, at 4 p.m., a pretty wedding was solemnized before an altar banked with pink and white gladioli by the Rev. J. F. Lane, pastor of the church, assisted by the Rev. Mr. Bergbusch. Garret, when Lois Marie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James R. Bryant, of Little Current, became the bride of Kenneth Frederick Lane, Wellington, Ont., son of the Rev. J. F. Lane and Mrs. Lane, Wellington, Ont.

Mrs. W. G. Allston provided the wedding music.

The lovely bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a floor length gown of white satin with French lace inserts in skirt and bodice. The long, tight fitting sleeves ended in lily points at the wrists. She wore a shoulder length veil of tulle illusion, and carried a shower bouquet of red roses.

Miss Helen Lane, sister of the bridegroom, of Wellington, was maid of honor, wearing a yellow floor length taffeta gown with matching hat. Miss Joyce Bailey, of Little Current, Ont., was bridesmaid, gowned in rose taffeta with picture hat and gloves. Both carried shower bouquets of roses.

Pettie Sandra Smith of Little Current, was flower girl wearing a yellow floor length frock with net overskirt. She carried a nosegay of pastel tinted flowers.

Mr. Charles Lane of Oakwood, Ont., was groomsman, and the ushers were Mr. Pat Bryant and Mr. Vernon Kemp.

The wedding reception was held at Little Current Inn, where the bride's mother, wearing a street length gown of grey rayon crepe with black accessories and corsage, was assisted by the bridegroom's mother, who was attractively dressed in grey with black accessories and floral corsage.

For the wedding trip the bride chose a navy blue suit, with matching accessories and floral corsage. Upon their return they will reside in Wellington.

Out-of-town guests were: Mrs. Florence Marshall, of Sudbury; Mr. Don Ball, of Wellington; Mr. Vernon Kemp, of Wellington, and Miss Dorothy Lane, of Oakwood, Ont.

FRY—ROGERS

Wooler.—On Saturday, Oct. 1, in a ceremony at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Rogers, by Rev. Saxton of Murray Township, amid a setting of pink gladioli, pink and white streamers, their youngest daughter, Helen Luella, became the bride of Donald Reginald Fry, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Fry. The Rev. F. A. Lawson, great uncle of the bride, officiated.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a suit of olive green with darker green accessories. Her flowers were yellow roses.

The bridesmaid, Miss Leona Couture, wore a grey suit and carried a bouquet of pink roses.

Mr. Harold Conner ably performed the duties of groomsman.

The bride's mother received in a gown of blue crepe with a corsage of red roses.

After a reception at the bride's home, the happy couple left for a wedding trip to Montreal, and the their return will reside in Trenton.

Out-of-town guests were, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Fry, Miss Gertrude Fry, Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Treacy and daughter, Leila Bledner, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Wilson and son, John, all of Toronto; Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Curry and daughter, Jean, of Peterborough; also a number of friends of the bride and groom from Trenton and the Airport.

HEDGER—BEAGLE

Standards of pastel colored gladioli and other cut flowers formed the setting in the newly-decorated Wellman's United Church, on Sept. 24, when early June, second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Beagle, became the bride of Mr. Raymond Leonard Hedger, son of Mrs. Edith Hedger, of Belleville, and the late Walter James Hedger. The Rev. H. C. Vaclavik officiated at the double ring service.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a graceful gown of white slipper satin and lace, fashioned with sweetheart neckline, lily-point sleeves and full skirt, forming a slight train. An orange blossom coronet held her long veil and she carried a cascade of American Beauty roses.

Miss Eleanor Hedger of Belleville, as maid of honor, wore a gown of yellow brocaded sheer with matching hat and mitts. She carried a cascade of pink roses.

The bridesmaids were Miss Mary Heagle, Wellman's and Miss Dorothy Dickie, Belleville. They were gowned alike in turquoise green faille taffeta, with matching hats and mitts and carried nosegays of baby 'mums and asters.

Mr. Ronald Hedger, brother of the groom, was groomsman, and the ushers were, Allan Heagle, of Portland and Fred Thibaudeau, of Belleville.

The wedding music was played by Mrs. Lorna Watson. Mrs. Frederick Beckett, as soloist, sang "The Lord's Prayer," before the ceremony and "Because" during the signing of the register.

Mrs. Heagle received her guests at the home, dressed in a gown of grey crepe with black accessories, and a corsage of deep pink roses. Assisting her, was Mrs. Hedger in a gown of rose crepe. She was black accessories and a corsage of yellow roses.

Guests attended from Belleville, Trenton, Tweed, Smiths Falls, Sault Ste. Marie, Portland, Batawa, Brantford, Ivanhoe, Stirling, and Mount Pleasant.

BATEMAN—WRIGHT

A quiet, but pretty wedding took place at St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Picton, on Saturday, Oct. 1, when Marjorie Dunlop, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Wright, was united in marriage to Carl Elliott, son of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Bateman, Tweed.

The bride wore a navy wool gabardine suit with navy accessories and a corsage of red roses.

Miss Donna Parnell, of Belleville, was bridesmaid, wearing a brown wool gabardine suit with brown accessories and a corsage of red roses.

Mr. Gerald Eggleton of Cannington was groomsman.

The groom's gift to the bride was a chest of silver; the bride's gift to the groom was a wallet and the bridesmaid a gold bracelet. The groom's gift to the best man was a leather billfold.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the Quinte Hotel, Belleville, when the happy couple left for a motor trip to Detroit, Ohio, Virginia and Washington.

Upon their return they will reside in Stirling.

Mr. and Mrs. Roscoe Robinson spent Sunday evening with Mr. and Mrs. Elmore Peck.

Paris Normal Again Except Women's Hats

Vancouver, (CP)—Paris is back to normal, says a visiting French author—except for women's hats which are never normal.

Jane Lauret Weiss, French journalist, is gathering impressions on Pacific four which will be recorded and broadcast to the 40,000,000 listeners on the French national broadcasting system.

Paris, she says, is "as gay as ever."

The tooting taxis are back again; sidewalk cafes are doing business; night spots, theatres, cinemas and the stream of tourists are back in the pre-war spirit.

As for fashions, she believes the new look will shortly become the old look as designers turn backward shorter dresses with fewer frills and trimmer lines."

FORMER CHAPLAIN INDUCTED

Lindsay, Oct. 7 — (CP) —Rev. Thomas Rutherford, 46, of Canaanoque was inducted Wednesday as minister of the Haliburton pastorate of the United Church. A former army chaplain, Rev. Rutherford succeeds Rev. Gordon Smyth, well-known for his application of the "Parable of the Talents" to the Sunday look over a new charge at Yonge Street United Church, Toronto.

Well Styled Tweed Coat

Checks for town and country

By GRACE THORNCLIFFE

CHECKED TWEED in brown and green is used for a casual little town or country suit. This year checks, in many costumes including informal evening outfits. This daytime number has flapped pockets placed in a diagonal line at the chest, and there is a single breasted closing below the little turn-down collar. The rounded cut-away jacket is nicely fitted through the middle. The skirt has one inverted box-pleat in front, and released tucks from the belt.

GORE

The Gore.— The anniversary services at Victoria on Sunday were splendidly attended. The Rev. Mr. Kingerley, of Consecon, gave helpful messages in the morning on 'God's Tabernacles' and in the evening on 'Our Living Faith'.

The choir, under the leadership of Miss Betty Dempsey, was assisted by Mrs. Kingerley, who sang a solo at each of the two services. The financial returns in connection with the anniversary too were most gratifying. The Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Kingerley were guests on Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. Vanclief and Ross.

The October meeting of the W.M.S., was held at the home of Mrs. Sidney Fox on Wednesday afternoon.

Mrs. Price of Selby, is visiting her daughter, Mrs. M. C. Weaver, Mr. Pulver and Morris.

Mr. and Mrs. Ross Lott were guests of their son and wife, Mr. and Mrs. E. Lott on Hillier, on Sunday.

Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Brickman and Audra were, Mr. and Mrs. McCutcheon, Mr. and Mrs. Mckay, Mrs. McLean, and Mr. Ralph Stafford, all of Reinerville.

Mr. and Mrs. Haviland Hubbs and Miss Bessie Sager were Sunday guests of Mrs. W. J. Hubbs.

Mr. Alfred Caine, Selby, was a dinner guest of his friend, Morris Pulver, on Sunday.

Mrs. F.W. Harris Guest Speaker at Combined Meeting

The Women's Missionary Society, Evening Auxiliary, Mission Circle, C.G.I.T. held a joint Thank-offering meeting in Bridge Street United Church on Tuesday evening last, and at 6.30 o'clock all sat down to a delicious pot-luck supper.

Mrs. F. Thalia, president of the W.M.S., welcomed the members and visitors.

The members of the Invictus Mission Circle took charge of the fine worship service, while the offering was taken by the C.G.I.T. and dedicated by the singing of "From All That Dwell Below the Skies".

A delightful solo by Mrs. William Burgoyne, "How Lovely are Thy Dwellings", was greatly enjoyed by all.

Mrs. E. Denyes introduced the guest speaker of the evening, Mrs. F. W. Harris, of Peterborough, who gave a challenging address, taking as her subject, "She touched the hem of His garment from Matthew 9:12, Mrs. Harris pointed out that the 'hems' through which spiritual help can be gained were, prayer, the Bible, and the Church, adding that the lack of intangible things was the downfall of the National Government in China'.

She appealed to all to stop talking and writing, and start to show Christ to others. In the realm of practical Christianity, "We have everything that we must share them with the devastated countries. Europe's churches are packed, and we must help them by prayer, and by our gifts", stated the speaker.

Mrs. Harris closed with the address by the prayer used by Mrs. Self.

After Mrs. Clare had expressed her appreciation to Mrs. Harris for her splendid and appealing talk, the meeting was brought to a close.

Women's Activities

BOWERMAN'S W. A.

Consecon.—Bowerman's W. A., being one week later, was held at the home of Mrs. Fred Maxwell and Mrs. Claud Maxwell, on Wednesday afternoon. Mrs. Henry played the hymns. The president, Mrs. Claud Maxwell, gave the devotional; minutes were read and roll called by Mrs. Claud Maxwell, seventeen members and thirteen visitors were present. Collection and birthday card and back dues amounted to $13.72.

It was decided for the president to go to new district meeting. It also decided not to have any supper this fall. The bazaar on Nov. 23, was planned. The next W.A. meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Ross Lott when a quilt will be quilted and everyone to bring pot-luck birthday dinner. Those who are not able to come in the morning, are invited to come for the afternoon to the afternoon, November 26.

After the meeting closed, delicious refreshments were served.

'Little Helpers' Hold Impressive Ceremony At Christ Church

Wednesday afternoon golden sunshine filtered through the tinted stained glass windows of Christ Church and mingled with the soft strains of organ music playing in the background for the "Little Helpers" yearly ceremony of the mite boxes.

One by one the members, some with babes in arms, others with little toddlers by the hand, slowly made their way down the red carpeted aisle, and taking their places, bowed and prayer. So on and on, till the nave was nearly filled with little faces, and children's muffled treble, ever which floated the poignant melody "Can a Little Child Like Me Thank the Father Fittingly?"

After the singing of the opening hymn, "When Mothers of Salem', Rural Dean, the Rev. J. Grant Sparling led in the devotional prayer, followed by the Scripture reading by the assisting curate, the Rev. W. E. Mason, from Mark 10: 13-16 ". . . Suffer the little children to come unto Me and forbid them not: for of such is the Kingdom of God. . . ."

Deposit Boxes

During the singing of the well-known hymn "When Mother's Love Me this I know" the children on the right side of the nave proceeded down the aisle with their mite boxes and deposited them in the white containers at the chancel rail. This continued in orderly fashion until all present had presented their gifts. Those children, who were too small to walk or go alone, were either escorted or carried by the mothers. The two containers were then carried down the aisle by the altar and dedicated by Mr. Sparling.

Following the dedication prayer, and dismissal hymn "Jesus Bids Us Shine", the children and mothers wended their way to the Parish Hall where a delightful afternoon tea had been arranged for their pleasure. The dainty cookies and wonderful fruit bread were donated by the Evening Branch and the Senior Branch of the W.A. were organist of the church, provided the children's music.

WEST HUNTINGDON
Community Welcome Featured by Lovely Gift

West Huntingdon—A pleasant time was spent at Mr. Foster Wilson's home on Friday evening, it being the occasion of welcoming to the community his bride, the former Miss Irene Irvine.

Mr. Kinney Post was chairman for the evening's program, which consisted of a reading by Miss Barbara Fargey; a solo by Miss Marilyn Fitchett; and a piano solo by Miss Louis Cooke; Mr. Chester Sills gave a brief address.

Mrs. John McIntyre read the address and the newlyweds were presented with a...writing desk. Both Foster and Grace voiced their appreciation for the lovely gift.

Cooke, and her assistants, Mrs. Ross Watson, Mrs. Wm. Watson, Mrs. J. Spencer, Mrs. J. Milligan, and Mrs. G. O'Brien.

The "Little Helpers" is composed of children who are baptised, but not quite on the roll until they reach the seventh birthday. The money derived from the mite boxes is used for foreign missions, so that the gospel may be carried to the regions beyond, in Africa, and India, who attend Sunday School by post.

Outlines Program

After the children had finished their tea, Mr. Sparling gave a short word of welcome to the children and mothers, after which they had a full program for all ages, from the three-year-olds up to mothers. Mite boxes were also extended to Mrs. Cooke, and her assistants, who had had the responsibility for making the afternoon such a splendid success.

At the conclusion the children dispersed to their various homes, the mothers to wait on the mite boxes for the next year. Police protection was engaged to oversee the children were given their carriages that were assembled on the lawn. At the close of the church during the ceremony, and while the afternoon tea was in progress, Mr. Harry Watson, organist of the Sunday School Lesson of the Week

When Men Make Gods

By ROY L. SMITH

Whenever a man sets out to make a god he makes a little one. The ancients believed the gods were just like men, only a little bigger and a little more lustful.

To please the gods they undertook to offer them the things that please men. They flattered them, fawned upon them, paid them empty compliments, and played upon their jealousies in the hope of winning favors for themselves.

A Seer Among The Hebrews

Sometime about the middle of the eighth century before Christ there appeared a seer among the Hebrews, one of the most remarkable characters that has ever lived, who saw distinctly that Jehovah the Hebrew God, was a being altogether different and distinct from any other divinity the worshipped anywhere in the world—one who had not the slightest interest in ceremonies and lavish ritual but who was supremely concerned in the moral character of his worshippers. To him must go the credit for having launched a spiritual movement which was destined in time to revolutionize religion for all men.

Religion Without Morality

Nowhere in that ancient world was there any piety with any interest in moral, ethics, justice or personal character. Semitic peoples had fashioned for themselves brutish gods. Justice, mercy, and virtue was as foreign to religion among them as hollyhocks were foreign to astronomy.

"What possible interest can the gods take in the worship of men and his money, treats his fellow man, or discharges his moral obligations?" they asked in amazement of Amos, the prophet. "If we pile the altars high with sacrifices and elaborate the ceremonies no god has any right to ask anything more."

Isaiah, the great sage and saint only a few years later than Amos announced that Jehovah the god of the Hebrews had no interest whatever in such ceremonial sacrifices, and flatteries except as true worship came up to him from men in whom there was a profound love of all the moral virtues.

A Union Packed With Destiny

The scientists have shown great interest in the question of who may have been the first to discover the principle of the lever, and the first distillation of alcohol. But far more important to human progress is the question: "Who first linked the forces of religion to morality?"

The Sunday School lesson for October 9 is: "The Moral Basis for the True Worship," Isaiah 1:10-20; Jeremiah 7.

"The answer to that question is not far to seek. The union was consummated in the Hebrews, and Isaiah, the eight century prophet was one of the greatest of all the advocates of society in that regard. Never since the days he preached in Jerusalem, has it been possible to separate moral character from good religion. Since that day to the world has been tremendous.

The Gospel of Isaiah Today

There is a persistent danger that Isaiah Gospel may be overshadowed by the complicated and intricacies of modern worship. It is easy for a people to believe they have flattered and pleased God when they have built a huge cathedral, raised vast sums of money for good causes, or elaborated their worship services.

Let there be no misunderstanding. There is a need for these things. But if they ever become a substitute for true worship then they fall under exactly the condemnation that Isaiah heaped upon the sinners and the services of his day.

There are a few questions which any congregation of worshippers might well ask themselves next Sunday morning. Is the cause of justice any stronger in this community because we have gotten in the house of God this morning? Are the rights of the poor and the oppressed any safer because we sing hymns? Is the moral standard of the community any higher when we leave the church than it was when we entered. Is there to be any more kindliness in our town this week because we sat for one hour this morning in God's holy Presence?"

MEMBERS URGE

It reaches a vote on second reading — adoption in principle.

The comics discussion came during private members' day in the Commons, devoted to legislation originating from outside the government.

The Senate continued with the throne-speech debate. Senator A. N. McLean (L — New Brunswick) urged that the government allow currency to find its own level, because of lack of expected government business from the Commons, the Senate adjourned until Oct. 17.

Where was privacy unanimity to the Commons on the offensive publications.

"Give our children the funnies but let's give them the clean ones," said G. K. Fraser (PC — Peterborough West).

Ban Into Difficulties

Leading off the discussion, Mr. Fraser said British Columbia had attempted to take action against crime comics in 1943 but had run into difficulty because the publishers were in Eastern Canada. Since they could not be dealt with provincially, it was a matter for the federal code, he said. He noted that there is no duty on plates and mats coming into Canada from the United States for the purpose of printing comic books.

In addition there was no sales tax on the books while daily newspapers were forced to pay such tax. There is only one weekly newspaper in Canada not paying sales tax and that is the Toronto Star Weekly, Mr. Fraser said.

Like Clean Comics

In all fairness to Canadian children, every member should support this amendment, he said. He didn't like the "trash" contained in the dime crime comics. He had read them.

"We all like comics," he said. "But we like clean comics."

Mr. Cavers said he had been asked to take a stand in the Collingwood area by the Kiwanis Club which had passed a resolution urging action against crime comics.

They have a bad influence on the moral standards of young people, he declared.

In many cities there were bands of hoodlums, known as beanery gangs, which, he said, were probably influenced by the poor literature.

Mr. Cavers said he knew of one druggist in St. Catharines who conducts his own censorship. However, individual censorship could not be generally depended upon to stamp out the harmful literature.

Praises Newspapers

He gave credit to newspapers for what he described as high standards in comic sections. This he thought, was probably the reason newspapers were not included in the amendment.

Angus MacInnis (CCF — Vancouver East) said he supports the principle of the bill although he is not sure their influences can be overcome strictly by negative action. There should be positive action. Young people should be given enough interesting things to do to take their minds away from comic books.

He was also wary about too much discussion of the salacious literature, by condemning the comics vociferously the Commons was "advertising them," he said.

Members struck off on lengthy tests of opinion in discussion of the comic-book bill.

Attacks Principle

At one stage Mr. McInnis attacked the principle of bingo games being held for charity. If an object was worthy it should receive support without resorting to gambling. If it wasn't worthy then it shouldn't be supported at all.

Hon. Goode (L-Burnaby-Richmond) said he believes parents have a lot to do with a child's attraction to comics. When juvenile delinquency was blamed on crime comics, it usually was because the parents did not know enough to take the books away from the children.

R. R. Knight (CCF-Saskatoon City) said he is not sure he favors the bill. It is a moral censorship and he didn't know whether courts were competent to do the job.

He felt there was a dearth of interesting and low juvenile readers. What was available was costly.

Instead of censorship, efforts should be made to cultivate among young people a taste for good literature.

Joseph Noseworthy (CCF-York South) said legislation is no substitute for education, for good libraries, literature and healthful recreation.

He felt, however, that public opinion is strong enough in this case to make enforcement of any such legislation enforceable.

WATER POLLUTION

Carrying Out Survey

However, he said, the International Joint Commission now is carrying out a survey of the pollution of international waters. He offered to extend the survey from the head of Lake Ontario to the international boundary at Cornwall.

The commission was asked in 1946 to undertake a survey of the factors responsible for pollution of the international waters and to recommend "appropriate steps" to the governments of Canada and the United States.

An advisory board of eight—four Canadians and four Americans—was established and its first report, covering the waters between Lake Superior and Lake Erie, will be presented Oct. 12 to the International Joint Commission. The second section of the report, covering waters between Lake Erie and Ontario, now is being prepared but will not be available for some time.

Mr. Chevrier said the surveys are of reference do not cover the bodies of water between Lake Ontario and the end of the international section of the St. Lawrence River near Cornwall.

"If it meets with the approval of the House, I am perfectly willing to ask the International Joint Commission to add to its survey the additional international waters extending from the head of Lake Ontario to the international boundary at Cornwall."

No Immediate Comment

There was no immediate comment on the offer.

Mr. Adamson disagreed with the ministers contention that the pollution problem is outside federal jurisdiction. He said that oil slicks such as crossed Lake Ontario beaches last summer were a danger not only to health but to navigation, a matter clearly within federal competence.

W. J. Henderson (L-Kingston City) said Kingston was one of those cities whose plants poured sewage into the St. Lawrence. The greatest hardship, if this bill passed, would fall on the taxpayers of such cities because they would be put to the expense of installing disposal plants.

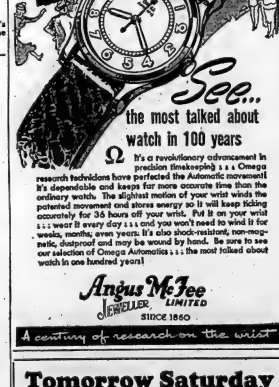
Further, the question should more properly be brought up in provincial legislature, because that was where it belonged under the constitution.

MARMORA

Marmora—The October meeting of the Catholic Women's League was held in Sacred Heart School on Tuesday evening, October 4, with a good attendance. The president, Mrs. Charles Cook occupied the chair. The meeting opened in the usual manner after which the president welcomed the new director, the Reverend J. A. O'Neill, the executive and members.

Following the roll call, the correspondence was dealt with. This included a letter from the Diocesan president, Mrs. McGlade, of Healing Falls, thanking the president and members for their kindness and hospitality at the Regional meeting held last month.

Reports Given



The treasurer's report was then given by Mrs. Carl Heath, Social Welfare reports were given by Mrs. K. J. Donaldson, and Mrs. C. Crawford, Mrs. William Forestell reported three visits made to sick and shut-ins.

Miss Mary Hughes, convener of the Sewing Club displayed two quilts, which will be quilted next week and will be in aid of the coming bazaar.

Mrs. Cooke spoke of the Regional meeting and thanked all who had helped to make it a success. She tendered special thanks to Mrs. W. A. Shannon, who had entertained the Diocesan president in her home and also thanked Mrs. C. Crawford, who had provided transportation for the guest from the train and afterwards to Belleville.

It was decided to send a donation to Our Ladies' Missionary.

Mrs. George Forestell and Miss Mary Brady volunteered to visit the sick and shut-ins during this month.

Farmers May be Liable if Cattle Cause Injury

Toronto, Oct. 7 — (CP) — T. H. Phelan, Toronto lawyer who was cited by the Deputy Attorney-General of Ontario as an expert in the matter, said today farmers who allow their livestock to stray under untended on provincial highways might be held liable in civil actions for damages if, accidents involving their cattle caused personal injury or death.

Earlier, J. D. Millar, Deputy Minister of Highways, said farmers are protected against civil actions in such accidents when there is property damage only.

Mr. Millar said when a farm animal runs at large on the highway the owner can be prosecuted, but a clause in the Highway Improvement Act, revised in 1939, provides that the owners of the animals shall not be liable in any civil action or action for damages arising out of the accidents.

Frank Clark, 28, of Peterborough, was killed Tuesday when his transport overturned on the highway near Newtonville, Ont. Police said he swerved the vehicle to avoid hitting a stray cow.

It is the responsibility of the owner of the stock to keep it off the highway or if it is left untended when on the highway, Mr. Millar said. If a motorist strikes an animal when it is abroad, no responsibility falls on the owner of the animal.

When the animals are tended the responsibility becomes that of the motor vehicle driver.

Dr. A. Galbraith Car Crash Victim

Windsor, Oct. — (CP)—Dr. Archis H. Galbraith, 52, a 1949 graduate of the University of Western Ontario Medical School, was killed early today in a motor accident near Amherstburg, Ont.

Dr. Galbraith, who had attended an interne roast at nearby Riverside earlier, was returning to Windsor from Amherstburg at the time.

Nearby residents heard the impact of a crash and notified police shortly before 4 a.m. The vehicle was found in an upside down position with Dr. Galbraith lying on the road dead.

An interne at Windsor's Hotel Dieu Hospital, he was a stay mate with Western's football team the last few seasons.

Armed Bandit May be Hiding In Bush Cabin

Ramore, Ont., Oct 7 — (CP — Police believe an armed bandit who committed a $700 robbery here may be "holed up" in a bush cabin in this Northern Ontario district.

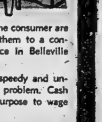
The man fled in a taxicab after scooping the money from a desk drawer in the office of the manager of the Canada Iron Foundries late Tuesday. The cab driver told police that, unaware of the robbery, he drove the man 15 miles south on Highway No. 11 and let him out of the car on a lonely stretch of road near Seskenkika.

Then, while police hastened to block roads leading from Ramore to Timmins, 54 miles northwest of here, and to Kirkland Lake, 35 southwest of Ramore, the robber vanished into the rocky, wooded wilderness surrounding Seskenkika. Numerous cabins used in the past by lumbermen are scattered through the bush, most of them accessible only to a person travelling on foot.

However, law officers admit the possibility that the bandit made a rendezvous near Seskenkika with someone in another car. They are carrying the search north to the gold-mining town of Timmins, south to Englehart in the area between Kirkland Lake and North Bay, and about 90 miles east to the Quebec border.

Police maintained an all-night watch near Seskenkika Lever a stretch of Highway No. 11, main northbound traffic artery linking North Bay and Timmins.

Former Postmaster General of U.S. Dies



St. Louis, Oct. 7 (AP)Robert E. Hannegan, former United States postmaster general and one-time owner of the St. Louis Cardinals, died today at his home here.

The cause of his death was not immediately disclosed, but Hannegan has been in failing health for some time.

Hannegan, 48, gave his health as the reason for selling his interest in the Cardinal baseball team.

Hannegan retired as postmaster general in November, 1947, to head a syndicate buying the St. Louis baseball club. He also had served as chairman of the National Democratic Committee and directed the party's 1944 United States presidential campaign.

Arrest Follows Stolen Bonds Investigation

Ottawa, Oct. 7 — (CP) — A trail of stolen bonds, taken from a rock-smashed government safe, has landed a federal government employee in jail.

George Oscar Ricker, 30, of Ottawa, an employee of the Dominion Bureau of Statistics, is being held without bail today in connection with the theft six months ago of more than $1,000 from a Bureau safe.

In a brief arraignment in court Wednesday, Ricker was remanded in custody until Friday. He was arrested at his home here last night.

Exact nature of the charges against Ricker were not disclosed. However, police said they were laid in connection with a break-in and robbery at the Bureau last April 9. In the robbery a 200-pound safe was smashed open and looted of $1,400 in cash, $250 in cash, a number of uncashed paycheques and several important government documents.

Police also said that they still are searching for Henry Marion, 34, a former employee of the Bureau, who vanished from Ottawa in connection with the robbery.

Ottawa RCMP officials said they followed a trail of cashed bonds and cheques, which led them to Ricker. When a bond was turned in to the Bank of Canada, police traced it back to the Montreal store and obtained an accurate description of the man who cashed it.

Police did not disclose how the bonds and cheques were distributed for cashing in several different cities. Except for Montreal, names of the cities were not released. However, it was believed that the robbers had cashed the bonds themselves, possibly during weekend trips from Ottawa or elsewhere.

Senator Opposes Home for P.M.

Ottawa, Oct. 7 — (CP) — First parliamentary opposition to a home for Canada's Prime Minister was heard Wednesday in the Senate.

Senator R. B. Horner (PC-Saskatchewan), a farmer from Lacombe, Alta., said he was "very much opposed." He said he thought it placed the prime minister in a position where he was expected to entertain. The government "hadn't time for that."

During the debate on the address in reply to the Speech from the Throne, Senator Horner referred to an announcement in the Commons that the government would renovate the old Edwards mansion on Sussex Street as a home for Prime Minister Louis Laurent and future Canadian Prime Ministers.

The home, appropiated by the government some time ago, is situated next door to Government House in the Rockcliffe district and about a mile from the parliament buildings.

Senator Horner said an official home for the prime minister would not give Canada's chief of government any time to himself. He suggested Prime Minister Mr. St. Laurent "should have some quiet time at home."

Unions to Recognize Technical Training Of U.K. Servicemen

By WILLIAM BOSS
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, Oct. 7 — (CP) —The technical training received by British servicemen is to be recognized by the trades unions as the equivalent of civilian apprenticeship in a wide variety of trades.

Long months of negotiations by the service ministries, the Ministry of Labor and the Trades Union Council are behind the recently-announced decision which is expected to speed recruiting.

Hitherto the trades union, in those crafts which require five-year apprenticeships, had not been willing to waive the requirements for men discharged from the services. If they wanted to take up a career they had to apprentice themselves in the ordinary way.

Since the war, accordingly, young men intending to enter a trade have taken it up as soon as they returned to civilian life from their national service.

Miners Trapped 70 Feet Below

Shamokin, Pa., Oct. 7 (AP)— Rescue workers worked feverishly today in an effort to reach five miners trapped 70 feet below the earth when water broke through a mine wall.

Only faint hope was held out that the hard-coal miners, Kenneth Lunde, 39, and Lee Scover, 39, both of Shamokin, survived the mishap Wednesday.

A heavy duty pump is being used to pump out the water, in the hope that the men may have found refuge in another working that was not flooded.

MELROSE

Melrose—Mr. and Mrs. Donald McLaren and Mr. Morgan Shaughnessy motored to Toronto on Friday afternoon to attend the wedding of Miss Jean Shaughnessy, Miss Mildred Hunt on Saturday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Talmage Stone with Mrs. Stone Sr. of Forfar, spent the weekend with Mr. and Mrs. Arthur English and family.

There was a large attendance of ladies at the W.I. meeting at the home of Mrs. Clarence Hagerman on Wednesday.

The community regrets that Mr. Thomas Hagerman is confined quite extensively from a scald received when he removed the cover from the hot water heater. A speedy recovery is hoped for him.

Mrs. L. Kingston and children spent Sunday at the Reilly home.

The Reverend Mr. Scott spent the Sunday at Bethel with Mr. and Mrs. Russell Macfarlane.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Robinson spent Sunday evening with Mr. H. Dimmill.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack McLaren and boys spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Norman Lloyd, Milne.

The I.P.S., Mr. R. H. Mackleon, arranged for teachers' meeting at Melrose school on Monday afternoon. Sixteen teachers of the township present and also the Tyendinaga Teachers' Organization were present. Mrs. R. Shelter as president; Mrs. Phillips, vice president and Miss Marie Badgely secretary. The next meeting will be held at Lonsdale school in November.

The Tyendinaga township council met in the township hall on Monday afternoon. A Board of Health meeting was held at the close of council and a Junior Farmers' meeting took place in the evening. Mr. Mulcien, a Danish farmer, now in Canada, gave a talk on farm practices in Denmark.

The young men of the locality are making plans for a skating rink at Melrose this winter. Mr. Sherman Hagerman is the instigator of others, has already set up a shelter for the skaters in the lot across from the Hagerman residence. Best wishes for the success of this scheme are extended to the boys.

Shout 'Idolatry,' Interrupt Service

Bristol, England, Oct. 7 (AP)— Five men shouting "idolatry" interrupted Bishop A. T. Stockwell's Church today.

Robed churchmen and street-sonda carried their wild theme about singing and struggling from the church, two others in quietly.

When the service ended a sixth man, the Rev. Harold Reginald M. J. Perkins, director of the National Union of Protestants, tried to address the congregation from the door. He also was forcibly ejected.

Members of the National Union of Protestants have staged similar demonstrations in other cities this year. They want to eliminate high mass from the Church of England service. They say it is "Romish."

French Premier's Resignation Is Accepted

Paris, Oct. 7 — (AP) —French Premier Henri Queuille's resignation was accepted today by president of the Republic Vincent Auriol.

Queuille, who had led France's government for the last 13 months, submitted his resignation Wednesday because of a split in his coalition cabinet over wage and price controls.

Auriol will begin this afternoon the difficult job of trying to find a new premier.

Queuille quit because he opposed demands for a general wage boost made by the Socialists, who were one of the main parties in his coalition cabinet that had held together for a year and 26 days, longest of any post-war French government.

Communist and non-communist unions have demanded wage boosts to offset rising prices expected from devaluation of the franc.

Cuts Living Costs In Tree-Top House

Vancouver — (CP) — Robert Fairweather has been up a tree for the last year.

He has no rent to pay, no taxes to worry about, no lawnmower for the neighbors to borrow and he wonders why more people don't live in trees.

His house is a nine-by-nine log cabin perched about 15 feet off the ground in the fork of three fir tree trunks, in the woods on the north shore of Vancouver harbor.

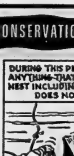
It has two thicknesses of spruce and poplar logs, with a thick layer of moss on the inside and a steep pitched roof, made of boards from packing cases.

He's started to build a heavy plank stairway from the ground to his bower. He's going to have a woodshed under the stairway, and then I'll put a stove up, and a rug and linoleum floors and plaster walls. Maybe I'll stucco the outside, sometime, too."

Fairweather, 33, a Scotsman who came here in 1929, works at washing and simonizing cars.

About two years ago, unable to get social assistance when he was out of work, he came to the woods with his axe and started building.

Says Sailors Desert Can't Afford Homes



Sydney, Australia—(CP)—The Royal Australian Navy is having trouble with former Royal Navy ratings it has brought out to keep its ships manned, says the Sydney Sunday Herald.

The Herald says that 1,024 former R.N. men here, 24 have deserted, 18 of them married men. It says this is because the married men cannot get homes here for their families.

Naval officials who had tried to help found that rents were far too high for ratings to afford. Others found the owners were asking £1,000 above the correct price for home for sale.

Cabinet Decision On Rent Controls Believed Near

Ottawa, Oct. 7 (CP)—A cabinet decision is believed nearing on what has become of perennial issue at this time of year—rent controls.

Even if the staff of matters the cabinet has not yet decided either in favor of continuation or for removal of controls. Its decision may be to refer the question to the Supreme Court for a ruling on whether or not it has the power to continue them.

Existing legislative basis for the controls is in the transitional Powers Emergency Act which expires March 31.

MARMORA

Rev. Egerton Young Addresses U.C. Bible Society Meeting

Marmora—The annual meeting of Marmora Branch of the Upper Canada Bible Society was held in the Town Hall on Wednesday evening. 50 attendance being fair. The retiring president, W. J. Cottrell, took the chair.

The Reverend G. H. Sachs offered prayer and the Reverend W. C. Ball read the scripture portion. The president then made a few remarks relative to the past years' activities and introduced Mr. Gordon Hagerman Young, field secretary of the Society, to the gathering. The latter gave an interesting address in course of which he pointed out that the Society had 125 branches which had contributed $115,000 last year to world wide work.

The British and Foreign Bible Society of which the Upper Canada Bible Society is an auxiliary, spent $2,000,000 last year on its great work.

Six New Languages

Six new languages were added to its translations, making a total of 1000 different languages into which the Bible, or a part, has been translated. There are 1,000 other languages into which it has not been translated as yet, but work is proceeding on 160 of these.

The sound film "The Book for the World of Tomorrow" was then shown depicting different nationalities reading the Bible and various old translations.

At the business meeting which followed, the report of the secretary, and elsee of the treasurer was given and passed.

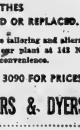
The canvass realized $143.53; and $154.00 was sent in by the branch, which with $48 sent in late for the 1947 report made the total of $202 to be credited to the branch for 1948.

The election of officers was carried out by the Reverend E. Young, and resulted as follows:-

President, W. J. Cottrell (re-elected); vice president, Revs. J. M. Brownlee, G. D. Young, G. H. Sachs and O. J. McPherson, (re-elected); secretary, Mrs. L. C. Ball (subject to acceptance); treasurer, Ritchie Wells (re-elected).

The executive will meet at St. Andrew's parsonage next Thursday evening to arrange for the canvass of the district.

Found Sleeping in Car Two Youths are Held



Toronto, Oct. 7 (CP)—Sleeping in an allegedly stolen car Wednesday night ended a 500-mile motor trip through Ontario for two Toronto youths. Kenneth Sutherland, 21, and Tolson Canning, 19, are being held on charges of car theft.

Police said the youths Saturday night stole a car owned by Frank Vanderhold of Toronto, and drove to London and Chatham. Police said the pair abandoned the car outside of London after it developed engine trouble. They then stole a second car, owned by Frank Murphy of London, to return to Toronto.

The Peller Trophy

"TO THE VICTOR" — Picture is the handsome trophy donated by the Peller Brewing Company to the Commercial Softball League to be awarded to its leading batter. The first presentation of the beautiful plaque will be made in Glenn Young at the league banquet being held tonight in the Hotel Quinte. Officiating at the presentation ceremonies will be Frank Gnup, coach of the Hamilton Wildcats football squad and Johnny Nameth, former softball great, who will represent the Peller Brewing Company. The trophy will be awarded annually and a miniature of the player figurine presented to the winner to be his permanent property.

Twelve Athletes Will be Dropped From Track Team

(By The Canadian Press)

Twelve athletes were lopped off Canada's British Empire Games team Thursday because of lack of funds.

President George C. MacNutt of the B. E. Games Association of Canada announced at Montreal that funds now stand at $70,000—instead of the required $100,000 and if the deficit isn't made up within the next few weeks only 50 athletes, instead of 62, will go to the February games in Auckland, New Zealand.

The decision to trim the team was reached at a meeting of the Association's Organizing Committee.

MacNunn said the financial campaign to date "has not been sufficiently successful, and that cutting the team to 50 "is disastrous to the chances of Canada making its best showing at the games."

The committee left unchanged at nine the number of officials who will accompany the squad.

Canada's three-man bicycle team for the British Empire Games in New Zealand next February was chosen Thursday.

R. W. Millman, Vancouver Bicycle Club official, said he had received a wire naming Johnny Millman and Lorne Atkinson of Van'over, and Bill Hamilton of Oshawa, to the Dominion squad.

Alternate riders named by the Games Committee in Montreal were Eric Oland of Winnipeg and Rest Lamothe of Three Rivers, Que.

The emphasis is on youth in the Owen Sound Mercury's camp as they prepare for the opening game of their Ontario Hockey Association senior series against Toronto Marlboros at Toronto next Thursday.

Eight newcomers at the camp are from junior ranks, two of them—forwards Howard Beaudry and Mike Bukowski, both of Balcombridge, Ont.—came from the camp of St. Louis Flyers of the American Hockey League. George McLagan of Stratford and Andy McCallum of Brandon Wirbert Kings are trying out for defence positions.

Toronto Maple Leafs of the International Baseball League, Thursday night announced the acquisition of five pitchers from within the Philadelphia Phillies' organization in a move to strengthen the club for next year.

Turned over to the Leafs were Lou Possehl, John Brittin, Bill Jankowski, Rudy Minarcin and Ralph Brickner. Minarcin and Brickner are bonus players.

Scoring three goals in each of the first and second periods and adding four more in the third period the National Hockey League Detroit Red Wings blanked the American League Parons, 10-0, in an exhibition game at Stratford Thursday night before nearly 2,700 fans.

Staving off a spirited closing bid by Providence Reds, American Hockey League champions, Montreal Canadiens eked out a 3-2 triumph at the Providence auditorium Thursday night in an exhibition game that attracted 3,536 fans.

Canadian Sport Snapshots

By TREVOR ICETON
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Toronto, Oct. 7—(CP)—The big, muscle-bound male with hair on his chest isn't always the public hero. Sometimes, especially in sport, it's the little-lion-hearted man, fighting against the physical giants who brings the frenzied crowd to its feet.

George H. (Ballsville Ontario Intelligencer) Carver, recalls the exploits of several boxers who tackled opponents considerably bigger.

One was Mickey Walker, the famous toy bulldog, who took on all comers. Mickey, says Carver, won the welterweight (147-pound) crown and the middleweight title before he found himself among the big boys of the heavyweight division, battling such brutiers such as Jack Sharkey and Max Schmeling.

The immortal Stanley Ketchel, who barely made the middleweight limit (160 pounds, remember) cuffed,the daylights out of Jack Johnson, the 190-pound Negro who won the heavyweight championship.

Twice is One Night

Any this boxing talk reminds Carver of another fight—perhaps we should say two more fights—between two well-matched underweighted heavyweights.

Harry Greb and the aforementioned Walker fought on a July night in 1925.

"It boys hurled everything but the referee, the rafters and sections of the pole grounds bleachers," writes Carver. "Ox holds were barred and not many rules observed."

Greb finally sank the bulldog to carry away $50,000 gate money. But the climax of the evening came after the fight when the two bloodstained warriors met in a speakeasy. A few drinks later the fighters were quite pally and started a post-mortem on the fight.

"D'ya know Harry, meditated Walker, "I'da beaten you tonight if you hadn't stuck your thumbs in my eye and jabbed some of your lousy Dutch tricks.

The fire of battle flamed in Greb's good eye. (He was blind in the other.)

"Oh-ho-good Irishman," he growled.

Greb started to pull off his coat when Mickey's fist smote Harry heavily on the teeth. The blow would have rocked Pike's Peak, but Greb barely blinked. The battle started. There was no referee to interfere in this fight and bloody it did under the street lamps.

Greb won his second fight of one night.

Source of Trouble Rested on Props Says Wilson

By HAROLD WILSON

Picton, Oct. 7. (CP)—Speedboating is the most temperamental sport in the world. Miss Canada III's proof of that.

Her trials, two in Detroit and two here, have taught us unmuzzerable lessons, and I still have lots to learn after nearly 25 years in the game. I did, of course, expect a normal number of "bugs" to develop after first launching her just 3 1-2 months ago.

Many people probably expected a world-beater. I must admit I was of the same opinion although there is a theory in the speed-racing world that at least a year of trials and experiments is necessary from date of launching before any craft of the unlimited-type class—and Miss Canada belongs in that category—is ready for competition.

Maybe I was hasty in putting Miss Canada III on the lake so soon. I was all too aware that my other boat, Miss Canada III, had taken ten years to achieve any measure of success but I hoped— and sensed—that I'd be the first exception.

To a great extent it has been just that, although it has known three major disappointments—the Harmsworth trophy race in Detroit in August, the world-speed trials here three weeks later and the silver cup races in Detroit in September.

However, I know from these failures that we learned the source of our troubles rested on the propellers.

Props Too Thin

Our razor-edged props were too thin for the great surge of power from the 2,500-horsepower engine. They were being uniformly forced out of shape—invisibly to the naked eye—until the Silver Cup when one propeller buckled almost completely.

Up to that point we had been following a false trail. We thought Miss Canada's ailment was in the engine.

The remedy was a heavier type of propeller, but to this day we have not effected a complete cure. We are still seeking that happy medium between thickness and thinness.

There is some consolation along with my many disappointments in Miss Canada. It did establish a North American record of 138.8 miles an hour on last Sunday and it did get up to an official 141.2 m.p.h. on one run, better than the late Sir Malcolm Campbell's record, the following day.

Need Perfect Weather

"I'll never know if Miss Canada could have held up over the late Englishman's record on the second run, that which would have won the title. But one thing has been proven: Miss Canada IV can, weather permitting, spring, bring Canada the world title.

With windup of trials for the year, I want to thank the people of Canada for the grand support accorded our boat. I am grateful to the newspapers of Canada who made Miss Canada "news" before it took to the water.

I shall challenge for the Harmsworth trophy next year and before the summer of 1950 ends I hope Miss Canada IV will bring to the country she proudly represents the water-speed record of the world—my life-long ambition.

Sport Shorts From Britain

London, Oct. 5.—(CP)—They told Louis Fabre he couldn't do it. So he did.

Fabre, 59-year-old retired draper, slim, grey-haired and five foot seven inches set out to show everyone he could do it—active sport.

One fine morning Fabre with a mile run. Time: seven minutes, 30 seconds.

Then he ran a mile in seven minutes, 29 seconds.

He followed that up with a mile walk in 13 minutes, 22 seconds. Just getting into form he cycled three miles in 15 minutes, 30 seconds. When he'd finished that he jumped into a skiff and rowed a mile down to Eton in six minutes. 25 seconds, and finished with a 15-minute 53-second mile swim. He skipped out of the water lively as a colt. Total effort: one hour, 15 minutes' time: 63 minutes, 50 seconds.

"A man is as old as he feels," says Fabre. "Too old at 40? A man's not too old at 60 if he's fit."

A bachelor and non-smoker, Fabre is married—no children—and keeps himself in condition with Queen's Park barriers. He is a member of the Serpentine Lido-breakers, who swim the year-round in Hyde Park's miniature lake.

Since he retired last year he has been training jockeys at Epsom and Newmarket. Born in Tennessee state prison as a habitual criminal. He was granted a stay-da- leave to attend a performance of his cantata, "Big Spring", Grandstaff composed the cantata while in solitary, tapping the time on the wall of a cell.

Annis Stukus Admits He Has Football Bug

Edmonton, Oct. 7 (CP)—Every year at this time several thousand Canadians go slowly screwy. Their eyes shine, they talk heatedly, they gesticulate wildly— they are victims of football fever.

Again epidemic in this old centre, football fever is nothing new to a six-foot, two, 200-pound giant named Annis (Big Stuke) Stukus. He's had it for 25 years. Annis has the football bug so bad that he came out of retirement to coach Edmonton Eskimos in their first appearance in the western interprovincial football union in ten years.

Ever since he was nine years old, Stukus couldn't keep away from a football field. The Stukus family lived across the street from a park in Toronto. Every fall, and often in the summer, Annis was out there with a pigskin.

He started out playing a middle end, slowly a big youngster, never had to worry about throwing around his share of weight. One day the quarterback called "middles back". They let Annis try it. He did. That season on the birth of one of the best backfield stars in Canadian football.

Served Years a Fixture

Annis was spotted by the coach of an intermediate team before he got into high school and he was playing intermediate ball before he ever tried out for a high school team.

But at 14, he still was too green. "I got smeared," he says.

Size didn't help—nobody was doing much smearing when Toronto Argonauts took the wraps off their newly-acquired star. For seven years, the Stukus name was a fixture on the Argo roster. For a few years there were three of the name on the team—Annis and younger brothers Frank and Bill.

They were a pretty potent trio. Frank finally had to get out of football because of concussion problems, but his declinations—because of a bad leg. Bill still is quarterbacking with Edmonton Eskimos this season.

"Once the bug bites you, you've got it for life," says Annis of the gridiron game". "Who else but a guy suffering from football fever would leave a comfortable home, a job with comparatively few worries and take on a coaching position where your worries never end. I was bitten by it early and never got over it."

News Item:- Picton Athletics meet Strathroy Arrows for the Ontario Baseball Association Intermediate "A" Championship.

* * *

The news item inasmuch as it means something to the Belleville District Baseball League of which Picton team was a potent part and parcel brings back memories of the days when the "Spaniards" produced a "bridesmaid but not a bride" in the intermediate championship of the early thirties. But lest we forget, away back in 1921 and 1922 the Picton fans cramped mertely back to their inland home with the titular baubles perched on their proud noggins.

* * *

It was in 1932 when this reporter press-agented the Picton Baseball Soc of that year for that estimable newspaper, the Picton Gazette. The team which primarily won the Bay of Quinte League (forebear of the current Belleville and District League) championship after a tough series with Walt. Gerow's Napanee squad, travelled nearly 4,000 miles before losing to the Southampton Fishermen in the final series.

* * *

The squad was piloted by Jack Yanovér, then a resident of Picton and now proprietor of the New Green Hotel here. Ace hurler of the team was Doris "Wavy" Phillips a crack lefthander, while the knifeside duties were taken care of by that unpredictable pulicking shortstop, Ron Church. On occasions the late Moly Rorke, first-string shortstop did mound duty. Marley Durnford, a member of the Ontario Provincial Police did the backstop duties with "Pop" Frederick taking an occasional turn behind the plate.

* * *

Tall Claude "Pete" Cole looked after the first base chores with Earl Mighton holding down the keystone position. Prent and Tommy Thomson did duty around the hot corner with Clarke Hart, Paterling Gale and the gardens were "Fee Wee" McQuaid, a country schoolteacher,, Raymie Hudgins, and Jack Leavens.

* * *

It was a strong well-balanced team with plenty of hitting to back up topflight hurling. And the good folk of Picton and the county, after the squad won its league title and cast its eyes championshipwards, got behind the club man, and perhaps never in the history of the "Garden County" did its populace develop such a contagious form of baseball fever.

* * *

And strange to say, out of the many playdown rounds before reaching the titular series, the first was the toughest nut to crack. It was the starry Cananoque team of that year which won its district title, the teams split the first two games and the third was played in Napanee. Ralph, an imported hurler, and Phillips hooked up in one of the finest hurling duels ever seen in the Gibbard-ville Baseball Park. Through seven scoreless innings a crowded grandstand and bleachers sat tense, awaiting the break. It came and Canonoque scored to take the lead.

* * *

But that was not the end. Came a strange quirk of fate that snatched victory out of defeat, and strangely enough, it was a few cusswords that changed the entire picture.

Officiating at the game were two then-famous Canonoque twins of the mask and pad, "Twig" Woodley and the late Ken Collins.

* * *

To the plate strode the Canonoque second baseman, a fine ball player named Amo. Phillips fired two tantalizing curves for called strikes. Amo did not like the decisions and informed Mr. Woodley in no uncertain terms, failing in the picturesque language sometimes used by temperamental ballplayers when arguing with the Umps his opinion of Mr. Woodley's ancestors.

* * *

Mr. Woodley, being in no argumentative mood, and seeing the evening shadows lengthening in the outfield, suddenly jerked his thumb. Again that digit motioned in the general direction of the Canonoque dugout. And Mr. Amo fiery and indignant of mien, strode to the bench. In the next inning the rightfielder was moved in to second by the Gan, master minds and a player named Noble went to the outer pastures.

* * *

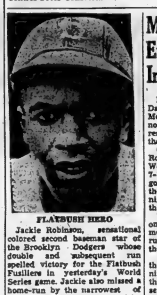
In the Picton half of the innings, Phillips went down swinging. Earl Mighton drove a towering fly to right field that went through Noble's upraised hands for a triple. Raymie Hudgins poled out a high field fly that sent Mighton in with the tying run. Fee Wee McQuaid popped up a Texas leaguer that dropped safely. Hedgins waved and the game was over there and then.

* * *

From then on the Blue Sox marched victoriously through Yarker, Bowmanville and Beaverton. They met Falconbridge in the semi-finals a series that took five games to decide, and again Napanee was the scene of the Picton fifth-game victory.

* * *

Then came the famous series between the redoubtable "Lefty" Goldsmith and his Southampton Flsher and "Wavy" Phillips and the Blue Sox. In a hard-fought game, the two Southern pitchers battled to a 1-0 home-town win in Southampton. Phillips bested Goldsmith 2-0 in tension fraught game at Picton. The third game was ordered played in Guelph. A snow-covered field greeted the squads and thousands of supporters of both teams. Picton merchants pooled a fund that put the game on their air over Toronto's radio station CFRB. Wes McKnight aired the show with reports truly commenting occasionally. The Picton band blared encouragement from the grandstands. We saw the game from the sleet-covered roof of the Guelph stadium and you can have that type of seat any time.



* * *

Phillips, after pitching magnificently all season lost his famous control in the third innings when the Fishermen got to his delivery for four runs. Church relieved him and the game ended 8-3 in favor of the northern team. However, the Blue Sox were by no means disgraced and a royal welcome people gave them a royal reception on their return. In fact, whenever the team returned from its victorious playdown jaunts, a large crowd of supporters along with the band met it at Bloomfield and escorted it to Picton. On one occasion the players were carried shoulder high through crowded streets. Speeches were made in front of the Royal Hotel and a baseball-crazed populace celebrated long into the night.

DOUBLE PLAY THAT DID NOT SUCCEED

Here is an overall view of the attempted double play in the sixth inning of the first game of the World Series at the Yankee Stadium. Yank Rizzuto belted a grounder to Jorgensen, Brooklyn third sacker, with Reynolds on first. Reynolds streaked to second but was out on Jorgensen's peg to Robinson, Dodger second sacker, who is shown pegging first in attempt to double Rizzuto, who is tearing for the bag from left. Robbie's throw was too late to complete the double play. Hodges is pulled from the bag to take the throw. Yanks won the tilt, after a desperate pitching duel between Newcombe and Reynolds, on Henrich's homer in the ninth with nobody on.—Central Press Canadian.

FLATBUSH HERO

Jackie Robinson, sensational colored second baseman star of the Brooklyn Dodgers whose double and subsequent run spelled victory for the Flatbush Fusiliers in yesterday's World Series game. Jackie also missed a home-run by the narrowest of margins, the ball drifting foul by a few inches.

Montreal Royals Even Series With Indianapolis

Indianapolis, Oct. 7 — (AP) — Dan Bankhead of Montreal and Mel Queen of Indianapolis got the nod today to try to pitch their respective teams out in front in the Little World Series tonight.

Clarence Podbielan pulled the Royals even with Indianapolis Wednesday night with a two-hit 7-1 victory. It was Bankhead who got the International Leaguers off the mat with a triumph Monday night after the Indians had won the first two games at Montreal.

The Royals eased the pressure on Podbielan before he took the mound, getting him a pair of runs in the first inning, and made the score 6-0 in three.

Chuck Connor's home run in the third was the big blow of the nine-hit Montreal attack and was the Royals' first homer of the series. Rocky Bridges got three of the hits.

The Indians scored their run in the fourth by combining their two hits with two of the five walks Podbielan yielded.

Team Wrestling Featured at Arena Tonight

The team of Whipper Billy Watson and Pat Flanagan will have an opportunity to enhance their already brilliant team wrestling standing tonight at the Memorial Arena, when they will meet the grappling twosome of Fred Atkins and Hardboiled Hannigan in the feature match, a tag bout. If Whipper and Pat can beat decisively the Atkins-Hannigan combination, there doesn't seem any other pair in sight that could threaten the Toronto wrestlers. Atkins and Hannigan are both big, powerful heavyweights, experienced wrestlers and on top of all that, are two of the most rugged and roughest in the game.

Upsetting such an alliance would not only be a boost for the Whipper Pat ratings, but would be a popularly received verdict to boot. Apart from the prestige resulting to whichever side emerges victorious, there is the added fuel of personal rivalry, which has sprung up between the members of these opposing factions, to make the match the most smashing and exciting four-man test seen at the Arena.

Bruins to Open Season With Rookie Goalie

Hershey, Pa., Oct. 7 — (CP) — Having traded away their great Frankie (Easy) Brimsek to Chicago Black Hawks, Boston Bruins will open the 1949-50 National Hockey League season with Jack Gelineau, a comparatively untried goalie.

But that wise old hockey brainbuster, Art Ross, who has yet to make a bad boner about a goaltender, is confident that Gelineau, former McGill University star, is ready for the big time.

The young Collegian worked 4 games for the Bruins last season, while Brimsek was burying his infant son in Eveleth, Minn. In those games Gelineau displayed enough skill to instill Ross with confidence.

But, to be on the safe side, as well as get new coach George (Buck) Boucher off on the right foot, the Bruins have bolstered their defence by acquiring the capable Bill Quackenbush, ex-Lady Byng Trophy winner, from Detroit Red Wings and converting the great Milt Schmidt, one of hockey's all-time standouts, into a rear guardsman.

The Bruins also have such burly defensive stars as Pat Egan, Jack Crawford, Murray Henderson, Fernie Flaman and Ed Kryzanowski.

Select Final 19

After putting some 50-odd candidates through their training paces here, Boucher finally has selected the 19 players the Bruins will take to Detroit for their opening game with the Red Wings Oct. 12.

Schmidt, Woody Dumart and the departed Jimmy Peters ranked as the No. 1 forward line most of last season. But now that ranking has been taken over by the fleet and shifty Paul Ronty and his high-scoring wingers, little Kenny Smith and tall Johnny Peirson.

The Sandford - Creighton - Ezzy pazzini line looms as the second set of forwards and the third trio includes Phil Maloney, the sensational rookie pivotman from Hershey, and such veteran wingers as Dumart and Grant Warwick.

Ed Harrison, who saw much service with the Bruins a year ago, and Pete Horeck, who accompanied Quackenbush from Detroit, are the other forwards Boucher retained for the season's opener.

For the first time in 22 seasons, however, the club will be minus one of Boston's most famous theories figures — the great Dit Clapper. That hockey hall-of-famer resigned out as the Bruins coach after the club rolled down its 1948-49 curtain in disappointing fashion.

New York—Andy Dupsul, 158, Cliffside Park, N.J., outpointed Tommy Englehardt, 150, New York (8).

Vancouver—Stan Almond, 117¼, Vancouver, outpointed Lew Yonkers, 115½, Roanoke, Va., (10).

Paper Claims Dodgers Sell Robinson

Washington, Oct. 7. (AP)— The Washington Times Herald says today in a dispatch from New York that Jackie Robinson, National League batting ace, has been sold by Brooklyn Dodgers to Boston Braves.

The story adds that the Dodgers will get $250,000 and two players for Robinson and that the deal will be announced after the World Series.

However, in New York, where they are gathered for the World Series, Braves officials termed the report "ridiculous".

"I haven't heard of it and I am sure I would be consulted," said Billy Southworth, manager of the Boston team who was given a late-season leave of absence. "I am sure there is nothing to it."

Billy Sullivan, director of Public Relations, declared, "You can say absolutely the report has no foundation,.

"There are several reasons it can't be true," he added. "In the first place, we don't need a second baseman. We feel we are more than adequately protected at that spot with Eddie Stanky and Sibby Sisti."

It was indicated in the Times Herald dispatch that transfer of Robinson was decided upon as a result of salary discussions with the Brooklyn management.

No figures were mentioned but there have been reports that Robinson intended to ask a salary for next year higher than ever paid by Brooklyn and one of the highest in the history of baseball.

Crafty Left Arm of Preacher Roe Turns Night into Day For Brooklyn as he Wins, 1-0

By JACK HAND

Brooklyn, Oct. 7 — (AP)—Once again Preacher Roe's crafty left arm has turned night into day for Brooklyn.

Now it's up to Rex Barney, Ralph Branca, Don Newcombe and the strong, young arms of Burt Shotton's staff to subdue New York Yankees. Roe did his bit by spinning the World Series with his 1-0 victory over Vic Raschi in Thursday's second game.

If it goes six or seven, as seems likely now, the "Preach" from the little hill town of Hardy, Ark., may be in there again. But not before Monday or Tuesday.

Even the odds-makers saw the light in Roe's masterpiece. Instead of the easy-does-it 7 to 5 favorites of Wednesday, the Yankees are only 3 to 4.

If Barney or Branca, whoever gets the nod from Shotton, can beat Lefty Tommy Byrne today as the series moves to Ebbets Field for three games, the Brooks will be the choice. Barney has a 2-4 record, Branca 13-3 and Byrne 15-7.

There won't be half as many people present in Flatbush as the 70,053 who decorated Yankee Stadium Thursday, but you can bet they will make more noise.

First Shutout at Stadium

No matter what happens today, baseball people will be talking over the Roe - Raschi and Reynolds - Newcombe duels for months to come in the hot stove league.

Mixing well his sweeping curve, change of pace and "fast ball", Roe handed the Yanks their first shutout of the season at Yankee Stadium.

The Dodgers and Yankees go into the record books as the first to play two 1-0 games in the same series, 1st since in succession. There have been shutouts galore, especially in 1905 when all five games were whitewash jobs, but never two like these.

Jackie Robinson provided the run Roe needed Thursday in the second inning. Robby doubled, took third on a foul pop and scored on Gil Hodges' single. That was it.

Only once did the Yankees have more than one man on base at the same time. They never did get two hits in the same inning.

It was the eighth when the pressure really was on Roe. Casey Stengel, searching his bench for a pinch-hitter, sent big Johnny Mize up to hit for Charley Silvera. Mize celebrated his first World Series chance in 17 years of waiting with a single.

Bobby Brown, the 1,000 pinch-hitting ace of the "G" classic, was called out on strikes but Roe fumbled Phil Rizzuto's sacrifice bunt for an error. There were men on first and second with Tommy Henrich, the home run hero of the opener, at the plate.

Retired on Holst

Roe took Henrich to 3-2, and then retired "Old Reliable" on a hoist to Lois Olmo. Hank Bauer, another long - ball hitter, drew three straight balls and then a strike before he fouled Rizzuto on a bouncer to Spider Jorgensen. The heat was off.

Joe DiMaggio, who had gone 0 for 8 in the series, beat out a slow roller for a single starting the ninth and Roe again was threatened. But he struck out Johnny Lindell, made Billi Johnson pop out and ended the game with Jerry Coleman rolling out.

All this time, from the fourth inning on, Roe was working despite a painfully injured finger. A smash to the box by Lindell tore half the nail off the fourth finger on his right hand. Doc Wendler, the club trainer, drilled a hole in the nail to let out a pocket of blood after Roe batted in his fifth.

Jackie Robinson Warned by Commissioner

New York, Oct. 7 — (AP) — Jackie Robinson, Brooklyn's erratic baseball newsreel baseman, has been given a sharp warning by Commissioner A. B. (Happy) Chandler to "behave himself."

Robinson got in the result of an outburst in the spring and banished for a run-in with an umpire in one of the late season games, the Negro infielder drew another rebuke for criticizing the umpiring in the first World Series game.

After the opening series game, won by New York Yankees 1-0, Robinson bestled about the work of plate umpire Cal Hubbard.

Jackie said "I've never seen such bad strikes called. He actually called a pitchout a strike."

Later when he had cooled down the infielder said he was sorry about his remarks and wanted to make a public apology.

"I lost my head," he said. "We were beaten legitimately and I thought, all in all, Hubbard called a good game."

In the meantime, Chandler instructed Robinson, through Manager Burt Shotton, to be more circumspect in dealing with umpires in the future and "act like the big league ball player he is."

The Commissioner said he wanted Robinson to quit "popping off" about umpires.

The serious - visaged gent pictured above is one-half of the roughie - toughie duo of Fred Atkins-Hardboiled Hannigan which meets Whipper Watson and Pat Flanagan in a team-tag rassling brawl at Memorial Arena tonight. Mr. Hannigan seen here is a hunky bunk o' man who fits in very neatly with the Arrogant Aussie and their combined efforts may mean trouble for the opposition. However Watson and Flanagan are not the least perturbed over the rough-house tactics of the pair and are set to meet them at their own game. Twill be a lively tussle. Handsome Ben Sharpe takes on Cisiolli, a newcomer in the semi-final while Al Korman and Tosar Morkan, former Belleville favorite mix things in the opener.

McGill Redmen Darkhorse Squad Of Intercollege

By VIC MORRIS, Jr.
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Montreal, Oct. 7—(CP)—Rated as the "dark horse" squad, the McGill University Redmen face the 1949 Intercollegiate football season with only a handful of returnees from last year's team.

To date the 1949 edition has engaged in two exhibition games, winning one and losing the other. The first was a 20-0 victory over Ottawa University in the St. Lawrence Conference. The second was a 10-1 defeat at the hands of Montreal Alouettes of the Big Four League.

In both these games McGill appeared to be vastly superior to the 1948 team which finished last in the four-club league.

The optimistic second guessers who predict a title for the Montrealers this year are banking on the team's newest acquisition — quarterback Harry Lyons, formerly with Calgary Stampeders.

Irving, backed by a half dozen fast backfielders, appears to be a highly polished performer. He is a superb field general, kicks, runs and can pass.

Improved at Ends

Irving's understudy is a toss-up among three players—Shorty Fairhead, a fourth-year McGill student and newcomers Jeff Crain and Gene Robillard, both from Ottawa.

Another department which promises improvement is at end. Jim Mitchener, another Stampeder, will strengthen this post along with Dave Caldwell, Bill Beary and Don Wilson, a quartet of hard-hitting tacklers and steady-handed receivers.

In the front rank, Redmen have only three veterans in the lineup and it is here that the Redmen may have to do some juggling before a solid front is obtained.

Dave Hackett, former Holy Cross star, is one of the leftovers from last season. At the left half spot he will probably work along with Pete Robinson, George Vasiois and Rocky Robillard, who has been drafted to flying wing from the quarterback post.

Other backfielders expected to add strength include Paul Wilson, Ken Wagner, Terry Rogers, Carl Tolake and Bill Bell. Bill Blaser, who likely miss the team's opening game against Mustangs, Saturday with a broken bone in his hand which threatens to keep him out for at least ten days.

Thirteen Games Will be Played During Weekend

(By The Canadian Press)

Canadian senior football squads get down to gridiron "action" this Thanksgiving Day weekend. Thirteen games are on the schedule.

The schedule will see the Intercollegiate League make its 1949 season debut with a two-game card. In the three leagues which contest the Grey Cup, the Big Four loop will feature three games and the Western Canada Rugby and Ontario Rugby Union will take four apices.

The schedule:

Big Four

Saturday — Montreal Alouettes at Ottawa Rough Riders; Toronto Argonauts at Hamilton Wildcats.

Sunday—Rough Riders at Alouettes.

Monday—Wildcats at Argonauts.

Western Canada League

Saturday—Calgary Stampeders at Saskatchewan Roughriders; Edmonton Eskimos at Winnipeg Blue Bombers.

Monday—Stampeders at Blue Bombers; Eskimos at Roughriders.

O.R.F.U.

Saturday—Hamilton Tigers at Windsor Rockets; Toronto Balmy Beach at Sarnia Imperials.

Monday — Balmy Beach at Rockets; Imperials at Tigers.

Intercollegiate:

Saturday—Queen's at Toronto; McGill at Western.

Grudge Game at Ottawa

The third-place Alouettes, who lost a playoff to the undefeated Rough Riders by one point margins, say they will be going all out for a victory—with a full-strength squad.

The Als are back at full strength. Guard Jim Quondamatteo and Bob Cunningham, both knocked out with leg injuries, are reported in good condition.

The powerful Rough Riders will play minus four regulars. Heading the list is Don Loney, whose knee cartilage still is causing trouble. The others are Alex Saunders, inside wing, Bert Haigh, outside wing, both with knee injuries, and Ralph Bertolini, the plunging back from Hamilton, suffering twisted ankles.

At Hamilton the second-place Argonauts—six points behind the Rough Riders—will play without key man Joe Krol, who suffered torn ligaments at Ottawa last week.

But the Wildcats, seeking their first victory of the season, are in "tip top" shape, says Coach Frank Gnup.

In the Western Canada League the Dominion champion Calgary team are undefeated and will be attempting to extend their winning streak to nine in their weekend games.

The Intercollegiate League, the feature attraction is the Varsity-Queen's game. The high-favored Varsity squad, isn't expected to have too much trouble.

PAPER BOY'S BRAVERY AVERTS DOUBLE-DROWNING

Jack McCallum, 15, of Matachewan, Ont., rescues youngsters from runaway raft

Two young boys had pushed a small, home-made raft out from shore and the swift current had quickly carried them out where there were dangerous rapids and whirlpools. Newsboy Jack McCallum heard their cries and, kicking off his boots, dove into the river and swam toward the pair. He reached the raft just as it was entering a swirling eddy. Trying to calm the youngsters down, the gallant youth began to paddle against the current — swimming with one arm! Finally, with his two charges safe, he reached shore. We are proud to award The Dow Award to 15-year-old Jack McCallum.

Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, Oct. 7 — (AP) — Burt Lancaster is proceeding with plans for a circus film in the face of competition from Cecil B. DeMille.

Lancaster appears unperturbed by the fact that the veteran director has been travelling with the Ringling Bros. — Barnum and Bailey circus and plans a reel of life under the big top.

"We aren't competing with him," says the actor, a former circus star. "He's competing with us. He couldn't possibly get the background we gained through personal experience."

Lancaster has arranged a role in the film for his former aerial partner, Nick Cravat. The actor took a couple of writers with him when he toured with the circus this year. He plans the production for sometime next year and hopes that it will do for the circus "what 'Red Shoes' did for ballet."

Burt's acrobatic training comes in handy in his current film, "The Hawk and the Arrow." It's a 12th century action yarn — his first costume picture — "and I jump from cliffs and buildings, ride bareback and fight." He also adds to the current "beef-cake" trend by baring much of his manly chest.

Friday Footnotes

Alfred Hitchcock has returned after directing "stage fright" in Britain. He'll travel again for his next one. His "I Confess' will be filmed partly in Quebec.

Eleanor Parker his her own way of choosing children's names. She had 20 picked out for her last one — "but when I saw her, she looked like a Susan, which wasn't even on the list." So she's waiting until she sees her next baby, which is due next April.

Helen Wescott, Gregory Peck's leading lady in "The Gun Fighter," is an acting veteran despite her tender years. She served nine years in the local long-run play, "The Drunkard." She's the daughter of the late Gordon Wescott.

HUNGRY MONSTER

A full-grown male African elephant weighs up to five tons and eats about 150 pounds of food every day.

ARCHER'S HOME

Burglan, a village in Switzerland, is the traditional birthplace of William Tell, hero of a Swiss legend.

Black Boom

By Paul David Preston

"I couldn't answer that. And I'm afraid I can't suggest how to—"

They were interrupted at last by the others streaming in upon them with loud blusterings and hullabaloo such as only young couples can make. Baby Doll had a date and a girl friend with a date present tonight, and one of Lillian's old friends, Sally Rayford, was spending the night. The house had plenty of extra beds, following the wild surge of rearing rooms and beds that made the first 10 days of the oil boom. Mrs. Mayfield had taken in several hundred dollars during that hectic period but she had only one real roomer now and he was out of town.

"If you must stay back here and make love to mother, Thad Monroe, I intend to chaperone you." Baby Doll was chattering. "Is there anything left to eat?"

"Lots of bread, daar, and open a can of sandwich spread. Make yourselves at home, of course."

It was almost a quarter of one before Martin Dees ventured to ask the question that had been un-asked in all their minds.

"Where is Lillian, I wonder? Did she just disappear?"

Mrs. Mayfield moved her lips in and out expressively, sure sign of inner concern.

"She didn't say. She'll be home directly, I'm sure. It isn't nice of her just to leave guests stranded in this manner, oh dear!"

The others went on with their eating and talking. Martin looked definitely severe, even frowning. And then Thad Monroe, the eternal spice of this young set, was glum.

In truth there was no precedent for this situation. Nobody could ever remember going home when the main hostess wasn't in or accounted for. Generally speaking, impromptu parties in the big Mayfield house broke up by midnight at the latest.

M.J. Parker, the quietest member of the gang tried valiantly to cover the awkward wait by his conversation.

"They say," he began, "that the population of this town is sure to reach 12,000 or more. It never before was more than 2,500, Mrs. Mayfield. And derricks are going up right downtown!"

"It's disgraceful!" Martin put in emphatically.

"Most distressing." Mrs. Mayfield agreed, "but people do have to make money some way. The smell of oil is so—so awful. There's mud and gold for sale, and more often than not the combination is horrible mess. Mrs. Halton was saying that burglars entered a home on Lowery street-imagine! She has taken to locking her doors at night."

"It's a good idea for you to do likewise, if I may advise you ma'am," Martin said. Thad nodded agreement.

"Jason sleeps in the little rear house," she explained.

"Jason is old. Still keeps a horse and buggy."

"But very loyal and unafraid. I trust him. Mr. Mayfield knew he was a worthy negro and he has proven so."

"There's a car," Sally Rayford said, peering at the kitchen window.

Instantly the group was silent The sudden hush was almost tangible for no reason at all. When they knew that the car was stopping out front, and when Sally reported Lillian running up the walk along the air of expectancy deepened. The younger folk here quietly ate their sandwiches but they were as concerned as the others while they heard Lillian come in the door and approach the kitchen.

"Lillian, wasn't that Dallas Tower's ca—" Her mother greeted her with a question, but paused abruptly in phrasing it.

Lillian, standing before them now, was something of a spectacle, considering how perfect she usually appeared.

"Dar-ling!" Mrs. Mayfield resumed in shocked muted voice as she had none. "Your dress is torn! nd—is that adhesive tape on your cheek? Whatever has happened!"

"Yes, it's a tear in my dress, and yes this adhesive tape on my face," Lillian Mayfield spoke coolly almost defiantly. The others saw then that she was pale.

Her manner, furthermore, quite definitely precluded any further probing even from her mother. A strained hush stretched agonizingly until Thad Monroe finally spoke up.

"How about me fixing you a sandwich?" he said with tender-terness not with his usual banter-ing. "Seems like you need it."

"Yes, thanks, Thad. But I—I'm not hungry. Please, all of you eat all of you." She was still avoiding their eyes. Obviously Lillian had come home boiling with anger.

"I've eaten too much already," Thad went on. "Matter of fact Lillian, I was waiting to uh see you. Been talking to your mother. Business." He added this last by way of tacit explanation to the others, "It's not so very late yet. Wonder if we couldn't go for a bit of a walk, Emmah?"

"All right, Thad." She almost jumped at it, plainly to get away from the unspoken but all-too-evident curiosity here. Thad Monroe was a wise and considerate friend anyway she knew.

Lillian went for a light coat because the night air was chilly, and Martin approached Thad in the interim of waiting.

"I say, Thad, I don't like—"

"Hold it!" Thad interrupted, bright now with his own inner excitement. "I asked her first. You shoo everybody home while we go walky-talking."

Lillian came tripping down the stairs with her face still set and still showing little color. Without a word to anyone she took Thad's arm and with him went back into the darkness. He led her out the front gate and turned right to walk up the oak-rimmed side of North Marshall, moving rather fast then settling to a stroll. He spoke first.

"Lillian," said he, "I had a long talk with your mother to-night and I'm all hopped up about something. I'm sure glad you'd let me see you alone. And I want to come straight to the point."

She turned to look at him. He had her interest.

"Lillian, little girl, I know I'm a sort of good-boy-Charlie; a joker, and a fat boy, and a genial smoother-over and all that. But I'm hoping you've seen beneath my surface. Now since this oil boom hit I've made a good spot of cash. Tell you the truth I have a checking account of better than $30,000. That's a lot of money!"

"Of course it is, Thad. I'm happy for you."

"All right. Now I've done a lot of kidding in the past four years about—I mean about making love to you and all such. But right now I'm serious as a church Lillian, would—will you marry me?"

The girl stopped still.

In the night glow he saw no change come in her expression; only that she was looking squarely at him. Hastily he went on; low and intimate.

"Lord s'mighty, Lillian, I'm crazy about you! You know I am I've teased a lot but I've loved you too. I—I know some other men may have cooled their ardor but Lillian—" Thad was begging in the clear from the sheer intensity of his emotion, very unlike the old easy going Thad Monroe. "Lillian will you? Will you I ve me?"

She wasn't looking at him now; she was gazing off at nothing. But she spoke with sudden vehemence.

"Yes. I will, Thad! I will!"

"You—you—Lillian, you will!"

"I said I would, didn't I?"

"O-o-o-o-h baby! E-yow!"

All at once his mood seemed to bounce from the softest, most sentimental to that of sheer ebullience. Patently her acceptance had come as a surprise even to him who wanted it so much.

He all but danced a jig. He babbled incoherently. He squeezed her arms. He held her shoulders and shook her a little as he talked and laughed simultaneously—and he was quite unconscious of the fact that she seemed to reciprocate little of his feelings. Then all at once he remembered something.

"Lordy, Lillian, may I kiss you? I—!"

He didn't wait for assent. He kissed her almost violently but sincerely. A moment later he had an arm around her escorting her back toward home, and he was talking spiritedly even though in low tones. His talk was all that of planning, of thanking her and of swearing eternal fealty and of painting incomparably rosy pictures an ever-honored young lover would. And Lillian spoke only when he ended on a question—"When can we be married, honey girl? When?"

"Oh," she said almost disinterestedly. "I don't kn—I don't think we'd better say yet; not tell anyone for a while, yet. Generally mean it? Seriously?"

"Lillian, honey! Of course I do! You want to keep it a secret? How long?"

"Oh, a while, Thad. Please. And I want to go back in, now I'm very tired."

To Be Continued)

Birds Arrive Early Europe to Capetown

Capetown — (CP) — Europe's waterside birds, the waders, which migrate to South Africa every year, have beaten the calendar by about a month this year.

Cape ornithologists who saw the birds leave for Europe in April watched the travellers return during August. With the recent arrival of a small party of little stints the list of returned birds was complete. The little stints nest in the high Arctic and undertake a flight of about 2,000 miles twice a year.

One bird-watcher said it was difficult to give a reason for the early arrival of the travellers.

"Perhaps the good summer in Europe had something to do with it. They may have completed their nesting early. Whatever happened they got away early and arrived in time to get the tail end of the Cape winter."

Armed Robbery Charge Will be Laid in Arrest

Ramore, Ont., Oct. 7 (CP)—Accused of stealing $1,575 from a Co-operative Credit Union here, Mathieu Descoteaux, 23, will appear in magistrate's court at nearby Matheson, tomorrow on a charge of armed robbery.

Descoteaux was arrested on Thursday while cashing a cheque with ten other men at a lumber products camp in the Northern Ontario hushland near here.

Descoteaux, who had worked at the camp until Oct. 1, was unarmed and offered no resistance.

Police said the dark, good-looking suspect was born in Quebec province but has been in Northern Ontario for several years. They said he has spent some time in the Hearst area northwest of here.

The money stolen from the Caisse Populaire branch here still is unrecovered. Also missing is a pistol used by the lone bandit who staged the daring daylight robbery Tuesday in this hamlet, 25 miles south-west of Timmins and then fled in a taxicab.

Descoteaux was placed in a police lineup at Matheson late on Thursday. Police said he was pointed out as the bandit by three persons, including Henri Souchesc, manager of the robbed office.

The lumber camp at which Descoteaux was arrested belongs to the Wollings Timber Products Limited, police said. Provincial police, convicted the robber was "holed up" somewhere in the bush, have maintained road blocks on Highway 11 since Tuesday.

INJURED IN DISTURBANCE

London, Oct. 8 — (Reuters) — Several persons were injured and windows were smashed during incidents following a meeting held Tuesday night in the East-London district of Bethnal Green by the Union (Fascist) movement of Sir Oswald Mosley. Sir Oswald was the leader of the pre - war British Union of Fascists. At least three persons were taken to the hospital but were not detained.

Babies Arrive At Right Homes Says Doctor

Ravenna, O., Oct. 7 — (AP) — Three babies born Sept. 21 were given to the right parents, after all, the parents involved agreed Thursday.

After reviewing blood tests from three separate laboratories the two sets of parents issued a statement. They said they had the right children all the time and the whole thing was just a mix-up.

Darkhaired Gerald goes to Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Shanley, and blonde Michael goes to Mr. and Mrs. Robert Strayer.

The mothers shared a room here in hospital and Dr Edward Meacham delivered both children within a few hours the same day.

Later he called at the Shanley home and noted that the youngster there had a scratched chin and a tiny bump on the back of his head. This raised doubt in the doctor's mind. He recalled that Arthur, Ont., Oct. 7—(CP)—Peter Willem, 16-month-old son of Ray Mainland of Maryborough township, was killed Wednesday when crushed beneath the wheels of a tractor driven by his father.

Young Peter was playing with his 30-month-old sister Mary in the yard of their farm home when the accident occurred. The father, who drove the tractor in the yard, had no knowledge of the accident until Jack Wright, a farm hand, stumbled over the body.

BRITISH "SECRET-LIST" JET PLANE CRASHES

Britain's first delta-winged jet aircraft, the Avro 707—seen here in flight—was almost totally destroyed when it crashed and burst into flames on a lonely heath in Surrey. The pilot, Sam Esler, 31, R.A.F. pilot, was killed. The cause of the accident is unknown, but research on the 707 will continue.—Central Press Canadian.

RIOTOUS SCENE MARKS CLOSING LABOR CONGRESS

Left-Wingers Enraged Over Expulsion and Union of Mine, Mill Workers

Ottawa, Oct. 8 — (CP) — As beaten communist minority left the Canadian Congress of Labor Convention Friday without gaining a point but with the distinction of initiating the most riotous scene in years of C. C. L. meetings.

Trampled with the regularity of clockwork in every move aimed at influencing Congress policy, the left-wingers toured in a final salvo in the dwindling hours of the convention through a wild demonstration against the expulsion of a red-tinged union from the C. C. L.

Enraged over the eviction of the International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers, they threw the convention into bedlam for an uproarious few minutes that had everything but outright fist-swinging between left and right partisans.

One furious girl delegate—Pat Rooney of Hamilton, from the leftist United Electrical Workers — struggled to the platform, snatched gavel and microphone from presiding officers and shouted denunciations against the expulsion until friends led her away in tears.

Miss Rooney and other backers of the mine - mill union had been infuriated when the convention shut off debate on a move to expel the mine-mill union and proceeded with expulsion while left-wing defenders of the union were trying to get the floor in its defence.

The 18,000 - member union had been under suspension since last March. The C. C. L. executive took this disciplinary step and then recommended expulsion when mine-mill refused to step out of the Ontario field after the C. C. L. had decided it was not doing a good job of organizing.

Long Series of Defeats

Yesterday's decision left mine-mill outside the main stream of Canadian labor, with the C. C. L. itself busily engaged in trying to steer unionshop battles for local unions directly affiliated with the Congress.

The verdict was one of a long series of defeats administered to the communist - influenced Congress during the five days of its ninth annual convention.

The left-wingers took two other setbacks yesterday. First, they failed to gain a single seat on the C. C. L. executive in opposition to the anti-red leadership, though three they made a bid for every office opened in the annual elections.

President A. R. Mosher was returned handily over Kenneth Bradden, Montreal, Canadian chief of the leftist International Union of Fur and Leather Workers, and the full executive slate went in behind him.

Again Rallied Down

The left-wingers also put up stiff opposition to continuation of Congress association with the C. C. F. as the "political arm" of labor and to continuing the Congress political action program in alignment with the C. C. F. But again they were batted down.

In the earlier days, the leftists had absorbed defeats on foreign policy, trade, the suspension of electrical workers' officers and several other points. A majority voting in concert with executive policies refused to let the communist fringe gain a yard.

Canadian Thanksgiving Tables Will be Adorned with Turkey

Toronto, Oct. 8 —(CP)— Mr. and Mrs. Gobbler, you've had it. Most Canadian housewives are out for your hide Canadian next Monday to place on their Thanksgiving Day tables.

You may be mixed, for out of the estimated 2,800,000 running across Canada's farm yards, some may not yet be large enough or fat enough for the festive day. But don't be too sure you aren't just being kept for later eating when Canadians from coast to coast pull on their bibs for their year-end turkey feed at Thanksgiving. Because your hide is not quite as expensive this year.

Butchers and meat packers reported, in a cross-country survey by The Canadian Press, that they expect most English-speaking Canadians in the nine mainland provinces to be turkey-eating this weekend, Canada's 31st Thanksgiving.

In Ontario, where the first Canadian Thanksgiving Day was held way back in 1818 to commemorate the ending of the war between Britain and France, the demand now is for the nine-to-15 pound familysized birds. More turkey farmers get into the business this year and more birds are ready for Monday's table than at this time last year.

An Ottawa butcher reports the Canadian Thanksgiving comes "too early." He says turkeys are not properly grown, that there will be a shortage of birds between 10 and 15 pounds. Price range in the Ottawa area is from 59 to 75 cents a pound.

Nationalist Front Shows Signs of Caving in Under Strong Communist Attack

Canton, Oct. 8 — (AP)—Chinese began fleeing from Canton today as Communist troops showed signs of caving in under the pressure of attacking red armies.

Diplomats in Canton said they expected to hear Monday that the Nationalist capital was being moved to Chungking, wartime capital in Western China.

Kukong, anchor city only 125 miles north of Canton, already is astir with a flight. Hengyang, the Nationalist base 265 miles to the north, appeared to have been abandoned.

Press reports said Gen. Pai Chung-Hsi, central front commander, had quit Hengyang and would set up headquarters at Kweilin, capital of his native Kwangsi province.

That was a blow he may leave Canton to its fate. His 200,000-man army is the best left to the nationalists on the Chinese mainland.

A well-informed Communist-wealth diplomat in London said Britain will recognize the new-established communist regime in Peiping. India was expected to take a like step. Other Commonwealth governments likely to follow suit. Trade with China is a big factor.

So far only Russia and her satellites of Eastern European states have recognized the Peiping regime publicly" of communist Mao Tze-tung.

The British step would break the front of western powers who so far have remained mute on the question of recognizing Peiping.

As have remained Pete correspondent, Spencer Moosa, in Canton said present indications were the Nationalist capital would be established in Chungking within two weeks.

Motorcycle Rider 'Loses' His Wife

Brussels, Oct. 8. (AP)—A passing motorist spotted Lucien Moermans, 41, roaring along on a motorcycle, and succeeded in flagging him down.

"You lost your wife," the motorist called.

He was right. Moermans' wife was 100 km. in hospital. She had an injured knee.

Canadians Like Meat and Eat Lots of it; Fish Well Down on Preference List

Ottawa, Oct. 8 — (CP)—It may make the fishermen unhappy, but the fact is that Canadians are primarily meat-eaters and will probably remain that way.

It's not necessarily that Canadians don't like fish. It's just that they prefer meat.

If all the fish eaten last year in Canada was piled fin to fin it would be a puny mound compared with the stack of meat piled from dinner tables.

Even the Federal Department of Fisheries recognized this fact, a little sadly perhaps, in its monthly publication — "Trade News" — which goes out from Ottawa to tell the fishing industry the latest official dope on their trade.

Buried among the statistics are figures which indicate that Canadians eat more meat, more poultry and more eggs than they do fish.

The situation has been relatively the same for years and gives little indication that it will change in the near future.

This is the order of Canadian preference for those four food items: meat well ahead; eggs second; poultry third and fish fourth.

Last year Canadians ate an average of 123.3 pounds of meat. That works out to about 2 3/4 pounds of meat a week.

That's a lot of meat, but it's less than in 1947 when the average was 126 pounds. It's a far cry from 143.5 pounds, compared with 141.7 pounds in 1945 and the comparatively-small amount of 118.4 pounds in the 1935-39 pre - war period.

Conclusion: Canadians are eating a little more meat now than they did before the Second World War.

Things are getting better for the fish industry, however. Fish consumption rose 2.3 pounds in the last four years or the prewar period.

In 1947 Canadians ate 11.3 pounds; compared with 11.9 in 1946, 9.9 in 1945 and 11.0 in the 1935-39 period.

Early this year a delegate to the conference of the Fisheries Research Board of Canada said that if Canadians ate an additional five pounds of fish a year, it would take care of the whole Atlantic catch.

FREE-FOR-ALL DISCUSSION ON VETS IN HOUSE

Members Run Gamut From Pensions to Charter

Ottawa, Oct. 8 (CP)—A free-for-all discussion on veterans' problems occupied the Commons Friday. Members ran the gamut from pensions to the veterans' charter.

While Veterans Affairs Minister Gregg on the receiving end, opposition members fired suggestions and questions on a myriad of subjects during consideration of estimates for the Department of Veterans' Affairs.

A general appeal of a special veterans' committee of parliament came during the afternoon sitting. However, Mr. Gregg said there would be no committee at this session.

During the night sitting, merchant seamen were brought into discussion.

Mr. Gregg said careful consideration is being given to the question of raising the age limit for wartime merchant seamen who want to take vocational training under the veterans' charter.

A former merchant seamen now must be under 35 to qualify for vocational training and allowances. Representations have been made to the transport department and D.V.A. to have this changed because there are many merchant seamen over 35 who are now established after war service at sea.

Debate Adjourned

W. J. Browne (PC-St. John's-west) said the customs department and post office should combine to halt the flow of undesirable crime comics into Canada. Publishers in Canada should be subject to summary trial and conviction.

Mr. Browne, a former Newfoundland district judge, spoke during the renewed debate on the Communist Mr. E. D. Fulton (PC-Kamloops) that would provide for the outlawing of a series of specific crimes in connection with publication and distribution of objectionable comic books. A debate on the bill, which is up for second reading—adoption in principle—was adjourned for a week by L. E. Cardiff (PC-Huron North).

Mr. Fulton, G. R. Pearkes V.C. (PC-Nanaimo) opened the series of requests for the establishment of a committee on veteran affairs.

Gen. Pearkes also suggested that war veterans' allowances—pensions paid to old soldiers burned out since World War I and II war service—be broadened to take in men who fought with the Commonwealth armies.

The Means Test, he said, should be modified on these "burnt-out-pensions."

Robert Fair (SC-Battle River), John Blackmore (SC-Lethbridge) and Victor Quelch (SC-Acadia) also criticized the Means Test.

Special Assistance Fund

Mr. Quelch said that in many cases old-age pensions are higher than veterans' allowances. Many veterans on reaching 70 were tempted to give up their veterans allowance and ask for old-age pensions instead.

Mr. Gregg said this is the case only in a few provinces. In instances of hardship, there was a special assistance fund to supplement the pension of any veteran.

Mr. Quelch suggested the possibilities on its veterans legislation for A. C. Stewart (L-Yorkton).

He criticized opposition members for indicating things are not well with Canadian veterans. They had been treated better than any country.

Frank Leonard (PC-Wentworth) brought up the veterans' Land Act regulations requiring that a veteran hold three acres before he can receive special government assistance for building a home on the land.

This originally had been an acre but had been raised to three acres by Order-in-Council.

Mr. Lennard described the increase in acreage as "stupid." No land is so poor it could look after three acres.

No Publication Thanksgiving Day

Monday being Thanksgiving Day, there will be no publication of the Ontario Intelligencer.

Authoress Charges Husband Hit Her With Dictionary

Miami, Fla., Oct. 8. (AP)—The Budapest-born author of books on family troubles was divorced Friday from the man she charged hit her in the eye with a Webster's dictionary.

Judge George E. Holt granted a divorce to Mrs. Lilla Van Saher, author of "Macamba" and "The Echo", both best-sellers. She did not ask for alimony.

Mrs. Van Saher filed suit in which she charged that her husband, Edward Van Saher, chairman of the International Development Association, on November 1, 1948, threw a Webster's dictionary at her, causing a swollen eye so she was unable to write or read for several days."

Three Crewmen Hurt as Freights Meet Head-on

Welland, Oct. 8 — (CP) — A collision between a C. N. R. and a Welland Canals freight south of here, sent three crew members to hospital Friday morning early. The two freights met head-on in thick fog early today.

Both trains were moving slowly and no cars were derailed, but sufficient damage was caused to the two engines to block the line until noon today.

Injured were Earl Graham, St. Thomas engineer on the Wabash freight; fractured leg; George Halg, Toronto, engineer on the C. N. R. train, chest and body bruises; Ernest Bowman, Stoco, Toronto, fireman, forehead laceration.

Decide to Order Arrest of Widow Of Sun Yat Sen

Canton, Oct. 8 (Reuters)—The Nationalist Executive Yuan (Cabinet) decided today to order the arrest of Madame Sun Yat-Sen, widow of the founder of the Chinese Republic.

Her name was listed with those of 55 Communists or Communist sympathizers.

Mao Tze-Tung, chairman of the Chinese Communist government, and Gen. Chou En-Lai, acting premier are also on the list.

A sister-in-law of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek, Madame Sun is at present in Peking, the Communist capital of China. Last month she was elected one of the six vice-chairmen of the "Central People's government of the Republic of China".

Passenger Suffers Cuts as Car Strikes Truck

When an auto proceeding west on Moira Street collided with the rear of a parked truck late Friday evening, both vehicles were rendered inoperative and were towed away by two trucks.

Garth Sherry, Trinity Street, was the driver of the car, while the truck was owned by Harry B. Parsons, 12 Strachan Street. The car crashed into the rear wheel of the truck forcing the vehicle over the curb. Rear wheels of the truck were knocked out of line, while there was considerable front end damage to the car.

A passenger in the car, Laura Martens, suffered a cut knee requiring several stitches to close, and also cuts on her nose and cheek.

WEATHER SYNOPSIS

Toronto, Oct. 8 (CP)—Synopsis: Cool weather will prevail. Frost is forecast for southern and central Ontario. High temperatures today and Sunday are expected to climb's near the 80 mark in many locations.

By way of contrast, cool air from northwestern Canada has traveled the western states. Great Falls Montana reported 4 record inches of snow on the ground early this morning and snow has occurred during the night as far south as Colorado.

Cool air covers northwestern Ontario where record cloudiness and some rain is expected to persist today and Sunday.

WATERLESS HOSES, FEW CREW MEN INQUIRY TOLD

Action of Some Men Heroic Says Witness

Toronto, Oct. 8—(CP) — Survivors' stories of events aboard the fire-ridden cruise-ship Noronic appeared today to have settled into a pattern.

The picture, established, in eight days of federal hearings here and in two earlier preliminary inquiries, was of few crew members in sight when the Great Lakes vessel burned at the waterfront here Sept. 17.

It also included the reiterated statements of no fire alarm other than the continuous sounding of the ships main whistle and of fire hoses that lacked water pressure.

The blaze left a toll of 104 identified dead and 19 persons unidentified.

Officers Yet to be Heard

Still to be heard are the chief officer and other officers and members of the crew who were on duty that fateful morning. The commission, under Mr. Justice R. L. Richard, C.C., will resume hearings Tuesday.

It has taken eight days and is expected to take all of next week and possibly part of the following week.

Evidence given Friday followed the pattern of testimony at hearings in Detroit and Cleveland.

Actions of some crew members were "heroic," Edward Kolodicki, 21, Toronto, said in evidence Friday. Kolodicki, who said he was working at one time on fire safety appliances, said the ship's break-glass alarm system was "the cheapest any money can buy."

Given Directions

James C. Miller of Cuyahoga Falls, Ohio, said he was given directions on how to leave the ship by a uniformed member of the crew. He was not one how with no pressure and another from which a steam or vapor was coming.

"One of the crew said to us: 'Folks, if you follow me, we'd better get out of this ship,' Miller testified. "He led us from D deck to E deck."

He said the group was composed of all about 30 persons. Only two members were all passengers.

Patrick Wilkinson counsel for Canada Steamship Lines, owners of the vessel, asked how he knew there were passengers.

"If there were members of the crew among them they were not doing anything," Miller replied. They were standing around as if frightened."

ITALY'S PUBLIC WORKS PROGRAM

Rome, Oct. 8 — (AP) — The Economic Co-operation Administration Friday announced a new $90,000,000 — lire ($95,000,000) public works program yesterday for Italy, the money to come out of Marshall Plan funds. Chief interest is a housing program under which 884,382 rooms for working class families will be built or reconstructed.

Don't Mind Coming Winter, it May Cost You More but Fuel Plentiful

By 'Canadian Press

Canadians don't need to fear the coming snow storms. It will cost them a little more money, but there are sufficient supplies of fuel to keep them warm at home and at work.

A Canadian Press survey shows that the provinces, except for British Columbia, depends mostly on coal for heating purposes. Although in many provinces may experience a shortage of United States coal because of strikes in the coal strike, supplies throughout the country are reported to be adequate. Prices are plentiful.

Ode Montreal dealer even said that he has more fuel on hand for soon from a fuel standpoint we have seen for some years."

But it will cost more. Devaluation of the Canadian dollar and the recent freight rate increase are the responsible factors.

American anthracite is up from $17.25 a ton in Montreal to $2.25 in Toronto and $2.50 in Prince Edward Island. Domestic coal shows increases of $1.75 a ton in Quebec and $1.20 in Ontario but most provinces will pay no more than last year.

The bright fuel picture may be responsible for a drop in the number of people who stocked up during the summer. Quebec was an exception with reports of coal still being filled up in time to escape a rise in fuel prices.

Toronto reported only 30 per cent of the usual summer customers this year. In Saskatchewan, the small amount of summer orders was responsible for a drop in coal dealers' quotas.

New Brunswick reported the summer consumer fuel business since 1939, with only 10 per cent of customers filling up during the summer months. Manitoba also experienced a 10-per cent decrease in summer orders.

But in Nova Scotia, 60 per cent of the consumers laid in their supplies earlier.

There is no indication of any acute suffering in prospect for lack of fuel. Toronto dealers said the population will be able to

Duplessis Urges No Amendment Until F-P Parley

Believes Any Constitutional Changes Should Await Talks

Quebec, Oct. 8 — (CP)—Premier Duplessis again Friday reiterated Prime Minister St. Laurent to propose no amendment to the Canadian Constitution until provincial authorities have discussed the question at a federal-provincial conference.

It was the second time in two weeks that the leader of Quebec's Union Nationale government had made the statement which has been the subject of correspondence between the Federal Prime Minister and Mr. Duplessis.

Letter Outlines Stand

Premier Duplessis issued his latest letter, dated Oct. 5, during a press conference. It was written from a letter by Mr. St. Laurent to provincial authorities, "especially" have taken the view that the nature of constitutional amendments is such that with federal matters was "statutory" rather than "constitutional."

Mr. St. Laurent, in his letter released Friday night to the press," said:

"I would simply recall that historically the federal authorities have always proceeded, when there was a question of making amendments to this act which touched exclusively on something within federal jurisdiction, by taking it for granted that those sections at least of the act do not have the character of a contract, but are rather statutory provisions capable of being amended by the legislative authority which enacted them."

Mr. St. Laurent added: "In the present circumstances, we do not see any reason to renounce a contrary opinion, but we believe we should proceed in the same fashion as has been done in the past."

Quotes Authorities

Premier Duplessis quoted authorities to support his contrary view on the matter, including the British North America Act is a contract between federal and provincial authorities. Even if it was not subject to any amendment without the consent of the contracting parties.

The Quebec premier, who quoted one judgment of Mr. St. Laurent's letter during his press conference, said that the Prime Minister's interpretation did not correspond with that of parliament when it sponsored legislation at Westminster to cover the pact of Confederation.

He quoted authorities as saying it was a "treaty of alliance" a "delicate instrument" and compact". He added that Canadian statement of "difference between federal and different races" also expressed on various occasions their opinion that the pact of Confederation is a pact or a treaty."

ONE BOY KILLED ANOTHER INJURED IN MIDWAY CRASH

Airplane-Type Car Breaks Loose From Whirling Device

Simcoe, Ont., Oct. 8 — (CP) — One boy was killed and another seriously injured Friday in a midway accident at the Norfolk County Fair here.

Douglas Lalone, 13, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Lalone of Simcoe, died in hospital less than an hour after an airplane-type car plummetted 40 feet to the ground after breaking loose from a whirling midway device.

In hospital with abdominal and chest injuries is Gilbert Moulin, his companion on the ride. Young Moulin's condition was described as "fair."

James Lalone, 13, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Lalone of Simcoe, died in hospital less than an hour after an airplane-type car plummetted 40 feet to the ground after breaking loose from a whirling midway device.

In hospital with abdominal and chest injuries is Gilbert Moulin, his companion on the ride. Young Moulin's condition was described as "fair."

The boys were pulled from the wreckage by fair employees and taken to hospital by James Sullivan, owner and general manager of the Wallace Brothers Shows.

An inquest will be held in the Lalone boy's death.

Sullivan could give no explanation of the accident. He said only: It was the first on one of his rides in 30 years of operating a midway. He said the accident became detached from the framework but neither he nor the rides nor a supporting had broken.

'MAD DOCTOR'S' SENTENCE OF DEATH APPROVED

Tokyo, Oct. 8 — (AP)—Gen. MacArthur today approved the death sentence for Capt. Hisakichi Tokuda the "mad doctor" of Japanese army. Tokuda was convicted in January, 1948 of performing inhuman experiments on prisoners of war which resulted in at least four deaths at a war camp in Tokyo in 1945. He was a medical officer.

$50,000 Damage Caused by Fire In Cobourg Plant

Cobourg, Oct. 8 (CP) Fire today caused an estimated $50,000 damage and threw 20 men out of work at a local matting factory.

The fire, believed to have been due to a stove in the building, is said to have burned unnoticed for almost an hour. When firemen arrived the building was a mass of flames. Only the office section at the west end of the structure was saved.

The plant was a one-storey wooden building, built about 50 years ago.

MISTAKEN IDENTITY OVER SUITCASE

A traveller checking out of a local hotel last night had reason to be uneasy for more than one when the suitcase that he had put down only a minute before somehow disappeared.

The hotel clerk figured correctly, however, that the suitcase may have been taken in mistake and a check with the bus station resulted in the club bag being discovered. Another guest at the hotel had picked up the wrong suitcase by mistake.

CLOSED—FOR EFFICIENCY

Your pharmacist is not a superman. Like you, he requires a certain amount of sleep and recreation so that he may function efficiently for his community. That is why, late at night, or on Sunday, you may find the lights of your pharmacy out, the doors locked.

There are sound reasons why every pharmacy cannot remain open 24 hours a day, 365 days a year. Whether your pharmacist works alone or is assisted by other pharmacists, his professional duties require the exacting care and mental alertness conditions he cannot fulfill if he works lengthy hours, day after day.

Like every other individual, your pharmacist requires rest and relaxation after his strenuous duties. Yet in cases of real emergency—when his science and skills are needed to preserve or save life—you will find him eager to serve with every weapon in his professional arsenal.—Reprinted from a copyrighted advertisement published by Parke, Davis & Company.

Samuel Cherry, C.N.R. Engineer, Retires After 45 Years of Service

Forty five years' service as a railroader, over 40 years of which he has been in the role of a locomotive engineer, will be ended on Monday for Samuel Cherry, 30 Pine Street, when he steps down from his engine after hauling No. 14 passenger train from Toronto to Belleville.

Mr. Cherry will make his last run on Thanksgiving Day when he will handle the throttle on the noon passenger train from Toronto.

A native of Scotland, Mr. Cherry came to Canada as a young man of eighteen years and ten years later started with the old Grand Trunk at Lindsay. Five years later-he was classed as engineer and since that time has hauled freight and passenger trains. Since joining the railway he has worked out of Lindsay, Midland and Brockville, being stationed at Belleville for the past 20 years.

After 30 years here the Cherry family will continue to reside in this city after Mr. Cherry's retirement. According to Mrs. Cherry their friends are in Belleville and it is here where they own their home.

In honor of Mr. Cherry on his retirement, members of the family are planning a party over the weekend, while Monday there will be a brief ceremony at the station.

Thanksgiving Market Colorful Evidence of Bounteous Harvest

". . . and God giveth the increase," which according to the abundance of all good things on the market this morning has been a glorious reality. Boxy apples, purple plums, golden pears, enticing vegetables, and beautiful flowers all made the market the various stalls a living Thanksgiving picture.

Ketahdins were 60 cents per peck; cauliflower 15 and 25c per head; corn on the cob; cooking onions ranged from 35 to 50 cents per basket; sweet potatoes, 5 cents or 6 cents the bunch; corn, hybrid variety, 35c per dozen; while carrots, parsnips and beets were 10 cents the bunch or 3 bunches for 25c. Turnips were selling at 5 cents a piece, depending on the size; individual squashes were 5 and 10 cents each; cooking onions 25 cents the small measure, or $1.00 per peck, and sweet Spanish $4 a bag.

Celery ranged from 15 cents to 3 bunches for 25 cents. Green onions per bunch were 10 or 3 for 25. Cabbages were selling at 5 cents the head and 10. Large sig. Hubbard squashes were 35 up, while the smaller sizes were 15 and 35 each. Sweet peppers were in great abundance and were selling at 3 good sized ones for 10 cents; pie pumpkins were 10 cents each, and green tomatoes 35 cents per basket.

Some Chinese Cabbage

A few more heads of Chinese cabbage were offered for sale, at the large price of 20 cents each. Parsley, sage and savory were selling at 10 cents per bunch.

Several varieties of apples were for sale. McIntoshes at $1.50 to $2.25 per hamper; Red and snows 50c the basket, and from $1.50 for domestic to $2.00 for hand picked. Wolfe Rivers were $1.25 for the domestic brand and some extra nice greenings were $2.00 per hamper. Talman Sweets were not too plentiful, but those for sale were of nice even texture, and were 50 cents the basket, and from $2 to $2.50 per hamper depending on the quality and grade.

Melons have passed their peak, but there were plenty to choose from for the Sunday dinner on Monday. The watermelons ranged from 5 cents to 50 as did the rock melons. Pears were quite plentiful, and were 75 for Shaldona, 65 for Howels. 50 for Bufflins.

The Damson plums were 60 cents the basket, and were the first plums. Wild grapes were 25 cents the basket, and fine for juice.

Some Lovely Flowers

Among the flowers offered there were some lovely bronze bed mums in pots, and pink, and white, all ranging in price from $1.50 to $1.50. The delicate palm-like Dracaenas still held sway at 50 cents the pot, while the small pots of various other kinds of plants, begonias, and lloy cactus were 15c each. Asparagus ferns were 25 cents each.

Gladioli, Dahlias, and Michaelmas daisies were still showing their lovely faces, and were selling at $1.00 for the glads; 40 cents the bunch for the Michaelmas daisies, and from 40 to 50 cents the bunch for the baby 'mums. The Dahlias were still 40 cents a bunch.

Not much wood has been shown yet, but one load was selling for $8.00 per one cord; $12.00 per 1½ cords and $15.00 per two cords. This was mixed wood, both hare and soft in cordwood lengths.

Pigs were holding their own with not much fluctuation in price. Yorkshire six months old were $11.00 each; seven weeks old, $12.00 each. One vendor had seven runners for sale, seven weeks which were smaller in size, sold at $8.00. These were lean but with little fallows, even though small-er than they pen fed.

Irish Setter Pups

There was a littler of some lovely red Irish setter puppies. The females were all sold at $10.00 each and $15.00 for the males.

In the fish division, whitefish were 20 cents per pound, as was the king of fish, the pickerel. Bullheads were 2 pounds for $1.00.

Yearling fowl of which there was a super-abundance sold at 40 cents the pound, and the roosters fowl were still 25 cents the pound. Ducks were not too plentiful, but what was offered was good size and sold at 30 cents the pound.

Eggs, pullets, grade A were 40 cents the dozen; medium, grade A 50, and large grade A 60 cents per dozen.

Home Cooking Plentiful

In the inside market the home cooking was quite attractive both in appearance and in price. Fruit pies, berry, apple, pumpkin were 40c and 45c each; cookies, of many kinds, ranged from 25c for the small ones to 40c for the large size, per dozen; butter tarts per dozen; fruit buns 25c; date squares 40c per dozen; and last ever favorite, doughnuts at 40c the dozen.

Loaf cakes were 40c and 45c; each, apple sauce cakes with luscious chocolate frosting, 50c each. These were the good home-sized variety. Taffy tarts that looked as if they would melt in the mouth were 50c per dozen, and large chocolate cakes were 50c each.

The selection of home-made candy was delectable. Chocolates were 65c the box, fudge 40c per half pound box; horehound sticks like mother used to buy us 5c apiece; fudge was 20c per half-pound bag, as were the peanut brittle. Maple nut chocolate covered bars were 5c each, and many other kinds, daintily wrapped are all tempting. Just the thing for that holiday snack.

Knitted Goods

The knit goods showed fine knit men's socks at $2 and $2.50 per pair; children's ankle socks, 50c and 75c a pair; and 65c the pair, according to size; men's suits were $1.50 for the double knit.

Aprons were colorful and of many styles, and sold from 50c to $1.50 each. Little Peter Pan suits for children ranged from $2.50 to $3.25. Little pink sets of factory knit booties, sacques and hoods were 35c for the booties 50c for bonnets and 75c for the sacques.

All in all, a fine showing of the bountiful harvest deserving of humble thanks "all good things around us are sent from heaven above, then thank the Lord, O thank the Lord, for all His love."

New LaFrance Pumper Arrives For Fire Dept.

Delivery of a new 800-gallon LaFrance pumper, bringing the pumper strength of the department up to three units, was accepted this week by the Belleville Fire Department.

The new machine which is built on a three-ton chassis, will pump 800 gallons per minute out of the bay or river, or can be used to boost hydrant pressure. In addition the pumper carrier a 335-gallon booster tank which can be used for fire extinguishing or small fires without bringing hydrant pressure into play.

The new pumper truck also carries two ladders, three of them extension ladders of 45, 30, and 24 foot lengths, and a straight ladder of 16 feet. The body is of aluminum.

Under Residential Work

Fire Chief Gerald Vance stated the new pumper would be used for runs to residential sections of the city allowing the heavier pumpers to be kept in reserve for fighting blazes in larger buildings. Also the new truck carries an auxiliary ladder equipment for use on residences without taking out the new aerial ladder.

In the future, further aerial ladder will be used at fires in the business section of the city, at the hospital, and other buildings that the ladder equipment of the small truck cannot handle.

The new truck carries more ladder equipment and has a larger-booster tank than do the two larger pumpers owned by the department. Pumper capacity of the other two pumpers, however, are 800 gallons and 750 gallons per minute.

Quinte Amateur Radio Club Is Re-organized

A meeting was held at the Kiwanis Cabin on October 5th, 1949 to re-organize the Quinte Amateur Radio Club.

From the enthusiasm shown by the twenty-two present, it was that an effort should be made to get the club going again accordingly, those present had a election with the following results.

President, Roy A. White; Vice-President, Harold Carruthers; Directors, Jack Warner, Charles Young and James Colligan; Secretary-Treasurer, Gene Hitchon.

It was decided that dues be two dollars a year but it was stressed that anyone is perfectly welcome to attend the regular meetings which will be held on the first Wednesday of each month, at the Kiwanis Centre. Arrangements are being made to obtain speakers to give talks on technical subjects and a class will be formed to teach Morse code to those who desire to learn, and thus enable them to write the government examination that is required before a license to transmit can be obtained, these examinations are quite simple and little difficulty is anticipated along these lines.

Door prizes, kindly donated by the Canadian General Electric Company, were won by George Maruck, Roy Beasley and Sam Cowan.

Those attending the meeting had, by pre-arrangement, brought a pamphlet containing some useful article of "ham" equipment. These parcels were numbered and each member drew a number from a box and received the corresponding parcel, but of course, did not know the donor. Somebody was lucky (?) enough to draw a large box containing a 250 watt tube of ancient vintage.

Quinte Amateur Radio Club extends a most cordial welcome to anyone interested in attending its meetings, the next of which will be held on November 2nd.

Amateur radio makes a really worthwhile hobby suitable for the young and the old, and Belleville amateurs have formed friendships with other amateurs in all parts of the world. Amateurs number among their members doctors, lawyers, business men, school teachers students and in fact, people from all walks of life who have found this hobby to be a form of relaxation suitable for any age.

LATE DR. W. H. GUTZEIT (Kingston Hub)

Funeral of Dr. W. H. Gutzeit, Mus. Doc. organist and composer, was held Thursday afternoon from the Robert Cullen funeral home, Princess Street, Kingston, to St. Andrew's Presbyterian church in that city. Service was conducted by Rev. Dr. J. Forbes Mackay, minister of the late the church, who was assisted by Rev. R. G. Osborne-Walker, rector of St. Mary's Cathedral Church, Bath. Dr. Gutzeit, who was organist of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church for 10 years, recently resigned because of ill health. He died at his home Tuesday, following a heart attack.

Pall-bearers were R. M. Allan, Logan Gallaher and George Hay, Kingston; H. W. Ackerman, Belleville; Dr. Stanley Daniel and Dr. Stanley Clarke,- both of Toronto.

Honorary pall-bearers were Dr. Noble Armstrong and James Halliday, Kingston; Charles Bendell, Edward Dimock, Dr. Clarence Brooks, Edward Wodson and sons of 2nd Lieut. Marion Green, Dr. W. H. Morton, Belleville.

Flowers were paid to the deceased by Rev. Dr. Wedderburn who spoke of the contribution which Dr. Gutzeit had made to St. Andrew's Church where he had served for 10 years.

Interment took place in Belleville cemetery.

LATE MRS. JAMES SUMMERS

Rawdon.—On Wednesday afternoon, October 5, Mount Pleasant United Church was well filled with relatives and friends in attendance at the funeral of Mrs. James Summers (nee Emma Beatrice Linn).

Interment was made in the cemetery at Mount Pleasant and Rev. Charles Cragg, B.A. conducted the committal service.

The pall-bearers were Messrs. Maurice Summers, Forbes Stapley, Milton Shaw, Ivan Davies, Murney Johnson and Gordon Donnan.

Mrs. Summers was the last of a family of ten. Her husband and two children George and Pearl are predeceased.

She is survived by three daughters, Maude, Mrs. James Sharpe, Elzina, Mrs. Cecil Mills, Mrs. William Johnston, Salem; Annie, Mrs. Roy Thrasher, of Mount Pleasant, and one son, Cyrus on the homestead at Mount Pleasant. There are seven grandchildren, twenty-two great grandchildren and two great great grandchildren.

LATE MRS. MARJORY V. BOOMHOWER

The funeral of Mrs. Marjory Victoria Boomhower, wife of Mr. Charles W. Boomhower, 35 South Front street, was held from the Belleville Public Memorial Park Funeral Home, Campbell street, on Friday morning. The service in the chapel and in the Belleville Cemetery was conducted by Archdeacon the Ven. Arthur Smith, Rector of St. Thomas' Church.

Bearers were Clifford Rushlow, James Morris, Percy Rodgers, Donald McCauley, William O'Sullivan and Edward Naven.

Coroner's Jury Says Man's Death Is Accidental

A verdict of accidental death was returned Friday evening by Coroner's Jury at an adjourned inquest enquiring into the death of James A. Jackson, 270 Coleman Street.

Jackson, an employee with the Bridge and Building department of the Canadian National Railways, fell from the roof of an ice house which he was assisting to repair. He died on the way to the Belleville hospital.

Four witnesses were called to testify before Coroner A. E. Tennent and were questioned by Crown Attorney B. C. Donnan. The witnesses were Carmen Pratt, Trenton; Chester Pero, Newburgh, Austin Bay, Rawdon, and Dr. J. H. Bateman, pathologist, who told of injuries suffered by Jackson.

Witnesses told the jury that Jackson had been moving a ladder on the roof of the ice house when a knot in the rope holding the ladder became untied allowing him to slide off the roof. He struck on his head landing on a lumber pile. Witnesses had tied the knot before going onto the roof.

Jurors were Bryson Reid, James Clarke, Charles Mackenzie, Angus McFee and Thos. Hutchinson.

Commanders Will Be Installed At Baptist Ch.

The newly appointed Divisional Commanders of the new Central Ontario Division of The Salvation Army, Brigadier and Mrs. R. W. Gage, have arrived in Belleville, and taken up residence at 171 Ann Street.

It has also been announced that the official installation service will be held on Tuesday evening, October 11th., at 8 p.m. in the Victoria Ave. Baptist Church.

This important service, will be conducted by Commissioner Chas. Baugh, Territorial Commander for Canada, who felt that for better administration a re-organization of Divisions should be made, and thus the City of Toronto was made one Division, and the Communities administered by the East Toronto Division will now be administered from Belleville.

Additional staff have been appointed to this office in the person of Mrs. Brigadier Gage, daughter of Brig. and Mrs. Green Hamilton, Ont., and 2nd Lieut. Joyce Jamieson, of Ottawa.

Full of Diamonds

Elizabeth, N.J., Oct. 8—(AP)—Selmar Hilboro, a New York industrial diamond salesman, was thinking of something last Friday when he set down his suitcase by his car.

Hilborn got in the car and drove off, leaving the suitcase sitting on the sidewalk.

The salesman missed the case about 15 minutes later, in a near-by back postbaste. Luckily, the customer he had just finished calling on had found it and kept it for him.

It was full of diamonds.

Lafleche Cave

By A. Henderson

Editor's note: The following is a brief description of a remarkable cavern and its strange formation as seen by the writer, while on a short sight-seeing trip during a recent holiday in Ottawa, and its environs.

If you were to go about eighteen miles north of the City of Chelsea, over Wright Bridge, and along the rough, sandy Cantley road which winds in a leisurely manner up to the Laurentide Mountains, you would come, if you followed the arrows, to one of Nature's wonders, Lafleche Cave.

Arriving at the foot of the great hill, you will find a wide parking place for your cars, and a bold-faced booth serving the hottest hot-dogs in existence. Here, too, is the place where you ign the visitors' book, and engage the bilingual guide. After a rather stiff climb up the mountain side, you come to the mouth of the cave with its warning notice in both French and English: "Wait for the Guide!" and without doing so somewhat of the cave's history will be learned.

• • •

Lafleche Cave, so called from the present owner, Monsieur Lafleche, was discovered in 1865 by a hunter, Monsieur J. Dubois, while on a hunting trip, and is alleged to be the result of volcanic disturbance. For several years it remained in the possession of one, Monsieur Edouard Pelissier, ex-mayor of St. Pierre de Wakefield, and was unknown to the general public until 1923. At this time the Hull Attraction Company took it over, and made it safe for those who wished to visit this wonder-work of Nature.

The rocks which surround the Cave's mouth are of very ancient date, as is its deep and cavernous interior. Even between the layers of crystalline limestone, quartzite, sparkling mica, intrusive granite, and gneiss little sprigs of cedar protrude wherever this tenacious tree can find a crack or crannie for a toe-hold.

At last the guide appears and we are ready to enter the cavern into the bowels of the earth. Passing down a gradual incline from the mouth of the Cave, we enter a narrow corridor, and, coming to the right, find immediately conscious of a decided change in the atmosphere. Gone the warm, dry, rarified air outside we now encounter a moist, clammy cold which gradually increases to 40 degrees, necessitating the donning of coats and wraps.

• • •

As we pass along, going from one hall to another, down one flight of steps and up another, we see, by means of a delco lighting system, the strange formations in the rocky walls; overhead the glistening stalactites and at our feet the stalagmites which, in years and years and years to reach the height of one inch, protrude from the floor up, or from the ceiling down. In one place the guide draws our attention to a cluster of serpents, writhing and twisting as if in the throes which were to turn to escape the terrible catastrophe which has overtaken them. At another spot, almost directly in front, is another serpent, a black Mamba or black Mambas ever lived in the Laurentians — is seen crawling down the wall. Its eyes are black, and its dilated nostrils are so horribly realistic that we point in regret when the guide moves on, and up a flight of narrow, wet, slippery steps, and halts before a white dog, resembling the Seitter type, deftly cast in the solid rock. So vividly clear is this formation that one could almost feel the silky hair of the drooping ears, and see the black nose twitch in eagerness to reach the bone in a perfect, life-size dog in every detail.

• • •

In another corridor the head and shoulders of an elephant, minus part of the trunk is pointed out. Also the formation of the white dog, this needs no stretch of imagination to recognize the likeness. Overhead are large pieces of quartzite set in the ceiling like dome lights, and along the rocky side of the corridor are other stones, green in color, that appear as if glued to the wall. They are, but with a 'glue' that will never drop out. Some are square, others rectangular, looking as if the slightest touch would cause them to fall, and go plunging down to the depths below.

Following the guide, we climb still higher, up more narrow, wet steps, coming to another corridor, so low and so narrow, we are forced to bend almost double as we plod wearily forward along what the tunnel. Finally, we enter the great chamber; a cave of 125 feet by 20. Here are more wondrous formations. A female figure, with bent head, is carrying a little child in her arms in a protecting manner. The form is almost perfect in outline, and the hair of the child is discernible. This formation is a yellowish white, in contrast with the dark limestone walls.

• • •

Further along are the stone draperies, curtains of fringe, solidified in the rock, and in the distance, the great cathedral with its lofty, fluted columns reaching up, and up, and up to meet 65 feet above our heads. We are now 300 feet from the entrance to the cave, and begin the descent through long, narrow, winding passageways where more elephant heads are seen, some showing more of the body; pale stalactites, fluted, past more stalactites, and more marvellous wonders of formation, to reach the hanging stone. This stone is light in colour, and very light to the test long, two-feet wide, and one and a half feet thick, suspended from the ceiling. The guide picks up the heavy mallet, and strikes the stone a heavy blow, causing it to reverberate with a hollow sound like an Indian tom – tom beating. In addition, the weird place more weird.

From here we turn the corner, and very carefully go down a steep but short incline to a narrow opening between lime-oozing walls of rock. Down, down, ever down, through more corridors, each with its own weird formations, until we emerge at last into a small chamber-like room ninety-five feet below the tree-crowned summit.

• • •

At the right the guide attracts our attention to another formation in the dark grotto and lime-stone, resembling the couchant figure of a woman who, like the Lorelei mentioned, is also holding a child in her arms, and sheltering it from some dread thing. The face of the child is toward us, showing the features, and the curled hair above the forehead. We were informed that Monsieur Lafleche had been offered $1500 for this formation, but that he refused the offer. Directly in front, and a little lower is a stout barrier, lies a portion of the underground lake coming in through a large aperture in the rock; a lake, icy cold, and crystal clear. So crystal clear it was that but for the dropping of a few pebbles the mirror-like surface, its presence was not realized.

• • •

In the midst of this awe-inspiring and colossal thing which hemmed us in, we stood and gazed into those crystal waters, wondering at the mighty hand that had been used fused the gigantic towering rocks; gouged out the subterranean passages; formed the weird, and the too-natural looking formations in the massive, rocky sides, till bit by bit, our puny, human ego was defeated. Quietly we retraced our footsteps, asking ourselves as had David so many more ago, "What is man that Thou are mindful of him; and the son of man, that Thou visiteth him?"

STIRLING

St. John's Ladies' League met last Monday evening at the home of Mrs. Bruce-Bell with Mrs. Belshaw, Mrs. Woodhead and Mrs. Lyons as co-hostesses.

The parish meeting opened by the Reverend A. J. Anderson who spoke to the league, thanking them for their generous help regarding the new program ahead of them during the coming year.

It was decided that the work on the chapel which was begun last year, be finished this fall.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Harry Morrow. Mrs. Ranger moved a vote of thanks to Mrs. Bell and her co-hostesses for a very successful evening.

NARCISSUS (DAFFODILS)
To glorify your early Spring Garden
"THEN DEAREST MAIDEN, MOVE AMONG THESE SHADES
IN GENTLENESS OF HEART; WITH GENTLE HAND TOUCH — FOR THERE IS A SPIRIT IN THE WOODS"
Wordsworth

TRUMPET DAFFODIL BEERSHEBA

The common name is "daffodil", and the botanical name is "narcissus". All narcissus are hardy for the garden and many are equally lovely for pot culture. The new varieties are a revelation in size and beauty. Many have cups in rich orange to almost a true red.

Do not plant the bulbs too deeply, about four or five inches. The soil preparation previously described in this series should be rigidly adhered to. Narcissus when planted will naturalize and bloom in quantity.

They should not be disturbed for years.

Purchase only select, first size bulbs. Always remember that good named varieties take no more time and space to raise than more ordinary types.

ROME'S HOLY YEAR TO DRAW PILGRIMS ON FOOT, BY AIR

By GEORGE BEIA

Rome — (AP) — Holy Year 1950 will have modern skyscrapers outranged of the barefoot pilgrims who first answered the call to Rome in medieval times.

The jubilee year beginning this Christmas Eve promises to be remembered as the first great winged pilgrimage to the Eternal City.

As many as 5,000,000 Roman Catholics are expected to set out for Rome from the four corners of the earth. For the first time in history many will make the centuries-old journey by air.

Airlines are arranging for extra planes and reducing rates for the jubilee Airlift.[1] Italy plans to build a second big airdrome on the coast 20 miles from Rome to supplement Ciampino airport in handling the heavy traffic.

Ships and railroads also are reducing rates to make it easier for the less wealthy faithful to reach Rome. Once in Rome the pilgrim will be able to make the trip of spiritual visits to the four great basilicas by subway.

But some will go on foot. Express trains will add machine age touches to the ancient ceremony of the penitential 300 Hour Year will not lack its foot pilgrims. Roman Italians are ardent Catholics and there are reports some British Catholics will attempt to walk to Rome.

Pope Pius XII especially requested that the traditional rite of old in his bull of May 26 proclaiming the Holy Year. He bade the modern faithful supplement their sacrifices and not come to Rome for a good time.

Hymns of 1300

Ancient chants of the church will add to the blend of the modern and the ancient. Pilgrims preparing to make the faithful have been asked do practise singing the same ancient hymns chanted by the faithful who answered the first Holy Year call of Pope Boniface VIII in 1300.

Like the ancient pilgrims, their modern successors may find shelter in monasteries, convents and churches. The housing situation promises to be acute, although the Italian government and church authorities have embarked on construction projects to take care of the crowds.

The Holy Year ritual is built around the traditional visits to the basilicas of St. Peter's, St. Paul's, St. John Lateran, and Saint Mary Major. Roman Catholics in a state of grace—that is those who have confessed and obtained pardon for their sins and received communion—will earn plenary indulgences if they visit these four churches during the year. Catholics believe such indulgences erase punishment for past sins which otherwise would be served in purgatory after death.

The most colorful ceremonies of the Holy Year will be the opening and walling up of the holy door of St. Peter's basilica. The pope will do this himself on Christmas Eve 1949 and Christmas Eve 1950.

The pope knocks three times on the door with a silver hammer, singing "open unto me the gates of justice." The masonry has been loosened before hand and is made to fall on the third blow.

According to the Catholic Encyclopedia, the ceremony probably is closely linked with the idea of the exclusion of Adam and Eve from paradise and the expulsion and reconciliation of penitents.

Thanksgiving Day Once Pagan Feast

(By The Canadian Press)

It's a far cry from the days of ancient Rome to the modern Thanksgiving Day, which Canada celebrates for the 71st time next Monday.

With autumn came to Rome's Empire, pagan Caesars looked on while the Roman mob carried cornucopias brimming with fruits and flowers to celebrate the bounty of the Mediterranean fields and orchards. Now Canadian children watch pop-eyed as steaming turkeys and pumpkin pies are set before them, celebrating an even more benevolent harvest in North America.

But there the parallel ends.

Rome's thanks were offered to a galaxy of pagan gods — one of whom was Caesar himself. The modern Thanksgiving Day has a deeper religious significance, stemming from both Christian and Jewish faiths.

The religious basis of the celebrations was voiced in Canada by the Marquis of Lorne, former governor-general, on Nov. 6, 1879, called on Canadians "to attend church and give thanks for the blessings with which Canada has been favored during the year."

And for centuries Jewish people have linked observance of their New Year with thanksgiving for the bounties of nature.

History records feasts of thanksgiving all through the ages. Long before the birth of Christ, harvest time brought with it festivals among both Greeks and the Druids of Britain.

More than any Canadians is the New World's first Thanksgiving Day celebrated by the Pilgrim Fathers at Plymouth after their first harvest in 1621. Five hundred trade the tough jerky turkeys shot by those pioneers for the modern delicacy-treated fowl.

The little colony of New France on the banks of the St. Lawrence River held annual thanksgiving services after their first establishment. And when the British came, capturing Quebec Citadel in 1759, it was a quick thanksgiving that the British troops celebrated their victory by services in Quebec's Ursuline Chapel.

Since the first official pronouncement of the holiday in Canada in 1879, the date of the holiday has been often changed.

After the First World War and up until 1930, it generally fell on November 11, Armistice Day. Thanksgiving holiday did not return to an early Monday in October until 1931. The actual date is now set by order-in-council.

THANKSGIVING

Thanksgiving comes with all the richness of a fall season in a country blessed in innumerable ways by the Giver of all and the mood of this time is fitting in the presence of the wealth of the fields which has been garnered into thousands of storehouses and vast granaries for the good of this country and other lands.

This is a time which brings before the eyes of the Canadian, so many evidences of the kindliness of Providence in blessing this country with harvests, more than ample for the sustenance of our people so that we have much to spare to share with other peoples, in the New World and in the older world which was the only known world until over four and a half centuries ago when a brave explorer and a true believer set out with his associates on the greatest voyage of discovery in all history—that which discovered America in 1492. This event has changed the course of history for this fertile new hemisphere has been a means of enlightenment of all peoples. The older world has seen the course of its history changed materially by the discovery of this unknown world. Today it is playing a great part in arresting a world outlook of the nations away from the narrow provincialism which some nations in enlightened Europe have exhibited.

Now on Thanksgiving it is the duty of the people of this land so blessed by Providence to give thanks for all the mercies and blessings which have been showered upon this country in her ancestry and in her social and religious ideals and in the vast riches of the American peoples through the wealth of their resources in mineral and in harvests, particularly of this year of 1941.

Canadians give thanks at this time to the Creator for the opportunities which have been placed before them for the building of a nation whose faith is in God and Providence as the Giver of all these treasures of national resources, material and spiritual, for the time of thanksgiving, gratitude in spirit and in hymn. Well it is that into the places of worship are brought at Thanksgiving the fruit and produce of the fields as proof and token of God's benediction upon the country.

"We thank Thee, then, O Father,
For all things bright and good,
The seed-time and the harvest,
Our life, our health, our food.
Accept the gifts we offer
For all Thy love imparts,
And what Thou most desirest,
Our humble, thankful hearts."

SECRET IDENTIFICATION MARKS

Some help in how to safeguard one's car from thieves is given by the vice-president of the New York Automobile Club, J. R. Crossley. He suggests that the motorists should use more care in how and where they park. Of course they should never leave the ignition key in the lock even for the briefest space of time, nor should they try to force open the lock of the car for the clever thimble-rigger can find it if it is in the car. To close the windows and lock the doors when parking on the street is another bit of advice and this most motorists understand. He advises the driver in larger cities not to park regularly in the same place as that allows time for the inspection of thief to study the driver's habits and chooses the most convenient time to commit the theft of the car.

One suggestion he makes seems of more than ordinary importance—that is to place secret identification mark on one's car to foil thieves by removing or changing the identification, serial numbers, tires and accessories may be easily altered by expert thieves.

Now even the most distinctive car on the market may be made to look like others on the road with a new paint job and new accessories, so that drivers would have difficulty in identifying it. But the owners, states Crossley, should stretch their ingenuity and devise secret lines and markings. He claims that hundreds of these can be devised by those who will put their minds to the task. Such a mark of identification might well pass the eye of the thief and prove a means of identification later. Every car that has been stolen and recovered certain marks that could prove a way of foiling a crook who would not know all such marks a car might bear.

THE NEWSBOY

"Just the newsboy!" did you say?
Passing by from day to day,
Regularly, morn and night,
Glimpsed, then quickly out of sight?
Look once more with clearer eye,
It may by a priest gone by.
"Just the newsboy!" Look once more
As he passes by your door.
Swift is time, and brief the span
When the boy becomes a man.
It may be that youngster small
Is the doctor you will call.
"Just the newsboy!" did you say?
There are men of fame today,
Artists, lawyers, surgeons wise,
Leaders of great enterprise,
Who were newsboys—did you know—
Not so very long ago.
"Just the newsboy!" Further look!
Some day you may buy his book;
Have him paint your grandchild's face;
Call him in to plead your case,
Or before life ebbs away
Ask him at your bed to pray.

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BY-GONE YEARS

LOOKING BACKWARDS

20 YEARS AGO

Oct. 2th, 1922.

The Smyrna Club of this city has donated to the local Victorian Order of Nurses the sum of $100, being part of the proceeds of the club's recent dances.

Mrs. F. M. Jeffery of Toronto is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Mikel.

Miss Iva Everson of this city will spend the weekend with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Everson, Oshawa.

Tenders for the artificial ice pool will be opened on Oct. 16th, when it is expected the contract will be let.

Mr. and Mrs. J. J. St. Louis, Highland Ave., are spending some time in New York City.

Miss Marjory Smith of Montreal is the guest of Miss Gertrude Albert Blackburn, Charles Street.

30 YEARS AGO

Oct. 5th, 1912.

Dr. C. C. Marshall, who has just returned home after a visit to his farm in Saskatchewan, brought with him a genuine curiosity in a potato of gigantic dimensions. Its measures 24 inches by 12½ inches and weighs 5½ and a half pounds. Thirty-six of these potatoes would fill a bushel bag and that there are many more of these potatoes where this one came from.

Miss Helen Palen is home from Toronto on a visit.

Mrs. J. A. Jarvis of Ottawa is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. B. Lewis, Sidney Street.

Miss Edna Craig of Vancouver, B.C., is visiting Mrs. Waddell, Ann Street.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. N. Brown have returned home after a trip to the Province of Manitoba.

Mr. Michael Cummins is home from Chicago, Ill., on a visit to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Cummins.

Capt. Bart Russell of Redstreville showed the Intelligencer today an apple which surely is entitled to honorable mention. It is of the Wolf River variety and measures fifteen inches in circumference. Last year two hundred apples from this same tree sold for $200. Who can beat this?

Messrs. J. S. Wardhaugh, A. Mott, H. Foy and D. Grass had excellent fishing down the bay; they caught 150 black bass in addition to other members of the finny tribe.

Mr. A. P. Carrol while trolling in Mosquito Bay caught and landed a maskinonge which weighed 18 pounds.

50 YEARS AGO

Oct. 8th, 1892.

Work at the rolling mills is progressing rapidly and the premises present an animated appearance. The machinery is being put in place as quickly as possible.

Mr. and Mrs. Austin have left for Little York where they will in future reside.

Messrs. Mark Y. Brenton and Walter Mills are spending a few days in Rochester, N.Y.

The Rev. C. W. Watch and Mr. William Johnson have left for Quebec City where they attended a meeting of the Central Board of Ministers of the Methodist Church.

Mr. J. W. Pearce of Marmora, county councillor, was in town today.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

THE COURAGE TO DISAGREE

Too many of us accept the opinions of others without question. We very often give a mind of our own that we might use it honestly and fearlessly. It often takes great courage to disagree with some authority. Knowledge and intelligence we may greatly respect, but it is our right and privilege if we feel that it is not right and the other wrong.

A leader with a strong mind will remain such if he doesn't have the courage to express himself as he thinks. We have all been used as women in public life who have this courage. They should not allow their own thinking and help to point us to solid grounds.

We would soon have no mind of our own if we always agreed with everyone else. All progress and civilization are the result of courageous thought at times when opposition has been great. Set, New Ideas and new truths have to fight their way to triumph. We need all the courage we can muster to defend our ideals and independent manner of thinking.

An early teacher of mine once told me it was my privilege to believe I was right until I could be proved I was wrong. All my life I have tried to stand by that premise. We should look out for those who have the courage to express themselves as they honestly believe, even though we may not agree with them.

We can always learn from those who disagree with us. They stimulate us to think things out for ourselves, to discover when we are wrong. Often it costs both friends and positions to have the courage to stand by one's convictions and to disagree with those who may be just as honest as ourselves, but it is the only way, as has been proved time and again.

All our opinions come to us through a careful and sincere search for the truth. If we are patient and courageous it will be revealed to us. There are lights all along the path. If we give consideration to each, Otherwise we may find ourselves in total darkness!

U. K. CABINET WILL STUDY QUESTION OF RECOGNITION

London, Oct. 7 — (AP) — The cabinet will study the request of the new Chinese communist government for diplomatic recognition and Thursday official sources reported Thursday. They stressed, however, that Britain wasn't act on recognition before consulting the rest of the Commonwealth and the North Atlantic Defence Alliance.

U. N. FLAG RAISED OVER STEEL FRAMEWORK

New York, Oct. 7 — (AP) — The blue and white United Nations flag, with its olive-branch emblem for world peace, was raised Tuesday atop the steel framework of the U. N.'s future permanent headquarters. The ceremony marked completion of the steel framework of the 39-story skyscraper at 42nd Street and the East River.

U. S. ENVOYS TO MEET

Moscow, Oct. 7 — (AP)—United States Ambassador Alan G. Kirk will leave Moscow tomorrow to attend a meeting later this month in London of American envoys to European countries. (The State Department announced in Washington Thursday that U. S. diplomats in the Russian orbit countries would meet Oct. 24 to exchange views.)

Bermuda Skips Height Over Future Status

By JACK BRAYBEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Hamilton, Bermuda — (CP) — Possibly fifteen per cent of Bermuda's whose hair is still dank at Dorval from a dip in the cool surf at Elbow Beach will appreciate the geographic sense of confederation with Canada, of this mid-ocean playground.

The census tourists, however, would be the first to remark that the Americans seem to have already taken over. And he would be first to acknowledge that there is the usual firm voice of Bermuda whose indefinite views on the subject give no immediate hint of anything but continued more-or-less self governing colonialism.

In the first place these beautiful islands, in parcel shades of coral and deep green, are 700 miles from Halifax. And after all Jasper is 2,000 miles away from the mainland.

You can board a slick Trans-Canada Air Line from Dorval Star at Dorval, Quebec, and be digging your bare toes in the pink coral sand within 24 hours. Furthermore, five hours.

Confederation, incidently, is purely a hypothetical question on the islands. But Bermuda is faced with certain practical problems which bedevil all sizzling bloc countries at this time. And largely because of the fact that all avenues—including political ones—are being explored in informal discussions.

Bermuda needs dollars to pay for goods it imports and these can only be readily supplied by dollar countries, chiefly the United States. She is more fortunately situated to market a good part of that product.

The only important thing Bermuda has is beauty in her unique and supremely attractive natural resources. And these, of course, are available to dollar visitors in fairly substantial quantities. The currency of the island is pounds, shillings and pence but dollars and cents seem to dominate the negotiations.

Some shops have bi-currency price tags, all the nimble-minded clerks and the cabbies and porters from shillings to dollars and some shops even have their price tags in dollars only.

Wartime Recalled

But you first run into the American influence when you land at Kindley Field—the big United States air base developed in the wartime emergency trade for naval and air protection. United States army and navy bases are in the city and Canada can be completely overshadow the small British and colonial naval and military contingents.

The only thing British at the airport is the immigration officer, stiffened white shorts. His Lancashire accent and the beautiful uniform of the British airline chauffeurs and waiters is about the only contact the visitor gets with the tourist mates. Because the accent at the airport, behind the beautiful teak and the fact that strictly American—with a broad m-u-t.

American capital is moving into the tourish industry, and thus into the field of greatest source of revenue, in ever-expanding proportions.

There is a Canadian colony too —and a not unimportant one it seems. Canadian nurses in the hospitals, a small group of Canadians on the two daily newspapers, a sprinkling of Canadians and Bermudians with Canadian family ties in the business field.

What about joining Canada, the United States, a West Indies confederacy or independence for many? The average Bermudian needs to be prodded to discuss such matters seriously. Canadian soft warmth and beauty is hardly conducive to such talk.

THE PACKSACK

OF GREGORY CLARK

On the eve of the hunting season, it is customary for The Packsack to offer a few words of sage advice and counsel to those embarking for the wilds.

Nobody has ever taken the trouble to compute the total number of gun and rifle licenses that are sold annually in Canada. Each province has this matter under its own jurisdiction. But the aggregate must run into a quarter million. Of this number there are those who fire in or on the bright of the wilds and whose rifles or shotguns are items of considerable value. But the vast majority are characters whose practise and experience in shooting both have largely been in the dreams. It is to these the following sagacious observations are offered.

Be sure you are not the largest man in the party. Nor is the smallest. But on no account be the biggest. For the big man on the party has all the work to do; the carrying out of the deer, the portaging of boats, the starting of the outboard on a cold and frosty morning.

Don't forget, two nights before you start for leaving to make all the other members and intending hunters a hearty voice that you don't think you're going to be able to make it. This puts the others more at ease, for they must tell them you have chills and feel pneumonia coming on. Thus, you will be an object of very special consideration when you arrive at camp and are not to spoil the party. Also, on mean days when you prefer to sit around the stove, you will save you being called a fair weather sport and a piker.

Lastly, take about $10 less than you expect you will need. This will leave you to pay your poker losses in I.O.U.'s; and in the general confusion of leaving trip, these are easily forgotten or overlooked.

A few precautions of this sort make a hunting trip what it is.

Wartime Recalled

But you first run into the American influence when you land at Kindley Field—the big United States air base developed in the wartime emergency trade for naval and air protection. United States army and navy bases are in the city and Canada can be completely overshadow the small British and colonial naval and military contingents.

The only thing British at the airport is the immigration officer, stiffened white shorts. His Lancashire accent and the beautiful uniform of the British airline chauffeurs and waiters is about the only contact the visitor gets with the tourist mates. Because the accent at the airport, behind the beautiful teak and the fact that strictly American—with a broad m-u-t.

American capital is moving into the tourish industry, and thus into the field of greatest source of revenue, in ever-expanding proportions.

There is a Canadian colony too —and a not unimportant one it seems. Canadian nurses in the hospitals, a small group of Canadians on the two daily newspapers, a sprinkling of Maritimers and Bermudians with Canadian family ties in the business field.

What about joining Canada, the United States, a West Indies confederacy or independence for many? The average Bermudian needs to be prodded to discuss such matters seriously. Canadian soft warmth and beauty is hardly conducive to such talk.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Ontario Intelligencer

An article by Alderman McMechan in the Globe and Mail of today, in this paragraph—"The directors of the Exhibition are the finest type citizens with a record of public service unequalled in Canada."

Should be a fitting tribute to these splendid men and I think there are many who would like to see a little more consideration and attention regarding the re-modelling of the Exhibition. Following the procession to the band shell of the Governor-General, the Premier, the Mayor, his party, the exhibition executive, the mayor and other notables, was offered by a Toronto Bishop after which the huge congregation, with strong voices, joined in the Lord's Prayer. It was a thrilling moment. There followed the singing of that time-honored hymn "O God Our Help In Ages Past" by the band.

Truly this opening ceremony of the largest event staged in the world would be a fitting appreciation of those men. It would take this opportunity of expressing the hearty approval and appreciation of many who attended.

BIG LOAN FOR KAISER

Washington, Oct. 7 — (AP) — The U. S. Maritime Commission Thursday backed Kaiser-Frazer plans for a new, low-priced automobile with a $20,000,000 loan to the company. The Reconstruction Finance Corporation announced the big loan with the stated purpose of helping K-F "complete the tooling up" for the new model, to be well advanced on planning for a new model, reported to cost between Chevrolet — Ford - Plymouth price class. Details of voting on the loan by the commission, by majority of the commission, by majority vote, were withheld pending formal announcement of the loan about four months ago.

CONVICTED OF SPEEDING

Oshawa, Oct. 6.—(CP)—Rowland Hill, 30-year-old resident of White House, Elgin Mills, retired commander of the Royal Navy, was fined $10 and costs today for speeding. Said Cmdr. Stokes-Rees: "I was in no particular hurry. I was literally ambling along among smoking my pipe". Police said he was travelling at 50 miles an hour. He was fined $10 and costs or 10 days in jail.

THE FUNCTION OF VITAMIN D

Prior to 1922, scientific investigators knew the "fat-soluble vitamin" as vitamin A. In 1932 McCollum and his associated demonstrated that the "fat-soluble vitamin" actually consisted of two separate vitamins—one of which prevents night blindness, dry eyes (xerophthalmia, xerophsia), dry skin etc; the other, now known as vitamin D, which prevents rickets, spasmophilia (tendence, of infant to have spasms or convulsions), ostemalacia (gradual softening and bending deformity of bones), osteoporosis (atrophy, weakening, loss of calcium from the bones of elderly persons or those prematurely old) and tetany (intermittent muscular spasm, "growing pains" in children, leg cramps in mature persons).

I was going to add one more thing that vitamin D prevents but I refrained from mentioning it so casually for two good reasons. First, because you might proclaim, probably most physicians would reject the idea as another of my pipe dreams; and second, because many, probably most of you would consider me a quack if I recommend vitamin D as a remedy or cure for the rheumatics.

Ten years ago I said the massive dose in my experience was 25 units (daily doses of 200,000 to 400,000 units of D) "was discovered by chance. It is now a child-hood given by Dr. Hay before the Medical Freedom Society on the prevention of colds in children against smallpox and immunization against diphtheria. (Mrs. L. F.)

Answer—This is a free country. If I am correct in my vaccination against smallpox and/or immunization against diphtheria and/or your children or yourself, you should fight tooth and nail against any and all who demand designed to compel you to be vaccinated or immunized. If you are not correct and you ask my advice, I believe every one, especially every young child, should be vaccinated and immunized against diphtheria.

Grandson age 8½, pictures. He seems to get overheated very soon. He has had no illness, is well developed, happy. He has three sisters and one brother. He is happy, nothing to make the child nervous. (M. C.)

Answer—Unless, perchance, he happens to be naturally left-handed (I is wrongly) (erroneously) but is forced by parents or teacher to use the right hand. This is a frequent cause of stuttering. Send stamped self-addressed envelope and ask to write (no clipping please) for pamphlet on stuttering.

GIRL 11, A MOTHER

Capelown, Oct. 7 — (AP) — An 11-year-old white girl has given birth here to a baby weighing six pounds 10 ounces. Hospital authorities described condition of both mother and infant as satisfactory. The father of the baby is reported to be a 31-year-old man.

Strength for the Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

PREPAREDNESS

In these days of international stress, we hear a great deal about the word "preparedness." It usually means military power of some sort. Sometimes it is used as an argument among statesmen. Journalists, economists, clergymen and politicians are prone to ask whether preparedness prevents war or whether it causes war.

But whether or not military preparedness is a good thing, there can be no doubt of the value of it in our own lives. Whatever the strength we have with which to face our particular problems—be they spiritual, moral, intellectual or material problems—that strength will always be increased and made more usable by our being ready. Yet it is surprising how few people are actually prepared for the important events of their lives.

The teachers of the past have always known the value of preparedness. One of the best lines to Hamlet is the Danish prince's statement before the fencing bout, "Come readiness all!" And the Gospels are full of Jesus' parables and his subject for foolish virgins, the thief in the house the absent master and his servants.

No man can expect always to escape troubles or even disasters, but those events may be faced and prepared for, and the strength and victorious readiness can go far toward meeting and averting the blows when they fall.

The High Terrif Boys in the Textile Industry Are at It Again!!

THE TRADE OF THIS COUNTRY IS VITALLY IMPORTANT TO ALL OF US---HERE ARE A FEW FACTS YOU SHOULD KNOW

With the possible exception of England, there is no country in the world so dependent on export trade as Canada. 34% of our income comes directly from exports. Compare this with the United States where, even at its greatest prosperity only 5% of income is from export trade. It has been estimated that one worker in three in Canada is dependent for his livelihood on export trade.

Trade is a two-way street. For a country to export goods it is also necessary that it must import. The only way Britain or France or Belgium or any other country can pay for the foods, metals, lumber and manufactured products we ship to them is by selling their goods to us.

The state of trade in this country is more precarious today than at any time in our history. Selling for the moment with England, 60% of our trade with that country, is at the moment completely bogus and bought and paid for with our own money and that of the United States to the south of us. There is no genuine trade in this and we are only fooling ourselves if we think there is . Long term trade cannot be brought about by loans, gifts or cheap wheat. Long term trade can only be brought about by trade—that is by our buying from England. Once again trade is a two-way street. Paul Hoffman, the U. S. administrator of Marshall Aid, has recently pointed out that all the billions of dollars spent by the Americans on Marshall Aid will accomplish nothing if the Americans don't start to buy from the countries receiving the Marshall Aid. He meant if they don't take their tariffs off the products of those countries. So it is with Canada. All our loans, gifts and cheap wheat will be of no avail if we don't get our tariffs off so that the countries involved can ship their products to us.

Look at Table I showing our sales to principal customers and what we have bought from them. You will see that we have sold to them far above what we bought from them. How did they pay for these goods? Chiefly with our own money loaned to them. These loans totalled hundreds of millions of dollars. They increased your taxes and every item of your cost of living. They will, have been wasted if the countries to which they were made get no opportunity to pay it back. At the moment they can't pay it back because our tariffs prevent them from selling in this country.

Look at what France has bought from us. Look what we have bought from France. We loaned France $350,000,000.00. It did not come from nowhere. It came from your pockets. Yet we give France no opportunity to pay us back and maintain, and have maintained tariffs of 60% to 100% against the principal products that France would like to ship to us (1) so she can pay back her loan and (2) so she can continue to buy from us about $100,000,000 worth of goods.

Because we don't buy from France and we don't buy from England and we don't buy from Belgium nor from Holland — all because of tariff barriers against their goods, they find they can't buy from us as much as in no way to pay us. So they have formed a barter area amongst themselves. Britain instead of buying newsprint from us $100.00 a ton buys it from Sweden at $189.00 a ton. She would prefer to buy it from us but we won't let her. We still keep tariffs on textiles from England and a multitude of other goods that this country would like to sell us. For this reason devaluation of the pound by England will be of no great significance if tariff barriers remain. The goods will still be up in price by the amount of the tariff.

85% of Canada's export market, other than that of the United States, is with countries that are now joining the barter area because they find they can't trade with us in view of our tariffs against them. These countries are cutting us out of their trade picture. Are you prepared for a drop of 85% in the Export Market?

Now look again at Tables I and II and you will see how much is at stake and who stands to lose. In Table II you will see what are the natural products of this country and what it is we have to sell. If you are engaged in the manufacture of those products for export then you constitute part of the one-third of our population dependent directly on export trade. If you are not of that group still your prosperity is affected by export trade because you are selling your goods or services to a substantial degree to the citizen in export trade and if he is not prosperous neither will you be.

The principal tariff protected items in this country are textiles. The principal wood to be seller of textiles to this country is England. Every dollar's worth of English textiles NOT SOLD in this country is a dollar of trade lost to the farmer, the lumberman or any other person engaged in export trade. The distinction is that farming, lumbering, newsprint, etc., are natural high pay industries of this country. Textiles is not. To ruin the export trade of this country, and thus additionally our internal trade, for the sake of preserving the textile industry is little less than ludicrous. If we are going to sell to England we have got to buy something from them. Textiles is the natural product of England. It is natural that we should buy textiles from England and create an export market for our good industries. It is unnatural and absurd that we should bar textiles from England by tariff barriers, killing export trade, and saddling every citizen of the country with a special tax every time he or she buys an item of clothing.

Textile Industry Sold 'Down the River' - Biggin

Leslie Biggin, president the Canadian Wool Co., Ltd., sounds "The Call to Arms" in a letter to customers. The devaluation of the British pound (sterling) by 30 per cent. followed by the devaluation of the Canadian dollar by 10 per cent., he says, has left result put Britain "in a 34 per cent better position to duty British textiles into Canada than she was last week." (The difference between the previous rate of $4.04 and the present rate of $3.08 is 96 cents which represents a reduction of 24 per cent.

"Mr. Abbott is not only following the age-old principles of the Liberal Party in reducing still further the low tariff protection already accorded the Canadian textile industry, but is indeed making a special effort to sell the textile industry of Canada down the river!

"Of what use now is the protection in the British preferential tariff of 15 per cent plus 5 cents lb. on yarns entering Canada under item 5517

"Of what use now is the protection under the British preferential tariff on pressed felt of 15 per cent plus 5 cents lb. imported under item 552, or of the 20 per cent plus 5 cents lb. on blankets under item 5537

"Of what use now is the 15 per cent plus 7½ cents lb. on woven fabrics under item 5547

"The whole industry is now on free-trade basis with Britain! Already for the first seven months of 1948 British exports of wool fabrics to Canada averaged 56 per cent above the monthly rate during 1938. Worsted fabrics have been exported to Canada at a rate of 74 per cent above the 1938 monthly rate. In the month of July 1,720,000 square yards of wool fabrics were sent to Canada from Britain.

"What is the industry going to do about it? Are we going to defend ourselves in this economic war or are we going to silently support the collaboration policy of Ottawa which will result in the closing down of our mills and the consequent unemployment of the thousands of workers who are dependent upon the industry for their livelihood!

"Here is an item published in the London Times recently and dated Canberra, Australia, Sept. 13:

"The government has asked the tariff board to investigate the effect on Australian industries of imports of knitting wool, piece goods, hosiery and underwear. Australian manufacturers have been protesting against the volume of these and other textile imports chiefly from U.K."

"We cannot depend upon our government asking our tariff board to conduct any investigation; we must ourselves, and immediately jump to our own defence by demanding an investigation if the industry is to survive!

"Field Marshal, Sir Stafford Cripps with his able assistant, General, Harold Wilson, who have so ably conducted the attack on Canadian industry, can now with the ammunition with which they have provided themselves, plus the additional ammunition furnished by Ottawa, really turn on the heavy artillery! Unless something is done and done immediately the imports of British textiles will increase by leaps and bounds in the coming months.

"We should not be doing our duty if we did not help to sound the alarm of the call to arms."

LET US CONSIDER THE ABOVE ARTICLE

- An industry is "SOLD DOWN THE RIVER" when forced to end its growth in competition with those of England after the English manufacturers has borne the expense of approximately 3000 miles of ocean travel and trans-shipment charges.
- This industry complains that it is on "a free trade basis with Britain." Is this such a terrible fate if the industry has any legitimate place in the economy of this country?
- "British exports of wool fabrics to this country have increased 54%" — thus giving Britain some exchange to buy our farm products, timber and newsprint (products of our HIGH PAY industry). Yet Mr. Biggin regards this as lost in our interest. It is very much in our interests and is also in Mr. Biggin's interests if Mr. Biggin's chief interests are the welfare of country. If Mr. Biggin's chief interest is merely the short term money interests of Mr. Biggin and to hang with the country then we need not trouble whether Mr. Biggin's interests are served or not.
- Mr. Biggin talks of closing textile mills and consequent unemployment of workers. Every worker in the textile industry who loses employment BY REASON OF OUR BUYING BRITISH EXPORTS is forced into a better position to find employment. Exports a dollar of export market is gained or preserved which would otherwise be lost and this worker can get employment and make a better wage in a decent industry which exports England. As a bonus he won't have to pay 30% or more of his wages for practically every item of clothing worn by his family.
- "Field Marshal Sir Stafford Cripps, with his able assistant, General Harold Wilson, who have so ably conducted the attack on CANADIAN INDUSTRY" — has failed to point out that a lot of Canadian industry which has no legitimate place in the economy of this country and never has had. The textile industry exports a dollar of export market is gained or preserved which would otherwise be lost and this worker can get employment and make a better wage in a decent industry which exports England. As a bonus he won't have to pay 30% or more of his wages for practically every item of clothing worn by his family. a few and to the detriment of all.
- "Field Marshal Sir Stafford Cripps, with his able assistant, General Harold Wilson, who have so ably conducted the attack on CANADIAN INDUSTRY" — has failed to point out that a lot of Canadian industry which has no legitimate place in the economy of this country and never has had. Every person in the country who buys a piece of clothing must pay a special tax tribute at each purchase to benefit these few. Every dollar of imports that tariffs keep out is a dollar of export trade lost by our own natural legitimate high pay industries.

Dear Mr. Follwell,
I am a HOUSEWIFE.

I am weary of paying 30% more than worth or more for every item of clothing for my family. I realize that Canada is dependent on Export Trade for survival; trade is a two-way street — If we want to sell to England — we have to buy from England. Further it is the most natural thing in the world that we should buy our textiles from England. If my husband is to have a decent job there has to be a market for the products he makes or transports.

Please do all you can to get and keep the tariffs off textiles.

Dear Mr. Follwell,
I am a FARMER.

We farmers either ship to export markets or are dependent on strong export markets for good prices for the commodities we sell. If you will look at the tables of Canada's chief exports you will see that the substantial part of those exports comes from the farm. The farm is Canada's biggest industry and with our natural resources it is proper that it should be. The farm can only survive with a large export market.

You can't buy trade on a long term basis with loans, gifts or cheap wheat. You get trade by trading.

Every dollar of textiles that is kept out of this country by tariffs is a dollar of export market lost to the farmer.

I urge you at all times to resist tariffs on textiles.

Dear Mr. Follwell,
I am a MERCHANT.

I am dependent for my livelihood on the prosperity of the people in my community.

I would rather have customers farmers making $5000.00 to $6000.00 a year than textile workers making $23.00 a week. I would rather have as customers a railway man making roughly $300.00 a month moving the goods of this country to the export market than a textile worker making $23.00 a week. I would rather have as a customer a lumberjack or worker in the newsprint trade who are highly paid, than the textile worker who is poorly paid.

Every textile plant existing by reason of tariffs kills a substantial portion of the export trade of this country. Precisely for every million dollars worth of textiles not imported by reason of tariffs a million dollars worth of export market of a natural high pay industry of this country is lost.

The 30% or more premium which the consumer of this country pays for tariff protected textiles does not go to me. It is just waste.

I urge you to resist tariffs on textiles.

Dear Mr. Follwell,
I am a WORKMAN.

It is estimated that one workman of three in this country is dependent on the prosperity of our export trade for his livelihood. I suffer from the tariffs on textiles in two ways. (1) since every dollar we don't buy from England, etc., is a dollar of export trade lost to us, the market upon which roughly one-third of the workers of this country depend for livelihood is substantially diminished by the millions of dollars of British textiles kept out of this country by tariffs. If I am a worker engaged directly in the export trade I am directly affected for there are not the jobs which there should be and the jobs which there are do not pay as well. If I am not a worker in the export trade the products I make sell to workers in the export trade and if these purchasers of my products are not prosperous they cannot buy and I lose my job or receive a lesser wage.

My wage at present barely meets the cost of living. Is it not then absurd that my wife, in attempting to stretch her housekeeping dollars, should be called upon to pay 30% more for a whole list of articles of clothing — all for the benefit of a few textile makers constituting an industry never famous for its high wages.

FRANK FOLLWELL, ESQ., M.P.,

Dear Mr. Follwell,
I am TEXTILE WORKER.

Please don't think I am a textile worker because I want to be. I can't get a better paying job.

The textile industry, notwithstanding its tariff protection does not pay high wages. It can't pay high wages because Canada is not a sensible place to be in the textile business. There is too little population spread over too large an area and none of the raw products are produced in any abundance. Even the textile makers of Canada, even with high tariffs, can't compete with British textile makers even when British have paid the cost of transport across the Atlantic and trans-shipment across Canada. At least they say so, and it is probably true.

Now the reason why I can't get a decent paying job is because of the high tariffs on textiles. should be in a high paid job in a natural Canadian industry shipping to the export market. But since by our tariffs on textiles we keep England and other countries from earning hundreds of millions of Canadian dollars they can't buy hundreds of millions of dollars worth of the products of our industry and I can't work in those industries at anything like a decent pay. It is just that simple.

Meantime my wife and several other housewives in Canada has to pay 30% more than worth or more for a whole list of items of clothing which have to be bought for family life.

Please resist tariffs on textiles.

WEDDINGS

FRASER—SAUDER

Standards of fern and multi-colored gladioli formed the setting for a very pretty wedding in Princess Street United Church, Kingston, on Saturday, Sept. 11, when Selina Irene Sauder, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Sauder, Collins' Bay, and Milton, Douglas Fraser, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Fraser, Belleville, exchanged marriage vows. Rev. R. Vatcher officiated.

Traditional wedding music was played by Miss B. Rogers. The soloist, Mrp. Harry Baker, sang "The Lord's Prayer" and "O Perfect Love".

At three o'clock, the bride entered the church on the arm of father, who gave her in marriage. The bride's gown was of white slipper satin, fashioned with a fitted bodice and long sleeves, pointed at the wrists. The full draped yoke of nylon, bordered with shirred satin and lace, a row of small buttons extended to the hipline. The full skirt, made over lace, was caught in front by orange blossoms, revealing tiers of French lace, and extended into a long train, encircled with matching lace. Her hip-length veil of tulle illusion was held by a heart-shaped headdress of orange blossoms and seed pearls. The bride's only ornaments were a diamond lavalier which her mother wore on her wedding day and a pair of matching, earrings, gift of the groom. She carried a cascade of American Beauty roses and stephanotis.

The bride was attended by the groom's sister, Mrs. Ronald Courneyea, Belleville, as matron of honor. Her gown was blue nylon over taffeta made with a fitted bodice and front buttoning to the waistline from which the skirt extended into graceful folds. She wore white glove and carried a small cascade of roses and carnations.

Mrs. Clifford Sauder and Mrs. Leighton Sauder also attended the bride and were identical gowns of yellow and pink corded taffeta styled with jacket and skirt, the jacket extending to the back hipline. Their skirts were full with bustle backs and slight trains. They were matching mitts and carried small cascades of roses and carnations. All three attendants wore matching headdresses made of figured veiling accented in bands of colored carnations. They wore pearls and matching earrings, gifts of the bride.

The little flower girl, Miss Ann Marlow, was prettily dressed in mauve corded taffeta made with a sweetheart neckline and puffed sleeves. The fitted bodice and full skirt were encircled at the waistline with fuchsia velvet ribbon, ending with streamers. Her headdress was made of velvet flowers set on a fuchsia band. She carried a basket of gladioli tips with centres of gold wore a silver bracelet, gift of the bride.

Mr. Volder Sauder attended the groom and Clifford and Reginald Sauder were ushers.

The reception was held at the bride's home. Receiving with the bridal party was the bride's mother attired in an afternoon dress of green crepe with lace inserts and black accessories. Her corsage was of Talisman roses. The groom's mother chose a navy dress with figured petit-point. She wore black accessories and a corsage of red roses.

BRIGADIER AND MRS. R. W. GAGE

Brigadier Gage's home Corps was Yorkville, Toronto, and he was married to Captain Charlotte Mahaffy, (also out of Yorkville.)

The Brigadier and his wife spent a number of years in Corps work, their appointments included Lindsay, Gorbourg, Kariscourt, Glace Bay, N.S.; Point St. Charles (Montreal) and West Toronto.

At the outbreak of war the Brigadier was transferred to the War Services Department and recorded overseas in December 1939. Mrs. Gage also served overseas in the Red Shield Club in London, England.

Returning to Canada the Brigadier was appointed Divisional Young People's Secretary for the combined Toronto Divisions.

In 1945 Brigadier Gage was given the post of Divisional Commander for Manitoba and N. W. Ontario with headquarters at Winnipeg, and Mrs. Gage had the oversight of the women's work in that area. In September of this year they were selected to organize the new Division with headquarters at Belleville.

The bride's gown, fashioned in the full princess style, had a fitted bodice and front buttoning to the bride's table. The ten honors were performed by Mrs. S. Norris, Perth, great aunt, and Mrs. H. Marriman, aunt of the bride. Those who served were Mrs. G. Trudell, Mrs. A. Jackson, Mrs. C. Jackson, Misses Constance Prosser, Lorna Fraser, Joy Hartman and Barbara Jackson. Miss Gayle Kidd took charge of the guest book.

Immediately after the reception, the bride changed to a grey gabardine suit with matching blouse and hat, the latter with wine velvet trim and wine accessories. Her corsage was of deep red roses.

On their return from their honeymoon trip by motor through the United States, Mr. and Mrs. Fraser will reside at Collins Bay.

METCALFE—IRVINE

In a lovely Autumn ceremony, Miss Rosemary Margaret Irvine, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William W. Irvine, 43 Connaught Street, Kingston, became the bride of Mr. Aubrey Sylvanus Metcalfe, son of Mr. R. A. Metcalfe, Kingston, and the late Mrs. Metcalfe. Rev. E. Teskey officiated at the ceremony which took place in St. Paul's Anglican Church, Kingston, on Saturday, Sept. 17 at 2 o'clock.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a gowned in ivory satin fashioned with a round neckline and sheer yoke, inset with bertha effect. Long sleeves ended in points over the wrists and the fitted bodice was fastened down the back with tiny self buttons. The graceful, flowing floor length skirt with its draped panniers at the hips and a huge satin bow at the back, ended in a slight train. The bride's three-quarter length veil of white tulle illusion with beautiful rose broidery at the hem, was caught to a tiara of seed pearls sewn on white satin. She carried an arm bouquet of Sweetheart roses, stephanotis and bouvardia.

The bridal attendants were, Miss Mary Hutchinson, Eglinburg, as bridesmaid; Miss Carolyn Irvine, sister of the bride and Miss Mary Wooller, Toronto, niece of the groom, flower girls, wearing identical gowns of peach nylon taffeta fashioned with round necklines with frills across the shoulders. Tiny bow effects at the back offset the long skirts which were gathered at the waist. Each carried little nosegays of baby mums, roses and bouvardia and wore tiny flowered headdresses in halo effects.

Madeleine Robertson, O.S.D.; Mrs. Philip Carr, Stirling.

LATCHFORD — JONES

On Wednesday, September 22th, at 2 p.m., a quiet wedding was solemnized by the Reverend A. L. Sisco at St. John's United Church parsonage, Tweed, when Eleanor Elizabeth, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Jones, Crookston, became the bride of Carl Soyer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Latchford, Thomasburg.

The bride was becomingly attired in a floor-length dress of sky blue crepe with navy hat and black accessories. She wore a corsage of pink Talisman roses and a three-strand necklace of pearls, a gift of the groom.

Miss Ila Latchford, sister of the groom, was the bride's only attendant, wearing a royal blue dress with black accessories, and a corsage of yellow Talisman roses.

Mr. Cyril Latchford, brother of the groom, was groomsman.

After the ceremony, a dainty luncheon was served at the home of the bride's parents.

The happy couple left amid showers of confetti, for a trip to Toronto and Niagara Falls.

McTAGGART—ALEXANDER

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Alexander, Monument, was the scene of a lovely early Fall wedding on Wednesday afternoon, Sept. 21, when their only daughter, Doris Lillian, became the bride of Milton Ross, only son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert McTaggart, Tweed. Rev. F. C. Steer, Tweed, performed the double ring ceremony under an arch of evergreens and white bells.

Mrs. Elvin Holland, sister of the groom, played the wedding music and Miss Yvonne York sang "I Love You Truly" while wedding party entered the living room, and "Till Walk Beside You Love" during signing of the register.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, looked charming in a street length dress of white crepe with an Alice blue jacket and circular lace overskirt. Her headdress was a crown of white roses and lily-of-the-valley and her corsage was deep red Sweetheart roses. She carried the prayer book.

Miss Thyra Rose was maid of honor, in a street length dress of Ice blue crepe with beaded neckline and matching headdress and gloves. She wore a corsage of peach colored Sweetheart roses.

Miss Lorraine Widdower made a dainty junior bridesmaid, in pink nylon sheer dress with matching bag, mittens and poke bonnet. Her corsage was cream Sweetheart roses.

Mr. Elvin Holland performed the duties of best man and Edward Alexander was ring-bearer.

The bride's mother received the guests in a floral green crepe with black accessories, assisted by the groom's mother in a floral dress with cerise trimming. Both wore corsage of American Beauty roses.

For a motor trip to Rochester, N.Y., and Niagara Falls, the bride chose a dark brown gabardine suit with brown and pink accessories.

'Success' Theme Of Talk to Kiwanis Aux.

The Kiwanis Ladies' Auxiliary held their regular meeting in the Kiwanis Centre on Thursday evening.

The president, Hazel Baragar, especially welcomed three new members, Betty Emerson, Elizabeth Jarvis and Dorothy Adams.

Nancy Fozard read a letter from the president of Kiwanis Norm Edwards thanking all who assisted with the tag day.

Mary Connolly asked members to take wool to be knit into Red Cross soldiers.

Jean Clapp, convener of the tea and bazaar to be held at Christmas later in October gave a report of the committees for the coming meeting.

Ruth Graham, Elsie Moore and Dorothy Houston were in charge of the entertainment for the evening.

Mrs. Ken Graham of the Salvation Army gave an interesting talk centered around the word "Success". He dealt with the "Success Family" stating that the father of success is desire. The mother is ambition. The children of the family come next, the boys being common sense, will power, perseverance, honesty, thoughtfulness, enthusiasm and stability.

The girls are character, courtesy, cheerfulness, loyalty and sincerity. The baby of the family, he stated is opportunity.

Major Graham also showed a colored film taken at the Kiwanis camp during the summer months when the Salvation Army was in charge of the children's camps.

Elsie Moore thanked Major Graham for his inspiring talk she then took those present with her on a trip through the Panama Canal, using her usual wit and humor.

Velma Houston took charge of a drawing contest. The winners were Jean Riley, Laura Hyde and Kate Cook. This was followed by a contest, the winners being Mildred Stanton and Kay Craig. The program proved to be most entertaining and enjoyable.

Morford Bros. and her committee served refreshments.

STIRLING

Fiftieth Wedding Anniversary Marked By Useful Gifts

Stirling—On Tuesday, September 27, the home of Mr. and Mrs. Everett Cooke, Bridge Road, Stirling, was beautifully decorated with cut flowers and baskets of yellow mums in honor of Mr. Everett Cooke's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John H. Cooke, who were celebrating their 50th wedding anniversary.

During the evening, about 100 guests gathered to extend greetings to the bride and groom of 50 years.

Mrs. Cooke was formerly Miss Elizabeth Leach, of Winchester, England, and the wedding ceremony took place on Sept. 27th, 1899 at Tuftaville. The Reverend W. V. Sexsmith officiated. The groom was then Mrs. Will Shipley (nee Florence Cooke), sister of the groom, and the best man was Mrs. Cooke's only brother, Mr. Frank Leach, of Hamilton, Ont. Mrs. P. E. Hamilton of Mountain View was organist at their wedding, and was a friend on Tuesday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Cooke have two sons and six daughters, Everett of Stirling; Charlie of Belleville; Myrtle (Mrs. Geo. Soary) Hoards Station; Dorothy (Mrs. Reg Drecup) Belleville; Thelma (Mrs. Wm. O'Shea) East Dale, Hamilton; Lenora (Mrs. Pete Pomeroy) Trenton; June (Mrs. Bill Nelson) Trenton; and Hazel (Mrs. Ed. Pattaiuk) of Hamilton. They also have several grandchildren and two great grandchildren. Mr. Cooke was the second son of the late Mr. and Mrs. George Cooke of Madoc Junction.

Beautiful Decorations

The parlor was beautifully decorated with yellow and white streamers with a golden bell in the centre of the room. A three-tiered wedding cake and lighted candles adorning room for the table.

During the evening the family presented their parents with an electric range and a bouquet of lovely red roses. They also received numerous gifts from their many friends and neighbors.

Mrs. Everett Cooke read an address of appreciation signed on behalf of the family.

Guests were present from Belleville, Trenton, Sidney, Frankford and Springbrook.

Whip-Flanagan Team Had 'Em But Atkins-Hannigan Pull 'Quickie' to Snatch Victory

By GEO. H. CARVER

We, in our department, have seen many strange things in the realm of sport, especially in "rasslin", but never have we witnessed such an episode as that which occurred in Memorial Arena last night.

It's true, s'wasip me. And 1,500 of the faithful will bear witness.

It happened in the action-packed tag-team match between those Adonises of the mat, Whipper Billy Watson and Pat Flanagan and Argentina Fred Atkins from "Australyia" and his recently acquired partner in wrestling "crime", one Hard-boiled Hannigan.

It burst, rather exploded on the fan populace—like a bolt out of the blue. And the effect, most literally, that is, wrestlers in the persons of Watson and Flanagan could not believe their eyes and ears when the third, or at times fifth man in the ring, one Emile Bowser of Hamilton, counted the fateful toll that gave the "pesty" half of the raging quartet, the signal of victory.

The faithful, more or less stunned at the suddenness of the decision, was aghast for a moment, then roars of disapproval swept through the arena.

Surprise

For Whipper Watson who, in the second fall, had applied the arch-foeman Atkins to a state of semi-consciousness by the prestidigitation of his famous Canadian Commando hold, did exactly the same thing in the third fall.

Smash to the Jaw

The Whipper had mounted the unconscious Atkins in the approved piledriver style that heralds the 'commando hold and then slowly but surely relieving the Aussie of mental, if he has any, and other powers, when the Australian's pal, Hard-Boiled Hannigan suddenly let go with a savage smash to the jaw of the Whipper.

Atkins staggered under the weight of the Whipper who was aboard his shoulders a la piggy-back, was groggy. He was to all intents and purposes, "out". He slumped and the faithful roared its approval. It sensed a repetition of its second fall.

Vicious Smash

Then came Hannigan's vicious smash to the Whipper jaw. They were in that corner, Across the ring Flanagan fumed. Watson crashed to the canvas and a semi-unconscious Atkins arrived his body across the prone form of the British Empire champion.

Referee Ernie Powers, rousing himself from what appeared to be a state of lethargy, regained sufficient sense of vision, to put the tab on the Whipper. And that was that as far as Powers was concerned. He was adamant in his decision while an infuriated Hannigan threatened the ring and also equally angry Watson-Flanagan team protested. But that was that.

Over all in the three falls, two of which were awarded to the Flanagan-Atkins duo, Watson and Flanagan had it "over them like a tent."

The skilful movements of the Whip and pal Pat had the heavy opposition nonplussed at times with their swift effective action. It was a good show. And there was plenty of action in the other bouts. This fellow Cispoldi, a newcomer here, scored a decision over Ben Sherry in the ring, and out of it to give an exciting display. Al, Korman and Tom Watson provided plenty of punch in the opener to round out one of the best cards presented here in some time.

N.Y. Rangers Have Strength Down the Centre

By NORMAN ALTSTEDTER
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

New York, Oct. 8 — (CP) — New York Rangers have their brightest hopes for glory in the National Hockey League's 1949-50 race largely on their strength down the centre.

General Manager Frank Boucher views veteran centres Herbert (Buddy) O'Connor, Edgar Laprade and Don (Mr. Bones) Raleigh, as the backbone of a squad which will probably have five new faces.

The biggest boost to the confidence of last year's cellar-dwellers is the addition — for an undisclosed sum handed over late last summer — for Norman (Bud) Polle, high-scoring right-winger credited with the league's hardest shot.

But exactly where the six-foot Fort William native will fit in the Blueshirt team, is still undecided. Boucher and Coach Frank Boucher are still juggling lines for the perfect fit.

Almost certain of right-wing berths when the Rangers open at Montreal Oct. 13 are Penitti Lucier and Duncan Fisher, youngsters who made good in their first full year with the club last season.

Little Tony Leswick and big Nick Mickoski, who were traded by their old left wing idols with Winston (Bing) Jackson jolting that fraternity for a permanent berth. Juckes has been brought up from the Rangers' New Haven farm club for individual games during the 1949-50 season.

Best Camp Since Before War

Ab McDougall who sparked Regina Caps from right wing last year, was one of the reasons Boucher says he has the best camp this year since before the war. Second in the Western Canada League scoring last season, McDougall has previous experience in the Pacific Coast League.

Veteran wingers fighting for berths are Bill Juzda and Ed Slowinski.

New York fans will miss the spectacular face of Clint Albright, the lanky right wing who this year decided to continue his studies at the University of Manitoba.

But their favorite, Claude (Chuck) Rayner, will again guard the Ranger goal with Emile (the Cat) Francis standing by as extra goal-tender.

Walter (Gus) Kyle six - footer from Regina, is the likely newcomer on the Ranger defence which has previously brought many Boucher means. Allan Stanley, last year's so-called $70,000 baby, Frank Eddolls, Fred Shero and Walter Stanowski are the veterans returning to the back line.

The defence has also been strengthened by the acquisition of Pat Egan, obtained Friday in a trade with Boston Bruins for Bill Moe.

Danny Gardella Dropping Suit Against Baseball

(By The Canadian Press)

The last legal action against organized baseball was removed Friday night when Danny Gardella announced at New York he was dropping his $500,000 suit to return to organized baseball as a member of St. Louis Cardinals.

The pint-sized wartime outfielder of the New York Giants, who hauled baseball into the courts after he was banished for jumping to the Mexican League, made the announcement through his lawyers.

Gardella returned to New York Friday after playing this season with Drummondville Cubs of the Independent Quebec Provincial League.

"Arrangements satisfactory to Danny have been worked out for his reinstatement," the statement said.

"Danny has asked for and received his unconditional release by the Giants (New York) and will sign a 1950 contract with the St. Louis Cardinals.

Time and tide, good-looking brother to George McCullagh's Speedy Irish, brought top price of $6,000 at the yearling sale of the Canadian Thoroughbred Horse Society's annual show at Toronto Friday night.

The Toronto-owned horse was sold by Bill Beasley of Toronto. Altogether, 85 yearlings were sold for $78,400, an average of $15 below last year's record average of about 1,700.

E. F. Taylor, Toronto industrialist, paid $4,500 for a bay filly, full sister to Time and Tide, to James Speers, of Winnipeg, leading Canadian breeder, topped the sale and during the night bought seven yearlings

Toronto' boxing promoter Deacon Allen said Friday that that Laurent Dauthuille, sensational French middleweight who has been fighting around Montreal, will be brought to Toronto later this month.

Allen said Dauthuille has agreed in terms proposed by promoter Frank Tunney and all that remains is to get somebody for him to fight. He did not disclose the terms. Considered as possible opponents are Vinny Romano, New York middleweight and Pete Zaduk of Guelph.

McGill University Friday won the Intercollegiate golf tournament by carding an aggregate score of 640 points on the Calumet Golf and Country Club at Kingston.

McGill competitors turned aside representatives from five other universities and finished 16 points better than Queen's University, Kingston, which took second place with 656 points.

Other results were: University of Western Ontario 657, University of Montreal 657, University of Toronto 700 and Carleton College, Ottawa, 732.

N.H.L. Puck Patter

At New York Rangers' Lake Placid, N.Y., camp, Don Raleigh, standing an injured shoulder, is back in action. Both manager Frank Boucher and coach Lynn Patrick are confident that the slim Kenora, Ont., centre will be ready when the Rangers meet Montreal Canadiens in their first league game at Montreal, Oct. 15.

Defenceman Wally Stanowski is confined to bed with the grippe but is due to be up and around within a few days.

Boucher said his defence situation is "pretty well solved" when Gus Kyle, 200-pound defenceman from Regina Capitals, signed a contract yesterday.

"He's what we've been looking for for a long time," Boucher added.

The Toronto Maple Leafs are mixing golf with hockey — and bashing Bill Ezinicki can hold forth in both departments. Ezinicki yesterday carded a two-under-par 70 over the golf club title. Netminder Turk Broda came in second with a 74.

There's a sad note in Boston Bruins' camp. Their greatest is in the thick of the National Hockey League battle this year season.

Fred Cook, knocked out of the semi-final playoffs by Toronto Maple Leafs last season, broke their Hershey, Pa., training camp Friday.

The boys haven't made an impressive showing up to now. They were beaten by their American League farmhands, Hershey Bears in one exhibition game and tied in another.

Says manager Art Ross: "We're hopeful—that's all I can say."

Detroit— Nick Barone, Syracuse, N.Y., outpointed Dick Wagner, Portland, Ore., (10)

Milwaukee—Bob Sandberg, 134, Rockford, Ill., outpointed Justo Fernandez, 137 1-2, Milwaukee, (10).

Toronto, Oct. 8 — (CP)—The legs have it.

An athlete may be a Charles Atlas across the waist up, but once his underpinnings start to go, so goes he. Many older athletes, by conserving their energy and making the most of their athletic know-how, are able to keep in the game right along with kids young enough to be their children—as long as they have good legs.

Charlie Conacher's huge torso and comparatively slim legs was a combination that set him apart of hockey at an age when lighter-built men carried gaily on, notes Andy (Toronto Star) Lytle.

"I'm alright," Charlie used to say after a tough game, "but my feet get hot."

"Babe Ruth, at 40, had everything but legs," adds Andy.

"It was the younger legs that got Gene Tunney off the ring floor at Chicago and their resiliency was such that they kept him out of peril as the older legs of Dempsey vainly tried to put him in position for another lethal shot," recalls the Toronto scribe.

Gotta Be Tough

Andy attended an N. H. L. practice session the other day and writes something of interest to any youngster who wants to crack pro hockey.

During the practice "one player, hit hard as he was off balance, fell heavily to the ice," says Andy. He lay there twisting and turning, but play went on.

"The coach was within a few feet of the player when he fell. He blew his whistle. Immediately the guy got up without assistance and skated bent over half double, to the bench.

"Why didn't you stop play when the guy got hooked," Andy asked the coach.

"If a crack like that drops him," snarled the coach, "we don't want him . . . did the guy that hooked him look back? Did he stop? The tramp wasn't hurt and so did I."

The coach's attitude may be indicative of how future N. H. L. play is being formed, because he continued: "Nine out of 10 of our guys go down from hits they could and should take off . . . I want the guys that can take it. Any team that lacks ferocity in its make-up isn't going to pick up any Stanley Cup marbles."

Experiments in Fish Management

By JOHN ALDEN KNIGHT
Noted Sportsman Author
of Solunar Tables

Some years ago the Tennessee Department of Conservation, acting on the advice of competent biologists, consigned all pre-conceived rules of fish management to the discard and declared a five-year- round open season on the fish in the T.V.A. chain of lakes. All fish were included in this ruling, regardless or desirability from the sportsman's viewpoint.

The basic reason given for this revolutionary measure was that the lakes were too heavy fish in the T. V. A. lakes. More fish died annually of old age, the biologists declared, than were taken by rod and line.

Caused Loud Protests

When this announcement of unlimited fishing was made there was a tremendous outcry from more conservative conservationists here and there about the country, I was one who added his voice to the general protest. Regardless of the fact that there is still good fishing in the T.V.A. lakes, I think that the move is unwise.

Since recently other states have followed the lead of Tennessee. Still others are experimenting to determine the best solution of the problem of overcrowded waters.

In Ontario they have set up a comprehensive experiment which is being conducted in the waters of five lakes in the Northern Highlands State Park. Checking stations were set up near the lakes, an adequate force of wardens was installed and the public was invited to come any old time between the hours of 7 a.m. and 7 p.m.) and catch all the fish they wanted.

It is a matter of interesting record that the fishing today in those five lakes, despite increased rod pressure is every bit as good as it was before the experiment began.

Good Fishing Declines

I am fortunate enough to have been born long enough ago to have known "virgin waters." I have seen the fishing in many parts of our country go from good to bad and bad to worse — very much worse. It is only natural that I find the mere idea of unlimited fishing decidedly repugnant. All too often I have seen what a wrongly public, unwise legislation and inadequate law enforcement can do to what was once excellent fishing.

Long ago, before the guides and the sportsmen hewed a channel through to Lake Helen-mere, I had the pleasure and privilege of fishing the head waters of the St. Johns River in Florida. Up to that time nobody had given much thought to the problems of static supply and overpopulation.

It was no problem, once you had found your way into those remote waters, to hook, land and release three or four hundred bass during the course of a single day. Management methods at that time left the hands of old Mother Nature and she really turned out a job.

I feel that these waters can be reached easily by outboard motor and that the famous fishing has been reduced to mediocrity. It is nothing short of amazing to observe what the boys can do to good fishing if given the chance.

Now please don't misunderstand me—I'm not condemning these experiments in fish management. I'm merely stating the fact that I, and others, have a refreshing willingness on the part of the Conservation Departments to learn what they can of better management methods.

Deplores Wildlife Waste

But, as I say, I'm of the old school that deplores waste of our wildlife, regardless of the merits of the case. Our sins should be always to maintain Nature's balance, within keeping of the ever-present law of supply and demand.

If the fish of a lake are stunted because of lack of food, why not supply more natural food instead of reducing the numbers of hungry fish? If this is impractical, then how about netting out the excess for use as stock for under-populated waters? I may be wrong and, if so, I'd enjoy being corrected.

Each month I read a great many press releases and conservation bulletins in these I have yet to find accounts of experiments in bottom life rehabilitation and increased baitfish supply in over-populated waters.

And speaking of these latter, it is an interesting thing to observe the reaction of the fish to the Solunar Periods in waters which are manifestly overcrowded. Offhand, you'd think that hungry fish would respond to your lure most any time, but such is not the case.

Back in the "good old days" I have fished "cleaning waters" for hours on end with little or no success. Then, when the Solunar Period came in, it was not uncommon to take doubles and sometimes triples on a conventional bas plug.

I learned then and I still believe that, regardless of where you are fishing, it pays to keep close track of the daily Solunar Periods.

Danny Lewicki Suspended From Organized Hockey

Toronto, Oct. 7. (CP)—Danny Lewicki has been suspended indefinitely from organized hockey for failure to come to terms with Toronto Maple Leafs of the National Hockey League, the Toronto Star said today it had learned from a reliable source.

Managing director Conny Smythe of the Leafs turned the case of the brilliant 19-year-old leftwinger over to President Clarence Campbell of the N.H.L. last Monday, reporting that he was unable to get the player to negotiate for terms of the N.H.L. C Form he signed in July.

It was reported from Stratford Monday that Lewicki, who originally came from Fort William, that the Leafs had offered the player $4,000 a season for two seasons plus a bonus of $2,000 for signing a contract. The report said that Lewicki had countered with a request for $10,000 a season plus a bonus but that Smythe said Monday that at that time he had not received the player's counter-offer although he had wired him last Friday to open negotiations.

Strathroy Wins First in Finals From Picton, 3-1

Picton, Ont., Oct. 8—Strathroy Arrows won the opening game of the intermediate "A" O.B.A. finals here yesterday afternoon with a 3-1 victory over Picton Athletics. The second game of the best of seven series is being played at Picton this afternoon. Fielding an older and more experienced team, the Arrows deserved their win. Gillies went the route for the winners with nine strikeouts and one walk. He gave up five hits. Dyer, on the mound for Picton, fanned five and allowed eight hits. Both fanned one free pass.

Picton had a golden opportunity in the ninth with one down, and men on first and third, Haydon flied out and Drury struck out.

Strathroy scored one in the second when Evans doubled and scored on Evans' single. They added another in the fourth when Galbraith singled, advanced to second on a sacrifice and to third of a throw to first. He scored on Jones' single. Their third came in the eighth. Lane reached on a fielder's choice and an error allowed him to reach third when he should have been tagged. He scored on Jones' single.

Threatened On Two Occasions

Strathroy threatened on two other occasions. In the sixth, Galbraith doubled, Lane was safe on a poor throw to first and Galbraith reached third. Both died there when Evans flied out to the pitcher and Jones drove a long one right in Drury's glove at third. In the seventh, Denzetta singled, went to second on an error, and third on a sacrifice with Dalton on deck on the error. Both died there as Ronan flied out to MacDonald and Dyer fanned Raley.

Picton's lone run came in the fourth when MacDonald doubled, stole second and third with spectacular slides and finally stole home as the ball got away. In the second, Dyer walked and reached third on a single by Haydon. Drury was thrown out, pitcher to first on a fast pickup for the third out.

Three Errors Apiece

Each team committed three errors, one by Picton contributing to a run. Both infields were out-

Six Women Electrocuted In Flooded Yard

Sao Paulo, Brazil, Oct. 8 (AP) — Six women were electrocuted in succession here Friday after an iron rod hit a high-tension wire in a flooded yard. Mrs. Isoldina Martine had borrowed the rod to open a drain in her flooded back yard. When she touched it against live wires overhead, the current killed her. Three of her daughters ran to save her. Each died when she touched her mother. The same fate met Mrs. Martine's sister and the neighbor who had loaned the rod.

Indians Within One Game of Winning Series

Indianapolis, Oct. 8 — (AP)— Indianapolis Indians, who never have lost a Little World Series, were within one game of their third series title today.

The American Association team took a three-run lead over Montreal with a 10-inning 5-4 victory Friday night. The Royals must win tonight and tomorrow to retain the championship they won last year.

The sixth game matched pitchers who started the second game last Sunday — Royce Lint, who won it for Indianapolis and Clyde King, who lasted less than three innings for the International Leaguers.

The Indians won last night on a run which did not cross the plate.

Danny Fernandez, who had walked, rounded the bases and charged home on Roy Easterly's double against right field wall. Catcher Toby Atwell blocked the plate until the throw came in and tagged Fernandez. But umpire Augie Donatelli ruled that Atwell had blocked without possession of the ball and called Fernandez safe.

Chuck Connors got three of Montreal's nine hits. He homered in the second inning for the Royals' first run, drove in two with a double in the seventh and singled in the 10th. Kermit Wahl followed Connors' homer with one of his own.

Joe Muir, who won the first series game and lost the fourth, pitched the 10th inning and got credit for the victory.

The loss was charged to Ronnie Lee, who relieved starter Dan Bankhead in the ninth with the score tied.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, Jr.

Brooklyn, Oct. 8 — (AP) — When Ebbets Field was opened in 1913 the first baseball game between Brooklyn and the Yankees, one of the young Brooklyn athletes was Casey Stengel . . . the same Stengel, older and more seasoned, pilotted the Yankees to a World Series victory over the Dodgers Friday for the first he spent some time recalling that opening day.

A writer asked, "Could those players hit the kind of pitching Preacher Roe showed yesterday?" That almost stopped Casey.

"We weren't hitting him and we have some pretty good hitters," he said. "What's DiMaggio if he hasn't been a great hitter for years? I wouldn't say those fellows couldn't hit, . . . we had a pretty darn good ball club and we got the heck beat out of us in the (1916) World Series."

Flatbush Foolishness

The Dodgers asking price for Sam Jethroe and Dan Bankhead, their Montreal farmhands, was $300,000. Boston Braves decided they didn't want Bankhead because he gives too many walks, but the price they paid for Jethroe wasn't far below that figure . . . At that rate, it's hard to believe the yarn about their selling Jackie Robinson for 250 G's . . . Samples of Dodger fandom on display Friday included a character decked out in a "Brooklyn mum" costume just like the cartoons and a gal wearing a flannel dress cut to resemble the Dodgers' road uniforms.

Providence, R.I.—Miguel Acevedo, 130, Havana, outpointed Charles (Cabey) Lewis, 128 1-4, Brooklyn (10).

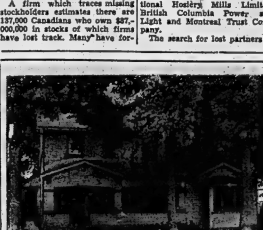
Stock Certificates Chucked in Attic May be Valuable

New York, Oct. 8 — (CP) — Haul out those stock certificates you chucked into the attic trunk years ago — you may be in for a bonanza.

A firm which traces missing stockholders estimates there are 137,000 Canadians who own $87,000,000 in stocks of which firms have lost track. Many have forgotten about the shares or thought them worthless.



Tracers Company of America base their estimate on a survey made two years ago. Already they report they have found 48,000 missing stockholders for 185 American clients — success in 85 per cent of their cases.

They now are invading the Canadian field. Recently four large Dominion corporations engaged tracers to find their missing shareholders. They are Abitibi Power and Paper Limited, National Hosiery Mills Limited, British Columbia Power and Light and Montreal Trust Company.

The search for lost partners in the four Canadian firms involves about 2,000 missing shareholders. Tracers say most of the shareholders will still live in Canada although some have been traced to the United States, Britain and Europe.

Tracers say another problem is holders of "obsolete or dormant" stocks and bonds." A drive to find an established company's missing stockholders would not directly help these people for they hold stocks which are not listed on exchanges or in over-the-counter transactions.

Thus their owners think their certificates are worthless

burn fuel of one kind or other. Prospects were the same in New Brunswick, Alberta and British Columbia.

A Montreal dealer saw "no reason for anyone to go cold this winter."

The Maritime Provinces reported no fuel shortage, but Prince Edward Island said coal may become scarce for those who did not order early.

In Toronto, anthracite which reached a high of $21.27 a ton last year, is up from $20.40 to $22.65. Other coals have been increased by $1.30 a ton.

British Columbia stands apart as the only province which depends mostly on sawdust for heating. Last year, a sawdust shortage and usually cold weather gave the Pacific Coast province its worst winter in 43 years.

Supplies of sawdust are reported more plentiful this year and the fuel situation offers a better picture. All fuel prices are up slightly and the freight rate increase is expected to boost prices of Alberta coal, which comes second to sawdust as a fuel in British Columbia.

Flying Squirrels Like Coat Pockets

Edmonton — (CP) — When it comes to house pets those of Dr. William Rowan of Edmonton fall into an unusual category. They glide around inside the-home of the University of Alberta's zoology professor and their favorite stunt is to glide into coat pockets.

The pets are six young flying squirrels that were adopted by the professor after their nest was uncovered recently during dismantling of an Edmonton bridge.

Weighing only ½ ounces each when they were found, the flying squirrels now tip the scales at a hefty 2½ ounces. Dr. Rowan has them on a rigid diet of condensed milk with feeding time set at every two hours. Like most other house pets, the squirrels also are dunked in soap baths. They don't like baths.

"Flying squirrels are common to Alberta," says Dr. Rowan. "But they are seldom seen because they sleep in hollow trees all day and come out at night to play and gather food." Alberta trappers consider them a nuisance because they fly into traps in an attempt to steal bait. Like their cousins the black and grey squirrels, they are collectors of nuts.

A domesticated flying squirrel is intelligent and affectionate. Some time ago Dr. Rowan had one he called "Jerry." The pet was like a "one-man" dog, distinguishing Dr. Rowan in a crowd of persons and gliding to him. While indoors, "Jerry" set up house in one of Dr. Rowan's coat pockets, being able to glide unerringly to his favorite spot in complete darkness.

Answer to Yesterday's Puzzle:

ADMITS CHARGES

Montreal, Oct. 9 — (CP) —Rev. Arthur Taillefer, one of a group of men arrested late last month in connection with an alleged narcotics ring, yesterday pleaded guilty to five charges and sentence was deferred to Oct. 23.

Father Taillefer, at the time of his arrest a vicar in the Roman Catholic Church of Ste. Madeleine D'Outremont, pleaded guilty to three charges of possessing and selling narcotics and to two counts of obtaining and selling narcotics.

The cases of the others arrested are continuing.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

See what a dog's life an opponent can lead in a bridge game. By George Coffin in his Ivar Anderson's book of problems in the bridge puzzle shown here:

	♣A 7

At a no-trump contract in which south is declarer, west leads the diamond queen. Take it of the possible 13 tricks. Start with a trick taken first by the dummy king of diamonds.

Then lead the spade queen from dummy. The ordinary play is to lead a small spade from south toward the queen. But this problem calls for reversing the customary method.

If east covers with king, south wins with the ace and all four spades are good. If west ducks the spade queen lead, take care to shuff the nine and not the seven of spades to win the trick.

Then lead the dummy spade eightpoint, if east plays the king, play the south seven to keep the lead in dummy. The final dummy spade lead will permit your south hand to capture or nullify the east king.

Thus do you take four spade tricks for the first four in this deal. On the last trick the three spade tricks west must take and three cards from his hearts, diamonds, clubs.

Four spades, a top heart, two top diamonds, two top clubs are only nine tricks. Three more tricks must be developed. The hope of anything like this lies in squeezing the west hand.

This pinch is felt by west almost at once. Soon as he finds himself down to trifling spade tricks. Three discards from west will whittle down some of his hearts to a size that declarer can take.

Lay out the cards and play them over and over again. You will find no discards that west can afford. Declarer will win only one trick with good play. See how it is done.

Delicious refreshments were served by the hostess and her committee, and Mrs. Earl Moore moved a hearty vote of thanks to all who made the meeting such a success.

In Manhattan:

English Humor Unfolds For Entertainment of N.Y.

By FAT USSHER
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

New York, Oct. 8 (CP)—English humor ranging from Elizabethan to modern was unfolded this week for the entertainment of New York theatre audiences.

The Elizabethan humor was Shakespeare's "Twelfth Night." Representing the late Victorian era was Gilbert and Sullivan's "The Mikado," and by way of current comedy a British company presented "Yes, M'Lord," a trifl. about the post-war British political scene.

"Yes, M'Lord," treats lightly an unconventional peer of socialist leanings as a Conservative against the peer's son, who is a Labor Party candidate. The peer, the Earl of Lister, is played to perfection by A. E. Matthews, and a George Curzon extracts all the available humor from the part of the butler.

The play, marking the 80-yeared Matthews' first acting appearance in New York in 11 years, is by W. Douglas Home and is staged by Colin Chandler at the Booth theatre.

Shakespeare Revival

A well-balanced company gave a pleasing revival of Shakespeare's comedy, "Twelfth Night," at the Empire theatre. Arnold Moss was excellent as the melancholy Malvolio and the broad comedy characters, Sir Toby Belch and Sir Andrew Aguecheek, were roundly played by Carl Benton Reid and Philip Ionge. The principals, Henry Brandon as Orsino and Nina Foch as Olivia, handled their roles adequately and Harry Townes provided a fine singing voice as the clown.

Savoyard Fare

The S. M. Charlock Company presented "The Mikado," the Gilbert and Sullivan version of a fantasy Japanese kingdom, and did a good, if not a first-class, job. Some of the humor was broadened to the point of clowning but the singing and the acting generally were done well enough to satisfy the average lover of the savoyd operas.

Mostly Massey

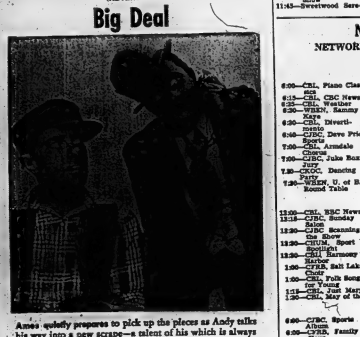
The staging of a revival of Strindberg's play, "The Father," due here late in November, is to be in the hands of Raymond Massey, co-star in the production. Originally Harold Cluman was to have staged "The Father." But previous compliment with another play, "The Bird Cage" made it impossible for him. The Toronto-born actor then was drafted for the directing assignment.

MAKE SERB MOLYBDENUM MINES LARGEST IN WORLD

Belgrade, Oct. 8—(Reuters)—Yugoslavia is enlarging her Molybdenum mines at Macka Tiga, Serbia, to make them the "largest in the world," the Yugoslav news agency, Tanjug, reported. Molybdenum is a light, malleable, chromium-type metal used to strengthen steel and in building planes.

Paraplegic Husband Driving Special Car Fatally Injures Wife

Chicago, Oct. 8—(AP)—A coroner's jury Friday termed "accidental" the death of Mrs. Loreta Ring, 26, of Chicago, who was run over in a dark alley by her paraplegic former husband in his specially - equipped automobile. Mrs. Ring, an expectant mother, died three days after the accident occurred Sept. 10. Her former husband is James Moore, 35, a victim of multiple sclerosis which left him paralyzed from the waist down.



ACTOR IS ROBBED

Boston, Oct. 8—(AP)— Actor Maurice Evans, appearing in Terence Rattigan's "Double Bill" at the Wilbur Theatre, Friday night reported the theft of a wrist watch valued at $100 and $50 in cash from his dressing room.

Big Deal

Amos quietly prepares to pick up the pieces as Andy talks his way into a new scrapper—a talent of his which is always in evidence when "Amos 'n' Andy" comes to you over CFRB each Sunday from 8:30 to 9:00 p.m.... a feature of CFRB's new Sunday night comedy lineup. This fall you'll hear them all on CFRB—1010 on your dial. (All times are Daylight Saving—one hour ahead of Standard.)

Black Boom

By Paul David Preston

"Sure. Sure, I see. Don't blame you, sweetheart. Does upset a person. I can understand how you feel. I want to get off somewhere and pinch myself anyway!"

Alone at last, Lillian began dispiritedly to undress. Tonight there was none of the usual going back and forth to mother's or Dorothy's room, swapping good-night visits and late hour confidences. She had simply gone to her own room and, inexplicably, closed the door.

She saw herself in a full length mirror. In truth it was a vision of loveliness and Lillian Mayfield was intelligent enough to know she was beautiful. But she gave no thought to that happy fact now. She moved closer to look at her left shoulder. Unmistakably a blue spot would linger there for the next week or more. It was where a table corner had struck her when she was thrown down.

She lifted a corner of the tape on her face and peeled it, first slowly then with a jerk. The scratch there was ugly but not deep. A finger ring had made it. It had happened in the same motion during which her dress had been torn. She hated having to lie about that scratch. To people in her kitchen this evening she had finally murmured "Accident nothing important." But she knew it had looked suspicious or at least that her defiant manner had looked so. She couldn't have avoided that; she was speechless with anger when Dallas Bower brought her home.

She was a little calmer now but not much so. She reviewed the scene in the dance hall as she slipped into pouchy blue pajamas, then sat on her bed hugging one knee under her chin and staring intently at the floor.

The strange girl had first hugged and kissed Dallas almost ferociously. It was as if they were long parted lovers! Dallas had exhibited or pretended astonishment; Lillian couldn't be sure which now. Then the girl had openly and brazenly announced that she wanted Dal to join her party but didn't want Lillian.

The next incidents had been rapid and painful.

"But—but—this is Miss Mayfield my guest for the evening," Dallas had begun, "and anyway I don't believe I—"

The officious blond had interrupted him, turning to Lillian.

"Aw go thip a thoda thomwhere funny face" she commanded, impudently. "And button up your button!"

That reference was to Lillian's nose, cutest thing about her. It did have the daintiest hint of being pug. The officious girl rushed up quickly put a thumb on it and pushed hard!

She had all but fallen, reaching out voluntarily. Her hand had struck the other girl's body.

The blond aggressor laughed hilariously then followed up with a push and a scuffling of arms and hands. A chair tripped them and together they sprawled off a table onto the floor.

More people had come running, shrieking. The tipsy, crazy blond was beside her with hilarity now. She jumped up to stand over Lillian a moment in prize fighter pose, shadow boxing and shaking her shoulder-length curls and uttering threats in mock severity from one corner of her mouth. Altogether she was playing to an audience, showing off, making a spectacle or herself as only a rowdy ruffian girl can do. From the floor Lillian saw also a melange of legs and feet until Dallas picked her up and carried her out, and even then the blond girl ran out guffawing and taunting and trying to make love-talk to Dallas.

But it hadn't come easy. They were slowing down at the Mayfield gate, in fact before she paid the slightest attention to what Dal was saying. He talked earnestly, pleadingly, and the tag end of his plea seemed as if he were actually trying to excuse the girl's outrageous actions. Lillian had just leaped out of his car and slammed the door without a word and run on to face the people in her mother's kitchen.

Here alone in her room now, she couldn't even remember when Dallas had put the strip of tape on her face, so furious had she been at him.

Lillian hadn't expected to sleep a wink. Youth and its healthful vigor triumphed, however, and she was still breathing deeply when awakened by a tap on her door.

"Yes?" she roused. "Come in."

"This Jason, Miss Lillian," the negro's voice answered. " A package come. It say—it say 'purshable'."

"Perishable? Whatever can—Wilderyed, Lillian beheld a oh."

"A young 'livery boy brung it. It's big."

"Throw it away Jason."

"Now Miss Lillian, don't act like that! You kin look at it then if—you don't want it why—"

She understood. Jason would never let her be unmannerly. She ordered him to bring it in. It was surprisingly, four feet long and made an arm full for Jason, who cut the string for her then departed if dignity.

So he was apologizing with flowers! Taking her to a tonky dance hall to be insulted—her, Lillian Mayfield!—and acting contrite about it this morning. Well, she wouldn't accept the apology. He'd hate to explain.

The Mayfields didn't have to subject themselves to any such— She pouted sleepily half angrily for five minutes or so thinking unhappy thoughts. Then pure curiosity won. She could at least look at the flowers. After that she would have Jason take them over to the hospital.

They were great red roses with incredibly long stems, and they numbered two dozen. The sheer size of them overwhelmed her for a moment. She stared then automatically reached for the tiny envelope tied securely with ribbon to the stems. The envelope held more than a card. Something bulkier and hard was in it.

"Oh-h-h-h-h!"

Wide-eyed, Lillian beheld a diamond solitaire in her palm. Thad Monroe! She was—really was—engaged to him! Of course she remembered, now. He had asked her last night and she had accepted. She almost smiled at herself—imagine any girl's forgetting she was engaged! But this situation was different. It wasn't as if—

All at once Lillian jumped up out of bed but she wasn't at all sure what to do. The seriousness of this whole situation began to sink in. She tried on the ring. The stone was large and exquisitely mounted. Hastily she read that's note:

"Wife, honey, and love—forever."

It was like Thad to present his engagement ring in unconventional manner. Holding it now gave her a distinct sense of fright. It was too beautiful, too real. She inspected the flower box. Air mail from Dallas, 200 miles away. Obviously he had telephoned there at midnight—hang the expense—and command a florist and get a jeweler out of bed in time for the dawn plane. Her town had no such extravagance as this jewelry stores hadn't crowded it with the oil workers yet.

Canada in Biggest Tariff-Reducing Deal in Two Years

Opens Door Little Wider In 138 Varieties of Goods

Ottawa, Oct. 11 — (CP)—Canada and 32 other countries have agreed to take another stride toward a return of multilateral trading in a large part of the world.

In a part implementing the biggest international tariff-reducing deals in two years, Canada opened the door a little wider in 138 varieties of goods extending from foodstuff and textiles to accordians and tombstones.

In return she benefits from new import-duty cuts by the United States and other trading nations.

U. S. concessions are expected to give such Canadian products as paper, plywood, and leather a better chance in competing with home production in the dollar-wealthy U. S. market.

The tariff-reducing swaps, disclosed in a 10,000-word External Affairs Department statement released Sunday, caused little more than a ripple in trading after the average Canadian bent on enjoying the Thanksgiving Day weekend.

The average citizen will probably hardly notice any difference in the price or quality of commodities on the market. Even if he does, he won't be able to tell whether it was the new tariff-cuts or something equally complicated like currency fluctuations.

Reductions stem from a five-month conference which began at Annecy, France, last August, presided over by Dana L. Wilgress, Canada's High Commissioner to the United Kingdom. A new overall agreement was reached covering proposed tariff changes involving 33 countries.

Principally, however, the tariff cuts were negotiated to embrace 10 new member nations up to the 23-member 1947 Geneva General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade.

First to Signify

Red Advance Hastens Transfer Of China's Govt.

Canton, Oct. 11—AP—A steady advance by Communist troops hastened transfer of the Chinese nationalist government to Chungking.

Trustworthy private sources said Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek soon toward this refugee capital had passed Yochow, 75 miles north. No Nationalist opposition was reported.

Plane after plane took off from White Cloud airdrome for Chungking. The wartime capital is nearly 600 miles northwest. Acting Premier T. V. Soong and Foreign Minister Yen Hsi-chan probably will leave tomorrow.

All transport from Canton was booked solid. Planes, ships and trains to Hong Kong, British crown colony, were crowded.

Experiments Carried Out to Lessen Hazards in Glassy-Water Landings

Toronto, Oct. 11 (CP)—Experiments carried out at the University of Toronto for the Ontario Department of Lands and Forests may lessen the dangers of glassy-water landings, a hazard to seaplane pilots.

This was announced today by Dr. Keith Hay, head of the department operates an extensive seaplane air service for detecting forest fires in Northern Ontario. It said that high frequency radio equipment, weighing more than 30 pounds, has been tested in a department plane on Lake Ontario at Toronto and now will be sent to the Provincial Air Service headquarters at Sault Ste. Marie for practical application.

The announcement said that the new equipment, which there is no ripple, makes it difficult for pilots to judge distance from the landing surface. Briefly, the radio equipment operates a row of neon lamps calibrated to indicate the height of the plane above the water surface. As the lamps are extinguished, one by one, as the plane descends.

Radio altimeters indicate the height of the place above sea level by utilizing 10 cm. set equipment. The usual type depends on the reflection of radio waves from height and is subject to error due to changing weather conditions.

"If the pilot can get down safely within 100 or 150 feet, chances are the plane can then land without injury," said Mr. Scott. "Since the planes of our air division may be required to land 15 or 20 times a day during the fire season we hope to at least reduce some of the hazard. The experiments will be continued at Sault Ste. Marie in the hope that some workable radio navigational system may be in operation before next year's forest fire season."

NOMINATION DAY FOR 8 FEDERAL BY-ELECTIONS

Some Seats Will be Filled by Acclamation

Ottawa, Oct. 11 (CP)—Nominations close today for the eight Oct. 26 federal by-elections. They will mark the Liberal government's first test of strength at the polls since its overwhelming victory in the June 27 general election.

The nominations are due to close at 3 p.m. local standard time. By then it will be known definitely how many, of the by-elections, brought on as a result of two deaths and six government appointments, will be contested.

Because of the proximity of the by-elections to the general election, only limited interest has been shown in them. There have been some unofficial forecasts in political circles that some of the seats would be filled by acclamation.

The present standing of the Commons is:

Liberals, 186; Progressive Conservatives, 40; C.C.F., 13; Social Credit, 10; Labor, 1; others, 5; total 262.

Five of the vacancies are in Quebec—Montreal Mercier, Montreal Laurier, Montreal Jacques Cartier, Kamouraska and Chicoutimi. The others are in the New Brunswick constituency of Restigouche-Madawaska and the Ontario Columbia constituency of New Westminster and Toronto Greenwood.

Britain Granted $12,200,000 for Canadian Pork

Washington, Oct. 11 (AP). British today was granted $12,200,000 in Marshall Plan funds to buy Canadian pork.

The action was announced by the Economic Co-operation Administration which has largest such spending approval in more than three months. The new grant is in addition to $54,350,000 previously granted Britain for Canadian meat purchases during the last year.

The pork purchase approval brought to $62,550,000 the ECA grants during the last month for purchases in Canadian agricultural commodities. The recovery agency earlier had approved the purchase of $2,500,000 worth of Canadian wheat.

GORDON TO HEAD C.N.R.

Ottawa, Oct. 11—CP—Prime Minister St. Laurent today is expected to announce the appointment of Donald Gordon, Deputy Governor of the Bank of Canada, as head of the Canadian National Railways.

It is understood the Prime Minister will announce the appointment in the Commons.

Mr. Gordon, succeeds chairman of the Prices Board, will succeed R. C. Vaughan. Mr. Vaughan now is chairman of C.N.R. retirement age of 65 but was appointed on the job at the request of the government.

TOP ECONOMISTS DISCUSS PLANS TO CUT SPENDING

Meeting Concerned with Cuts in the Dollar Imports to Guard Resources.

London, Oct. 11 (CP)—Top cabinet economists Monday discussed plans for cutting government spending as part of the program to beat Britain's dollar crisis.

Prime Minister Attlee met with Sir Stafford Cripps, Chancellor of the Exchequer; Harold Wilson, President of the Board of Trade; Herbert Morrison, Deputy Prime Minister; Viscount Addison, Lord Privy Seal; and Hugh Dalton, Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster.

Political writers said the meeting was concerned with cuts in dollar imports to help safeguard Britain's dwindling dollar resources and with proposals for economies in government offices.

There were also hints out in the 1949-50 dollar import program, expected to be announced soon, will depend mainly on results of the pound devaluation, intended to boost exports to the United States.

Attlee called for a tightening up of government spending except on social services and defence after the pound sterling was devalued last month. It was believed he aimed at a minimum cut of five per cent which would mean a saving of £150,000,000 ($465,000,000) this year.

Discuss Date

Monday's conference also led to fear speculation that this Thursday cabinet may have discussed a November date for Britain's next general election, not due until the Labor government's five-year term expires in July, 1950.

Three London newspapers today speculate that an election may be held next month.

And Beverly Baxter, Canadian-born Conservative member of parliament, left a political meeting in Southgate that he believes "the next general election will be in November."

"I think I have some reason for believing that, and I believe the date will be the 21st of November," Baxter said.

The Conservative Daily Mail and Lord Beaverbrook's Daily Express pick the same date as Baxter. The Conservative Daily Telegraph has the same general idea but a slightly different date. It says the election "may be" Nov. 24.

35 FATALITIES ACROSS CANADA DURING WEEKEND

Ontario Had the Heaviest Accident Toll with Twelve Deaths Reported.

(By The Canadian Press)

An airplane accident in Quebec's Laurentians took a reported five lives and a boating accident at Wellman Lake, Man., took three Sunday, marking the highest death toll for individual accidents during the Thanksgiving holiday weekend in Canada.

A Canadian Press compilation showed 33 fatalities from midnight Friday to early Tuesday morning. It compared with 33 deaths during the Thanksgiving holiday last year.

Ontario had the heaviest accident toll with 12 deaths reported. Quebec province listed six deaths and British Columbia five. Alberta reported four and Manitoba and the Maritimes each reported three with Saskatchewan listing two.

With holiday traffic exceptionally heavy in some parts of the country, 14 highway fatalities were reported. Four persons were killed in accidents with firearms, two were drowned and 12 died from miscellaneous causes.

Five men, three of them Montreal doctors, engaged on a hunting trip were reported to have died Sunday in the crash of a small plane in a Laurentian lake near St. Michel Des Saints, Que.

NORONIC'S MASTER NOT ABLE TO ATTEND INQUIRY

Condition Due to Shock And Mental Stress

Toronto, Oct. 11 (CP) — Part of a woman's scalp came out in his hands when he attempted to put out flames in her hair, a survivor of the Noronic fire today told the federal inquiry into the Sept. 17 disaster.

The witness, Harold Sharrock of Galton, Ohio, told of being wakened by a commotion and opening the door of his stateroom seeing a woman "on fire, from the top of her head to her feet."

"When I tried to put out the flames on her head, part of her scalp came out," he said.

As the ninth day of the hearings opened, Frank Wilkinson, counsel for Canada Steamship Lines, ship's owners, filed as an exhibit a medical certificate showing the Noronic's master, Capt. William Taylor to be suffering from "extreme tension and diabetic condition."

The certificate told the condition was due to shock and mental stress during and since the fire. It recommended a complete remain "quiet, at home for a week or 10 days."

Capt. Taylor has not attended inquiry proceedings since he completed his testimony last week. Sharrock described the behavior of passengers and the spot-session Noronic cruise as "remarkable." There was 'sociable' drinking but he saw no drunken men.

He told of seeing only one hose in use during the blaze and said "no water was coming out of it."

Sharrock testified he heard no alarm apart from a ship's whistle and a bell ringing as he reached the dock. He said he believed it was the whistle of a ship when he was in his stateroom on the lower deck.

The witness told C.S.L. counsel he probably was confused at an inquiry in Cleveland when he said he heard alarms but could not helped him work hoses.

Sharrock said he never was satisfied there was only one crew member.

Sharrock said he might have told the Cleveland inquiry of a blind man on the Noronic but he could not now recall such a person. He also said he could not recall telling the Cleveland inquiry of three hoses being in operation, two small and one large.

Sailed With Noronic 14 Years

Gerald Wood, Noronic's first mate for six seasons, said he has sailed on Lakes steamships since 1946 and had sailed with Capt. Taylor for 16 years.

Mr. Wood said that personnel under his supervision, excluding officers, totalled 39 including eight deck hands. At the time of the fire he had been short one deck hand for some days.

Wood said he hired personnel but he had no authority to discharge any limited him to a forward crew of a second mate, third mate, medical services, assistant purser, watchmen, two special officers, a nurse and eight deck hands.

World's Champion Endurance Fliers Rest at Homes

The husband-and-wife United States pilots brought their four-place plane, "The City of Yuma" to a landing at the Yuma county airport at 3:33 p.m. MOST (6:33 p.m. EST) after 1,154 hours and 16 minutes of continuous flying.

Since Aug. 24 when they took off from here, they had flown 85,000 miles, the equivalent of three times around the world.

Decision to terminate the flight — best of which was spent over Yuma is about the world this city's fine flying weather—came Sunday night when one of their two magnetos burned out.

When the fliers stepped from the cramped quarters of their plane, they found the answer to their big question, "can we walk?" They could. Unaided, they walked to an open car waiting for them.

Storm Kills 16 in US, Sweeps Manitoba, Hudson Bay Area

Rainfall of Three Inches Is Reported in Winnipeg

Chicago, Oct. 11. (AP) — A storm which brought destructive gales over the Central United States, killed 16 persons and causing heavy property and crop damage, today moved into the Hudson Bay area.

The violent winds, which reached a velocity of more than 100 miles an hour in some areas of the storm belt, diminished but left rain fell over wide sections of the midwest.

Temperatures moderated over the Central States but the unseasonably warm weather continued over the Southern States and the Atlantic coastal areas. The temperature hit into the high 80s and low 90s in some of the Eastern United States cities Monday to break records for the date.

The high winds which swept across most of the midwest broke a spell of hot weather in some states. Minneapolis had 70-mile-an-hour winds and Chicago had gusts as high as 95 m.p.h.

Heavy Crop Damage

Damage to crops was reported heavy in Minnesota and Iowa. A 45,000-bushel grain bin was destroyed at Macpoketa, Ia.

Two persons were killed in the storm in Wisconsin. The coast guard estimated that 65-mile-an-hour winds caused 100,000 damage in the Chesquenegon Bay area of Lake Superior.

Winnipeg. (CP)—The lowest barometric pressure ever recorded in Winnipeg was registered on Monday as winds of 45 miles an hour, with gusts up to 70 miles, rattled the city all day.

Three inches of rainfall swept through the streets and left the electrical wires caused sparks in residential districts.

The weather office reported the storm centre moved up from the United States, brushing Regina with its edge, and passing through Winnipeg and Monday it was centred in Northern Ontario and was moving northeast toward Northwestern Ontario in the general direction of Hudson Bay.

Canadian Pacific Telegraph lines were effected in the White River area, where poles were blown down and Fort William. The flow of Canadian Pacific News was broken for more than half an hour until circuits were restored. Occasional breaks in power service sporadic.

Haniers Marooned

Scores of hunters were reported marooned in the inter-lake area where heavy rains have fallen.

Selkirk, 25 miles north, was in darkness for about 20 minutes. Special services went on by police, light and gasoline lanterns. Fallen lines at Brandon and Belmeau vain, in Western Manitoba, also felt brief power cuts.

EAST GERMAN REDS ARE MASSED FOR GIANT RALLY

Russia to Recognize New Government

Berlin, Oct. 11 (AP)—Against the background of a giant communist rally, Russia today will formally recognize the new German government hand-picked for the Soviet occupation zone.

The Russians announced Monday night they were replacing military rule in Eastern Germany with a civilian control commission and a Russian high commissioner. Britain, the United States and France took that step in western Germany last month.

The new word over the rival east-and-west-German republics continued. In Frankfurt Monday night the western high commissioners in a statement called the new Soviet zone republic an "artificial creation devoid of any legality."

"But so-called government," their statement said, "has no title to represent eastern Germany."

Marshal Vasili I. Chuikov, Russian commander in Germany, in a statement rapped back at the Bonn government in the west. Western Germany, he declared, "is governed by the imperialists of the Western region who do not even conceal their hatred against neighboring countries and their fear for revenge."

Meanwhile, preparations went forward for a mass meeting concurrent with the formal recognition ceremony in East Germany. The communists said 100,000 persons would jam enter den linden.

BODIES OF FIVE TRAPPED IN PLANE ARE RECOVERED

Crash Occurred in Lake Toro in Quebec During Lightning Storm.

St. Michel Des Saints, Que., Oct. 11 (CP)—The bodies of three Montreal doctors, a hunting guide and a pilot were recovered early today from the wreckage of a world wide aviation company plane which crashed Sunday in Lake Toro.

The dead: Dr. Rene Dandurand, Dr. Emile Legrand and Dr. Azarie Cousineau, all of Montreal; Russell Holmes of Toronto, pilot; and hunting guide Conrad Delorme of St. Michel Des Saints.

St. Michel Des Saints is about 150 miles north of Montreal in the Laurentian Mountains Lake Co-ny. Lake Toro is some six miles from here.

The plane was chartered by the game-hunting physicians Sunday morning and the crash occurred soon after 7 p.m. that day following a mountain lightning storm.

Rescue workers recovered the bodies from the wreckage of the chartered, pontoon - equipped Norseman aircraft in almost pitch darkness early this morning on an isolated section of narrow, winding, Lake Toro.

All Five Trapped

All five were trapped in the plane's cabin when it plunged into the water a scant few minutes' flying time from its western terminus on the extreme end of the lake.

For pilot Holmes, veteran wartime flier who held the Order of the British Empire for his work in ferry command during the Second World War, the fatal trip was his "last day."

Soon after he left his air base to pick up the doctors and their guide the area was struck by a lightning storm.

Previously he had flown out guide Roger Comtois and 300 pounds of venison, the fruits of the doctors' hunting trip. Then he left his base to ferry out the doctors and their remains of the day.

Holmes' failure to return Sunday night did not occasion immediate alarm because searchers believed that the pilot, a veteran at bush flying, had "holed" in somewhere when he was overtaken by the storm.

Chief Provincial Game Warden Jules Longpre of this district told The Canadian Press yesterday that the plane was last seen flying north of the village during an electrical storm. It next attempted a landing on Lake Toro, but overturned in the water about 50 feet from shore.

The doctors, all physicians and staff members of Montreal hospitals, were among a group of six doctors that had spent the last week moose hunting in the district.

First word of the accident came from provincial police at Montreal early Monday night who said at first that four persons had been killed. They were unable to provide any other details.

Retail Merchants Going 'All-Out' to Prove Buying In City is Real Pleasure

"You will enjoy shopping in Belleville" at any rate that is the slogan to be portrayed by the Retail Merchants Committee of this city from Oct. 13 to Oct. 22 inclusive. Between these dates the retail merchants of Belleville are going 'all out' to prove to John Q. Public that he can buy top grade goods at reasonable prices along with the many other advantages that go with shopping in the 'home town'.

Highlighting the events for the week are the lucky draw contest and the Window Display contest. The first of these two contests is designed to include the consumer, while the second is designed for the merchant. An easy contest for the students of the city and district has also been included in the week's program.

To be included in the Lucky Draw Contest all that is required is that you write, your name and address on all sales slips for purchases over $2; and then drop these slips into one of the barrels which will be placed on Front Street at Bridge, Campbell and Victoria for this purpose. The barrels will be taken to the Belle Theatre on Saturday the 22nd, October where the winning slips will be drawn at 4.00 P.M. The prizes are cash vouchers, which are good only in Belleville stores. First prize is a $25 voucher, second prize is a $15 voucher and third prize is a $10 voucher.

Judged by Points

The Window Display contest is arranged so as to give business of all types an equal chance of competing. The contest is to be judged on a point system by impartial out-of-town judges appointed by the Sales and Ad Club. The contestants will be awarded a possible ten points for the following: attention, interest, action and result. A possible 20 points will be awarded for creating a desire to buy in Belleville.

Attention in this instance means the ability of the display to stop the shopper while interest, following up attention is the ability of the display to hold the consumer for a moment. To get the ten points for incentive the display must create in the minds of the public a strong desire to buy. The value of any window display is its ability to bring prospective consumers into the store. Thus the fourth quality being looked for in the contest, action, is the ability of the display to bring people into the store.

Worth 20 points in the contest is the quality in the display bringing out the slogan "Enjoy Shopping in Belleville". To aid the contestants in this phase of their display the Retail Merchants Committee are offering for sale banners at one dollar per set. The winner of the contest will be the guest of the Sales and Ad Club at their dinner meeting to be held, Friday, October 21, where the prize will be presented. The prize of $25 is donated by the Ontario Intelligencer.

Must Send in Entry

To enter this Window Display contest an entry form, which is printed elsewhere in this edition, must be completed and sent to the office of the Chamber of Commerce before October 15.

The exact competition will be in two sections with the high school pupils competing in one section and grades six, seven and eight competing in the other section. The topic to be used in both cases is "Why My Parents Enjoy Shopping in Belleville." The contest will be conducted by the principals of the various schools.

First prize in the high school section of the contest is a Royal Portable Typewriter donated by T. E. Schwab. Second prize is a Bulova Watch donated by Ronald Keel, jeweller and third prize is a pen and pencil set donated by McGowan's Drug Store.

In the public school division the first prize is $10; the second prize is $5, the third prize is $3, followed by seven $1 prizes.

IN MEMORIAM

LOWERY — In loving memory of Sister Annie M. Lowery, who passed away one year ago, October 10th, 1948.
Surrounded by friends, we are lonesome,
In the midst of our joys we are blue,
A smile on our face but a heartache,
I miss dear Annie" for you.
But the pearly gates were open,
You gently woke and "Come on."
So with farewells unspoken,
She silently rose and "Went on."
—Sadly missed by Sister and Brother.

HARKINS — In loving memory of a dear husband and father, Eugene Harkins, who passed away, Oct. 11th, 1948.
Memories are treasures no one can steal.
Death is a heartache nothing can heal.
Some may forget you, now that you're dead,
But we shall remember no matter what's said.
—Ever remembered by wife and family.

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, Oct. 11 (CP). — A handful of issues featured mixed dealings as the Toronto Stock Exchange today resumed business following a three-day holiday weekend.

Papers highlighted industrials, climbing strongly while the remainder of the list moved narrowly. East Sullivan and Sullivan Consolidated featured base metals and golds. Western oils tended lower.

Volume for the first four hours was 280,000 shares, about 41,000 shares more than Friday's similar period.

Abandonment of an increased dividend sparked Abitibi Paper to a new high at 19 1-8, a gain of two points. International Paper was also strong adding 1 1-2 at 69 1-4 and also touching a new high at 69 1-2.

East Sullivan, with a gold-copper-zinc property in northwestern Quebec, bounded strongly upwards to a new high at 84, a gain of 63 cents, following drill results. Sullivan Consolidated, a large holder in East Sullivan, was also well ahead in the mining list.

Development of Money from Early Days of Barter Outlined to Club

John Walton, manager of the Dominion Bank had an overflow audience when he addressed the weekly meeting of the Y's Men's Club at the Y.M.C.A. last night. To the complete surprise of the club members, the ladies organized a visit to the club to find out what went on at these meetings and in consider the nimbleness of the absence of the men folk from the family circle (their own or some other) for these weekly occasions. Judged by the huge success of the evening, leave of absence will be granted the members to attend the club.

The speaker had as his topic "The Devaluation of the Pound in Relation to the Dollar," changing his presentation somewhat because of the presence of ladies whom, he stated, he found to be more practical than men about money. Men he claimed took too many flights with fancy and wishful thinking.

No Material Gain

Prefacing his remarks, Mr. Walton made it clear that there is no material gain to be derived from devaluation. Devaluation can only mean reduction in value and this was the exact situation with regard to action taken by the government of other countries in relating their money to the United States dollar. The speaker went on to point out that no money is wealth but is symbolic usually of paper which puts a value on production for transfer or trade purposes.

Perhaps contrary to general belief, money, he stated was not necessary and many civilizations, notably Egypt and China carried on without money by the use of the barter system. Such items as cattle, women, salt and pressed tea, have been used, and in early Canadian history beaver skins, and playing cards have been used.

Such barter is known as currency by decree or regimentation in which there is no backing given to the currency. At this point the speaker indicated the interesting barter system in the Island of Yap in the Pacific where circular stones have been the currency base. When the Germans, who occupied the island, wanted work done by the natives the only solution they had was mortgaging the stones by painting them. Lifting the mortgage was only possible after the work was done by removal of the paint.

Gold Backing

Continental trade brought about the necessity for currency backed by gold or silver. Under ordinary trade between communities and cities the barter system while awkward could be carried on successfully. In 600 B.C. the first minting of gold coins was introduced.

Confidence more than gold, the speaker indicated, was needed for exchange, investment and trade. This confidence must assure the investor or trader that his capital in a foreign country will not be confiscated. Britain, he added, had developed her trade by investing in various countries and left the capital in the countries only using the dividends.

Again contrary to general opinion, devaluation in terms of the dollar as well as the gold content, Mr. Walton remarked, has been happening at least every hundred years, since the year 1250. The present value of gold at 246 shillings an ounce compared with 35 shillings or four dollars in the year 1250 is an illustration of the rise which has taken place in the past 700 years. In 1931 gold valued at 168 shillings an ounce.

England's problem, Mr. Walton pointed out, was a sale of her goods, costs of which are too high. Sir Stafford Cripps did not run for re-election but gave the conditions for the cure.

Must Cut Costs

England must keep her costs down, balance her trade and pay for the war all of which he said was difficult with the rise in living standards and the increase if social services.

The speaker was introduced by Ralph Black and thanked by Frank Hicks.

The club members, all of whom are enlisted as workers for the Red Feather Community Chest Campaign will attend the opening campaign dinner on their regular meeting night next week.

A report on the radio auction to be held on Nov. 15, indicated that all details have now been covered.

The social games in which the ladies took a leading part were in charge of Will and Archie Boyd. The evening ended with dancing and refreshments.

Balmy Weather Brings Picnic Parties, Swimming

Summer had what in all probability will be its last fling of the year when over the weekend temperatures rose to the seventies bringing forth picnic parties, uncountable myriads of summer flies and bugs and even a few bathers who took advantage of the unseasonal weather to get in their last swim of the year.

While a number of other families were content to bask in the warm sun on the beaches at Oak Lake, three young girls clad in bathing suits were having a swim. Later they sunned themselves on the dock apparently very little annoyed as though it were August instead of October.

Roadside tables and parks along the highways were also populated as the occasional motorist and his family enjoyed lunches in the balmy weather.

RSM Angus Duffy Elected President H. and P.E. Assoc.

Peterborough, Oct. 11—(CP) — RSM Angus Duffy, alderman of Belleville, was elected President of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regimental Association at the Fifth Annual Reunion here during the week-end.

He succeeds, the Regiment's former Commanding Officer in Italy, Lt.-Col. A. A. Kennedy, D. S. O. of Owen Sound. Lt.-Col. Kennedy had been president of the Association since its inception.

Lt.-Col. Max Perritt, M. C. of Belleville, present Commanding Officer of the Reserve Battalion, was returned as vice-president. A new secretary-treasurer has still to be decided upon, since Captain Leonard Hyslop, also of Belleville, is resigning.

About 300 members of the unit from Eastern Ontario localities attended. Chief representation was from Belleville, Picton, Bowmanville, Brockville, Cornwall, Kingston, Toronto and Peterborough.

It was decided that next year the meeting would be in Picton. The 1949 re-union was not held there because the Argouries burned down in the spring.

Most Successful Reunion

The two-day reunion was of the most successful ever held by the regiment, RSM Duffy said today. Upwards of $800 was realized through a draw for the regimental silverware fund, which now amounts to over $2,800. The fund will provide an education for the son or daughter as yet to be selected of a member of the regiment who was killed in action or died of wounds.

Over 400 ex-members of the regiment paraded through Peterborough main thoroughfares to the impressive memorial service held at the Peterborough Cenotaph. The service was conducted by a former regiment padre, Lieut. J. Gilling, of Peterborough. During the service the names of 327 members of the "White Battalion", those who gave their lives for their country, were read.

Colorful Parade

The parade was headed by the Queen's Own Rifles Band of Toronto and the Peterborough Municipal Band. Adding to the color of an already colorful tumult was the color party which carried the shot-riddled regimental flag, the Canadian ensign and the Union Jack.

Midway between the second and third platoons of the parade six standard bearers carried flags which bore the battle honors of the regiment.

During Saturday evening 250 sat down to a sumptuous banquet in the Peterborough Canadian Legion while an overflow of 150 dined at the Empress Hotel.

Lieut. Col. J. M. Porrit, acted as master-of-ceremonies at the banquet, which was attended by the mayor of Peterborough, Max Swanton, Canadian Legion officials and other civic and military dignitaries.

POLICE BLOTTER

Arrested in Montreal in charge of a truck alleged to have been stolen in Belleville, Kenneth Magwood, of this city and formerly from Montreal, will be brought back to Belleville to stand trial on a charge of auto theft.

The truck alleged to have been stolen by Magwood belonged to a local cartage firm.

Complaints of teen-aged youths causing property damage with the misuse of army bayonets, have been received by local police. The bayonets are of regulation army type and were stated to have been purchased at a local store. One of the complaints received by police was that rubber handlebar grips on bicycles were cut off while the bikes were parked at school.

Civic Employee, Trenton, Killed, Fell Under Truck

Claude Lott, civic employee for the town of Trenton, was killed Saturday when he slipped and fell under the wheels of a moving truck he was attempting to board. The accident occurred on Bay Street in Trenton.

An eye witness of the accident, Harvey Ayres, stated that Lott, who lived at 61 Bentinck Street, stumbled on the run and pitched headlong under the rear wheels of the truck. The victim had served the town for a number of years in the role of a volunteer fireman. An inquest will be held. The truck under which Lott fell was driven by William MacMechan.

WAIT OUT HOWLING GALE

Seattle, Oct. 11 — The Coast Guard cutter Chautauqua and the disabled Panamanian freighter navigator waited out a howling north Pacific gale today before attempting a towing operation. The 417-foot freighter, manned by a crew of approximately 35, sent out an S.O.S. Monday reporting loss of its propeller 900 miles west of the Strait of Juan de Fuca.

NORONIC

The duty watch of four hours on, four hours off applied only to officers, wheelsmen and wireless men. The special officers worked six hours on, six hours off.

Any officer not on duty was free to go ashore while the ship was in port.

On Duty Watch

Wood testified that on the night of the fire he was on duty watch from 8 p.m. EST until midnight when the second mate took over.

Commissioner Counsel J. W. Pickup questioned the witness at length of the check maintained by the duty officer on his watch crew. Wood said that in port, if nothing happened, none of the personnel on watch were required to report to the duty officer.

Wood said during his watch he checked periodically at the gang plank to see if the watchman was there.

Wood told Mr. Justice R. L. Kellock, the commissioner, that the wheelsman on duty was required to remain in the vicinity of the wheelhouse or pilot house, but he could step out on deck.

(Earlier evidence by Capt. Taylor was that the wheelsman should remain in the pilot house at all times.)

The witness said he did not think he had ever seen a copy of the company's letter of instructions to ship's masters date April 14, 1948.

GUARD THE FORESTS

Forest fires wiped out $29,500,000 worth of Canadian timber in the years 1940-1948, the Commons was told a few days ago by Resources Minister Gibson in answer to a question by Dr. Pierre Gauthier, member for Portneuf.

Fire raged through and ravaged more than 17,000,000 acres in that period. Of this there were 10,600,000 acres of well-stocked forests. The Minister pointed out that these losses do not cover the Yukon and the Northwest territories.

These figures should not fail to impress every Canadian. One of the great sources of wealth is the forest areas of the Dominion and it is essential that little be lost if at all possible. The loss of nearly thirty million dollars worth of timber means that Canada is that much less rich. It means that efforts must be made to replenish these losses during the coming years. It also means that if these losses had not been caused, the nation's effort could go forward increasing the wealth in our woodlands. Instead, however, this loss has to be slowly made up for timber takes time to grow to the proportions covered by these reported losses.

Fire from human kind also brings loss to the soil on which these forests are growing into wealth every day and every year. In fact, the great amount of emphasis set by modern science on the prehistoric periods of life in the natural world as we know it stresses the unavoidable fact that the preparation nature made for these forests covers vast areas of time in which the forces of nature, the sunlight, the flow of waters, the movement of volcanoes, the disentegration of the rocks under the heat of the sun and the forces of rain and snow and cold took periods of time immensely longer than the historical period during which the world as we know it has recorded in six thousand years of history. Ages passed in preparation for these forests and so their destruction by fire which often destroys the soil on which the trees grew is an irreparable loss. Man has to intensify his interests and labor and apply the knowledge of forestry to try and make good such destruction and loss.

The reference to fire as a factor in a short period is a lesson on destruction to all those who go into the woodlands to be very careful not to throw blazing matches away or leave fires which have not been properly put out. The tossing of a burning match from a car window or the stub of a cigarette might be the source of a holocaust, sweeping through woodlands and settlements, endangering human lives, those of people visiting in the forests or living in settlements on the borders of the woods and also firefighters who run risks in time of forest fires.

Such care is the part of every patriotic Canadian. Our wealth in many sources is great and there may be a tendency to be careless in the face of such natural wealth, but no wealth is inexhaustible. This generation and future generations will want and need these forests and these we should hand on to the oncoming generations as carefully preserved and maintained as it is possible to leave so fine a heritage.

CHAMBERS TO MEET

The Canadian Chamber of Commerce will meet at the latter part of this month in Montreal and it is expected that everyone of the 625 or more member Boards of Trade and Chambers of Commerce will be represented. It is felt that this may well be the most important annual meeting of the Canadian Chamber so far.

There are three main subjects for discussion, the development of our enterprise system, foreign trade and the dollar crisis and the building of the Chamber of Commerce movement.

To this gathering will come well-known figures from the business world and from the Governments who will speak to the members. Among these will be Prime Minister Louis S. Laurent, Paul G. Hoffman, Economic Co-operation Administrator, and Averell W. Steinkraus, President of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States and leading Canadian statesmen.

There is no more promising period in Canadian public and business life and in relation to the world at large than this present one for the Canadian Chamber is alert to the responsibilities of the time.

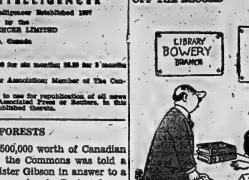
"STICK 'EM UP"



When I was a child the fairies played
In the lovely garden my mother made,
And whenever I took my daily nap
I dreamed of the friendliest, jolliest chaps
Who came in a wonderful sailing ship
And took me away on a pleasant trip.

But now I am battered and old and gray,
The fairies I knew have all gone away
Today through the garden the children run,
Each with a pistol or Tommy gun,
And when I appear: "Stick 'em up!" they cry,
Keeping me there with my hands held high.

Booted and holstered as cowboys bold,
Today they are searching for hidden gold,
Fighting with bandits and gangsters tough,
And I wonder that this can be called enough.
No fairies in tulip or buttercup,
Just ranger and raider and: "Stick 'em up!"

PITCHING HORSESHOES

By Billy Rose

By BILLY ROSE

Last Friday a young fellow came in to have his shoes fixed. The way he walked I could tell he had an artificial leg.

"I'm a press agent," he said, "and I've got a good story for your column."

"Whom do you represent?"

"As yet, I haven't any clients," said the young man. "A year ago I lost a leg in an auto accident, and I haven't been able to get a job since. So, I've decided to go into business for myself and if I can say I cracked a syndicated column, maybe I can land a couple of accounts on the strength of it. Particularly if I can persuade you to do a yarn about an industrial outfit."

"You mean you've just picked a concern ready to be born and want me to plug it?" I said. "Not exactly," said my visitor. "The firm I'd like you to write a column about is the Spray-A-Wave Company in Chicago. It's put out a halt-wave preparation, and what makes it newsworthy is that most of its employees are blind, deaf, minus an arm or leg, or polio victims."

"Keep talking," I said.

"The story is timely for a lot of reasons," said the young fellow. "For one thing, by presidential proclamation, the National Employ the Physically Handicapped Week is on.

"Good old Harry S.", I said. "Anything to influence a couple of hundred million people."

"You're a little off on your figures," said the would-be press agent. "There are only seventy million people in this country who are physically fit and employable. Seven million are mental cases, five million are children and old people, and 18 million are cripples. That leaves five million out of the whole 97 million to devote time hanging onto their self-respect. Mr. Rose says half of them could hold down positions in industry if industry would give them a chance.

"Who in the name of the five Ringlings is Mr. John?" I asked.

"President Harry Kelsey-A-Wave would make a good column if it had a finish," I said.

"It has an excellent one," said my visitor. "The fellow I've been talking to is John, the youngest son of a man who suffered from a neuromuscular disability - Franklin Delano Roosevelt."

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

Head Noises

Is there such a thing as head noises? If there is, can it be cured. (C.K.)

Answer—If there isn't I've been laboring under a delusion ever since I fell from the tree trying to reach a nest containing what we called a cowbird's egg—perhaps our "cowbird" was a cuckoo, anyway she laid her eggs in the nests of other birds. Send stamped self addressed envelope and ask in writing, without a clipping, for the pamphlet Head Noises and Deafness.

Coffee and Vitamins

Have Ben Told that if one drinks coffee and at the same time takes vitamins the coffee destroys the vitamins. I love my two cups of coffee a day at breakfast, but if this is true I can forego it and will. (Mrs. A. H.)

Answer—No reason why you should not continue to enjoy your two cups of coffee. Ben likes to hear himself talk.

Running Six Miles a Day

Is there any reason why a 38 year old man should quit the desires, run part or eventually all of six miles per day? Am told there should be forced room running instead of walking? (C. G.)

Answer—No reason. Yes, a run of a few miles a day would be more beneficial for many a man or woman in the fourth decade than a walk. Winter nights I enjoyed a run around the 1.8 mile drive that circled the playing fields of Belleview Park. Incidentally a lot of people in the fourth decade just can't run a mile at any speed. Try and see.

THE PACKSACK

OF GREGORY CLARK

Nagging, to most of us, means by the kindly nagger as a great complaining, scolding, correcting. But we have no word for the other kind of nagging, which is kindly, solicitous, anxious and above all, affectionate.

The usual term for the conventional nagger have at least the satisfaction of being able to blow their tops occasionally. They can snarl back. They can slam doors, and in fact on occasion. They can resent the scolding.

But what can the victims of kindly nagging do about it? From morning to night, the solicitous nagger, moving with love and affection, smothers the victim in admonition. From the time he gets up in the morning until they go to bed at night, these loving naggers never let their victims move so much as their tea cup without some suggestion, some word of advice, or vice. All the things a person does normally, such as putting on a raincoat when going out on a rainy day, or wearing gloves if the day is cold are presented by the kindly nagger as a great accomplishment, and are communicated to the victim often as when in the act of putting on gloves or rubbers.

Not only the little things, but the big ones are scrutinized and the making plans or coming to decisions, are most for the affectionate naggers. Here they are right in and take command of the situation. The common, ordinary, warmhearted nagger are more hen-pecked, actually, and have less freedom to make decisions than the victims of shrews and scolds.

For there is no defence against them. How can you resent endless, kindly, loving feeding. How could you be rude and angry with one who fairly glows with thoughtfulness for you?

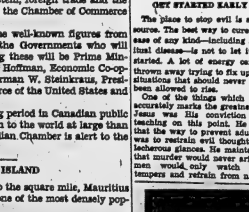
We have no word for this sort of nagging. At all times we call for nagging is the same whether it is coated with vinegar or with honey. Nagging is actually loving. So let's call the sweet kind nagging too.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

WEAR

There is the old adage that "a new broom sweeps clean," but it has nothing of the love of service that the old broom has. Things last show wear and thinness and an unheralded history of human joy as well. Worn baby shoes, chairs which have listed to the warmth of unnumbered persons, books that have inspired, shoes that have carried many and an errand of good will and daily effort.



A friend, just returned from Italy, told me of his exciting experiences. He said there was in the deep ruts worn into huge stone blocks in the road vehicles had worn over long years, perhaps centuries. Collectors prize antiques on old vessels, and anything that shows wear is seeped with usefulness.

A huge business is carried on in antiques—but they would have no attraction if they did not show wear and usage. The stairs and floors of public buildings show the wear of years, marked by million of invisible footfalls. I think of this when I visit the big public library in my city. Worn to dust soil through the search for knowledge.

Great sums are paid for rare tapestries and Persian rugs, but it is the wear they show that makes them the more valuable. In earlier times people took great pains and long years in many instances, to create this kind of art. Each exhibits the enjoyment of long years and of many a lover of beauty.

Weather-beaten faces show the wear of the years that have stamped there, but there is beauty to such a face. The wear of worry and pain in such a face, as well as satisfaction that have left their mark. And they are reflected silently somehow.

In my book catalog I often come across the phrase "covers worn, but text clean." That shows that the book must be worthwhile with evidence of so many interested readers left behind. Fine, clean books are abandoned. The books are difficult to come across for they are not read and worn by them. That old phrase comes to me—"it is better to wear out than rust out!"

Acting in response to return-to-work instructions from United Mine Workers' Chief John L. Lewis, these miners at the Baker Colliery of the Glen Alden Coal Co., are shown as they ended two weeks of idleness and returned to work. In all, some 80,000 anthracite diggers and about 23,000 soft coal diggers heeded Lewis' call and returned to their jobs. In all, 480,000 miners walked off their jobs in the recent dispute, and are still idle, except for the 102,000 ordered back to work.—Central Press Canadian.

After 15 Years Radio Theatre Keeps Audience

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood — (AP) — Remember the top radio shows of 15 years ago?

They were, in this order: Joe Penner, Jack Benny, Amos 'n' Andy, Ed Wynn, Rudy Vallee, Showboat, Walter Winchell, Red Davis, Dangerous Paradise, Sinclair Minstrels, Town Hall Tonight, March of Time, Phil Baker, Boake Carter and Just Plain Bill.

In 1934, a new dramatic show joined these titans of the air waves. It was called (Lux) Radio Theatre.

Today, just 15 years later, Radio Theatre is close to the top audience show, while only three of those once-famous programs have lasted.

The success of Radio Theatre, which won the top year-long listener rating last year, is due to hard work and skilful politics.

The show is one of the most carefully prepared in radio. Two days to a week are spent in condensing picture scripts (average length: 90 minutes) to fit 50 minutes of air time. The cast is rehearsed five times for each show.

The number of rehearsals often rankles Busy Film stars. But their salaries (up to $5,000 per show) usually calm their ire.

Firsts and Scoops

The show has outdistanced its rivals by keeping the best of relations with film studios and stars. This is done by ample plugs and free soap. Studio relations were long handled by Lorena Danker, now Mrs. Louis B. Mayer.

Radio Theatre made its debut Oct. 14, 1934, from New York with John Boles and Miriam Hopkins starring in "Seventh Heaven." It moved to Hollywood in 1936.

Since then every Hollywood star except Garbo has appeared on the show. Nearly every important picture (and some not so) has been given a radio version. One of the few films to stump the program's planners was "Johnny Belinda," because of its mute heroine.

Radio Theatre has met and managed to survive a number of emergencies in its 15 years. There was a near-riot outside the studio when word got around that Garbo was appearing on the show in 1936.

Mrs. George Avilas, appearing opposite her husband in "Disraeli" in 1938, fumbled her script and it scattered over the stage. "My God, I've dropped my script!" she gasped over a coast-to-coast network.

Stars have different habits. Cary Grant is the calmest and most affable. Joan Crawford is the most nervous. Van Johnson often sells up his pant legs during the show. Margaret O'Brien had to memorize the whole script in the days when she couldn't read well.

Among those with the highest number of appearances are Brian Aherne 20, Don Ameche 21, Claudette Colbert 20, Fred MacMurray 20, Loretta Young 21.

Radio Theatre began peddling soap for the 1934 season Aug. 29 with Bette Davis and newlywed Jimmy Stewart in "June Bride." It's likely to continue as long as there are movies to provide grist for its mill.

Former German Tries to Bring Joy to Gen. Meyer

Moncton, N. B., Oct. 8 — (CP)

Fred Lichtenberg, a Canadian citizen who came originally from the same district of Germany as imprisoned S. S. Maj.-Gen. Kurt Meyer says he is trying "to bring some joy into the lives" of the general and his family.

The Moncton construction man was described last night as one of a group of private citizens investigating the general's civilian imprisonment.

The group maintains that Meyer, 38, Canada's only enemy war prisoner, should be in a military prison and not in the civilian Maritime penitentiary at nearby Dorchester.

There are no military prisons in Canada, Lichtenberg said that if Meyer were removed from Dorchester he would probably be taken to a military prison in Germany or Britain. But he declined to discuss what he hoped to be able to do for Meyer.

The Nazi general was sentenced to death for responsibility in the shooting of disarmed Canadian war prisoners. The sentence later was commuted to life imprisonment and Meyer was brought to Canada in 1946 to start serving the life term.

If Meyer were taken to a prison in Germany or Britain, it would bring "great joy" to the Meyer family, Lichtenberg said. To Kate Meyer, the general's wife, and their children, Lichtenberg is known as "Uncle Fred."

For the last three years, he said, he had been sending parcels of food and clothing to the general's wife, their four daughters and one son and Mrs. Alma Meyer, the general's mother.

Frantic Drilling Of New Wells At Walkerton

Walkerton, Oct. 8—(CP)—This Bruce county town is on short water rations today.

A state of emergency because of the acute water shortage was declared by town council Friday after drilled wells began to run dry. Residents have to get along on what water they can obtain from 11 a.m. to noon and from 4.30 to 6 p.m.

The measures were adopted to conserve water for fire protection.

While a frantic drilling of new wells began, residents and officials in the town's five factories were warned to be exceedingly careful about fire hazards.

"We have only 2,000 feet of fire hose available here and this length of hose would only allow us to draw a limited amout of water from the Saugeen River," said Irwin Lobsinger, chairman of the waterworks committee and Walkerton's fire chief.

The drilled wells in this centre, 30 miles southwest of Owen Sound, began to drop last Sunday. All week less and less water flowed. By last night the water was down to the vanishing point. A supply is being held to fight possible fires.

REUNION IN JAPAN

This dramatic photo was made as a group of repatriates arrived in Tokyo from Manchuria recently. A Japanese mother is shown embracing her daughter she hasn't seen for 18 years. The girl went to Manchuria during the early days of the war, with her father, and he subsequently died there. Returning to her family, the girl wears a Communist uniform, as did most of those aboard the ship. Though released to return to their families, most of the repatriates have been carefully schooled in the ways of Communism.—Central Press Canadian.

Bevin Leaves Impression Of Warm, Human Personality

By DOUGLAS HOW
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Ottawa, Oct. 8 (CP)—The happiest reverberation the cold war has sent through Ottawa in many a frigid moon is the Rt. Hon. Ernest Bevin, P.C., M.P., Foreign secretary in His Majesty's United Kingdom government.

His vast and stumbling frame was gone by mid-week but he was too big, too human, too electric not to linger.

It will, in fact, be a long time before the cabinet forgets a man who came into their midst like a giant of the earth and of the people; before the dignitaries at a Canadian Club luncheon forget a man who could drop a clatter-ing "H" and still mount a peroration of Churchillian magnitude.

It also will be some time before the Communists at the Canadian Congress of Labor convention, seated and sour, forget the 800 delegates who surged around them to cheer a man who greeted them as "fellow trades unionists."

Reporters

As for the reporters, they will remember his humor, his mood and his trenchant common sense. At a press conference, he was in abundant form. Often he would chuckle a little, pause and then let go in authentic laughter.

He was introduced as Britain's hero of the cold war and he chortled, "first time I've ever known I'm a frigidaire."

After he had given a "no interference" answer to questions about Canada's proposal to end Britain's right to amend the Canadian constitution, he found the U. K. High Commissioner, Sir Alexander Clutterbuck, at his elbow. "We regard it as out of date, sir, we want a change," said Sir Alex.

"Hah," chuckled the one-time farmboy and truck driver, "there are a lot of things in the British Empire that are out of date and which we don't want to change." He had read a book once about "Our Interpreters." He had four. I ti very funny.

He also found it funny when someone told him about a recent effort by the famous cartoonist Low poking fun at himself and Sir Stafford Cripps. "Ah," he sighed, "we love our Low."

Before the Canadian Club, he said of Britain's financial plight: "I feel in Canada like I used to feel when I was on low wages and the wife and I would sit down to see if we could stretch it out till Friday."

BULLETINS FROM BIRDLAND

By WINIFRED E. WILKE

QUEER FEET

All our twentieth century birds are descendants of a prehistoric creature that was half reptile, half bird. In intervening years vast changes came over the earth's surface; living conditions not only altered but became more diversified. To keep pace with all this, birds altered also, and gradually developed into many different types. Roughly, they may be divided into two main branches; land birds and water birds. The majority of land birds are perchers, requiring separate toes; most water birds need webbed feet for swimming, or walking on mud. However, there are many variations as feet have become adapted to the need of each species in its present day surroundings.

For sitting on horizontal objects, perchers have been given three toes pointing forward and one backwards. But Woodpeckers, which cling perpendicularly to the bark of tree trunks, require another form of support. Their strong feet (with the exception of one group) are provided with two front and two back toes, with big hooked claws.

A modern bird, the Osprey, has kept the skin-covered claw finger of its reptile-bird ancestor. Its toes are also armed with hard, spine-like scales to aid in gripping tightly the fish which is its constant diet. For the same reason, its outer toes may be reversed; pointed to the front or to the rear when the occasion demands, as when carrying the fish. Owls also have reversible outer toes for grasping their prey. But the Kingfisher, another fish eater, is differently equipped. Its two outer toes are joined together for half their length so that the slippery burden cannot escape. Hawks have dreadful talons for holding, and in some instances even for killing their prey.

Because they are able to procure their food on the wing and never walk, all members of the Swallow tribe, Nighthawks and the Whip-poor-will have feet that are unusually small and weak. But these last two, together with all members of the Heron family, are provided with curious, comb-like serrations on the inside of their middle front toes. It is believed that these "teeth" are used by the birds to free themselves from vermin.

Nature assists the non-migratory Grouse to survive in our climate by supplying snow-shoes in winter to keep them from sinking into deep snow drifts. In autumn their strong, compact, chicken-like feet grow small horny scales on each side of every toe. These appendages are shed in the spring.

WEDDINGS

CARMAN—ROLPH

Picton.—On Saturday afternoon, October 1, an interesting marriage was solemnized by the Rev. A. E. Eustace, B.A., D.D., at the home of Mr. and Mrs. O. W. Rolph, Cronn, Ont., when their daughter, Barbara Ann, became the bride of William Harold Carman, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Carman, of Picton. The ceremony was performed against a background of autumn fruits and the full skirt ending in a long train. A full length veil of tulle illusion was held in place by a coronet of velvet and seed pearls. She carried a bouquet of gardenias, bouvardia and Sweetheart roses.

The attendants, Miss Jean Turner, of Cronn, as maid of honour, and Miss Rosemary Carman, of Picton, as bridesmaid, were identically fashioned gowns of cinnamon colored heavy crepe, with berths edged necklines, and floor length full skirts with short circular trains. They wore matching headdresses with coque feather trimming in shades of rust and green and carried nosegays of flowers in corresponding colour.

Mr. James Dyer, of Newcastle, Ont., performed the duties of groomsman and the ushers were Messrs. Alec Carman, of Picton, and Thomas Hutton, of Toronto.

A reception followed the ceremony, when the bride's mother received in a becoming gown of smoke grey lace with matching hat and accessories. Mrs. A. H. Carman assisted wearing a floor length lace-trimmed model of blue crepe and matching hat. Corsages of vari-colored blossoms were worn by the guests.

Twelve friends of the bride were responsible for the serving of delightful refreshments to the guests.

For travelling by motor through the Southern United States, Mrs. Carman chose a tailored suit in a chocolate brown shade with hat and accessories in toast tones, offset with a corsage of green orchids. Mr. and Mrs. Carman will later take up residence in Oronto.

Out-of-town guests were from Toronto, Brantford, Peterborough, Picton, Guelph and Ottawa, Ont., Truro, N.S., and Cleveland, Ohio.

DUMBLETON—MOORE

A quiet but pretty wedding was solemnized at St. Luke's Anglican Church, Kingston, at 3.30 o'clock, September 24, when Esther Naomi, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Moore, Crookston, became the bride of Ernest Charles, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Dumbleton, Kingston. The ceremony was performed by Rev. L. E. Davis before an altar banked with Autumn flowers and fern.

The bride, given in marriage by her eldest brother, Mr. John Moore, of Crookston, entered the church to the strains of the Wedding March played by the church organist, Miss Green. The bride was lovely in a gown of white satin fashioned with lace yoke trimmed with seed pearls. Long sleeves tapered to points at the wrists and the fitted bodice was buttoned down the back to the waist revealing a full skirt ending in a slight train. A cap of lace held her floor length embroidered veil and she carried a cascade of red roses, alphaedolis and maidenhair fern.

Miss Betty Jean Kingston, attended her, wearing a gown of ice blue satin with blue headdress and waist length veil. She carried a bouquet of pink roses and maidenhair fern.

The groom's only brother, Mr. Harvey Dumbleton, ably carried out the duties of best man, while Mr. Lawrence Holland performed the duty of usher.

During the signing of the register, Mrs. Hinks rendered a solo "I Love You" and the organist played "Because".

After the ceremony, a reception was held at the groom's home, 55 Chatham Street, with the groom's mother, receiving in a gown of grey dovetone crepe with lace inserts at the yoke and around the peplum. She wore a corsage of pink carnations. Mrs. Leslie Newberry, sister of the groom, assisted the groom's mother wearing a gown of green wool and a corsage of red carnations.

The bride's table was lighted by tall tapers and centred with a three-tier wedding cake topped with a miniature bride and groom. The toast to the bride was proposed by the best man, was responded to by the groom. The wedding cake was served by the groom's aunt, Mrs. E. Fowler, while friends of the bride served the tasty buffet luncheon.

The groom's gift to the bride was a two strand necklace of pearls; to the best man, a gold cravatain which he presented to the usher, a tie. The bride's gift to the bridesmaid was a gold compact.

The couple left later amid showers of confetti and best wishes for a trip to Toronto, Niagara Falls, and Rochester, N.Y. The bride chose blue flowered printed jersey dress, powder blue coat and navy accessories with a corsage of pink carnations. The happy couple will reside in Kingston.

MILLIGAN—ROBINSON

A pretty early Autumn wedding was solemnized in the Missionary Alliance Tabernacle on Saturday, October 8, at three p.m. when Norma Ruth, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold R. Robinson, Belleville, exchanged vows with John Stuart Milligan, of Port of Spain, Trinidad, younger son of Mr. and Mrs. John C. Milligan, Melrose. The Rev. G. R. Gray officiated before an altar beautifully decorated with tall standards of gladioli, ferns and Autumn leaves making an effective background.
